PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or mere Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprieter reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word througheut. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS

Advt. Manager. "Cage Birds."

ALWAYS USE OUR DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES,

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which me must be advised) is agreed upon by botb parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expirration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final

SEND FOR ILLUSTRATED LISTS.

The winners at the C.P. Show won because they knew how to prepare and treat their birds. They would tell you they won "because they stuck to the advice given in 'Canaries, Hybrids and British Cage Birds.'" Without exception, this is the finest and most practical work of its kind ever issued. There is not a single point in the breeding or rearing or exhibiting of Canaries or Cage Birds that is not thoroughly handled with painstaking care and unfailing accuracy.

When you follow the advice contained in this work, you pull off top prizes. A fancier can do so even in his first year with the aid of

SOFT MOULT, NOT SINGING.

Wanted, a trial. We are confident our medicines will give you satisfaction. Special offer to all bird fanciers. If you have any birds that you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that have gone off song, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure. We have the grandest medicine ever introduced for bringing birds into breeding condition. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for loss of voice, soft moult, egg binding, going light, feather plucking, diarrhœa, and for dull and moping birds. Sold in 7d. and 1/1 (treble size) bottles. Our medicines can be given in the drinking water, and the birds take them freely with marvellous results. Fanciers note: If our medicines fail to do as advertised, we guarantee to return full money. For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfield's Lung Tonic. Also in 7d. and 1/1 bottles. The safest and most reliable medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds. As an advertisement, we will send a 7d. bottle of each medicine for 1/-, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9. All medicines post paid at our risk. Two valuable seed recipes, how to feed Linnets and Rollers for contest singing given free to all purchasers of our medicines. Recent testimonials for our medicines:—"E. Clay, Settle.—Have used your medicines with great success." "D. Whitelaw, Govan, Scotland.—Have used your medicines with good results." "W. Reid, Greenock.—Your medicines have been a great success, for both my birds are now singing." "T. Owen, Puntlottyn.—Have been a breeder for 20 years, and have tried every sort of bronchitis cure. But only yours has proved a success." "A. Clark, Kirriemuir.—Have tried most medicines advertised, but have never had anything to equal yours, and have been a breeder for 30 years."

SOFTBILLS: the smaller species; full information upon their proper feeding and management in captivity, is given by H. J. Fulljames in "Nutshell No. 25," which also deals with hand-rearing, and describes the collection of ants' eggs, 2½d. post free, from: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. (2d. from agents; see list on another page).

THE Song Thrush and Blackbird.—Full directions how to keep these favourite songsters in the best possible condition; together with directions for hand-rearing the young and the selection of show birds, will be found in "Nutshell No. 4," 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. 2d. from agents (list published frequently).

ON receipt of 2/- I will send, securely packed, on approval, the finest singing cock Skylark ever seen or heard, suitable for contest singing or shop's attraction, or with his new joiner-made cage, 4/6, including free my valuable feeding secret which keeps Larks in full song ten months out of twelve. I have supplied more contest winners than anyone in England; heaps of unsolicited testimonials to prove this; same address 25 years: Woods, Cross-st., Dunstable. (488)

TO Lark fanciers; special select singing cock Skylark, splendid shop attraction, can be heard 200 yards; I will match him to sing any Lark in this country; he is a real loud contest bird, and been trained for that purpose; steady and a fine specimen of a real Dunstable Lark; 1/6; approval anywhere. Hear, and see what you are buying; no fresh-caught rubbish; secret of feeding free. Hundreds of testimonials unsolicited: George Holt, Dunstable. (543)

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

400 PRIZES AT CHAMPION SHOWS SINCE OCT. 5th, 1912

My Yorkshires have won consistently all through the season. The following are a few out of a large number of honours: Special best hen Bradford National, Special best Yorks. Hartlepool, Diploma best Yorkshire Sunderland, Trophy for 3rd most points N.G.M.Y.C.C., Second most points Yorkshire Union Competitions, Third most points in both competitions of the Y.C.C., etc., etc.

There is no better blood in the Fancy to-day, and I am in a position to put the Amateur on the right road to breeding his own winners, or to supply the "old hand" with splendid stock or show birds at a working-man's price. The following are a few prices:

Yorkshire Cocks, grand lengthy birds, with good position, feathered to perfection, and in full song, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each upwards.

Grand racy hens, splendid type, and feathered like wax, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each upwards. Matched Pairs, correctly mated for breeding winners, and sex guaranteed, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- 35/-, 40/-, 45/-, 50/- per pair. I can supply these in Clears, Ticks, Green Marked, Cinnamon Marked, or Self Greens.

To every Customer I guarantee complete satisfaction or Cash returned in full.

CHAMPION NORWICH PLAINHEADS. THE BULL-DOG STRAIN.

THIS strain has again upheld its reputation, and in addition to winning Firsts and Specials all over the country, has secured the following Trophies this year: THE PERCY ILLINGWORTH CHALLENGE CUP (won outright), the Sandiford Cup, THE O.N.P.C. CHAMPION TROPHY, F. Carl's Trophy, and has run second in the Cup competition of the N.P.C.

I am now offering a few grand birds bred from my strain. Yellows or Buffs, Cocks or Hens, ready for benching and able to win, also real good Stock Birds, for breeding own winners, at 10/-, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- each. I am also offering a few grand pairs, personally matched by me, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. Strain guaranteed. I have a few grand birds from other strains, good thick-set birds, Cocks on full free song, at 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each; Hens, grand smart-feathered birds, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Few good Sib. Hens for Light Muling, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

Pure-bred Seifert or St. Andreasburg Roller Cocks. Have just received (Feb. 22nd, 1913), a consignment of over 300 Roller Cocks straight from the training rooms of Germany. These are the best I have imported. They are in full rolling song, with plenty of changes, and represent the last word in training. Come and make your own selection, or allow me to send one on approval at my risk. Prices, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6. A few specially selected Schoolmasters at 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; hens, guaranteed same strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/- each; Cages, 3d. extra.

REAL SIBERIAN GOLDFINCHES.—Another big consignment just to hand. These include some real beauties, with big square blaze and well buttoned, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6 each. Few specially selected for exhibition and well worth moulting out, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6 each.

Grand Large Muling Hens, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

WINNING BORDER FANCIES.—Having recently purchased the entire stock of a well-known Border exhibitor, who is declining the Fancy, I am able to offer exceptional value in this variety, which includes Clears, Ticks, Greens, and Cinnamons. Cocks, in full song, real gems, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Smart typical Hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- upwards. Matched Pairs, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/- 20/-, 25/-, 30/-. Every bird for sale.

LIZARDS.—Am offering 10 pairs Lizards, the entire stock of a well-known exhibitor, at 10/6 and 12/6 per pair. Odd birds 5/-, 6/-, 7/6 each, cocks or hens. Particulars of strain supplied. For full particulars of all other varieties, send a P.C. for my Free Illustrated Catalogue.

Remember this, please: I offer an open invitation to all fanciers to call and inspect my stock. My rooms are open every day but Sunday. My files are open to all visitors who wish to inspect Testimonials, which I have received from fanciers during the last few months. These prove to all that birds supplied by me have been winning all through the season, both Norwich, Yorkshires, and Borders; also that many of this season's winners have been bred from stock supplied by me. If you cannot pay me a visit, however, don't forget that I send every bird on seven days' approval at my sole risk. I guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer, or cash returned in full. Easy payments can be arranged to suit the convenience of Genuine Fanciers. No Extras charged. Travelling Cages, 3d. Special attention to Export Orders.

Let their Singing

can be procured. Have on approval that is THE only way that you can test the real facts as to which are the most genuine and greatest bargains. A good singing cock for 6/6. Don't be "gulled" by purchasing mongrels sold as Hartz Rollers at lower prices. They have never seen Germany, and to sell as such is an impertinent lie. Specially selected. Why, one of my Norwich or Yorkshire songsters is worth half-a-dozen of these insignificant birds with really no breed in them. Hartz cocks, 6/6, and 7/6. Hens, 2/-; Genuine Seiferts, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- 20/-. Pairs, 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 25/- upwards. Hens, 3/6. Pairs, 7/6, 8/6. Cages, 3d. extra. A few exceptional birds, 30/-, and 40/- each. An exceptional lot of good hens, and now is the time to purchase them. All kinds of cages for same. Pairs, ditto, for breeding, 12/6, 15/- 20/-, 25/-. If you desire to know all about those interesting little birds, you should send for "Profitable Canary Breeding as Practised in Germany," by Albert Retch. This is, in my opinion, the best and most reliable little work ever published on Hartz Mountain Rollers, and can only be purchased from me (copyright), price, paper cover, 9d.; cloth gilt, 1/3.

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

CANARIES, German Rollers, Chillcott's strain, green cock, splendid breeder, also variegated 1912 cock, 10/6 each; German cages for sale, cheap, giving up: Milward, Fairfields, Basingstoke. (545)

PURE water glucke Rollers, prize winning strain, cold room bred, B.R.C.C. rung, perfectly trained; cocks, in full song, 15/-., 21/- each; hens, same strain, 5/-, 7/6 each; grand lot English bred Seifert Rollers, cold room bred; cocks, in full song, 10/6, 12/6 each; hens, 2/6 and 3/6; approval.—Walsh, Bird Specialist, Blackburn. (540)

IT has been said that the Roller Canary is THE coming variety. It is a very popular one anyway, and those who wish to get nearest the standard should not be without "Nutshell No. 10." This can be had from our agents for 2d. (see list published frequently), or direct 2½d., post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

ALL MY STOCK OF RANDALL'S Strain for disposal, through ill-health; cocks from 12/6 to 25/-, hens 4/6; cock and two hens from £1 upwards, worth double: Tomlinson, Welcome, Marton, Blackpool. (538)

HIGH-CLASS ROLLERS

Very choice hens, related to my prize-winners, for disposal, pure Randall's strain, B.R.C.C. rung: H. Veen, 46, Amesbury-avenue, Streatham Hill, S.W. (543)

GRANDEST STRAIN OF ROLLERS in the country, cold-room bred, trained under Roller organ, cocks, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, upwards; hens, 2/6; seven days' approval, cash or deposit: F. Cartwright, Breeder, 15, Farfield, Kidderminster. Est. 26 years. (465)

CHILLCOTT'S ROLLERS

Owing to ill-health, Mr. A. G. Pattison, late of Gravesend, has disposed of all his Rollers to Mr. A. Chillcott, of 151, South-avenue, Southend. Most of the 1912 birds are bred from two £5 cocks, bought direct from Mr. Randall; these are bred from the champion cock claimed at club show by Dr. Read at £10. A few of these grand birds for disposal at reasonable prices; enquiries solicited. Some good stock cocks for sale from 12/6. Some clinking hens from 6/6. (204) of the popular Glucke strain, only have a few best, schoolmasters and contest singers, at 25/-, 30/- each; also 3 extra good at 40/- each. Only time shown at Bury, with two birds, won 2 prizes, and at the International Roller Contest show I won 3 prizes out of 4 birds I had sent, including second in the team class. The above is proof of the quality of my birds. All young birds, in the pink of condition. I have the best strain obtainable in England; satisfaction guaranteed: K. Pericles, Akropolis, Palatine-rd., Withington, Manchester. (530)

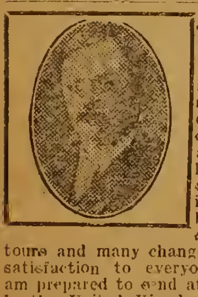
SONGSTERS! SONGSTERS!

Specially selected Norwich or Yorkshires (not just picked out indiscriminately), 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 up. Cage 3d. Approval.

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.



THE LAST WORD

in training is represented by my latest importation of High-class Rollers. I have just received (on Feb. 22nd, 1913) a consignment of over 300 highly-trained Seifert Rollers, straight from the best training rooms of Germany. These birds are in full free rolling song, with good length of tours and many changes. I am confident I can give satisfaction to everyone requiring Rollers, and I am prepared to send at my sole risk, to any address in the United Kingdom, on 14 days' approval, one or more of these birds at the following prices:—Cocks, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- 17/6. A few specially selected Schoolmasters at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/- each. Hens, guaranteed same strain, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6 each. Travelling cages, 3d. extra.

Note.—I have also a few extra large Siberian cock Goldfinches, in perfect health and condition, cannot be excelled for muling. Prices, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6 each. A few specially selected birds for exhibition, and well worth moulting out, at 10/6 and 12/6 each. Approval anywhere.

JOE THOMAS, Direct Importer. AMBLER THORN, HALIFAX

BEFORE YOU DECIDE

to purchase a Roller from anywhere, just read the unsolicited testimonials given below, and when it is taken into consideration that these letters are written by persons whose only motive is to tell the truth and express their appreciation of the Rollers I have sold them, I think even the most sceptical person will admit that there really must be something special about my Leipzig Rollers, and that what I claim for them is correct. I have repeatedly said that the Leipzig Rollers are far and away better singers than the ordinary Rollers and that they have a much more pleasant song and a greater variety of changes than any other Roller on the market. To test the truth of this statement, I ask you to have a Leipzig Roller on a week's trial from me and an ordinary Roller at any higher price on similar conditions from elsewhere, test them side by side, and if in your honest opinion and the opinion of any Roller judge you can call upon, mine is not by far the better bird, return it to me, and I will instantly refund the whole of your out-of-pocket expenses. I now have about 1,600 (one thousand six hundred) of these Leipzig Rollers in stock, all cocks guaranteed in full song day and gas light, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft roulades, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong, and flute notes, etc., etc. and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or discordant notes whatever price; 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special Bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell rolls, 10/6 and 12/6 each (the latter at 12/6 are specially good value). Hens, guaranteed same strain as above cocks, 3/- each; two, 5/6. I also have a magnificent stock of genuine Glucke-bred contest Rollers at 15/- and 21/- each; hens, 4/- each. These contest Rollers have a wonderful range of soft mellow tours, and are of bluest blood Germany can boast of, just the birds for anyone starting to breed contest birds or for improving their stock. I also have a splendid lot of loud, free singing Hartz cocks in full vigorous song, day and gas light, at 5/6 each; three, 15/6; seven, 33/-. Hartz hens, 2/3 each; 4/- couple. All birds are safely and warmly packed (no matter how cold the weather) in special travelling cages free of extra cost, and are sent on full week's approval solely at my own risk during whole time either on receipt of cash or if same is deposited with Editor, and unless perfect satisfaction is given and your every expectation realised, the whole of your money is promptly returned without question or comment. Note, full name and address, also date, given with each letter below:—"Longley House, Rochester, Feb. 1st. Sir,—Bird arrived safe and I am very pleased. He is a splendid free singer, at it nearly all day. Thanking you for your honest dealing.—Yours, etc., Conway Gordon." "24, Park View, Nantwich, Feb. 1st. Sir,—Received birds on Wednesday, and have great pleasure in stating that they quite surpassed expectation.—Yours, T. Heap." "10, Rossall Road, Chorley, Feb. 1st. Sir,—Received Roller in splendid condition and was soon singing when put in fresh cage. I am more than pleased with your selection. He is a lovely songster. Yours, T. Blackburn." "Shakespeare Street, Cardiff, Feb. 5th. Sir,—Received Bandmaster safe, and must say he is a champion. He sang beautifully one hour after arrival.—Yours, S. Watkins." "6, Filmer Road, Fulham, London, Feb. 10th. Sir,—Please send me a Leipzig Bandmaster. The one I purchased from you last year still sings as well as ever and gives every satisfaction to the friend I gave it to.—Yours, H. Brown." On Feb. 16th Mr. Brown again writes: "Sir,—Roller arrived quite safe on Thursday and started singing when caged and still keeping it up. Your advt. is not misleading; they are, as you say, reliable songsters, free from harsh notes, etc. Thanking you most sincerely for such a good bird.—Yours, H. Brown." "10, Queen Street, Ashby, Doncaster, Feb. 10th. Sir,—Please send Roller hen. The cock you sent is singing splendidly, and started before being taken out of travelling cage.—Yours, F. Mumby." "The Intake, Glenlea Foyers, Inverness-shire, Feb. 11th. Sir,—Roller arrived here safe after being 21 hours on the road. I must say I am more than satisfied with him. Your advt. does not give your Leipzig Rollers half credit enough for their beautiful notes at such a reasonable price, and I think there is nothing to equal them.—Yours, J. McMillan." "125, Windsor Road, Penarth, Feb. 11th. Sir,—Received bird in pink of condition. Am very pleased with your choice. Thanking you for prompt despatch.—Yours, G. Mounter." "Netherton Colliery, Feb. 11th. Sir,—Roller arrived safely and gave us a few tours three hours after arrival. He is a beautiful singer; his song is enchanting. I thank you very much for sending such a nice bird. The other bird I have is not in it with yours.—Yours, J. Wood." "11, School Street, Williamstown, Penygraig, Feb. 12th. Sir,—Please send Leipzig hen to match the cock. He is a little marvel and seems to get better every day.—Yours, J. Williams." "41, Kilmailing Road, Cathcart, Glasgow, Feb. 14th. Sir,—Roller hen arrived safe, and am pleased with same; also cock doing well and singing fine. They are a well-matched pair. Thanks for prompt attention.—Yours, J. McGilp." "Barrington Park, Burford, Oxon, Feb. 16th. Sir,—Many thanks for Roller received on 11th. He is a perfect gem, and was quite lively after travelling 24 hours. Shall recommend you to my friends.—Yours, R. Burden." Please note, as this is most probably the last consignment of Leipzig Rollers I shall receive this season, it behoves all intending purchasers to send their orders early as possible to avoid disappointment. DYKES' YORKSHIRES

CANNOT BE BEATEN FOR PRICE AND QUALITY.

Read a few testimonials received this week:—"Bellevue Street, Belfast. — Received birds safe. Many thanks for your promptitude and the class of birds you sent me. They are what I have been looking for for some time. I sent to others on previous occasions, and was sadly disappointed; but shall know where to send in future.—Chas. A. Donnelly." "Derby Road, Borrowash.—Birds arrived safe in excellent condition. They are a pair of real beauties, and I am more than pleased with them. There is no need for seven days' approval with the birds you send out; and for straightforward dealing it is a pleasure for anyone to recommend you.—T. Clay." "Magdala Terrace, Cork.—Received Yorkshire safely. Many thanks for sending me such a good one. I did not expect such marvellous value and certainly am very agreeably surprised. Hope to send you more orders soon.—S. G. Raby."

I have still a good selection left, and want room for breeding; and having selected own breeding stock, I have some good matched pairs, carefully selected, as if for own use, at 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- per pair, and a few extra good pairs at 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. These were originally intended for own use, but find I have more than I can accommodate. Also odd cocks or hens reasonable. Travelling cages, 3d. extra. All on seven days' approval. Cash or deposit with Editor. I have had scores of deposit notes recently, and never had a single one to return. Editor holds proof. If you want the best blood in the Fancy, please remember that I have won more first prizes with Yorkshires, at all the leading shows, than any other exhibitor for three seasons in succession—a fact which cannot be denied. Inspection invited at any time, and all guaranteed cold-room bred and kept.

A Few Unsolicited Opinions out of Hundreds just to hand.

VICTORIA, CANADA.

February 15th, 1913.—The Canaries arrived last Saturday in splendid condition; we are very pleased with them all. The purser on the boat from Vancouver to Victoria said they sang all the way across. This speaks well for them after such a long journey. The travelling case is very compact.—H. Oldfield to W. Rudd.

COCK WORTH THE MONEY.

Tow Law, March 3, 1913.—Birds arrived. A good pair for price. Cock is worth all the money alone.—J, Graham.

NEVER HEARD SUCH.

Paddington, March 3, 1913.—Received bird. Well pleased. Never before heard such a songster.—C. Smith.

4, Malcolm Grove, Liverpool, 1913.—Received hen. I must say it is a beauty. It speaks well as to the reputation you hold. Anyone wishing to know about Mr. Rudd is welcome to come to my address, and I will give my honest opinion.—Arthur Lynes.

WORTH TREBLE, ETC., ETC., ETC.

South Bank, March, 1913.—Received bird in good condition. She is a beauty. Cheap, too, as it is worth treble the price you charged. I think that for honesty, promptness, combined with cheapness, you stand pre-eminent. I now know where to place my orders without fear of being swindled.—T. Parsons to W. Rudd, The Bird Specialist, Norwich.

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

LINCOLN C.B.S.

Show for matched pairs in the cafe of the Central Hall, Feb. 22, and as regarded both quality and number, the show was considered a very good one. The judge, Mr. W. P. Barnes, Grantham, spoke in high terms of the quality of the 75 pairs entered for competition. In the Yorkshire section, competition was very keen, and Mr. Barnes expressed the opinion that there was great credit due to the charges of the feathered entrants, of which there were 20. In Nor. there were 11 entries—a very good lot, and in Mules and Hybrids also the quality of the birds was very good.

LEIGH C.B.S.

Annual pair show, held at headquarters, Feb. 19th, when some good pairs were put down to be judged by Mr. P. Hart, whose awards gave every satisfaction. Yorks and muling pairs turned up in grand style, but Norwich were absent with the exception of one pair shown by H. Taylor. Mr. T. Dawson gave a medal for most points scored, and this was won by W. Hulme. After the judge had finished we had a judging competition, which was won by I. Dawson, the biggest share of the members plumping the winners, but put them in the wrong order. It was decided to have a washing competition at next meeting, with Mr. I. Dawson as judge, and it is hoped that a good number of members will participate, so as to make it keener. Awards:—

BIRKENHEAD C.F.A.

A very successful pair show was held at Ablett's Cafe, Feb. 18. There was a grand entry of 86, the birds being the pick of the breeders' rooms in the district. Yorks. were the strongest section, Messrs. Benson and Young, who have joined partnership, being the principal winners. Yorks. Greens were well paired, and birds of the highest merit were staged by Messrs. Moss, Shaw, Cooper, and Benson and Young. Norwich were not so numerous, but the quality was grand. Some useful muling and Hybrid pairs were shown by Messrs. E. R. Gaylard and N. Jones, which, with a slice of luck, ought to produce something good. Mr. F. Handley (Liverpool) judged, and his awards gave satisfaction to all.

WANGANUI (N.Z.) C. AND C.B.S.

First F.F. show held in St. Paul's Classroom, on Boxing day, and proved a great success, over 50 birds being staged, all Norwich. It is to be hoped some of the members will take up some of the other varieties, as it would make it more interesting for visitors. Mr. T. A. Gillieson, the secretary, had everything in apple-pie order, and the judges, Messrs. Johnston and Townsend, got through their task very well, especially considering it was their first attempt. Mr. T. Dickson won special for best bird in show, also best amateur, with a nice feathered Green, Mr. A. Malcolmson special for second best, with a fine type of Buff marked Norwich, Mr. Aughton special for best vhc, with a cl. yellow that should do some winning later on.

The Critique.

CL. YELL.: 1, Cooper, nice head, nicely rounded chest, if anything long in tail; 2, Aughton, a baby, nice, chubby, good wings and tail, if it would stay at that would be a champion, same owner had one out of tickets we very much liked; 3, Nicholson, good stamp, but broke in moult; 4, Aughton. BUFF: 1, 2, Aughton, nice chubby bird, good qual. of feather; 2, rather long in barrel, tailless; 3, Cooper, nice stamp of bird, should improve with a moult; 4, Aughton, another of good type, one belonging to Mr. Malcolmson, a bird of rare stamp and qual., appeared to be unlucky in being left out. MKD. or GR. YELL.: 1, sp, best in show, and sp best amateur, Dickson, Green, of nice feather, rather long, could do with some subs.; 2, same owner, we liked better, Green again, nice and chubby, good silky feather; 3, Aughton, nice capped yell., good in col.; 4, Malcolmson, bit too long in side for a Norwich, but rattling good col., some typical birds, out of the tickets. BUFF: 1, sp, for 2nd best bird, Malcolmson, real Bullfinch type, bold round head, great breadth of chest and nicely rounded, admired by all; 2, Gillieson, a bird of equal merit, failing a little in head only, hard lines two such birds meeting in same class, nicely marked on head and wing, will do some winning, a good one; 3, Malcolmson, marked both eyes, grand size, and feather, a good one, but fails in type to leaders; 4, Dickson, heavy var., a nice stamp, fails a little in feather, otherwise good.

SOUTH WEST LONDON C.B.S.

Annual Pair Show held February 21st, and was the largest that has yet been held during the Society's existence, the arrangements being very ably carried out under the supervision of the Hon. Secretary, Mr. Freeman. Mr. Slade, chairman, and several others rendered such services as to make the show in every way a great success. There were staged 90 pairs, against 38 the previous year, quality being well above former years. Champion Norwich did not come up well in numbers, but the quality was A1. Champion Crests made a nice show headed by a very fine clear Crest hen and variegated C.B. cock, real giants, shown by Mr. G. E. Slade. Champion Yorks composed 11 pairs, all of great merit, and should do their owners some good if fortune smiles in rearing youngsters from them. Border Fancies were more numerous on this occasion, and some good pairs were shown. Muling pairs were above the average and well matched. Novice Yorks., 23 pairs, were a clinking lot; some of them ought to produce for their owners some first-class birds. Mr. Robson judged. The public were allowed in free, and a good number took advantage of the opportunity and seemed to appreciate it. Meetings are held on the second Thursday in each month, and anyone wishing to join should communicate with the Hon. Sec., Mr. Freeman, 105a, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common.

AINTREE F.S.

Annual pair show, held in the Church Hall, Long Lane. The society is lucky indeed to have at command such a suitable room for a show. There were plenty of visitors (being the half holiday) and quite a few pairs changed hands. Our section was in the capable hands of Messrs. Skilling and Handley, who arranged things admirably. Messrs. Battersby and Eaton were late starters, but put in an amount of work during the evening, showing the visitors round. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe judged, and his awards were well received. He afterwards explained the various points, re. mating up. YORKS, YELL. NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

Are Traders Content to Do Nothing?

Little notice appears to have been taken by the people most concerned of the warning conveyed last week as to the necessity of concerted action by bird dealers in the protection of their trade against persecution. With the exception of the forcible and straightforward letter from Mr. Trower, no correspondence has been forthcoming in response to the suggestion of Mr. Pearson. The bird traders have, of course, only themselves to please, and if they choose to wait individually until an inspector happens to lodge information upon which a summons is issued, the matter is one which concerns themselves only.

If they succeed in proving to a magistrate that the summons is one which should never have been issued, this will only be after an expenditure of anything up to £10 in the way of legal costs, to say nothing of the loss of time to themselves and their witnesses in attending at the original hearing, and the inevitable adjournment. If they are exceptionally lucky, they may get an order against the prosecuting society to the extent of three or five guineas as part of their costs. The remainder they must find themselves. If the prosecution is successful, the penalty, under the Protection of Animals Act of 1911, is a fine not exceeding £25 for each bird, with or without hard labour for any term up to six months. It seems difficult to believe that any section of the community will sit down quietly when menaced with the alternatives here mentioned, and it is to be hoped that every bird trader throughout the land will ponder over the letter of Mr. Trower published this week.

Following upon their defeats in the two cases reported last week, the humanitarian societies, or at least one of them, seem to be tempering valour with discretion. The Royal Society for the Protection of Birds had taken out a summons against a Mr. Tresise, a well-known bird dealer of Shoreditch. When it was found that Mr. Tresise would be legally represented, the society asked leave to withdraw the summons, and this was granted by the magistrate. Mr. Young, the defending solicitor, objected to the withdrawal, and the case was reinstated and adjourned until Tuesday this week, March 3. At the adjournment, before the case was called, the prosecuting solicitor voluntarily offered to pay three guineas towards any costs which the defendant might have incurred if he would consent to the case being withdrawn, and this was accepted. A letter throwing some light upon the case appears in another column.

TERMS OF MEMBERSHIP.

PATRONS.—A donation of not less than Ten Guineas in one amount, or an annual subscription of not less than Two Guineas, shall constitute the donor or subscriber a Patron.

LIFE MEMBERS.—A donation of not less than Five Guineas in one amount shall constitute the donor a Life Member.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.—An annual subscription of not less than Half-a-Guinea shall constitute the subscriber a Vice President.

HONORARY LIFE MEMBERS.—The payment to CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE of a legacy of £20 and upwards shall constitute the administrator or executor making the payment an Honorary Life Member. A form of bequest will be sent, post free, on application.

ORDINARY MEMBERS shall pay an annual subscription of Two Shillings and Sixpence.

JUNIOR MEMBERS.—Members under the age of fourteen years at the date of joining shall pay an annual subscription of One Shilling.

Henry J. Fulljames,
Secretary Cage Birds League,
154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of Cage Birds have written to say that they would like to join Cage Birds' League, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the League, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of Cage Birds League, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the League. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

I hereby promise to take every care of my feathered pets and to induce others to do the same

A CURIOUS COINCIDENCE.

In the "Manchester Guardian" last year there appeared the following clever poem. If we had not been in possession for a long time of the manuscript of our "Xmas Message of a Sparrow," which we recently published, we should have thought it to be a paraphrase of the poem, while if we had published the article before the poem appeared we should have concluded that the latter was simply a poetic rendering of our own Sparrow's message. The parallel is such an extremely close one that we are sure our readers will be interested in comparing the two entirely independent versions of the Sparrow's troubles.

The Sparrow Complains.

We look with alarm on the farmers' intentions.
  Instead of the harmless old scarecrow of yore,
They now get up "sparrow clubs" (horrid inventions!)
  And purchase our corpses at sixpence per score.
In fact, in the country there's mighty small pity
  Bestowed on our harassed and put-upon kind,
And when we retire in disgust to the city,
  Does solace await us? No, what do we find?
We find that the days of the nosebag are ended
  (That jolly old bag round the cab-horse's head,
From which, as he shook it about, there descended
  Of hayseed and corn a most bountiful spread).
Instead, we observe a new species of creatures
Who feed through a funnel and out of a tin,
And never drop anything—meanest of features!
  From which a poor Sparrow could get a tuck in.
And then there is also this fact to be reckoned;
  If two of us pause in the road for a chat,
They go at such rates that the very next second
  It's only too likely we're both of us flat.
And, therefore, from any wise soul who is skilled in
  The solving of problems I'm anxious to know—
Both country and town we must starve or be killed in,
  So where in the world are we Sparrows to go?

An Improved Limewash.

Fanciers wanting a cheap recipe for colouring cages, should mix well together half-a-bucketful of limewash, a little salt, and a halfpenny bag of blue. The result is a nice colour, which shows up the plumage of the birds, and gives the birdroom a smarter appearance, not turning yellow, the same as ordinary limewash does.—W. S. Kilham (Sheffield).

A Hint to Hybrid Breeders.

I think the following is a good method of securing clutches of fertile eggs from hybrid pairs. I have 2 Bullfinch hens in my outdoor aviary, one paired with a cock Goldfinch, the other with a cock Greenfinch. Procure a cock Bullie in breeding condition, place him in a call cage, hang this on the front of the aviary, and watch further proceedings. Do likewise with other species. I have Chaffinch hens in the aviary and sometimes hang a cock Chaffinch on the front.—P. Watson (Codnor, Derbyshire).

JUDGES OF CAGE BIRDS

It contains a list of the officers and committee, names and addresses of members, the rules of the society, shows and events for 1913, and the names of the present holders of the challenge cups with the dates of their wins.

A Pied Blackbird.

I thought it might interest some of your readers to know that I have caught a Pied Blackbird—pure white head and white on the butts of the wings. It is very steady and going on all right. I may say that I have been trying for three years to catch the same bird.—H. Palfrey (Dronfield).

Thrushes Already Fledged!

A terrier hunting the banks of the river Marron, near Bridgefoot, Cumberland, found a nest of three young Thrushes among the brushwood around the trunk of an elm tree. They were almost fully fledged, and were able to flutter weakly away from the terrier. They were all caught and restored to their nest.—From the "Yorkshire Evening Post," of Feb. 26th.

OBITUARY.

We are sorry indeed to hear of the bereavement of Mr. Wm. McMillan, Dumfries, whose wife, "Lizzie," as she was generally styled by the fanciers from far and near, who delighted to give her a call, passed away on Feb. 24. Her remains were interred in Troqueer Churchyard on Feb. 28. A large number of fanciers attended to pay their last respects, and the sympathy of a very wide circle of friends will be extended to Mr. McMillan in his sad loss. Mrs. McMillan took the keenest interest in the stock of her husband, and in consequence of her decease most of the birds will have to be sold. An advt. appears in our columns this week.

It is with the deepest regret, writes Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) that I have to announce the death of the beloved wife of the much esteemed and most highly respected treasurer to the Sheffield C.B.S., Mr. Wm. Oxley. After a long and severe illness, she passed away on Monday, 3rd inst. I am sure all fanciers will extend their most sincere sympathy to Mr. Oxley and family, in this their sad hour of trouble. May their burden fall as light as possible.

Mr. R. Denholme.

I very much regret, writes Mr. J. Patterson, Chirnside, to record the sudden death after only twenty-four hours illness, of Mr. Robert Denholm, the father of our respected member, Mr. Wm. Denholm. He took a keen interest in our hobby, although not himself an exhibitor, being of a rather shy and reserved and undemonstrative nature, but beneath was a staunch loyalty and an unimpeachable honour. A wide circle of friends will miss him, and I know the Fancy will join me in sincere sympathy to his wife and family in this their hour of trouble.

Mynah Returns Home After a Week's Wandering.

After being lost in London for over a week, "Mynah," a prodigal bird, was then restored to its owner by the agency of "The Evening News." The romantic story of Mynah's disappearance and recovery was told by Miss Spiller, to whom he belongs. "'Mynah' is a mimic of marvellous ability, and is worth his weight in gold," she declared. "Ever since he was a chick, eight years ago, he has had the run of the house, and, in fact, the street as well. He has his meals with me, and when dinner or tea is ready, I simply have to call and he comes at once. Some days he would fly out of the window, and perch on the top of a church steeple opposite. But he has never before wandered away. One morning, some ten days ago, after taking a stroll along neighbouring window-ledges 'Mynah' came back and shrieked to be admitted. I was in a hurry and he was kept waiting outside. I told the maid to let him in, and then hastened out to the street. 'Mynah' was in an awful rage. He perched himself on the porch railings and absolutely jeered at me as I passed by. Soon after that he disappeared, and I could only think he had strayed away in a fit of temper. Day after day went by with no sign or sound of the bird. It was like a child gone from the house. Yesterday, to our great delight, he was brought back. It appears that 'Mynah' flew down on to the pavement and was seized by a laundry man. He was locked away in a clothes basket until Saturday, when the man asked a customer near the British Museum for an old cage in which to keep a bird he had found. The lady at once remembered my advertisement, with the result that the carter drove straight to Sloane-square, and brought 'Mynah' home. His delight at being back again with us all was so great that he did nothing but lough and cry. His joy knew no bounds."

Wild-Bird Life.

A Shy Wader.

Occasionally at some of our big shows, we get birds on view that are seldom seen except by the naturalist, who meets with them out in the open, in the woods or fields, where the particular species are to be found. At the National Crystal Palace Bird Show, a common Sandpiper or Summer Snipe, was exhibited in the class provided for some of our rarer British birds. The Sandpiper is a wading bird about eight inches in length, with a fairly long beak, bronzy brown colour above and white underneath. It is a migratory bird, coming in the spring and leaving us in the early part of September. Upon its arrival it haunts for some days the marshes and banks of our southern rivers, gradually passing northwards to its breeding haunts. The males are somewhat demonstrative, expanding their wings and tail, and repeatedly calling. The writer made his acquaintance with this interesting bird upon the banks of the Medway, where all through the summer months a bird or two of the species could be found.

In spring or autumn they were more numerous, and, as the birds seen at midsummer were mostly isolated specimens, it is possible these were young birds of the preceding year that were not breeding. There is a charm about these wild stretches of marshland, with their wide sea walls, browsing cattle, and plaintive calling of wild birds, unknown to the dwellers in the hills. The lazy movement of barges along the waterway is the only evidence of man's handiwork. Of these the birds take little notice, but a human being out on the flat lands puts them into the air at once. The Sandpiper rises quickly, showing plenty of white as it flies; its wings are much bent when in motion; it glides, then flaps them regularly, then holds them almost upright, when it is settling, which it accomplishes with a run, finally standing with neck outstretched, gazing at the intruder. It is at all times a wary bird, and when put up out of the muddy gripway utters a sharp "wheet wheet." By remaining still upon the sea wall, half hidden by the rank grass, the writer has seen them feeding among the cattle in the company of Wagtails and Pipits. It darts after the gnats and flies in the manner of its companions, constantly wagging its tail.

The Rudiments of Angling (Publisher: B. H. Matthews Bristol).

We have received from B. H. Matthews, The Cabot Press, Bristol, a copy of "The Rudiments of Angling," by Mr. W. Powell-Owen, just published. The author is well-known on the Technical Press, being Assist. Editor of our sister paper "The Poultry World," and author of several practical works on poultry. "Rudiments of Angling" is as the title page reveals, "a complete treatise on angling for coarse fish." In the nineteen chapters at his disposal the author deals lucidly with the outfit required, baits, ground baits, species of the fish family, etc. Chapters are devoted to the best methods to adopt in angling for the roach, pike, tench, perch, barbel, chub, eel, carp, bream, etc., whilst a very interesting chapter is that on "spoon and artificial baits." The pages devoted to roach fishing contain notably excellent advice. Equipped with a copy of this work, which is nicely printed and well illustrated, the veriest tyro should soon become an expert angler. The book is published at 1s. net, to be ordered of newsagents, or at bookstalls; or copies may be had of the publisher, Mr. B. H. Matthews, The Cabot Press, Bristol, for 1s. 2d. post free.

Through a Bird-room Window

MY POPE CARDINALS.

This article on that desirable South American bird, the Pope Cardinal, is No. 35 of the new series of personal birdy experiences related by that eminent aviculturist, the Rev. C. D. FARRAR.

I THINK that one of the first of foreign birds I ever succeeded in breeding successfully was the Pope Cardinal, and, therefore, he has always had a warm place in my heart, for, in spite of what my avicultural friends say, I am not incapable of gratitude. At the time of which I am writing I had in my aviary a very fine cock, but no hen, nor any sign of one, and, of course, in certain circumstances, ladies are indispensable. Here was a case in point. I accordingly began to search the advertisement columns diligently in the hope of getting my want supplied. I even went to the length of advertising my wants, but with no result. Pope Cardinal hens seemed to be as extinct as the Dodo.

A Lucky Enquiry.

Curiously enough, I got a letter a few days later from an unknown correspondent asking me, among several pages of other questions, the name of a grey bird she had, which was about the size of a Blackbird, with a red head. You can't tell what interest I took in that question, for, though it was ninety-nine chances in a hundred against the probability, I thought it just possible that the "unknown" might be a hen Pope Cardinal. At any rate, it was worth going to see, so, as the writer lived not twenty miles away, I wrote saying I would be in the neighbourhood, and might I call and see the bird.

I received by return of post a pressing invitation to come, and, if I liked, stay the night. The very first day I could spare the time, I jumped into the train, and was off for C——. When I arrived we were not long in getting to the aviaries, and, though you will hardly believe it, the very first thing I saw was a fine hen Pope Cardinal. The owner thanked me for coming. Her words reminded me of the interview between Madame de Stael and Mr. Bowles, the sonnet writer, at Bowood. When she complimented him on having come to see her, although he had sprained his shoulder, he said, "Oh, ma'am, say no more, for I would have done a great deal more to see so great a curiosity." What was twenty miles, if at the end I had found what I had sought so long?

Better Buy than Borrow.

I realised, however, that I was not yet out of the wood. Suppose the owner did not care to sell? I should only have tortured myself for nothing by the sight of what I couldn't obtain. After casting about, I came to the conclusion that for once honesty would be the best policy, so I made a clean breast of my troubles, and threw myself on the mercy of the court. In the most generous way the lady offered to lend me the hen, but to this I would not consent, as there was the risk of what might happen to the bird, and I always feel it more satisfactory to know that a thing is my own. Like the Patriarch Abraham of old, she said that the bird was worth so-and-so in the current market, but what was that between me and her? I gently but firmly insisted on paying, however, and two hours later I carried off my treasure packed in a soap box.

The moment I got home I put the birds together, and was delighted to see how they made up to each other. They were both in wonderful condition, and I felt confident that if nothing went amiss I should be able to rear a family of little Pope Cardinals.

At about the end of May I turned the Cardinals out into a big garden aviary, full of live bushes, and here for some days they spent a sort of avian honeymoon. As the days grew warmer and longer they began to look out for a likely site for their future home, and selected a fork of an elder, right up against the top of the aviary wires. I did not approve the choice a bit, as it was far too near the reach of cats for my liking, and usually a great fat grey brute used to sit there, except in the frequent intervals when I broke in on his slumbers with a stone. I felt sure that he would sit over that unfortunate nest with all the zeal of a broody hen unless I did something, and that no good results could be looked for.

Trouble Brewing for the Cat.

Accordingly, I put on my inventive cap, and had a good think. I knew by experience how risky it is to interfere with nests or their sites, but here was a choice of evils; if I did nothing Grimalkin would triumph, if I did anything, though I might frustrate his intentions, the hen might, and probably would, desert incontinently. However, as I say, something had to be done, and I chose what I thought the lesser of two evils, and put one of the "lights" of a melon frame immediately above the nest. Fortunately for me the hen did not take umbrage, but went on building as though nothing had been done.

It proved fortunate later on that I put the glass there, for not only did it thwart my feline friend's plans, but, as it came on to rain by bucketful, it prevented the young Cardinals from being drowned. I gave the birds, as building materials, Blackbirds' nests pulled to pieces. Of these they constructed a big nest in the fork, and, in due course, the hen laid three pretty green eggs, thickly speckled with purple at the big end. Then the hen began to sit steadily, and so did Grimalkin!

I was in hourly terror for my poor hen. Stones were of no effect. They simply caused him to jump sulkily down, and wait till I had done with my fooling, and then the moment I got indoors back he was in the old place. I felt that something must be done, and, without any specific reason, I told the gardener to dig a fair-sized hole in the shrubbery. Being an obedient fellow, he did so without any question. Then I went and borrowed an air-gun, and took up a position whence I could, myself unseen, command the aviary roof, and Grimalkin. Half an hour later there was a tiny report, not sufficient to alarm the birds, a body moving spasmodically for an instant, and then silence.

My wisdom and foresight in having that hole dug were now apparent. It was clearly intended to hold something—here was the something. As darkness fell, I made a hasty run for the aviary, secured my friend, and hastily tumbled him into the newly made grave, and nobody has even known from that evening until to-day, "What has become of Peter?" I fear the Misses Robinson will be very angry with me, when they read this, but what would they have done in my case? It is clearly one of those interesting situations that used to be propounded in "Funny Bits," "What would you do under certain circumstances?" What I did I have told you. Whether it was right or wrong is not of much importance; I know what Mr. Teschemaker would say!

After this little interlude nothing special happened till the twelfth day, when I found an egg shell near the wires. Birds in an aviary always instinctively carry the shells as far away as they can from the nest. Some people tell you that insectivorous birds will rear their young on egg flake and soft mixtures. If anybody will show me their birds actually so feeding I may believe, otherwise I'm like the Scotsman, "a dour devil to convince."

Hopes Realised; foresight Rewarded.

I was pleased a few mornings later to see the cock visit the nest, sit on the edge, and proceed to pump food into the hen, but I was still gladder a few minutes later to see her raise herself gently on the nest and bend down and feed something underneath her. Then I knew that all was going well. It now became a question how to keep the larder supplied. Nobody who has not tried will know the amount of live food it takes to keep a nest of young Cardinals going. Feeding begins at four o'clock in the morning, and goes on without intermission till dusk, and, of course, the parent birds want a snack or two as well. As the young grow the old birds will collect a perfect bundle of mealworms before they carry it to the nest, just as you see a Blackbird or Thrush on the lawn, with its beak bulging with garden worms.

It is a curious thing, but nevertheless a fact, that no foreign birds will touch our worms. What a saving it would be if they would!

There is nothing for it but mealworms, black clocks, and gentles, and, living in the country, one is in constant terror lest the supply should fail, or that the man, who has been told to send them by a certain train, should suddenly lose his memory. It makes the country breeder turn cold merely to think of it, for one such little accident means the loss of a brood. Luckily, in this case I had an abundant store of fat and succulent mealworms, and, at a pinch, I can always get some gentles at Leeds. The end of the week is my terror, the long wait from Saturday to Monday.

When the birds were about a week old the windows of heaven were opened, and the rains literally descended. I should quite have expected a second Deluge, but that I looked up and saw a beautiful rainbow. How thankful I felt that I had put the glass roof over the nest. I am sure that but for it I should have lost these youngsters. One day, as I entered the aviary to feed, I found sitting on the edge of the food tray the queerest little thing I ever saw in the shape of a bird. It was squatting on its hocks with its bill straight up in the air, and absolutely motionless. It resembled a little grey frog more than a bird not even its eye moved. I recognised a stranger at once, and noting its tiny red cap, I knew that was the first of my young Popes. Was it not Linnaeus who, when he saw a mass of gorse in bloom, thanked God he was alive? Something of the same feeling struck me as I gazed on my new-found treasure.

Triplets.

The next day I looked in the nest and found it empty. The birds had flown. Carefully peering about in the bush where the nest was, I discovered two other motionless little creatures, and then I knew that my cup of happiness was full. I was the owner of three little Pope Cardinals. I am afraid my success was not very amicably received. I received contemptuous comment that Pope Cardinals had been bred before somewhere, though nobody could say exactly where. Personally, I could find no such record, though I searched most carefully. I am of the opinion of Mrs. Brown's husband when he says, "I knows as there's werry few in this world as wouldn't rather 'ear of your troubles than of your good luck. Why, its 'uman natur to 'ate any one to be better off than yourself." At any rate, I received little sympathy, and no encouragement.

When the little Cardinals left the nest they were very unfinished, the chief features about them being their enormous feet. They could hop about at the most surprising rate, and were adepts at keeping themselves out of sight. For quite another fortnight the old birds continued to feed them most carefully, and then the youngsters were able to fend for themselves. At first they were very chary about taking to soft food, decidedly preferring mealworms and gentles, but this was rather too expensive a taste, so I caught them up and caged them, and limited the supply of live bait, so that hunger compelled them to fill up with soft food. They grew into splendid birds, two cocks and a hen, and I sent them away to a friend, who promised them a lovely home in a big garden aviary.

The Widowed Pope.

The old birds went to nest again, but, I fear, owing to a dense fog, that the poor hen caught a chill. At any rate, one morning I found her dead on the floor, and, as a delicate-minded young lady once put it, "lying on the front of her back." The cock seemed a bit disconsolate for a day or two, but gradually pulled himself together, and in a month was quite in his usual spirits. I have known other husbands do the same.

It seems a bit funny to talk about young Popes. It reminds me of something I read the other day. In the "silly season" a daily offered a prize for the most startling "headlines" for a paper. Here was a suggestion which I think it would be hard to beat, "Marriage of the Pope," but does not this article illustrate it? And now I think I had better end, or you may say of me what a little girl said of her friend, that her tongue was like a dock root, so long that there was no end to it.

BIRD KEEPING IN A NORTHERN AVIARY.

BY this we were well into August, and the weather being cold, all the Britishers went into a moult, and nesting operations ceased for the season as far as they were concerned. I never saw the Goldie feed the Bullfinch, but he always sat very close to the nest which she was incubating. This hen is very "cheeky," and will fly on to my arm or hand the moment she thinks anything dainty is going.

Reared without Egg-food.

My two hen Canaries kept repeatedly building nests and laying clutches of unfertile eggs and sitting on them. They showed no inclination whatever to pair up with anything (though one of the Twite-Canaries tried to chum up with one of them). This I think must always be a difficulty. Into the nest of one of them I put 2 fertile eggs from a Roller and Norwich pair kept in the house. One only hatched, and as I was sure it would be very cold by itself as the nest was quite in the open, I put a newly-hatched Greenfinch in beside it (these are to be had at all stages in our garden all through the summer). The Canary was an excellent feeder, and the foster children grew apace. I may mention for the benefit of those who think that Canaries cannot be successfully reared without egg food, that this Canary never got any, as none was provided. It was reared entirely on hard seed and green food (Shepherd's purse, chick-weed, etc.), and very hardy it was—it could feed itself almost as soon as the Greenfinch. I lost it afterwards through an accident. The Greenfinch, which is a hen, still remains, but I do not fancy it will breed in the aviary, as there are always so many of them round about in the nesting season.

Providing her own Delicacies.

In April I bought a pair of Zebra Finches. Very ragged they were, just in the middle of a moult. I kept them in a large cage indoors to await some fine weather. I gave them a nest box to sleep in, and the hen began to lay straight away. She went on laying eggs and eating them to such an extent that I thought she would exhaust herself! So one fine day I took the cock away and turned him into the aviary. About a week afterwards I put the hen out also. Immediately down flew her mate and greeted her with a loud blast of his "tin trumpet."

But my old fellow who had lost his wife in the previous autumn arrived on the scene, and drove him away and chased him all round the place, and sang and danced to the hen until she was quite bewildered between the two. Finally she agreed to give in, and was usurped by the old tyrant! Some time afterwards I put in another hen, and he immediately set to work to try and capture her affections also, but in the end he allowed the other widower to take her over, and both settled down with separate establishments. Though they had several nests, however, they only succeeded in rearing to maturity three young birds. These came out of the nest in late June—dear little grey things with dark grey bills and feet—but how quickly they donned their adult plumage. One got killed later on, but the two remaining were cock and hen. The former I gave away, but the hen I kept, and she is even now sitting on eggs, at the end of January.

A Thing they do too well!

That is the worst of those little foreigners. If kept in pairs they lay, on and off, all winter, and the result is, of course, often disastrous, as I have just proved with my Ribbon Finches. They, too, had several nests, but only succeeded in bringing to maturity one cock in one nest and one hen in another. The latter emerged from the nest in the end of November, and in December the old birds again went to nest. The hen laid two eggs and died of egg-binding. I found her dead in the nest with the cock sitting in beside her. I think he must have pined, for I found him dead also a short time afterwards. They are very dull birds, even in an aviary.

My Spice Birds never attempted to build, and I believe them to be a pair. They are also very uninteresting. In the summer I put in a pair of Madagascar Weavers, but the hen soon died. The cock, however, still remains, and is easily "cock of the roost." He keeps all the inmates in order, swooping down on anything that dares to approach his pet corner. He made a few feeble attempts at weaving during the summer, but never anything worth mentioning. Weavers' nests, when completed, are marvellous structures, consisting sometimes of more than one nest built one below the other with tunnels up to them well over a yard long. I have seen them hanging by the hundred on huge bamboo trees by the side of a river in the East.

Unconcerned at the Frost.

I did not think my Weaver would survive the winter out of doors, and when the fearfully cold spell came on in November and he suddenly went into a violent moult, I thought he'd be sure to go, especially as he always roosts quite in the open. But not at all—he recovered from his moult very quickly, and is quite one of the hardiest of the foreigners. He does not seem to feel the cold at all. I believe there were from 17 to 20 deg. of frost at the time of which I speak.

Huge Gatherings of Linnets and Twites.

Sir,—I wonder if any of your North Country readers have noticed the "plague" of Linnets and Twites between Alnmouth and Belford. I was out that way on business, and I never dreamt that there were as many Linnets and Twites in the North. I thought all the birds were in the South. I saw some catchers at work, and one had 41 Twites. He told me that was an hour's work. I should think that in about an hour's walk I saw some thousands of Linnets on the hedge sides, and singing for all they were worth. I thought I saw some Goldfinches, but the catchers told me they were Chaffinches. A novel way of catching birds in these parts is with a lamp and net at night.

Appointment of Judges at Gateshead Show.

Sir,—Through the medium of your valuable paper I should like to ask the secretary of the Gateshead C.B.S. a few questions respecting the last annual show. It will be remembered that Mr. Harland, who was to have judged the Norwich classes, was unavoidably prevented from doing so through illness. I have yet to learn—hence my inquiry—if an official meeting (committee or otherwise) was ever convened to deal with this matter. I therefore hope in the interest of the society that the secretary will answer the following:—(1) The date of Mr. Harland's letter intimating his inability to attend, and the date on which it was received? (2) When, where, and by whom, it was decided to ask judges to take on extra classes? (3) Was a record of such a meeting or decision duly entered in the minute book of the society? If not going beyond the limit of reasonableness and fair inquiry, would he also mind stating the number of persons present when this decision took place?

Bobby.

The Cage Bird Section at Cupar Show.

Sir,—Cupar was where I got my first ticket over twenty years ago, yet at our last show we only got 106 entries in the cage bird section. The general opinion of the committee was that bird fanciers did not care to send their birds to be staged in the same hall with the other sections, and the Balmerins Hall was engaged exclusively for the cage birds, with the foregoing results. At the general meeting of the Cupar O.S., held in the Y.M.C.A. rooms on February 18th, the cage bird fanciers pressed hard for a separate date for a cage bird show, to be held during the month of October, but although not agreed to at that meeting, it may come yet. In the event of us not getting a separate date, it is probable that a separate society will be formed to meet the demand of this section. Judging by the number of entries at last show, it is evident that something is very far wrong, and that reform of some kind is badly needed. It is with this end in view that the foregoing has been penned by me, and we shall be much obliged if exhibitors will be good enough to say exactly why they do not enter birds at Cupar, Fife. Once Cupar fanciers get at the root of the disease, they will undoubtedly take immediate steps to cure it. Thanking your readers in anticipation of their opinions, and wishing Cage Birds the success it so well deserves.

The Provincial Roller Canary Club's Challenge Trophy.

Sir,—At the annual contest held January 17th, at Bury, I claim to have been the winner of the above trophy, and that the awarding of this cup to Mr. Ives was not in order. I make out my claim to the above as follows:—The Provincial Roller Canary Club had no definite printed rules as to cup contests, showing how they awarded this prize. If such rules are in existence they were not printed in the schedule. There are two ways which clubs adopt when singing for cups or trophies: 1st, each member nominates a bird and a separate class is formed for this purpose. This is adopted by the Wakefield Roller Club, etc.; 2nd, or declare the winner to be the one who has the highest song points (if he be a member). See rule of Midland Roller Club, which is given below: "Song points to count; in the event of a tie the novice member to take the cup." As there were no definite rules one is led to suppose that the general rule will be adopted, such as is used by the Midland, Leeds Clubs, etc. Mr. Ives and I tied for this trophy, 26 points each. A new class was at once ordered, and this was re-sung to find the winner. I contend that this re-singing was not in order, as under the rules of the British Roller C.C. and other clubs I was already the winner. The rule of the B.R.C.C. is as follows:—"That when two or more birds tie for a prize, the purest bird to be declared winner." I had 26 points (no faults), and Mr. Ives 28 points (2 faults) making 26 points. I at once appealed against this decision, and I had a reply from the secretary asking me to attend the annual dinner and plead my own case. Business reasons compelled my absence, and it was therefore with pleasure I opened your esteemed paper this morning (Friday) expecting to see a full report, as no word had reached me from the secretary, re my appeal. But I only found an account of the dinner, which, I see, was followed by a fine rendering of "Which is the sinner, and which is the Saint," in which I suppose I was the sinner as I had dared to appeal, and Mr. Ives was the saint. But this is not all, for I note another song, "A little child shall lead them." Whether this refers to the secretary or not, I cannot say, but there is no doubt it must have been truly pathetic, and many a tear bedimmed eye must have been seen. I should be glad to hear from the secretary why I was not informed of the result of the appeal, as one would think that it was the duty of the secretary to at once inform his members of matters of such importance.

Linnet Singing in Lancashire.

Sir,—In my opinion nobody is trying to deal a bigger blow to Linnet singing than Mr. Harrison. Not satisfied with running his own contests for time-singing, he is trying to persuade another secretary to do the same. Why does he not come out in the open and say what he has to say about quality singing? He was very keen running to print about a small matter. One of his remarks is that Mr. ——— is always in the prizes for quality singing. Now I may say Mr. ——— is always in the prizes for time singing. I think they deserve to be, too, as both gentlemen possess a good team of birds. Now, Mr. Harrison, what is your opinion?

New Society for Redcar and District.

Sir,—At a meeting held Feb. 27th at the Crown and Anchor, Redcar, it was unanimously decided that a society should be formed to cater for the cage bird fanciers in this district, to be called the Redcar and District C.B.S. We had a capital meeting, making a good start with members, and receiving several promises of support. It was decided that a pair show should be held March 15th at the Crown and Anchor. Judging at three o'clock, where we shall be pleased to see anyone interested. Our next meeting will be held at the Crown and Anchor, March 10th, at 7 p.m. We extend a hearty invitation to all those who are interested in cage birds, to come and join us. I am sure there are a great number of fanciers in this district who are not attached to any society, and I should be pleased to hear from them or see them at our next meeting.

Suggested Southern Border Fancy Club.

Sir,—When the question of a Border Club for the South was discussed some two years ago, I felt that the variety had hardly enough admirers to start a club with sufficient standing to do much good, but since that time several fanciers have either seriously taken up Borders, or have added a pair or two to their stock, so I think there is now more chance of something being successfully carried out in the way of a specialist club for them. If Border fanciers of the South want to put their birds on the same footing as those of other varieties, now is the time to commence. I feel sure Mr. McGuffie would kindly consent to act as secretary, and would only require the whole hearted support of all Southern breeders to give the club a good start.

H. Norman.

Sir,—Re Mr. Fred. Moore's letter in last issue, I was one of those interested in the conversation at the Crystal Palace, on the formation of the Southern Border Club. Mr. MacGuffie informed us that his efforts about two years ago were very discouraging. He spent both time and money without any good results. Possibly now more interest will be taken in this matter. If some one more able than myself will undertake the formation of the S.B.C. I shall be pleased to add my name.

The Suggested Foreign Bird Exhibitors' League.

Sir,—In response to your notice in last issue of "C.B.," I would ask the courtesy of a small portion of your space. At this stage I can only write in a personal capacity, and entirely apart from my official connection with the Foreign Bird Club. I can only say this here, that the F.B.C. has not been indifferent to existing conditions, and that many attempts have been made, which have been nullified, in most cases, by the apathy of exhibitors themselves. I certainly hope the suggested movement will succeed in carrying out its aims, and, personally, I see no reason why it should not; it will have but one interest, so far as I gather from the circular, and be entirely unfettered by the claims of systematic nomenclature. Of recent years the movement has been all in the direction of keeping birds in large outdoor aviaries, and this movement is still going forward, but many such aviarists are exhibitors also, and I certainly see no reason why the F.B.C. and the suggested League should not run side by side for the general welfare and furtherance of foreign bird exhibiting. Most certainly any movement which tends to popularise the exhibiting all species of foreign birds under equitable conditions will receive any support I am able to render.

Roller Canaries at the International Show.

Sir,—Mr. Tomlinson's letter will come as a surprise to many Roller fanciers besides myself, who are told we have no Deep Bubbling Water Tours, and that the Water Glucke is the Bell Glucke. The merest novice can tell the D.B.W.T. when he hears it, and I put it down that Mr. Frisch is either joking or trying to make us look simple. As for the piccolo being used in the training of the German Roller, I know it is; and, although there is no tour of that name, can Mr. Tomlinson deny that the instrument is clearly heard in the Tour of the present highly-trained German Canary? The up-to-date contest singer of to-day, with his 6 or 7 changes of song, is very monotonous, because he has no variation in his song; it is the same thing over and over again for awhile, until he forgets some of his passages and becomes just an ordinary singer. This is why I think we ought to have a standard of our own, and not to be led for ever by the German experts. Under the present German standard of singing we cannot make any headway, because, if we breed a bird with a new tour, it is put down as easy singing, and no class. If a British novice happens to breed a free-singing bird with 14 or 16 changes (not an impossibility), and the bird sings his song with a closed beak without any very faulty notes, such as chopping and yapping, give him credit for it, and don't say, "No class," because it does not come up to the present German standard of what I call flute and piccolo singing with 4 or 5 kinds of organs thrown in. I didn't say that the Glucke was a chop, but how often does the young, when trying to sing this tour, do the chopping business instead. Under the present unnatural training I think the Roller is deteriorating, and I'll tell you why. Never once in the thousands of birds I have heard sing have I heard the Koller sung, and only once have I seen it reported in Cage Birds. The two Koller songsters brought over by Mr. Frisch he described as faulty, and I am afraid that the production of this so-called classic tour will have a bad effect upon the other tours, and breeders should think twice before putting their young birds on it. Whether it is good or bad, it has come to stay, and in a little while we shall have thousands of them.

Looking for Bird Bargains in Liverpool.

Sir,—From the world-famed line of Liverpool docks to the back of St. John's Market is a big jump. If you are interested in shipping, the miles of magnificent docks will impress you with Liverpool's greatness as a seaport. On the other hand, if cocks and hens, rabbits, dogs, cage birds, etc., claim your indulgence then it is the back of St. John's Market that gives Liverpool its distinctiveness. It is the happiest of hunting grounds for the enthusiastic cage bird fancier, who has only a few "bobs" in his pocket. It is here that the expert fancier pays an early morning visit (Saturday, 11 a.m., the only day in the week on which the bird stalls are stocked), and casts a critical eye over the scores of feathered pets. British birds with a future are occasionally "picked up for a mere song" by the man who knows a thing or two. Only a week or so ago a known fancier "confessed" to me that he had bought Greenics, Goldies, and Chaffies at the back of the market (St. John's), and sold them at almost ten times the price he had paid for them. "Of course, you must understand," he went on, "you've got to know your birds. And, what is more, how to make the best of them." Before parting, he knowingly added, "once the birds are right, in goes an advertisement in Cage Birds." Larks and Linnets are the most numerous birds offered for sale behind the market.

WHY YOU NEED IT.

Thousands of birdkeepers throughout the world have profited exceedingly by "CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL," and the issue for the current year has been eagerly awaited. Of "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" we are able to say that never before has such a grand production been offered to Fanciers for the small sum of 6d. (8d. post free).

In 192 pages, 6¾ inches by 4 inches, "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" minutely traces out every phase of cage-bird keeping from January to December. The contents have been so carefully arranged and indexed that with a minimum of trouble the Fancier in doubt, be he beginner or old hand, may in a second solve any problem which may face him.

No matter what is wrong in your birdroom or aviary, reference to "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" will immediately right matters; no matter how often you may be exercised in your mind as to which of two methods is the better, the "ANNUAL" will enable you to decide.

In compiling the "ANNUAL," the Editor has not only considered the hobby during all the defined periods, but has endeavoured, with a great measure of success, to foresee and prescribe for every possible emergency. With "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" at hand, you will find that the year in your birdroom will go swingingly, without the many disappointments which hitherto have made you almost give up the hobby.

"CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" is the reference for beginner and expert, for big breeder and small, and for those who keep birds for either pleasure or profit.

Exhibitors, Society Secretaries and Show Officials, too, are catered for no less than ordinary Fanciers. This marvellous year book, the golden cover of which is but an earnest of the sovereign value of its contents, will be found to contain full particulars (alphabetically arranged) of some 600 Cage Bird Specialist Clubs, ordinary Societies and Singing Clubs that are flourishing in the Kingdom. Just turn up this section and see the most convenient to join, and the advantages of membership.

The past Show Season has been a record one, and in the "ANNUAL" will be found magnificent reviews of every variety seen on the bench, together with lists of the principal winning exhibitors. These reviews are not to be found elsewhere, and, written by specialists who have closely watched the course of events through the season, they, with the full standards and scales of points that are also given, afford exhibitors practical and infallible guidance in their preparation for big things next season.

With "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" to help you, you will be able to gauge for yourself what chance of success your exhibits have, or whether they are worth sending at all.

The "ANNUAL" contains the only full list of Judges published, with their qualifications. Show Officials please note.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper, and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaints written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Childrens' Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed to the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Post-cards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

RESULT OF SHOCK (H.B.).—(1) It is impossible to forecast the result of such a shock as a cat attacking birds in any particular case. I have known individuals live many years longer than the three years yours has lived, and never resume singing although apparently in excellent health, and on the other hand I have known them sing lustily in literally a few minutes after. To try to bring yours out you should let it hear a lusty, vigorous young cock in the height of his "love-song" for a few weeks. If there is also a hen about calling it may be an additional encouragement. You can do nothing else unless you wait a few months and then turn him into a flight with a group of birds until next spring. Meanwhile, if possible, keep him caged in a room where a number of pairs are breeding. (2) It is quite possible the bird may breed successfully, but only the actual experiment will prove this with certainty.

WASTES HER SEED (Border Fancy).—It is the result of digestive derangement, and if you "hungered" her, as you suggest, the result would probably be a calamity you are not looking for. The following treatment will put her right. Cage separately and keep cage floor strewn with clean gritty sand. Keep out of cold draughts, and in healthful surroundings. Give a staple diet of three parts Canary to one part summer rape. Every second day give a piece of bread the size of a hazel nut, soaked in cold milk, drained, and sprinkled with soft sugar, and on the alternate days a morsel of banana and a pinch of maw seed. Give a leaf of dandelion daily. In the drinking water mix six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepennypiece every second day for a week, and in the next week give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tinct. of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid in the water every second day. Resume ordinary diet a short time after bird has quite ceased this practice, which it will do when the digestive system again resumes its normal condition.

DIET FOR ROLLER (Hoopoe).—As a staple diet, a mixture of two parts canary to one part summer rape. High-bred songsters are usually fed on a staple of rape alone, but for ordinary use I prefer the above mixture. As tit-bits, or "extra," a small quantity of egg-food, or crushed biscuit, or sponge cake, once or twice a week; a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, inga, millet and teazle, or maw, twice a week, and a spray of green food or sweet fruit, three times a week in winter, and daily in summer, is all that is really required for a healthy Roller. Allow them to bathe daily in fine weather; at other times offer a bath twice a week. Keep cage floor strewn with clean gritty sand. To prepare for breeding, in addition to the staple diet, give a little egg food every second day, sprinkled with maw, and on the alternate days a small quantity of the seed mixture, and give a little green food —dandelion, if birds are backward—daily. Healthy birds require very little preparation if not mated prematurely. At the proper season nature will do all that is required. You should get the "Nutshell" booklet on the "Roller," for all the fuller details of feeding and foods.

A PANTING YORKSHIRE (Willie, Belfast).—I suggest the bird is in an overfed condition, though you give no idea of your method of feeding. Try the following treatment for two or three weeks, and if not well in that time write again. Give a staple diet of plain canary only, and supplement this with a free supply of green food. Once a week only give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, and once a pinch of a mixture of equal parts rape, cole, millet, inga, and teazle. In the drinking water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much Epsom salts as will cover a threepennypiece every second day for a week. In the next week give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day. Keep out of cold draughts, and also avoid a heated impure atmosphere. I have no experience of rearing young on the foods you name, so cannot tell if they are as good as home-made egg-food. I prefer the latter, because then one at least knows the freshness of it. You will find several good egg-food substitutes given in "Canary Breeding for Beginners."

BAD BEAK AND FOOT (Stuart Lane).—The bird seems to have been very much of a physical wreck, and as you evidently had a desire to breed with it, I honestly believe it has done you a kindness by rendering that idea impossible. Better luck next time.

CONVERTING TOOL SHED (Perplexed).—I'm afraid I cannot help you much without more clear information. You omit to mention of what material the shed is composed—whether wood, or bricks and mortar—and your sketch is far from clear. You say the shed is a leanto from south to north, yet you give both sides on sketch the same measurements in height, and I cannot see how the partition marked on sketch affects the interior. Does it go up to the ceiling, and is the floor raised off the ground? You had better try again, and besides giving above particulars, add a rough sketch of the external appearance of shed. The query about bird is equally vague. You say you have a bird with a yellow spot, as if it contained matter, but give no clue whatever as to the size, general appearance, or where the spot is situated. I cannot advise any interference without some more definite clue.

A FEW HINTS (F. Spencer).—I will gladly give you a few hints, but, considering your inexperience, the very best advice I can give you is to invest in a copy of "Canary Breeding for Beginners," wherein you will find far more detailed information on every point than it is possible to give in these replies. Then, if any unforseen difficulty crops up, write me and I will put you right. As regards the cock Yorkshire, the prospects are decidedly unfavourable, and as you are particularly anxious to breed some young birds, I advise you not to rely solely on him. Get a healthy, active cock, bred in 1911 or 1912, in good song, in his place. Do not mate them before the end of this month. You have put the present pair together much too soon. You give me no idea whatever how you have been feeding these birds, so I can only say you should follow instructions in the handbook referred to for feeding and preparing the birds for breeding. Separate the present pair, and you might try a course of treatment as advised to "W.P." last week for the cock, which may bring him into better condition.

TWO HENS WITH ONE COCK (A Constant Reader).—In the case you refer to, the birds were not in ordinary cages, but a so-called aviary. In your case, to run two hens with one cock in ordinary breeding cages you should not put the birds altogether in one cage. You will get far better results by keeping each hen separately in a single breeding cage, and the cock also caged separately. When the birds are all in good breeding condition—say, a month hence—place the cock with the most forward hen, and when she has built and laid her third egg, remove him and mate him with the other hen. When this hen has gone to nest and laid her third egg, remove cock and cage him separately again, until the first hen is ready to begin nesting again for a second brood. Then repeat the same tactics as before. The hens are, of course, left to hatch and rear the broods alone. Should both hens be equally forward, so that the second seemed likely to lay before the cock was at liberty from the first, the cock may be run with both hens simultaneously by changing him from one hen to the other at mid-day each day, which will allow him to be with each hen one-half of each day with a minimum of disturbance in changing.

AN EGG-EATER (A.P.G.).—(1) If the hen has no really outstanding qualities to make breeding from her especially desirable, the best method of curing her of egg-eating is to apply a good dose of chloroform, and let her inhale it until there remains no possible chance of her returning from the Valhalla, where all such wicked hens should go. If she is good in typical points, provide one of the specially constructed nest-boxes described and illustrated in Parts VII. and VIII. of "Our Canaries," which see, and give the eggs to fosters to hatch and rear. (2) The usual staple seed diet is, of course, left undisturbed. When young are expected to hatch, give in addition a small quantity of egg food, and repeat this once or twice a day, gradually increasing the quantity as the young birds grow and consume more food. Always give sufficient to last from one feeding time to the next, but leave little to waste. On the fourth day give a morsel of green food, and from this time continue giving a little freshly-gathered green-stuff twice a day until the young are able to feed themselves. At a week or ten days old add a little cracked hemp daily, and if a large brood is being fed, a little soaked or scalded rape may be added, but be careful that this never becomes sour. For full details on the subject you ought to provide yourself with "Canary Breeding for Beginners."

should consult St. John's "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (7d.); House's "Canary Manual" (1/2); Battye's "Yorkshire Canaries" (1/1½); House's "Norwich Canaries" (1/1); Weston's "Stock Book" (7d.); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping (1/1); Norman's "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/8); Ramsden's "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); "Seeds and Foods for Cage Birds" (1/2); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 5 "The Pet Canary," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 10 "The Roller," No. 23 "The Border Fancy," No. 24 "Green Canaries." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

NEARLY NAKED (H., Ardrossan).—Keep the bird in a comfortable temperature, but don't overdo this. See it is free from cold draughts and impure heated air, and allow it to bathe freely in mild weather. Give a staple diet of two parts canary to one part summer rape mixed together. Every second day give half a teaspoonful of crushed stale sponge cake, slightly dusted with flowers of sulphur, and sprinkled with maw seed, and on the alternate days give either a morsel of banana or a spray of green food, and a pinch of a mixture of equal parts millet, teazle, and niger. If available, a mealworm a day would be beneficial. Continue this dietary for a month, and stop all other items or luxuries you may have been giving the bird. In the drinking water add six drops of glycerine and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece every second day. Keep cage floor strewn with clean gritty sand.

UNMOULTED AND FREQUENT LAYING (H. Tite).—The ovary of this hen is clearly in a weakened and abnormal condition, and considering also the fact that she has not moulted, you will be well advised to forego any intentions of mating her this season. The chances of her doing any good are very remote, and of the flimsiest kind. In fact, unless she possesses some very good typical points which makes you very anxious to breed with her, I would strongly advise you to discard her totally for breeding. By doing so, you will save yourself much disappointment.

IS IT A COLD? (R. Dyer).—You are overfeeding the bird by giving egg-food every day. This may be the sole cause of the trouble. Do not hang it high up near the ceiling, nor near or over burning lights in the evening. For one week give half-a-teaspoonful of egg-food every second day, and well mix in it four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion, and give a spray of green food on the alternate days. After this time feed as advised in reply under heading "Diet for Roller." In the drinking water give ten drops of syrup of buckthorn every second day for a week, and afterwards 20 drops of whisky, six of glycerine, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece, every second day for another week.

DO OLD BIRDS SING? (G. H. L.).—Some old birds sing remarkably well, but it is not uncommon to find specimens that take long periods of rest after moulting. If your bird appears in good health, and is active, it will doubtless resume its song as soon as the weather gets a little milder. Give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a week, and on the alternate days a pinch of the seed mixture advised to "Brighton," and give a crisp young dandelion leaf daily. This should bring him out.

A BACKWARD COCK (Brighton).—You were evidently a little injudicious in feeding up the birds, and have brought the hen forward more quickly than the cock. It is quite useless putting them together until the cock is ready, and will only induce the hen to come more forward still, and waste her strength by laying useless eggs. Feed the hen rather plainly, and do not give her dandelion at all. In addition to the staple diet of the cock, give him half-a-teaspoonful of egg food, with about half the quantity of a mixture of equal parts maw, sesame and gold of pleasure, mixed in it every second day, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, teazle, and sprinkling of mustard seed. Give also two leaves of dandelion daily. In the drinking water give ten drops of syrup of buckthorn for two days, and afterwards six drops of tincture of gentian, and three of tincture of steel every second day for a week. By the end of the month he should be ready.

A PREMATURE START (D. O'Neill).—The answer to all your questions may be summed up in the one term, you started much too early. I doubt whether the hen was really in the forward condition you imagined. She was probably just coming forward, and would have been in better trim for mating three weeks hence than at any previous time. As it is, the recent cold winds probably set the clock back with her a long way. If they have made no more progress by the time this appears, remove all nesting facilities, separate birds, and treat the hen for three weeks as advised to "Brighton," in this issue for a cock. In the third week put the cock on the same treatment, and by the end of the month they may be in better form, and then you may try them again.

ANOTHER EARLY BEGINNING (Novice, Croydon).—There is little you can do now beyond possessing your soul with what patience you can muster. The cock is evidently much more backward than the hen, and as she seems very forward, considering the age of the cock, it would most likely spare you some disappointment if you replaced him, for the first brood at least, with a younger bird in good condition, and full song. You did not say, however, whether this cock is in song, or quite active. It is even now rather early to begin, so if the hen has not made any further progress, I would advise you to separate them for a fortnight, and treat the cock during that time as advised to "Brighton" in this issue. If he is then in good song and active, try him again; otherwise substitute a younger and more vigorous bird to limit your chances of failure.

NEEDLESS ALARM (Cause and Cure).—You mention no symptom whatever which points to anything wrong. I am strongly inclined to think that what you fancy is sickness is nothing more than the bird being in a forward condition for breeding, and it regurgitates a portion of any tit-bit of food, which nature prompts it to do, as an offering to its mates. As it is, I presume, denied a mate, these "offerings" are doubtless disposed of by placing about the perch, or wires, or on the feet, and probably reconsumed if not removed. There needs no cure for this perfectly normal phenomenon. If you cared to provide a mate in a fortnight or so hence, in equally forward condition, these ejections would be quickly diverted into another channel. If I am wrong and the bird appears really ill, write again, and mention full details and symptoms.

A DISAPPOINTING PAIR (S. G. C.).—Sorry you met with such disappointment last season. But now you have "Canary Breeding for Beginners," and are able to see where you went wrong, I can with some confidence wish you better luck in the coming season. I have little hopes, however, of you doing much good with the pair of birds you have, and would advise you to replace both. The hen singing would not necessarily prevent her breeding, but her unmoulted condition renders her liable to drop into moult at any time now, which would put breeding quite out of the question. And both birds being a trifle wheezy, makes it most unwise to breed from them. You might feed the cock as advised to "Brighton," but well mix in the sponge cake each time four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion, and add also one part of millet to the seed mixture. Continue the gentian and steel mixture until the feathers cease dropping. Then if he is in good condition by the beginning of April, and the wheeziness has disappeared, you might mate him with a fresh hen. Otherwise your best plan is to get a fresh pair of birds. See that the cock is free from draughts, extreme fluctuations of temperature, and impure heated air from burning lights. As soon as the weather gets quite settled, you would do well to take the birds back to the room without a fire.

NAKED NECK (Mrs. G.).—These cases, except when a bird is quite young, or the loss caused by some such external cause as insect irritation, are often most obstinate, and, as a rule, can only be successfully treated at the moulting season. If you had someone expert at hand-washing, it would be a decided help to have the bird washed once, as a preliminary step, seeing that it will never bathe voluntarily. Keep it in a comfortable temperature, and the cage floor strewn with clean gritty sand. Give a staple diet of plain canary only. Every second day give separately half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts rape, niger, millet, and teazle. On the alternate days give a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake, slightly dusted with flour of sulphur, and sprinkled with maw. Give a morsel of green food, dandelion preferably, daily. Continue this feeding for three or four weeks. In the drinking water add six drops of glycerine, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepennypiece every second day whilst giving the sulphur. If you have the bird washed, you may slightly moisten the bare skin with vaseline a few days afterwards; otherwise there is no necessity for any external application.

IN SINGLE BLISS (Sambo).—You omit to say what breeds the birds are, or whether they were early or late hatched. In the medium and small breeds practically all, save very late hatched specimens, bred last season, will be quite fit for breeding this season. In the larger breeds, especially with late-hatched specimens, it is often a wise policy to keep them unmated—a portion of them—over the first year. All that you would gain by doing so is that the birds, especially the hens, having conserved their strength and vitality, and being fully matured, are so much the more robust and vigorous and more physically fit to produce sound, healthy progeny. It is the stamina of the progeny, which is to form your future stock, which may be expected to gain from the method. In keeping one's birds in this way they should have the run of large flight or stock cages, where they can get unlimited exercise, and the sexes in separate groups, preferably out of sight and hearing of each other.

COLD, LIKE CATARRH (Seeeter).—It seems to me far more likely that the cold, like catarrh, you say the bird suffered from was in reality ophthalmia, though I cannot, of course, dogmatise from this slight evidence, which is practically all the data you give me to work on. Anyway, I fear the blindness which has resulted is irremediable. You might try the effect of a lotion composed of five grains of sulphate of zinc, and ten drops of tincture of opium in an ounce of rose water, using it morning and evening daily for, say, a fortnight. To use it, catch the bird and hold it in the left hand, with the head held gently but firmly between the tips of the thumb and forefinger, and one eye directed upwards. Drop a single drop of the lotion on the eye, and let it float about the eye and work under the lid for a few moments, then absorb it into a bit of soft rag and put on a fresh drop. Repeat the process with four or five drops on each eye. Lotion is rather poisonous, so be careful. Keep cage and perches scrupulously clean. Shall be glad to hear result in a month hence.

SAWDUST AND SHED (W. P.).—(1) If the cage floor of quite young birds is strewn with sawdust when they have not previously been accustomed to it, there is a very fair chance of some of them at least picking up and swallowing portions of it. Young Canaries, like young bipeds of the genus Homo, often do very silly things before they acquire experience. During the breeding season it is much better to use good gritty calcareous sand on the cage floors, and this I advise you to do. You may substitute sawdust after the breeding season is over. (2) If your shed got overheated last summer it will certainly do with a little extra ventilation. If you cannot very easily put a louvre ventilator on the roof at the highest part—in the middle, or beside the skylight—cut out a small opening, four by two and a half inches, in the highest angle of each end, at the back, and cover these with two sheets of perforated zinc each, one nailed over on the inside and the other on the outside, and arranged so that the holes in one sheet will eclipse those in the other when looking directly at it.

Owing to sudden indisposition, Mr. G. E. Weston has, to his regret, been unable to answer the British bird queries this week, but hopes to reply to all in our next issue. Urgent answers will be sent by post.—Editor.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.,

ADELAIDE PARRAKEET (G.P.M.).—The treatment for this species is very simple, the staple dietary being a mixture of canary and white millet seeds in equal parts. A second mixture of crushed oats, hemp, and sunflower seeds in equal parts can be kept handy, and a little given twice weekly. Also give green food (lettuce, seeding, or flowering grass, green oats and other cereals), and a little ripe fruit, any kind it will take. It must have regular access to grit, cuttlebone, and water for drinking and bathing. Spray the bird twice a week for a time with a tepid quassia solution, and also put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in its drinking water twice a week; to ensure the bowels moving quite freely, but stop it at once if there is continued undue looseness.

YOUNG GREY PARROT (Grey Parrot).—Wean it from the milk sop as quickly as possible, but there must be no sudden change, though the milk could and would be better stopped at once. In lieu of the milk, use equal parts of warm water, and the Chemical Food as a moistening medium for the biscuit, but as soon as you see it eating heartily of the seed mixture, wean it from the sop altogether. It should get regularly dry biscuit, ripe fruit, a few shelled nuts, grit, cuttlebone, and water should be continually in the cage. Put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water once a week for the next month, and on other days just colour the drinking water with the Chemical Food. Whenever the weather is mild spray the bird once a week with a tepid, weak quassia solution. Our Nutshell, "The Grey Parrot," 2½d. post free, from our Manager, would assist you.

FOR THREE-COMPARTMENT CAGE (Will Weaver).—If your cage is an all wire one, you must screen the portion in each section where you hang the nest-box. Take out of the cage all straight perches, and put two twiggy branches in each section for perching accommodation; these are easily fastened in position with a little binding wire. As you are a beginner you had better get hardy species to begin with, then when you have gained experience you can get more expensive or rarer birds. In one of the outer sections you could have a pair of Green Budgerigars, these would require a coco-nut husk, but not any building material. In the middle section put a pair of Zebra Finches, a small square box, or chip-travelling-cage, with all fittings removed and a hole cut in for entrance hole, with hay and grass for nesting material. In the other section put a pair of Golden-breasted Waxbills, with a rush nest and a little hay, grass, and moss as nesting materials. Your cage would have been much more useful had it been a little higher. "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1/1½ post free, would help you, also "Nutshells" Nos. 18 and 20, 2½d. each post free, would assist you greatly, all are published at "C.B." office.

PEKIN ROBIN NOT SINGING (W. Connolly).—Re food, you surely cannot have carefully read your "Nutshell"—a recipe for soft-food is given (the food you name is one of those included as advertised in "C.B."); you are told chicken or game meat can be used as one of the ingredients, and I really have nothing more to add to what I have stated there—a very varied dietary is given, and if you follow the directions given your birds should do well. Again, it is not a case of how much, but a case of noticing what quantity your birds consume, and mixing accordingly,—as regards bought mixtures, it is best either to use these according to the maker's directions or mix your own—do not neglect fruit. The birds would be better in separate cages, and in separate rooms; they should sing well as the bright weather appears, but there is much variableness in the merit and capacity of individual birds; a roomy cage, a varied dietary (see your "Nutshell"), and an occasional fly round the room, will keep your birds healthy and happy, and they should sing.

ST. HELENA WAXBILLS (C. H. Higgs).—You should get our "Nutshell," No. 20, it would help you greatly. The staple seed mixture should consist of canary seed (not giant), white and Indian millet in equal parts, also a millet spray given once a week (or oftener) as a change. Green food, such as lettuce, flowering or seed grass, groundsel heads, etc., should be regularly supplied. This charming species has been bred several times in a cage. Hang up a coco-nut shell nest at one end of the cage, and a rush nest at the other, and supply a little hay and moss (a canary nest bag will do) as building material. The cage should be a roomy one, and should have a twiggy branch fixed at each end to give the bird perching accommodation. You might give a little lightly moistened sponge cake and soft-food when they are feeding young. The "Nutshell" will give you the fullest details, much more than is possible in this column.

FOREIGN BIRD QUERISTS

should consult Page's "Foreign Birds for Beginners" (1/1½); Arthur's "Budgerigars and Cockatiels" (6d.); Arthur's "Parrots for Pleasure and Profit" (7d.); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 14 "Gouldian Finches," No. 16 "Avadavats," No. 17 "The Grey Parrot," No. 18 "Budgerigars," No. 19 "The Pekin Robin," No. 20 "Waxbills." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet St., London, E.C.

SMALL AVIARY FOR BUDGERIGARS (E. Kenrick).—It is none too large, and does not allow much wing exercise, but you could keep two pairs therein. The bars are, of course, too wide apart, but it will be a very simple matter to fasten ½in. mesh netting over the bars: this is necessary, even for larger birds, as if they have space to put their heads through the bars, it is not bird keeping, but providing meals for stray cats. A pair of Black-cheeked Lovebirds would also do well in the cage, not with the Budgerigars, but to have the cage to themselves. To prevent the birds being scared at night, it would be well to either hang a curtain over the front of the aviary, or make a wood and glass shutter for same. "Nutshell" No. 18 will give you fullest details as to treatment, etc. In future you must enclose your address, or a reply cannot be given—see rules.

BIRDS FOR SMALL AVIARY (S. Price, junr.).—If your aviary is an outdoor one, being only 2ft. deep, I should advise a curtain, or a wood and glass shutter being fastened across the front at night, to prevent stray cats scaring the birds. The "Nutshell" you ordered will suffice for food treatment, as it will cover the needs of all those named below, even though their names are not in the booklet. Cover the back of the aviary with twiggy branches, and on the wall or back hang a number of rush nests, coco-nut shell nests, and one or two of the Hartz travelling cages, with the fittings and perches removed, and two bars cut away for entrance hole; supply hay, grass, and a little moss for nesting material. You could get pairs of the following:—Zebra Finches, Silverbills, Bib Finches, Gold-breasted Waxbills, Bengalese, Spice Finches, and St. Helena Waxbills. Price 2s. 6d. to 7s. 6d. per pair.

INDIAN RINGNECK (E.K., Ringneck).—There are, of course, individuals with every species that do not make talkers; it seems to me, however, a pity to put on one side a bird which is now established and which certainly should talk, especially as it is still quite a young bird. I should say, try it, even for another year; there can be no settled system in training it; winning its confidence is the first step; be quiet and steady when attending it, never do this in sufficient haste to cause hasty movements; offer it its favourite fruit, etc., between your fingers, and talk softly and gently to it while it is nibbling at it; you must persevere with this, and it should ultimately respond and become attached to you, and when perhaps you least expect it, surprise you with some uttered word, then it will soon learn more. If it takes plenty of fruit, vegetables or green food are unimportant.

BUDGERIGARS (D. Barton).—(1) The regular period is spring, summer, and early autumn, but once fairly started they often breed all the year round, only stopping for the moult. (2) By waiting till they are old enough for the colours of the cere to become distinct. (3) A breeding cage of the size given in "Nutshell" No. 18, and a roomy flight cage for the young birds as soon as they are able to fend for themselves. (4) Yes, in such an aviary you could have 3 or 4 pairs, but it is better to remove the young before they get too numerous, or they interefere to some extent with the nesting arrangements of the adult birds, but do not remove them till you have observed them cracking seed freely for themselves and eating heartily unaided by their parents.

CAPE DOVES (Hoopoe).—(1) Give this bird a drinking vessel holding little more than the bird is in the habit of drinking in a day, or even if it does not hold sufficient it can easily be refilled, but a glass or china vessel holding two or three tablespoonfuls should be ample: put into the drinking water half a teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates daily for a month at least, and feed it principally on canary and white millet seed for a time; keep grit sprinkled over the floor of cage or aviary. It is no use attempting to mate it while it is weak. The element of chance is a very large factor in crossing species, but a union with the Passerine is not improbable. (2) White Bengalese were fairly numerous some years ago. I saw a pair about two years ago, and it is very probable that some are in English aviaries to-day. You should be able to get a pair without much difficulty from some Continental dealer.

GREEN INDIAN PARROT (H.W.E.).—It should ultimately talk, and you should persevere with it. In addition to the seed mixture, it should get ripe fruit, green food, and dry biscuit daily; also have continual access to grit, cuttlebone, and water. A good seed mixture is as follows: One quart each canary and white millet seeds, one pint each oats and hemp, half a pint each small maize, paddy rice, and sunflower seeds—well mix and keep a supply in the cage. Nuts can be given occasionally. So long as the voidings are not watery, put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water every fourth day, if there are any signs of diarrhoea only give the magnesia once a week; when not giving the magnesia, put half a teaspoonful of byno-phosphates in the water. If the bird will let you handle it, moisten the scaly skin with tepid water, dab dry with a soft cloth, and then anoint with a little clean vaseline, but you must not use sufficient to run amongst and grease its plumage. Continue the above for a month, and then report progress.

WHAT BIRD? ETC. (H.B.B.).—If your bird is exactly like bird on our plate, it is some species of Serin, most probably a Green Singing Finch (Serinus icterus), or the St. Helena Seed-eater (Serinus flaviventris), the former about the size of a Siskin, the latter as large as a small Canary. The plumage of both species is olive green above, variegated with darker olive, with eye streaks, upper tail, coverts, and under surface bright yellow. The sexes are similar; the males I always fancied to be a wee bit larger, more slender, and a little more intense in colour, providing the age of the respective birds was about equal. The cocks of both species have nice sustained songs, of the Canary type, but are not so "shrieky" as the domesticated Canary. They would do well let loose in your attic with the Javas and Cutthroats, and would be more likely to breed under such conditions, but though crosses have been reared between both species and the Canary, these two species have proved rather shy breeders in captivity.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

GENERAL.

Answered by The Editor.

J. P. Stanley, W. R. Temple.—Your letters have duly been forwarded.

W. T. Manning.—Don't you think it would be fairer and more sportsmanlike to wait and see what explanation is given, before accusing people of not running on "Straight lines"? It does not say much for your sense of justice that you should wish to make public such a charge without first hearing the other side of the case.

W. C. T.—Certainly; only pressure of other matter has kept it out.

W. R. Pike.—Many thanks; but did you not see the full report of the case in last week's issue?

O. T. STONE.—We will give our consideration to your kind suggestion.

O. T. Stowe.—This notion has been frequently exploited by exhibitors. We are afraid, however, that only a very small minority of bird-keepers have the skill to paint "Scotch scenery, bubbling brooks, riversides," etc., on the backs of their cages.

New Reader.—Your reading of the Act is quite correct, but it has been held that the wording does not permit the owner of the land, or occupier, or privileged agent, to remove the birds when caught. The moment you step off the land in question you are "in possession" of protected birds "recently killed or taken"—see?—and can be summoned for this infraction of the law. Any birds not included in the extension of the schedule as applied to Middlesex can, of course, be caught during the open season. You must not forget, however, that certain portions of Middlesex are part of the County of London, wherein all birds are protected. We think you are in error in including the Yellowhammer among unprotected species.

CHESTER C.B.S.

Pair show held headquarters, Jan. 26. There was a splendid entry of 103 birds, and some splendid quality. Our friends from Harwarden district supported the show splendidly. British also had a fine entry. Messrs. F. C. Parker, J. Swindley, and T. Gardner judged, and all appeared satisfied.

IDLE AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

This newly-formed society is making good headway, and already has secured a membership of twenty-six. Mr. C. A. House has consented to accept the presidency. On Feb. 26 the members sat down to a dinner, generously provided by Mr. Dan Best, the host of the White Bear Inn, which is the society's headquarters. The chair was occupied by the president, who, in giving the toast, "The Idle and Dis. C.B.S.," spoke of past history of the Yorkshire Fancy, and societies in Idle. He congratulated the members on the good start which they had made, and promised to assist them in promoting the welfare of the society to the fullest extent of his power. Mr. House proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Dan Best for his kindness. Mr. Chippendale, who seconded, said that Mr. Best had given them a good spread that night, and had placed at their disposal the large club room, at anytime, for holding a members' show. In reply, Mr. Best assured the members that his heart was with them, and if they pulled together he would do all he could to help them. During the evening Mr. Winterburn gave two clog dances, and songs were rendered by Messrs. Dennison, Smith, Britain, Burns, and Winterburn. Mr. "Willie" Chadwick, the well-known pianist, made a most able accompanist. The enjoyable evening ended with votes of thanks to the chair and artistes.

Singing Contests.

DURHAM.

Linnet sing, held at Anchor Inn, New Elvet, Feb. 22, 34 birds entered. After some good singing a division was made between Thompson, Franks, and Briggs. Mr. Wm. Fairless judged, and gave every satisfaction.—Wm. Fairless, Sec.

LANGLEY MOOR.

A Linnet sing was held at Victoria Inn, Langley Moor, March 1st. 36 birds entered for three good prizes, and some good singing was heard. 1, Brady; 2, Boyd; 3, Martin. Next contest at above house, March 8; 10s. added to all entrance. R. Purdy, judge.—W. Fairless, Sec.

CASTLEFORD.

Linnet contest, held March 1, 39 birds entered in a 4-minutes time sing, 5sec. a break, and some very good time was done. W. Nelson, Castleford, took all 3 prizes, scores 114, 95, 91. Also March 2, 26 birds entered in a 3-minutes time sing. 1, 2, Smith, 96 and 88; 3, W. Nelson, 52.—Walter Dobson.

LEEDS.

Weekly Linnet singing for quality held at Skinners' Arms, Buslingthorpe Lane, March 1, 19 birds sung for three good prizes, given by Mr. A. Fishwick, and some very good singing was heard before a crowded house. 1, Ward; 2, Towers; 3, Sellers. Judges, Clayton and H. Hayes. Also March 2, 18 birds sung for three good prizes, given by Mr. Fishwick, when some extraordinary good singing was heard, to the enjoyment of a packed house from all parts of Yorkshire. 1, 3, Ward; 2, Sellers. Judges, T. C. Summers and J. Granger.—T. C. Summers, Hon. Sec.

Open Contest for quality Linnet singing, held at Old Bird House, King's Head, Shannon Street, March 1, when 18 birds sung for three good prizes, given by Mr. Wm. Tillotson. 1, Wigfield; 2, Butler; 3, Madden. Judges, Lacey, Naylor. Also March 2, 29 birds sung for four good prizes. 1, Hollingworth; 2, Butler; 3, Stead; 4, Butler. Judges, S. Hardcastle, Naylor, Lacy.—Walter Naylor, Hon. Sec.

Weekly contest for quality singing Linnets was held at Prince Albert Hotel, Newtown, March 2nd, when 25 birds sang for four good prizes. 1, Towers; 2, Chippendale; 3, Bangfield; 4, Lorriman. Judges, Messrs. N. Soloman, and A. Turner. There followed another exciting contest with the entry of eight birds, when J. Chippendale came out the winner.—A. Lorriman.

KIPPAX.

Members' sing held at headquarters, Commercial Hotel, Mar. 1, when 27 birds faced the board, and some good singing was heard. 1, Tomlin; 2, Collison; 3, Moulding. Monthly meeting held after sing, when we decided to have another open sing March 8. We also intend holding one on Easter Monday. Full particulars next week.—A. Tomlin, Sec.

LEIGH.

Globe Inn Linnet Club held a contest March 1, for time and quality; 63 birds sang for eight good prizes. Winners for quality: 1, Statham; 2, Brown; 3, Holcroft; 4, Cain. Time: 1, Fairhurst (134); 2, Hickman (111); 3, Poole (110); 4, Fairhurst (101). Judges for quality: W. Barnes, W. Sissons, J. W. Jones. Timers: R. Statham, R. Disley; tappers, H. Poole, R. Holcroft; minute man, J. Caswell; birdman, H. Fairhurst. Leeds fanciers sent to say that five or six were coming, but only one came, Mr. Sissons. We shall always welcome anyone from Leeds.—R. Holcroft, Sec.

PONTEFRACT.

Another splendid week-end singing was heard at Woodman Inn. The Pontefract bird lovers seem to enjoy trying to make big breaks and scores. On March 1 we had close on 40 birds to sing for four good prizes, and some very good contests were got through. 1, Piper, 128; 2, 3, Nelson, 124 and 92; 4, Caddy, 79. On Mar. 2 four prizes were sung for. Winners: Piper 73, Nelson 71 and 67, Caddy 55. Next general meeting is March 9. All intending members are invited to attend this meeting. Something extra for Easter contests.—W. Beard, Hon. Sec.

Siskins Absent from the Palace Show.

Sir,—I entered two Siskins at the late Palace show, but did not send, owing to them having missing plumage. I received a catalogue from the Palace show, and was surprised not to find my birds marked "absent," seeing that birds were marked absent which were entered by other exhibitors, and not sent. W. Fairhurst.

[Unless the judges mark the numbers of the absent birds on their judging slips, nothing appears in the catalogue concerning them.—Editor.]

A Suggested Southern Border Fancy C.C.

Sir,—I was very pleased to read the suggestion of Mr. Moore, re the proposed Southern Border Fancy Club. I think it would be a step in the right direction, seeing that the Border Fancy is now so popular in the southern district. I myself cannot put this beautiful little bird on one side, as I consider is one of the best birds bred to the standard type to-day. I feel I am bound to welcome the Border Fancy, along with my old favourites the Norwich Plainheads, after having had a few years' rest. G. Gwilliam.

Late Entries at Palace Show.

Sir,—Mr. Godley is in error in stating that I interfered with entries. I did my utmost for exhibitors, but after the catalogue was numbered I could not accept entries from anyone. I cannot admit the accuracy of Mr. Godley's statements re other exhibitors, as they do not agree with my books. I adhere to my previous statement, and I call upon your representative to state in a footnote whether he found the catalogue numbered throughout in numerical order when he called on the Tuesday (28th) and, after comparing his notes with the catalogne, whether I accepted further entries?

J. W. Ramsden.

[It is only fair to Mr. Ramsden to comply with his request, and we therefore endorse his statement—that the copy for the catalogue was complete and ready for the printers, with all entries numbered (by machine) in strict order, when our representative called on Mr. Ramsden on Jan. 28th for particulars of the entry. It is quite clear that no entries were accepted after particulars were given us. Mr. Godley's entries were received by the last post on the Tuesday night as our representative was leaving after all our notes had been taken, and after the numbered copy for the catalogues was complete for the printers, and Mr. Ramsden expressed to our representative his regret that no course was open to him except to return them.—Editor.]

The Southern Norwich Plainhead Club's £10 10s. Cup.

Sir,—I would point out to Mr. Baker that I was not present at the S.N.P.C. annual meeting held at the Palace in February, 1909. And I have no desire to obtain cheap legal advice through Mr. Baker, neither do I want any information from himself or the secretary as to what is the position of the £10 10s. cup; but I think it is only fair that all members of the S.N.P.C. should know the position, and as Mr. Baker has declined to give this information through Cage Birds, with your permission I will try to enlighten them. Now in the season 1908-9, the S.N.P.C. offered the £10 10s. cup in question to be competed for at six shows, and these are the conditions printed in the S.N.P.C. Rule Book for that season: "Ten Guinea Silver Challenge Cup to be won three times, for most points each season, not necessarily in succession." Now five of these shows were held, one in October, three in November, and one in December, 1908. The sixth and last show for the season was held at the Crystal Palace, Feb. 5th, 1909. In this Palace schedule for the first time appeared this byelaw for £10 10s cup: "Any number of entries can be made, but only highest bird in each class to count." I don't object to this byelaw governing the Palace Show, but I do object to this byelaw governing the five shows held prior to this byelaw being published. Below I give the points position made by the five leading competitors. List No. 1 is as they stood at the end of the five shows under the conditions printed in the S.N.P.C. rule books for 1908-9. List No. 2 is at the end of the six shows, and counting as per byelaw for this show. List No. 1 (5 shows) Gill and Pethick, 152 points; Rennie, 140; Hodder, 130; Baker, 97; Midgley, 93. List No. 2 (6 shows): Gill and Pethick, 157 points; Rennie, 154; Hodder, 145; Baker, 117; Midgley, 108. We, Gill and Pethick, also won the £10 10s. cup in 1909-10, and again in 1910-11. I think this will make clear to every one the true position of the £10 10s. cup. Now I would ask Mr. Baker were not the rules governing the cup in 1908-9 as binding as they were in 1912-13, and which of the five competitors named wins the cup, according to the conditions published for the season 1908-9? I also enclose the S.N.P.C. Rule Books for 1908 and 1909, so that you, Mr Editor, can see that what I have said about the rules is correct. S. Gill.

The Alleged Stained Bullfinch at Bathgate Show.

Sir,—I received a letter from the Bathgate secretary last Friday with particulars re disqualification of Bullfinch in 7s. 6d. selling class at Bathgate show. I have enclosed you the letter, also the wadding used. I would like your opinion whether you think this wadding is stained sufficiently to disqualify any bird. The judge undoubtedly could not remove anything, so he had to get a chemist to perform the deed, and I think the chemicals used could colour the enclosed wadding as much as it is. I would like the British Bird and Mule Club to put the bird to a proper test and sift this matter out. I am writing the secretary. I may say the bird has never been hand-washed and was hand-reared and has been in an outdoor aviary. I could take as much colour as the wadding produces from any bird after it has been washed one week. I think this disqualification very unjust, as all the open classes had been judged, and I was within twelve points of winning the cup and gold medal and other specials, and had five good birds to be judged in selling class. I could sell them for double as much, but I put them in for the cup. Kindly send back wadding and letter when satisfied. R. D. Parlett.

(Copy of letter from Bathgate Secretary to Mr. Parlett.)

Dear Sir,—I am sorry that I have not had time to write you sooner, giving you particulars re disqualification. In the first place I may tell you that Mr. J. Brown was unable to take up the duties of judge at our show owing to illness, but we secured the services of Mr. Louis J. Arrigi (Edinburgh) to take up the duty, and it was after he had taken the bird from the cage and tested it and taken colouring matter from it in the presence of several witnesses, assisted by a local chemist, and disqualified your other exhibits from competition, that I wired you the result, and I may tell you that I am very sorry that such a thing happened at our show. I enclose you a piece of the wad used, and our president, Mr. R. Bald, has the Bullfinch in his possession.—I am, yours respectfully, Alexr. Nicol.

[We are not able to accede to Mr. Parlett's request, as we take the view that it does not come within our province. If the National British Bird and Mule Club deal with the matter, they will no doubt hear both sides of the case, and we shall be pleased to publish their decision, if they come to one.—Editor.]

The Shows in Ireland.

Sir,—I was agreeably surprised to see a letter from Mr. J. Dunwoody, the hon. sec. of Holywood C.B.S., in your last issue. He might keep cool and debate the points raised by Mr. Morgan and myself. In my first letter I said Holywood seemed to be asleep as regards fixing the date of their show. As it is not yet advertised, my statement is proved correct. Then I suggested that Holywood fanciers should support more than their own show. Mr. D. leaves this point severely alone. Is it not true that certain of their most prominent cup winners did not exhibit a bird outside Holywood all last show season? Then every member of Holywood C.B.S. exhibits in the members' classes at their own show—not a single entry from one of them in open and novice classes. That is what I complain of and what Mr. D. terms "mud slinging." Then again, Mr. D. ignores Mr. Morgan's letters, which is surely proof that the officials of the Holywood C.B.S. are to blame for the delay in the return of his birds from their show. You say, Mr. D., that all my remarks are grossly inaccurate; if so, correct me, and I will apologise.

"Wide Awake."

Sir,—I see by your list of show fixtures that that young go-ahead society (South Co. Dublin C.B.S.) have fixed their show date for Nov. 26 and 27 (Wednesday and Thursday). This I call good business on their part in meeting the wishes of the majority of Irish exhibitors. I believe in mid-week shows so as to prevent exhibits lying at stations over Sundays. One thing, exhibitors will have to do, and that is, send their entries in time. Some make a practice of sending on the Saturday or Sunday previous to the show. This will not do. I would suggest entries close on Nov. 18; this would give ample time to have catalogue printed. On their first show, I must say that I got a great surprise at the fine hall. Further, it is close to the railway station (you only have to cross the road) which is a great advantage. This society paid out prize-money within one week, although they lost. I call them true fanciers, and hope they will have a record show. Dublin Exhibitor.

A Good and Cheap Lark Food.

Sir,—I notice that Mr. D. Mahoney is enquiring re Lark food. If Mr. Mahoney is troubled about making food for Larks, and will write me I will gladly give him particulars of how to make a good and cheap food. I have kept Larks both for show and song for twenty years and have had little trouble through the food.

The Keeping and Feeding of Goldfinches.

Sir,—I notice in a recent issue of Cage Birds that one of your correspondents finds it difficult to keep Goldfinches in good health, and is asking for a little advice. I for one find no difficulty in the matter, although, as our friend states, Goldfinches, when fresh caught, if not looked after, will often go thin and die. This I put down to chronic indigestion; therefore the bird needs something to digest its food. I have a Goldfinch now which I have had for six years; it began going thin about two months after it was caught, but, thanks to Cage Birds I saw in it the following advice:—Go to the chemist and get 1oz. tincture of rhubarb, 1oz. tincture of gentian, put half a teaspoonful in two tablespoons of water. If your correspondent will do likewise, and give it to the birds as soon as he sees anything wrong, it will soon pull them round. With regard to feeding, I find that Goldfinches keep in good health on the following: Hemp, teazle, niger, with a little flax; I give no canary. Trusting this may be of some use to your readers, and wishing Cage Birds every success.

F. Pratley.

Sir,—I do not claim to be an expert, but have kept Goldies many years. I have one now eight years old. I feed on canary and teazle mixed, and hemp in a separate feeder, the bird having as much hemp as he likes. Goldfinches are bred in aviaries in Spain, and they are fed principally on canary seed. It takes quite a long time to get them to eat hemp. When I get Goldies I like to have fresh caught Greypates. When they arrive I give them 5 or 6 drops of tincture of quinine in two tablespoonfuls of water, and if the weather is wet give them damp and dry food separately. I always use glass drinkers; undoubtedly the zinc drinkers have had a good deal to do with the trouble experienced by "A Goldfinch Fancier." After water has stood in a zinc vessel for a few hours a film can be seen on top of the water, and this is sure to poison the birds. Linseed should be used very sparingly, and inga (otherwise niger) entirely avoided. Maw seed should be used as a tonic or pick-me-up when a bird is a bit soft or has had diarrhoea. I also give sweet apple and thistle heads when obtainable. Goldies also like small green caterpillars when they can be got. My old Goldie will take them from my finger. Don't forget the daily bath. Nosirromwa.

Sir,—A correspondent is asking for a little advice re the keeping, etc., of Goldfinches, and I hope these few lines will be of some little use to him and maybe a few others. In the first place, I should like to say how I feed mine—equal parts niger, teazle, hemp, linseed, canary, and a packet of mixed wild seeds.; the usual tit-bits, thistle, dandelion, maw and gold of pleasure, and a few plantain stalks daily, and a couple of hardheads and thistle heads. But the latter are rather inclined to blow about (one is apt to stir up trouble if the down reaches the drawing-room) but if a bird-room is in use all's well. I give mine green food about three times a week, a piece of ripe apple is also greatly relished; and egg food twice per week. During the cold and inclement weather I also give a few cracked sunflower seeds daily. Mine are kept in a cold room, and sing from morning till night. I keep the Goldfinches and Canaries which I breed with in large double-compartment breeding cages all the season. In treating fresh caught birds one has to consider the nature of the weather and the general condition of their food previous to being caught. As this has been such a wet season, naturally they have had plenty of green food and other various damp foods. Offer when first caged soaked German rape and a little teazle; feed fairly liberally with bruised hemp and a supply of niger; green food every day—watercress if none other available. At first signs of any trouble offer egg-food; this is a most important item of Goldie's menu, and greatly relished; also offer about three or four cracked sunflower seeds daily. With reference to feeding entirely on canary seed, it is out of all reason. We are told that to keep our pets healthy and make them as happy as possible under the circumstances, we must keep and treat them as near to their natural surroundings as possible—hence the variety of their food, etc. How much canary seed do they get in their natural state? This needs no further comment. With regard to the zinc drinkers, I use about 1 dozen, and providing they are kept quite clean, and scalded at least once per week, I do not think they are harmful. In any case they are far preferable to the tin drinkers, which, to my mind, are enough to poison anything. In conclusion, don't forget Goldie's grit and a piece of cuttlebone. Hang it up with a piece of wire (he will make short work of string). He is very particular about his appearance, so don't forget his bath, weather permitting, if in a cold room. Above all, see that all his food is of the very best, especially the hemp. I know of an instance where a Goldfinch was kept on hemp alone for a good number of years. I have about 100 birds, including Canaries, but owing to Goldie's pleasing, confiding and intelligent nature he is the ideal pet. H. E. Smith.

Short Entries at Scottish Shows

Are "Clique" Judges to Blame?

Sir,—I would like to take note of some of the items in Mr. Logan's last letter. First: He mentions in passing that the Fancy in his district is greatly interested in mud-throwing at "Plainhead" and in "Plainhead's" twaddle. I don't think it would interest any right-minded fancier. Second: "As I have said before, a great deal of good will result from the correspondence." I can't see myself what good it will do to the Border Fancy in general. I asked Mr. Logan how to stop "clique" judging; he has never mentioned one item on the point. Third: "I appeal to young fanciers to stick to their hobby." What encouragement has he to put forward to young fanciers? I think it is L s. d. every time, not a hobby. I think if he wishes to do any good to the Fancy he should show up the "clique" to the Fancy at large. He needn't be afraid; the truth stands for itself. I was once threatened with law by a Dysart fancier, but it has never come off. I am done with "Mr. Someone told Mr. Somebody," which is no good to Mr. Nobody.

Wm. M. Hastings.

Sir,—Your correspondent, "Plainhead," I think is now hitting below the belt, as he refers to me ("Disgusted") trying to imitate the different makes of cages, also spars and drinkers, etc. Can he tell me of one single show where this occurred? I say it is a falsehood. "Plainhead" is also doubtful of the test I mentioned in my last letter—the "Little Gem" the test was made with came from the place where "Plainhead," got some of his National and Palace winners. The "Little Gem" I refer to has been about a dozen times under this particular judge, and never been out of the tickets; being in the wrong cage this time, I am of the opinion it might have been crossing its wings or dropping its tail! I heard lately of one of the "clique" judging one of the "clique's" gems. It misbehaved itself, its music being too high for the spectators, so the judge had to disqualify it. Naughty little creature! "Plainhead" states I may yet see it is better to have better birds and a uniform cage. I can see birds exhibited away from the "clique" with different results, under judges with more experience than any in the "clique." I only hope "Plainhead" will assist in getting a uniform cage adopted, which would mean different results and more interest in the hobby. Some exhibitors seem to be asleep on this subject—wake up! Disgusted.

Sir,—I have read a good few letters on the above subject, and truth to tell there is more mud-throwing than anything else in the most of them. While reading the letter of Mr. Hastings last week, I took particular notice of one part of it. He blames the committees for putting on the wrong man for secretary, etc. He says, "You must get a man with good business ability and tact, and one who commands the confidence of the Fancy." I expect that every fancier agrees with him on that point. But what if the man with the ability, etc., you speak of, Mr. H., won't come forward and give his services? Why is it, Mr. Hastings, seeing you have had lots of experience as a show secretary, and are a business man at that, that you won't come forward and assist the Arbroath Society at the present time? We are doing our best to get up a strong society, but as far as I know you won't even become a member. No doubt you felt displeased last year at the attempt made to get up a show (and there were more like you). But that is no reason why the society with a new set of officials should not go ahead this year. We have made a good start. At any rate, I think, Mr. H., you would do far more good if you would join our society, and give us the benefit of your experience, than ever you will do by sending such letters to the papers. Our secretary will do his best, and he can do no more, and that is better than the man who has the experience and won't oblige. Another Arbroath Fancier.

A Roller Singing Society for Walkden.

Sir,—A very successful meeting was held at the Stocks Hotel, on Feb. 24. The next meeting will be held March 11, when officers and committee will be elected, and we have every prospect of a very good society. All fanciers wishing to join should send in names and addresses to Canaries and Mules in the Same Clutch of Eggs.

Sir,—I have been a reader of your valuable paper ever since I knew it existed, that is many years now. I have had a new experience this last year (1912), which may be of interest to fellow readers. I had two Canaries and two Goldfinch Mules off the same hen in the same nest. I was telling some fanciers in the Glasgow market about it, and one of them doubted my statement. As he is a very old Mule breeder, I wondered that it had never happened with him (James Lawrie, of Govan). The true facts of the case are these: I had a pair of Plainheads together, and, three or four days before the hen laid, I took out the buff cock, and run in the Goldfinch, putting the Canary cock in a single cage where the hen could see him. I did not remove the eggs, and I keep the door of my bird room locked unless I am there, so there could be no mistake.

An Automatic Fountain and How it Works.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. J. H. Miller's enquiry respecting an automatic fountain for his aviary, he cannot do better than adopt the plan which I adopted 3 months ago. He can easily make it himself, or a plumber will fix it with very little expense. The water supply must be kept up by a tank or barrel fixed about 6 or 8 feet above the fountain, or, preferably, by a connection to the water main as in my case. The appliance ought to be so arranged that the dish is automatically emptied and filled. This can only be done successfully by means of a syphon communicating with the drain. The spray can be formed by a short piece of lead pipe soldered to a regulating tap at the end of the supply pipe. The lead pipe to be punctured with a medium-sized darning needle, making as many punctures as necessary round the pipe, the end to be closed up. The basin of the fountain should be filled with stones to within a couple of inches of the rim, so that there is never any considerable depth of water. The syphon should be so fixed that as soon as the water rises up within an inch of the top of the dish, it begins to act and runs off all the water in a short time, when the air enters the syphon and stops the action; then the dish begins to fill again in more or less time, according to the number of holes in the lead pipe. It is a treat to see a bird having a shower under such a spray. I hope the above will be of interest to Mr. Miller and your many readers.

Catching Birds at Night.

Sir,—In answer to query as to hedge netting birds, a pair of bat folding nets must be used. Two persons go along a hedge, one on each side. If Linnets are wanted they are generally to be found in brambles, laurels, yew bushes, shrubs, ivy, etc. Go on the darkest nights possible, one holds the net while the other strikes the hedge with a long stick, as if a short stick is used it frightens the birds upwards. The poles for the net should be 20ft. long and when finished about 8ft. across the bows. Poles are better for being in one piece bent over, instead of L shaped with iron corners. Those hedges that have their ends to the wind will hold the majority of birds. Some people make a pocket at the bottom of the net, but they generally get mixed up enough without. Let the netting meet the wind as much as possible, so that the birds do not hear you coming. Don't try to net under trees, or, in the dark, if so you will get your net fast. I never use a light unless for Bullfinches or Greenfinches, that are inclined to stick to the hedge; then the beater may strike a match, for if you can't get birds out of hedge by beating, a match will cause a stampede away from the light. If the nets are high enough and the pole long enough (as Linnets are inclined to rise) he should catch plenty of Linnets. You very rarely get a Goldfinch in a hedge-net, I never have done, but you will get nearly everything else. I should be pleased if any of your readers can tell me where to get 20 to 25 foot bamboo poles, and price of same per dozen. I can get them now, but I consider them rather expensive at the price I am at present giving. If at any time I can tell your readers anything of use to them in catching by hedge nets, clap nets, spring nets, or any other kind of trapping, I shall be willing to do so.

PROPOSED BIRD TRADERS' PROTECTION ASSOCIATION

A Fighting Appeal from Mr. T. R. Trower.

Sir,—I thank you for your kind remarks in connection with the work I did in helping to found the old "Bird Dealers' Protection Association" about 1902. Well, it died a natural death after a few months of a very promising career. The principal cause was the apathy and neglect of those for whose benefit it was initiated. Another: Some loyally observed the existing bird laws regarding the close season, but of others the same could not be said. We had a splendid opening meeting at the Old Blue Anchor in Shoreditch; some hundreds attended, but when I look back and remember the utter lack of support from those who get their living by selling birds, bird foods, and appliances in connection therewith, I confess I have not courage enough to attempt to found another; perhaps others may have more pluck left. I still have the old books and papers by me. We even had our own journal, and printed instructions were sent out to each member; the latter would need little alteration even to-day. There is now Cage Birds League, also the National British Bird and Mule Club Birdkeepers' Protection Association recently formed. Both these are for the benefit of the birdkeeper, dealer, or food provider. If they mean business and want protection, they should join in thousands. I ask plainly, have they got pluck enough to spend a shilling or two a year in supporting their hobby or business? I need only refer your readers to a letter written by me and published in your journal of Nov. 19, 1910. You could almost write the same to-day, because since then we have had the "Cruelty to Animals Act" further strengthened by the "Protection of Animals Act, 1911." The first section, clause A, carries the whole text concerning the recent prosecutions of bird-dealers. I cite it in full:—

1. (1) If any person

a "Shall cruelly beat, kick, ill-treat, over-ride, over-load, torture, infuriate, or terrify any animal, or shall cause or procure, or, being the owner, permit any animal to be so used, or shall by wantonly or unreasonably doing or omitting to do any act, or causing or procuring the commission or omission of any act, cause any unnecessary suffering, or being the owner, permit any unnecessary suffering to be so caused to any animal, etc., etc."

A copy of this Act of Parliament "Protection of Animals Act, August 18th, 1911, also the Amending Act, 13th December, 1912, can be obtained for twopence from Messrs. Wyman and Sons, Fetter Lane, or can be got through any bookseller. Every dealer should get a copy and read it.

Our Opponents' Powerful Weapon.

The clause quoted above is a most elastic one, and puts a most powerful weapon in the hands of our opponents. When a person is summoned for an offence, a conviction is pretty well certain to follow, if the information on which the summons is issued is supported by evidence before the magistrate. In recent cases the Society has taken care to do so by calling its own veterinary to support the officer's statement. The only chance is having the case carefully and properly defended, and where this has been done the society has invariably lost. Dealers should take care that in any purchases or seizures of birds and animals, the condition of the birds or animals should be immediately verified by a police constable, called by the owner. In addition, the animals should be as soon as possible examined by a veterinary surgeon, for and on behalf of the owner, even if it has been deemed necessary to destroy them. Names and addresses of all witnesses should also be taken with a statement of the actual facts and conditions of the stock and premises at the time of the alleged offence. Then immediate legal advice should be obtained, and the defence properly organised and conducted. Cage Birds League and the N.B.B. and M. Club Protection Association know of two or three good London solicitors, who thoroughly understand this business. We have not done with these prosecutions. The need for banding together to properly fight each one is stronger than ever. Will every bird-dealer, bird-keeper, or seed-dealer, help and assist? Or is this only a small explosion to be forgotten, when the smoke drifts away? If so, one day the big catastrophe will come, and no wild birds will be allowed to be kept in cages.

The R.S.P.C.A. exists by getting convictions. It is its business, and it and its officers would cease to exist if they failed to do this. They very seldom caution. Why not? Why should they not warn the shopkeeper if they think he is keeping his birds in a dirty state? They are supported by a very wealthy and influential set of patrons, and plenty of money to back up their work. When they have a genuine case of cruelty in the bird world, I am sure that they would have the heartiest support of Cage Birds and its readers, but one main feature of all these prosecutions is, as they have plainly told us, to put down what they call "The Cruel Practice of Keeping Birds in Cages." Now you keepers of birds, will you fight and uphold your interesting and valuable hobby? Are you men and women, English people? Are you going to be down trodden and have your shows destroyed, because certain faddists choose to call your innocent and enlightened hobby cruel? I am afraid I have encroached upon valuable space too much, but a few words more to the dealers. Will the bird-dealers strive to keep their shops in a "model state," birds and animals well cared for, well cleaned, and well fed? Will they keep a good supply of food, birds, and cages for their customers to select from? With cleanliness and civility their shop should be meeting places for fanciers and bird-keepers. There is plenty of business to be done, giving a good return for time and capital for those that do this. Many who are doing it find it pays. It avoids trouble, and brings credit to themselves. Others still linger along in that old don't care sort of style. Well, I ask them all, take these words carefully to heart and make their shops and business something to be proud of. I have been thinking for some years of offering some prizes for the best kept bird shop within twelve miles from Charing Cross. I hope to do so this year, and will shortly send you particulars.

T. R. Trower.

Sir,—As the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have to-day agreed to pay Mr. Tresise £3 3s. costs, and have the case dismissed, I thought your readers ought to know on what grounds the summons was issued. Mr. Moxey, the Society's inspector, visited the defendant's shop, and from a shelf at the back took two cages, in which were two sick Greenfinches (not exposed for sale), but being treated for scours. Both cages had fresh seed, sand, and water in them. They were not small back cages, as generally used, but large open show cages. Without permission, the inspector took the two cages into the shop parlour, which he searched for any other birds. Then in the shop, on a shelf, he found a dead cage-moulted Linnet, not in a cage, but which had lain there forgotten. This he called a recently-caught Linnet; of course, this did not have seed, sand, or water. The curious ones are asking why this Society paid £3 3s. costs rather than let the magistrate decide. Some say that after what Mr. Plowden told this inspector last week concerning speaking the truth, there was not much chance of the prosecution succeeding. Certainly it shows the need for the Society to compel these inspectors to speak the truth or take the consequences.

Linnet Singing in Lancashire.

Sir,—In answer to Mr. Harrison's letter I must say that he is right in arranging the fixtures for contests. He was asked by me and Mr. Hickman, the Pendlebury secretary, what dates he would like to have, and he said he did not want any till we met at the Pendlebury contest, Feb. 15. I gave him one of our bills, and he mentioned nothing about the fixtures being altered, so I think that it is his own fault that he has not had a contest before this. I think Mr. Harrison will not forget what I told him at Leigh on Saturday, March 1. There would be no singing at all in Lancashire if all secretaries were so slow; a man should look after his own club's interest.

An Explanation Wanted.

Sir,—I used to be a member of the above club, and last year forwarded my membership fee to the secretary. This was returned me, with a note stating I had been rejected from membership. I immediately wrote the secretary for an explanation, which up till now has not been forthcoming. Now I demand a public explanation from that body.

The Suggested Breeders' Cup for the Southern Norwich P.C.

Sir,—I am greatly in favour of a breeders cup, as I think it will prove an interesting competition. I think Mr. Gill's suggestions are very good, but I should like to add to them, that all birds entered for the cup, or cups, competition be rung with a closed ring, the rings to be supplied to members through Mr. Cole, who will keep a record of the numbers of the rings supplied to members. I have forwarded on to Mr. Cole 5s. towards the cup fund.

J. R. Houghton.

Sir,—It is indeed a pleasure to know that I have both "agreeably surprised" and "amused" Mr. Gill. And I am glad that I put him in a generous frame of mind. He has done the right thing—sent a donation for a new cup, and promised to get other help. Good. But that should not prevent the membership of the S.N.P.C. from understanding the real difference—and it was a vital difference—between Mr. Gill and myself and Mr. Cole. Mr. Gill favoured the proposal to alter the conditions under which the £10 10s. cup had been competed for and won at least twice out of three times by himself and Mr. Baker. Mr. Cole and myself suggested a new cup to be competed for under the new conditions, or some such, advocated by Mr. Gill and Mr. Garland. That is the difference, and I say it is a vital one. Mr. Gill has adopted our suggestion; we have not adopted his. And so he is agreeably surprised and amused. Well, let it be so. As to the conditions to be attached to the new cup, no doubt they will be satisfactorily arranged, and it is quite open to Mr. Gill to make suggestions, which, in turn, should have due weight. Now we have found common ground of action, I may say that I hope to have the pleasure of seeing Mr. Gill hailed as the first winner of this new cup, competed for under conditions after his own heart.

The Proposed New Specialist Club for Ireland.

Sir,—With reference to Mr. Connell's letter, I shall be glad to hear what Mr James Stewart has to impart re cups of the Norwich Club of Ireland. I was sorry that the competition fell through for these cups, and if I remember aright, one of the rules was: "That the Society cannot be dissolved so long as three members resolve to keep it together." If so, I can hardly believe all dropped out but one who now holds the cups. I think the better way would be to call a meeting, and do the best possible to open up the club again. The club should make certain that the birds competing are bred by the exhibitors, and not purchased to win. This would give the novice a chance. Mention was made of the Crest cup failing for want of competition. Of course, that was years ago. At the last Londonderry show there were on view fifty-one Crests and Crest-breds in four classes. Perhaps some of the Derry men would come in and help. I don't see why it shouldn't work, with such present day fanciers as Mrs. W. S. Taylor, Messrs. Thompson, Faith, Stewart, Connell, Forrest, Osborne, Mulligan, Birse, Tighe, Carson, Adams, Neill, and other good Irish fanciers, to keep the flag flying. Mention has been made of Saturday shows. What about Wednesday's half-holiday? Are there not thousands of workers off this day in Dublin and Belfast? Where outside competition is wanted, therefore, shows must cut out Saturdays. With a small entrance of sixpence, working men have not to wait till Saturday to get this. Even then, the birds are seen by gaslight, as most of the workers take some time to dress up and travel to the show. Then what's the saving for holding a Saturday show? No doubt country fanciers are nervous of their birds missing connection on the different railways when they would lie over somewhere on a Sunday. I am glad Mr. Connell is taking up the pen again in a true fancier spirit. Last season witnessed a lot of clashing of Irish shows. There seems a lot of cussedness somewhere. Could these societies not come to some agreement for next season?

GLASGOW AND W. OF SCOTLAND N.M.B. AND F.B.C.

Monthly meeting and matched pair show held in Rooms, 94, West Regent-st., Feb. 25, when a good turn-out of members made the meeting a success. The balance sheet for 1912 was read, and showed a balance on hand of £5 1s. 10d., which was considered very good, after a deficit of a like amount for last year. It was decided to give a silver medal to the best bird at evening shows. Some splendid pairs were forward in show, some Scottish National and Palace winners being present. Mr. Craig, Tollcross, won medal for best pair with a grand pair of Norwich. Mr. W. Hutchison, Glasgow, judged Canaries, and Mr. E. Taylor, Shelteston, the Mule and Hybrid pairs, their awards being well received.

BISHOP AUCKLAND C.B.S.

Members' pair show, held at Y.M.C.A. Rooms, Feb. 26, 1913. Numbers and quality were very high, 47 pairs being staged in five classes with 2s. each special for each class, besides many other valuable specials. The Crest class was worth going a long way to see, the quality was A1, first going to Mr. Hugill's pair, he also won special for most points in show. Yorks were very strong on the male side, but hens were not so good, weediness and roughness in some cases putting them a little below standard. In Norwich quality was great, and the Muling pairs were a fine lot. The society has a fine lot of workers, including a good business secretary in Mr. Elliott. Mr. W. Messenger judged, and gave general satisfaction.

YORKS. (13): 1, sp, Brown, Son, and Hornsby, a right good pair, yell. cock, straight as a rush, good col., well up on leg, in the best possible condition, with a good hen, failing just a little in roughness underneath, otherwise good; 2, Elliott, rattling good pair, beaten a little in size, but all there for quality; 3, Elliott, running the leaders a good race, with one of the best hens in the class; res, Dodds; vhc, Crowther; hc, Foster; c, Button. NOR. (11): 1, sp, Brown, Son, and Hornsby, pair of good ones, yellow cock, massive head and body, short wings and flights, with a right good plump hen, in the best of feather; 2, Burns, evenly matched pair, buff cock, falls short in body and condition to winner, with a right good yellow hen of good size, excellent head and very nice carriage; 3, Elliott, one of the best hens in the class, a big one, but all there for qual. and shape, with good big yell. cock, failing a little in front, but best col. in class; res, Chambers; vhc, Burns; hc, Wilson; c, Elliott. CRESTS, ETC. (13): 1, sp, 4, hc, Hugill; 2, 3, vhc, Richardson; c, Ridley, wonderful lot, not a bad one in the class. MULE or HYB. (11): 1, sp, Hugill, Goldf. and Bullf., Goldie cock, fair size, good blaze, col., and buttons, steady as a rock, in the best of condition, with Bullie hen, also steady, good size, col., and bars, clean cut cap, a right good pair; 2, Wilson, Goldie and Can., biggest in class, steady, good face and buttons, not so well up in condition, with a noble cap mkd. hen, good col., and in the pink; 3, Button, Linnet and Can., big bouncing Linnet, well pencilled, will show up better when more conditioned, grand clear hen, a good pair; res, Chambers; vhc, c, Parnaby; hc, Crowther. A.O.V. (2): 1, sp, 2, Ogden, Bord., sweet and perky, rattling good condition; 2, also Borders, Cinn. ck., pressing winners hard.

KIDWELLY.

After a lapse of six years this Society held a show on March 4, and its members are to be congratulated on the result as the entries came up well, quantity throughout was really first-class, and competition keen. The Town Hall in which the show was held is an exceedingly nice place for a bird show, being roomy, well lighted and free from draughts. The exhibits were nicely staged, and were well looked after by a good Committee of fanciers, headed by Mr. Edmund Cale, Chairman. The Goldfinch class was a grand one, the winner capturing the special for best bird in the show after a tight fight with the Chaffinch of Mr. Jefferys. Special for best members' exhibit went to Mr. Chas. Price with his Missel Thrush. Mr. John Morgan makes an admirable Sec., having everything well in hand, and is most obliging and courteous. The Society is fortunate in having such a worker at the helm. The awards were made by Mr. J. H. Payne, and his decisions were very well received.

WINSFORD C.B.S.

Members' show held March 1 in the Assembly Room adjoining the "Wheatsheaf Hotel." Some 19 classes were made, but three of these had to be cancelled for lack of entries. All the birds staged were of very fine quality and merit. Mr. Tomkinson, the Assistant Secretary, looked after all details ably in the absence of Mr. S. S. Brooks, Sec., who has severe sickness in his family. Mr. Chas. Houlton judged, and his awards were well received.

SOUTH LONDON COL. AND F.A.

Pair show held at Headquarters, the "Royal George," Lewisham, S.E., Feb. 13, and was a record for entries, and easily the best the society has ever held, 84 pairs being staged. Quality also showed a distinct advance, and augurs well for the future. Norwich were truly grand, also the Yorkshires, and the "Wee Gems" were of the highest quality; in fact, every bird staged was a credit to its owner. Special for best pair went to Mr. Hodder for a truly grand pair of Norwich; second, Mr. Lee, yell. ck. and buff hen, and there was not much to choose; sp. for best Nov. Nor. pair was won by Mr. Hodson, for Nov. Yorks., by Mr. Rowson. Best pair Nov. Bord., Mr. Martin. The birds were nicely arranged in double tiers around the large room, and there was a record attendance. The Sec., Mr. G. F. Crawford, had everything nicely in order, and a catalogue of the show was on sale; his assistant, Mr. Coombs, was also most attentive, and nothing was left undone. The President, Mr. G. F. Males, was also present, supported by a strong committee of workers. Mr. J. Robson judged.

RICHMOND (Surrey) C.B.S.

First evening table show, held at the Imperial, Richmond, Feb. 26. The affair proved to be a thoroughly successful and enjoyable one, and that the members have complete confidence in their officials was evidenced by the exceptionally good entry (134). Grand teams, in the pink of condition, were put down. Competition was very keen. We must congratulate Miss Wright on her wins in the British and Yorkshire section, including special for best British. Mr. C. Huxley won special for best Norwich, with a topping cl. yell. Our chairman, Mr. W. Phipps, cleared the decks with his yellow Yorks. cock, 2 specials, best York., and best in show. Mr. Birch, a novice, won special in the pair class for Hybrid breeding. Mr. Lingley took special for best Mule or Hybrid with his unique light Goldfinch Mule. Specials, most entries, W. Nichols, also most points, but one exhibitor being allowed only one point special, the latter was awarded to Mr. Phipps (runner up), 2nd most points, Mr. Harris. Mr. J. C. Shepherd, late Newcastle, judged, and gave general satisfaction, and congratulated the Richmond Society on its officials and magnificent show. Thanks are due to Mr. Denham, hon. sec. of the Metropolitan C.B.S., for his kind assistance, which was appreciated by the committee.

HIRST (Universal) C.B.S.

Nice little show held in the West End Society Club, Ashington, March 1. The Fancy seems to be retaining all its popularity in the Colliery Town, entries coming up well while quality was good, especially in Borders, many of the winners having already held their own in open competition. In Mr. E. Edwards the society has a capable secretary, and everything was well forward. Mr. A. Dippie, Morpeth, judged, and his awards were well received.

The Critique.

NOR. SHOWS: Continued from previous page.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE O.S.

Second of the series of points specials table shows held Feb. 18th, when a record number of Yorks. matched pairs were staged. Remarks were freely heard than at last the Norwich fanciers were eclipsed, not only for quantity but for quality. Judging was undertaken by our old favourite, Mr. J. Sharples, of Oldham, and once more we were indebted to him for his satisfactory awards. His criticism of the winning pairs, and advice regarding the cardless pairs were much appreciated, and were very helpful to the younger fanciers. The following were the successful exhibitors:—YELL. ECCLES C.B.S.

Table show held at head-quarters, Feb. 21, the last show to count for the cup. After a keen fight this was won by Mr. Astley, who, up to this show, was only one point above two other members. Mr. Tims was a good second, with Mr. Peters 3rd. Mr. Harrison, Altrincham, judged, and after the judging was finished a unanimous vote of thanks was accorded him by the members.

SPRINGBURN, POSSIL PK. C.B.C.

Monthly meeting and matched pair show held in Reid Hall, February 12th, Mr. T. Penman, the vice-pres., in the chair over a good attendance of members. Four new members were made. On the chairman asking for specials for matched pair classes six were kindly given by Messrs. F. Taylor, J. McMillan, J. Crawford, T. Penman, F. Williams, and J. Waugh. Mr. J. McLay (Kirkintilloch) and Mr. M. Craig (Tollcross) judged, and their awards gave every satisfaction. Many thanks are due to them for their kindness in coming to judge the show.

DONCASTER C.B.S.

Annual pair show held Druids' Arms, Bentley, Feb. 22. Entries were well in advance of last year, and birds of excellent quality were staged by all members; the total number of entries was 69 in 15 classes, which is not bad considering we had nine shows this last year with the same number to look forward to. The room was well adapted for a bird show, and the arrangements being under Messrs. Presley and Thornhill, everything went off well, with the show open early and staged to perfection. A gold medal kindly given by Mr. Marshall (the landlord) for most points with five starred birds was won by Mr. S. Knowles with 22 points, Mr. Simpson (runner-up) 19. The show was well patronised during the evening and proved a financial success. Mr. Barker (Bentley) judged and gave every satisfaction.

GLASGOW & W. COUNTIES C.B.S.

Monthly meeting and pair show held in the Good Templars' Hall, 122, Ingram-street, Mr. John M. Edwards presiding before a fair turn-out of members. Several important motions were tabled, also abolishing of Rule 15, and it was unanimously agreed to call a special meeting in conjunction with muling and hybrid pair show on March 22nd. The following classification was arranged: Goldf. and Can., Linnet and Can., Greenf. and Can., A.O.V. Finch and Can., Bullf. Hybrids, A.O.V. Hyb. Pairs. Also agreed to have neutral judge. All members will receive notice in due course re the above motions and altering of rule, and it is earnestly hoped that there will be a full turn-out of members. Mr. Samuel Kerr, Townhead, Glasgow, was admitted to membership. Pair show being the next business, the chairman called for specials, six being handed in and allocated. Mr. Robert Jeffrey (Govanhill) judged, and his awards were well received. He was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for officiating.

CRESTED CANARY CLUB.

A referendum of the Crested Canary Club has just been taken, and the following is the result (1) Are you in favour of the principle of closed rings, 39 yes, no 24. (2) Shall the club adopt the C.C.C. ring as used 1912? 6 yes, no 57. (3) Shall the club adopt the use of other rings? 36 yes, 27 no. 94 voting cards issued, 63 returned.—John Tyson, Hon. Sec.

WEST OF SCOTLAND O.S.

Monthly meeting, held March 1st, in Nelson's Temp. Hotel. Mr. Jno. Montgomery presided. Specials won at pair show were presented to winners who were present. Classification for annual show, November 29th, was next taken up, and it was decided to include 1 non-fed. class to Norwich section, also 2 additional classes for Yorks.; judges were nominated and voted upon. A vote of thanks to the chairman terminated the meeting. —W. Hutchison, Sec.

NORTH MANCHESTER C.B.S.

Meeting held Feb. 25. Mr. Robinson in the chair. The usual business was postponed so as to give Mr. Tom Harrison, the well-known Altrincham fancier, the full time for his lecture on "Seeds and other foods." He handled the subject well, and the members certainly learned much from his paper. Messrs. Jones, Whittaker, Pike, Robinson, Jackson, Lowe and others joined in the discussion. At the close Mr. Robinson proposed that the best thanks be given to Mr. Harrison for his able lecture, and this was seconded by Mr. Geo. Pike and carried with enthusiasm. Mr. Grigg kindly brought the cup he has given to the society.—John Davey, hon. sec.

PELTON FELL C.B.S.

Meeting held at Colliery Inn, Feb. 24, Mr. J. Stanger in chair, with a moderate attendance, mainly through the three-shift system in the district. The sec. gave his report for the 1912 season, which was highly satisfactory, showing a balance of £3 for 1913. Schedule for nest feather show was discussed, and it was decided to have same schedule as last year. Following nominated as judges for nest feather show, to be chosen at next meeting:—Messrs. Widdowfield (Boldon), Wm. Reid and Riseborough (Sunderland), A. Holden (Gateshead), J. Maddison (Newcastle), and J. Hands (Blaydon). Nest feather show will be held July 10. We are still open for more members; subs. 5s. per year and 1s. entrance.—Wm. Forster sec.

NORTH-WEST GLASGOW C.B.C.

Meeting held in Blythswood Halls, Great Western Road, Feb. 28, Mr. Phillips presiding. There was a good turn-out of members to consider the rules drafted by committee. Some of the rules caused a little discussion; in the end all were passed. The club still continues to add to its membership. We had nine new members at the meeting, making a total of 36. Decided to hold a show of British at next monthly meeting, Mar. 28, six classes:—Goldf. or Bullf.; Siskin, Redpoll or Twite; Linnet; Greenfinch; Hen Brit. suitable for breeding; For. Goldf. or Bullf. Specials were kindly granted for same by Messrs. Houston, Thom, Wilson, and Brown. Rule books will be ready shortly.—Wm. Loan, sec. and treas.

GLASGOW AND DISTRICT C.B.A,

Annual general meeting held Nelson's Temperance Hotel, Feb. 4. It was the unanimous feeling of the meeting that, notwithstanding poor results from last show, that same be carried on again and that Mr. Hutchison be again asked to take up secretarial duties for same. Late sec. was quite agreeable to continue for another term, provided that a guarantee fund of £10 against any loss be raised. As a guarantee fund to that amount is now secured, a meeting of guarantors will be held March 18 in Nelson's Temperance Hotel, Ingram Street, 7.30 p.m. Late members and any other fanciers are cordially invited, when office bearers, etc., for ensuing year will be elected. As all liabilities arising from last two shows have been met, the committee are sanguine that, provided a suitable date is fixed upon, their efforts will yet be crowned with success. —Wm. Hutchison, sec

WIMBLEDON C.B.S.

Annual meeting held at 6, The Broadway, Mar. 3. Mr. W. H. Stoakley presided and there was a very good attendance. The annual report and statement of accounts was submitted by the secretary, Mr. H. Smith. Membership has risen from 105 to 120 since the beginning of the year—a matter of congratulation. Special mention is made in the report of the silver cups given during 1912 for competition by Mrs. Thynne, the Misses Liversage and Bodfish, and the Rev. H. A. Soames, such handsome gifts being very encouraging. The report concludes with an expression of the deepest gratitude of Mr. Smith and his wife for the sympathy and kindness they received from the members in their time of trial, which was much appreciated and a source of great consolation to them. The statement of accounts shows that, notwithstanding a loss of £8 15s. 5d. on the annual show held in November, there is a satisfactory balance on the right side of £31 1s. 11d., and the balance sheet shows the assets of the society to be £44 8s. 5d., including a cash balance of £22 10s. 11d. The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report and accounts, said that such a satisfactory state of affairs was entirely due to the hard work and businesslike methods of their excellent secretary, Mr. Smith, and to him they owed their deepest gratitude and thanks. The Chairman, Mr. W. H. Stoakley, and the sec., Mr. H. Smith, who had both tendered their resignations, were persuaded to retain office for another year. Mr. F. Piper was re-elected president; Messrs. J. Carson C. How, E. J. Lamb, J. Robson, G. J. Warley, and Dr. Spencer vice-presidents, and Mr. P. Rorke was added to the list. Committee, Mrs. Owen and Messrs. A. H. Dyke, F. W. Owen, F. W. Thynne, H. W. Hobden, G. Griffiths, E. J. Whittome, J W. Heath, and R. A. Newley. Six new members were elected. At the monthly meeting in April Mr. J. Robson will give a lecture on "The breeding and care of young birds."—H. Smith.

SALE AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Table show of Norwich, Yorks and Borders held at headquarters, "Volunteer Hotel," March 3. There was a fine turn-up of both members and exhibits. The principal prize winners were Messrs. Hallworth, Robinson, Royle, Whalley, Dunkley, and Astley. Mr. Hallworth took gold centre medal for most points; Mr. Dunkley second; Mr. Astley third. Mr. J. Raynes judged and explained the good and bad points of each bird exhibited. A very enjoyable and instructive evening was passed. Next table show, March 17, will be for British birds, Mules, and Hybrids, and muling pairs. Schedules will be sent to members.—Geo. F. Hardcastle, sec.

THE YORKSHIRE UNION.

Election of Officers and Revision of Rules, 1913.

We have received from Mr. H. Hill, Sec., a certified copy of the ballot sheet, duly signed by the scrutineers, Messrs. R. Wilkinson and C. E. Walker, and containing particulars as follows: Vice-presidents, W. Cruise, 151 votes; J. Butler, 68; W. B. Atkinson, 57. Secretary, H. Hill, unopposed. Trustees (2), A Brown and H. H. Towers, unopposed. Auditors (2), R. Halliday, 205; F. Armstrong, 183; R. Garnett, 100; G. White, 62. Proposed alteration to rules: Rule 3: That the words "and from" be deleted. For 158, against 118. Rule 36: That the novice medals given for competition shall be equally divided if possible, so that the novice competition can be split into two periods; exhibitors gaining most points in the first half of the shows, according to the number of novice medals apportioned to that period, shall be winners of those medals and declared champions—same for the second half of the shows. In the event of an odd show, the Council shall decide as to which half of the shows the odd one shall be apportioned to. For, 166; against, 104. Rule 40: That four gold medals be given for competition in open classes. Winners of Shackleton's trophy and Naylor cup to be debarred from competing for same. No member of the Union to win more than one of these medals. For, 78; against, 211. Rule 41: That the novice classes be decreased from ten to eight. For, 64; against, 229. Rule 42: That the limit for novice classes be £3 3s. For, 35; against, 273. Proposed new rules: (1) That no judge of a Union show be allowed to report as he is judging them. For, 268; against, 26. (2) That the agenda of Union Council meetings be supplied to the secretary of each society, seven days previous to same meeting. For, 185; against, 120. (3) That scrutineers be elected by ballot, on yearly ballot paper. For, 168; against 106. (4) That no Union Society holds an open show after December 31st; any society having a date later than this must hold a First Feather Show instead, and all points to count for Union specials. For, 66; against 221. (5) That the two bottom perches in Yorkshire show cages shall be fixed on the fourth wire from each end of the cage, and the top perch be fixed on the ninth wire from either end of cage; all Yorkshire Union Show cages to be seventeen wires in length. The perches must be fixed in the cage with the curved side uppermost. For, 302; against, 3. (6) That a uniform subscription be paid by all societies within a radius of five miles from the Bradford Town Hall. For, 115; against, 152. (7) That there be a reduction in Union Shows. For, 68; against, 215.

ATTERCLIFFE C.B.S.

Meeting held at Horse and Jockey, February 20, Mr. Hibberson presiding over a good muster of members in the absence of our President, Mr. Havenhand. Two new members were elected: Messrs. F. Allen and Hogg, making a total of 11 ordinary and 4 honorary members for 1913, not a bad start. A Table Show of matched pairs was also held, but owing to our meeting having been postponed a week the numbers were not up to the usual, although quality was quite up to standard. Mr. Bagnall judged, and, as usual, gave every satisfaction in placing the cards. Balance sheet was read and passed, and although we have had one of the heaviest years in the annals of the society we still have a nice balance in assets on the right side. MEMBERS YORKS.: 1, 2, vhc, hc, Webster; 3, Blunt. NOVICE NORWICH: 1, 2, Ridler; 3, vhc, Jones. NOVICE YORKS.: 1, 3, c, Merrill; 2, Lowe; vhc, hc, Flint. MULE OR HYBRID: 1, 2, Duce; 3, vhc, Hailstone.—W. Hailstone, Sec.

IDLE AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

On March 1, the members of this newly-formed society held their first show. It was quite an impromptu affair, arising out of a suggestion of the president at the dinner held on the previous Wednesday. Two classes were provided for members, who had previously exhibited, and two for those who had not.—Yellow cock and buff hen, and buff cock and yellow hen—in each section. Mr. House gave a special for the best pair, and this was captured by Mr. Elsegood with a magnificent pair, the yellow in which has a big show record. The society and Mr. Chippendale gave specials for best and second best in novice section, these being taken by Messrs. Thomas and Hall, respectively, with very smart and useful buff cock and yell. hen pairs. For a first attempt, the entry of 25 pairs was most creditable to the members. Amongst the visitors we noticed Mr. J. Bailey, of Sandy Lane. Jimmy coveted a couple of hens but the owners were not selling. Mr. C. A. House judged, and Mr. Hylton, the hon. sec., carried out all the arrangements in an efficient manner. YELL. and BUFF (8): 1, vhc, Studd; 2, Pearson; 3, Hylton; res, Elsegood; hc, Chippendale; c, Wood. BUFF and YELL. (8): 1, hc, sp, Elsegood; 2, 3, Studd; res, Chippindale; vhc, Pearson; c, Hylton. NOV., YELL. and BUFF (3): 1, Baxter; 2, Hall; 3, Garnett. BUFF and YELL. (6): 1, sp, Thomas; 2, sp, Hall; 3, Baxter; res, Garnett; vhc, Renton; hc, Thornton.

CITY OF BRADFORD O.S.

Open concert and prize presentation, held at the Flying Dutchman Hotel, Leeds Road, Bradford, March 1, about 60 were present, including members, and their wives and friends. The artistes contributing to the programme were: Miss Holland, Messrs. S. Wilcock, W. Bennett, W. Whelan, P. N. Jenkinson, and H. Birbeck. After part of the programme had been got through, the chairman, Mr. Morement, called upon Mr. Chittenden to make the presentation of the members' prizes. Mr. Chittenden said he accepted this honour with great pleasure, because he was one of the society's first and oldest members. He expressed his admiration on the society possessing such a large number of novice members. Novice members in his estimation were the backbone of any society, and he hoped they would rally round this showing season in good numbers, and give some of the old fanciers a right proper knock out blow. After the prizes had been disposed of, Mr. Chittenden kindly volunteered his desire to make a donation to the society's prize fund, and other donations were kindly promised by several well-known fanciers in the society. Mr. F. Rhodes (late sec.) proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Chittenden for coming to present the prizes, and also for his generous donation, and to the artistes. The propositions were seconded by Mr. F. Ludbrook and supported by Mr. Fortman (late chairman), and were carried unanimously in the usual manner. A dance and a few more songs brought the evening's concert to a successful finish.—P. N. Jenkinson (Assist. Sec.)

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

CODNOR PK & EASTWOOD C.B.S.

Annual meeting, held at Riddings, when a good number of fanciers turned up. It was decided to have a table show at each meeting, when any member may nominate two birds, points to be counted at end of season. The first show, for Greenfinches only, will be held March 15. Three new members were elected. It is to be hoped that old and new members will turn up in good numbers, so as to give some little encouragement to the new sec.—A. Smith.

CROYDON AND DISTRICT F.A.

On Feb. 26, a lecture on "Cage Birds" was given by Mr. H. Norman. There was a good attendance, and the lecture was followed with the greatest interest. At the close many questions were answered relating to the pairing, rearing, etc., of the various varieties, and a very hearty vote of thanks was recorded Mr. Norman for his very instructive lecture. Mr. W. H. Cook is to lecture on "Poultry" on March 26th. All fanciers welcome.—F. W. Capell, Hon. Sec.—(Please note that reports must be sent in duplicate if it is wished that they should appear in Cage Birds and The Poultry World.—Ed.)

DERWENT VALLEY C.B.S.

Meeting held March 1, in the Church Hall, Hamsterley, Mr. G. Barkus in the chair. Only a moderate attendance of members. It was decided to elect Mr. W. Reid, Sunderland, to judge members' show on October 25. Owing to our late secretaries giving up their post, a small fund was raised to pay them a tribute for their services rendered in the past. Mr. W. Tomlinson handed over to Mr. J. Lindsay a handsome snuff-box (his favourite companion), Mr. W. Marsh receiving a walking stick. Both gentlemen responded, and thanked their fellow-fanciers for their presents. Would members please note that it would be more encouraging to the Fancy, especially to the young fanciers, if they would turn out in larger numbers.—E. Jameson and R. Johnson, Secs.

NEWARK C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, held at the Headquarters, the Boar's Head Hotel, Feb. 27th, when there was a fair attendance of members present. The balance sheet was read and adopted on the proposition of Mr. W. Toynbee, seconded by Mr. W. Measham, and showed a balance on the right side of close on £3, while the society has an asset of a valuable silver challenge cup. During the year two successful shows have been held, and the cage bird fancy in Newark was never more prosperous than at the present time. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Pres., Mr. E. F. Nicholson; vice-pres., Ald. F. H. Appleby and Mr. J. T. Parnham; chairman, Mr. A. C. Wells; vice-chair., Mr. W. Toynbee; hon. sec., Mr. W. Lidgett; hon. treas., Mr. J. H. Lamb; committee, Messrs. W. Measham, W. Fitchett, A. Martin (Elston), A. Coe, R. Simpson, and W. Staniland (Collingham).—W. Lidgett, Hon. Sec.

HALIFAX O.S.

Annual tea and social held at the King Cross Liberal Club, March 15. About 80 members, friends, and their wives sat down to a knife and fork tea supplied by the committee of the King Cross Club. After tea a whist drive was held, when the following won the prizes: Ladies, 1, Miss L. Pollard; 2, Mrs. Aked; booby, Mrs. Stead. Gentlemen, 1, Mr Burton; 2, Mr. Haigh; booby, Mr. W. S. Sweeting. The rest of the evening was spent in a dance and social. Miss Berry, who was accompanied by Miss M. A. Cockroft, sang "Good-night my little Teddy Bear," and also the "Glee Maiden." Miss Barnes and Mr. Bottomley sang two duets. Mr. P. Child contributed "Mona." Mr. H. Barraclough was the comic, and sang in costume "Shirts," and "When I fought Jack Johnson." The M.C. for the whist drive was Mr. F. Clegg, and for the social Mr. T. Pilling, the President, presided. Mr. J. Dunn proposed, and Mr. W. S. Sweeting seconded a vote of thanks. Mr. S. Sweeting (piano) and Mr. J. Barker (violin) supplied the music.—Harry Clegg, Sec.

NORTHERN YORKSHIRE C.C.

Annual meeting held Feb. 19. Mr. Crawhall presided. Messrs. Vallance Bros. and Mr. J. Scott were elected members. The balance sheet was read and adopted; although hardly so good a balance in hand as in previous year, yet considering the extra expenses of printing matter, etc., which will not be necessitated for the ensuing year, a balance of £1 18s. 8½d. was considered highly satisfactory. The proposal to extend the boundary for patronage was fully discussed, and only on the Chairman's casting vote was it decided that same remain as in previous years. The following were elected officials for the ensuing year: Pres., T. C. Crawhall; Vice-Pres., G. S. Ellwood, Dr. Duncan O'Neal, T. B. Tomlinson, J. Curry, G. W. Cuthbertson, W. J. Taylor, J. Shepherd, Mrs. R. Irwin Dees; Chair., N. R. Coomber; Vice-chair, C. Cattell; Committee: M. Wigglesworth, R. Hutler, S. C. Dix, G. Tweedie, J. Stewart, M. C. Potts, J. Scott, T. Hedley, F. Mirley, and W. Mather; Auditor, W. Mather; Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, R. Tindale. Messrs. Crawhall and Tindale were elected delegates in connection with the social and prize distribution of the Northern Specialists Clubs.—Mr. Crawhall, with his usual generosity, proposed to give a valuable silver cup for most points with three highest unflighted birds bred by a member, and same to be rung with closed rings, at shows holding our patronage. Members are requested to place their orders for rings with the secretary as early as possible. Next meeting fixed for March 12.—R. Tindale, Hon. Sec.

NORTHERN CREST CLUB.

Annual meeting held in Lockhart's Cafe, Grainger-st., Newcastle-on-Tyne, Feb. 26. Mr. Robson presided over a fair attendance. The secretary gave his report on the year's working, which showed that there are 34 members on the books—29 old and 5 new.

The funds of the club are very satisfactory. Having held an open show "on our own," we paid £19 15s. in prize money, which is a fair amount for a show for nothing but Crests. The show proved a success, and while we had only a cash balance of 17s. 11½d. at beginning of 1912, we have now a balance in hand of £2 17s.. Mr. Swan moved the adoption of the balance sheet, and Mr. Mole seconded, and the motion was carried with acclamation. The sec. was instructed to write and thank Mr. Crawhall for officiating as judge at our show. The retiring officers were re-elected en bloc. The following were elected members:—Messrs. R. H. Newton, Dickerson Bros., A. Lawson, T. Orton, J. Tate, J. Bread, Greenwood and Burson, and F. Scott. To anyone who is desirous of becoming a member of N.C.C., I shall be pleased to give all particulars regarding the club. The more the merrier! Decided to run another open show, and the sec. was instructed to write the secretary of the Crest C.C. to see if he could induce the members of his club to join us in the venture, and report the result at our next meeting. Also decided to grant our "medal" patronage to Newcastle, Blaydon, Gateshead, and Sunderland shows, if they will provide the following classes: Crest cock; Crest hen; C.B. cock; C.B. hen; young Crest; young C B.; and Crest or C.B. novice The following gentlemen promised to give medals for the novice classes:—Newcastle, Mr. Hutchinson; Blaydon, Mr. Dobson; Gateshead, Mr. Morrison; Sunderland, Mr. Robson. One novice will only be allowed to win one medal. I hope the societies mentioned will provide a class for novices, so as to encourage those who keep the bird that needs a lot of perseverance to attain a position of any importance in the Fancy. Decided to give two medals in open competition at each of the before-mentioned societies: Best old Crest or C.B., and best young ditto. One member shall only be allowed to win one medal during these shows. —J. G. Hutchinson, Hon. Sec. [We have received balance sheet, and are pleased to note the satisfactory increase in the cash in hand, as stated.—Ed.]

BRIGHTON AND HOVE C.B C.

At the February monthly show points were gained as follows:—Monthly Show Competition: F. Dandridge 17, H. James 15, H. T. Gibb 13, W. Wall 9, O. Plummer 9, D. Dean 8, G. Absalon 5. Judging Competition: E. Holley 67, H. James 40, S. Sparks 33, H. Bignell 28, F. Dandridge 27, C. Pearson 21, A. Goble 12.—Will. H. Gibb, Hon. Sec.

SELBY AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Meeting held Feb. 27, in the Museum Hall, Mr. J. H. Dixon, in the chair. The Sec., Mr. Watkinson, owing to removal from Selby, was obliged to resign, and Mr. H. Mathers was elected in his place. Mr. Hallet was elected vice-chairman. All fanciers in the district are invited to attend next meeting as above on March 21, when a lecture will be given by Mr. J. H. Dixon.—H. Mathers, Sec.

BURNLEY O.S.

Meeting held Feb. 27, at the Star Inn, Church-st., including a judging competition for novices. Nine birds were staged, and eight competitors joined. The prize, a silver medal, with gold centre, was won by G. Whittaker, one of the youngest members. This shows what this society is doing for novices. Mr. T. Edwards was final judge. The trophy we are working for will be competed for at our young bird show, to be held the last Saturday in June. On March 9th, Mr. T. Edwards will give, at the above, a lecture on "Breeding and Pairing of the Norwich Plainhead." All bird fanciers are invited to attend, commence at 7.30. — W. Redman, Sec.

HEYWOOD O.S.

Annual meeting held Feb. 25, Mr. J. W. Howarth in the chair. The following were elected officers:—Pres., J. W. Howarth; vice-pres., J. Perry, H. F. Turner, John Lees Wright Scholes, E. Barlow, T. Greenhalgh, W. Barlow, Fred Howarth, and Coun- A. Firth; treas., P. H. Barlow; vice-chair., A. H. Meadowcroft; auditors, James Waddington and Arthur Smith; hon. sec., James Greenhalgh, 167, Bury New Road, Heywood; assist. sec., R. Schofield; sub-committee, Pres., Sec., A. H. Meadowcroft, P. H. Barlow, Tom Meadowcroft. Decided to hold meetings on the fourth Wednesday in each month to see if it will be more convenient for the members to attend. The balance-sheet was read, showing a balance in band of £3. Any fancier in the district would be made welcome at any of our meetings.—A. H. Meadowcroft, late Hon. Sec.

HOLYTOWN NEW STEVENSTON ORNITHOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

Annual general meeting held in Masonic Hall, New Stevenston. Mr. D. Harper presided over a large turn out of members. The secretary's report and balance-sheet were read and adopted, showing a balance to the good of £6 3s. 6d. This was considered to be very satisfactory, and the committee hope to be favoured with the support of all the fanciers in the district, and with their help make the society financially stronger, and able to encourage the members with more special prizes and other benefits. Officers for the ensuing year were elected: Pres., Mr. D. Harper; vice-pres., Mr. Robt. Davidson; treas., Mr. R. Murdock; sec., Mr. Jas. Lamb; committee, A. Allardyce, sen., J. Gallacher, Wm. Page, T. McVicar, R. Douglas, J. Murphy, J. Hussy, A. Harper. Four new members were enrolled. It was decided to have at our monthly meetings washing exhibitions and lectures by prominent and well-known fanciers around the district. The winners of cups at our annual show in December were: J. Gallacher, Bellshill, Norwich; A. Allardyce, sen., Overtown, Weshaw, Scotch Fancy, Border Fancy, and best old bird. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman.—Jas. Lamb, Sec.

ARDWICK AND MANCHESTER DISTRICT C.B.S.

Enjoyable Social and Supper.

Supper and social held at the residence of Mr. Downing, February 25, when a most enjoyable evening was spent, the members and wives turning up in good force. The social proved a most enjoyable affair, several showing vocal talent which we did not think them capable of. Mr. Robinson occupied the chair, and got through his work in his usual style. We were all pleased to have our worthy President (Dr. Twigg) with us, he having found time to get away from his patients, and we must say he gave us a treat in songs, accompanied by himself, in both sentimental and humorous style; we were all sorry when he had to leave. Mr. Robinson also kept up the good work by singing humorous songs and patter, causing roars of laughter, also giving humorous recitations. Mr. Spencer, Sec., also came out of his shell and sang with much gusto, showing himself to be in fine singing form. Not to be outdone, Mr. Fulcher took us by surprise and sang in fine style. We also had capable renderings of songs by Mr. Boothman, Mr. Swanell, Mr. Long, Mr. Robinson, and Mr. Holland, which stamped them all as first-class. Truly a feast of good things. Mr. Lear kindly gave his services as pianist and showed himself capable of filling all the demands that were made on his talent. Those who did not sing helped to make the social a success with the enthusiasm they showed, several members stating it was one of the happiest nights they had spent in their lives, and hoped it was only the beginning of several such events. We could not let such an enjoyable affair close without tendering thanks to our host and hostess, as well as those who assisted in making it a success, and Mr. Fulcher, who moved a vote of thanks, fully voiced the opinion of the members present in a neat little speech. Mr. Thorpe capably seconded, and Mr. Robinson supported same. Mr. Downing, in accepting vote of thanks, stated that if letting us have the use of his house for such functions ably tied the bonds of friendship, not only on the birdy side, but also on the social side, and helped us up as a Society, he was amply repaid for the trouble, and would be pleased to lend his rooms on any future occasion.—R. Booth.

LOCHGELLY C.B.S.

Meeting held in the Drill Hall, Feb. 22, Mr. Thomas Wildridge presiding. Judges were nominated for open show. The secretary was instructed to write Mr. Munro Ferguson, of Raith, for permission to have a "Society Ramble" through Raith Estate, on June 2. Fanciers in the district should take this opportunity of a day's study of bird life. —R. Muir, Sec.

WANSTEAD F. & F. S.

A monthly meeting will be held at the Cambridge Park Hall, March 10, at 7.45. A lecture will be given on poultry. Members are requested to attend and bring friends to ensure a good audience. Membership now exceeds 60. Any fancier wishing to become a member of this new society should kindly communicate with Mr. C. J. Moss, Carisbrook Dairy, Nightingale Lane, Wanstead, who will be pleased to forward full particulars. We already have a cup and numerous specials offered for competition. Manuals are expected to be ready for this meeting.—Chas. J. Moss, Hon. Sec.

WEST OF FIFE C.B. LEAGUE.

Meeting held in Masonic Arms, Cowdenbeath, Mar. 1; Mr. T. Wildridge (Lochgelly), chairman. Office bearers for ensuing year were appointed:—Pres., T. Wildridge; vice-pres., J. Anderson, Kelty, and P. Langan, Cowdenbeath; sec., Jas Cordery, 21, Dewar's Row, Kelty; treas., John Rankine, Dunfermline; auditors, R. T. Campbell, Dunfermline, and Geo. Malcolm, Kelty; committee, the secs. of each society. After a discussion, the delegates were asked to convey a full report of proceedings, and to bring back a report to the next meeting, April 5, when it is hoped the delegates will be out at full strength. It was astonishing to think that though the meeting was held in Cowdenbeath, not one delegate appeared to represent any society from the district. Sec. was instructed to postcard every delegate to each meeting, and after a lively discussion, the meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman.—Jas. Cordery, Sec.

PUDSEY, STANNINGLEY C.B.S.

The annual presentation of prizes took place, Feb. 15, at the Fleece Hotel, Stanningley. There was a good gathering of members and friends, and a splendid evening was the result. After the opening remarks by the chairman, Mr. A. Noble, the sec. gave a short review of the past show season, which adds another successful year to the history of the society; there will be a few pounds in hand to carry on the work of the society in the year 1913. A few songs and recitations completed the first part of the programme. After a short interval our chairman introduced Mr. W. A. Wilson, Hon. Sec. Leeds C.B.S. Mr. Wilson remarked that he was very pleased to come amongst the members of Pudsey and Stanningley, and have the opportunity of distributing the prizes to the successful members. He then handed the prizes to the winners as follows: 1st, W. Richmond, 129 pts., who wins the Society's Cup outright, this being his third year in succession, also a lady's bangle; 2, Towler and Hargreaves, 112 pts., pair of blankets; 3 E. March, 75 points, ornamental clock; 4, F. Page, 71 pts., electro plated teapot; 5, H. Taylor, 52 pts., flower stand; 6, W. Ackroyd, 42 points, umbrella; 7, J. Butler, 41 pts., lady's handbag; 8, A. Noble, 29 pts., flower stand. Songs and recitations followed, ably rendered by the following artistes: Mr. C. Hargreaves, Mr. Lumby, Mr. H. Casson, Mr. L. Deane (lady impersonator), and Mr. Tetley (elocutionist). Mr. E. Sharp presided at the piano, and not a minute lagged while these gentlemen were on their feet. A vote of thanks to Mr. Wilson and the artistes was proposed by Mr. J. Towler, and ably seconded by Mr. J. Kinder. Mr. Wilson replied that for anything he had done that night he had been amply repaid by the splendid evening he had spent amongst us. This brought to a close, at a very late hour, one of the best evenings ever held by the Pudsey and Stanningley C.B.S.—H. Raistrick, Sec.

CARDIFF C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held at Maskell's Hotel, Feb. 20. Mr. S. F. Whetton presided. The chief business was the nomination of officers for next year. At the unanimous request of the members present, Mr. Whetton consented to again take the chair for another year. Mr. E. J. Davis also takes the treasurership again; all other officers will be elected at next meeting, the annual general meeting, when I hope every member will make an effort to attend. Messrs. H. C. Smith and A Maggs were appointed auditors. It was with regret that we accepted the resignation of Mr. J. H. Brown, but still we were pleased to hear that his son is going to take his father's place. There being a tie for Messrs. Reckett's special, resolved that Mr. Smith, winning most prize money, take the special. I have received a notice of motion from Mr. W Chedgey to rescind this minute. A table show of Border Fancies and British Harbills will be held at next meeting, no entry fee. Three cash prizes in each class, given by Messrs. Maggs, Adams, Smith, Janics, and E. J. Davics. Mr. H. C. Smith to judge British, Mr. E. J. Davies Borders. Also to have a judging competition by the members. The question of guarantee fund was discussed. Resolved that the members pay at each meeting so as to give every member an opportunity of helping. Mr. E. J. Davies and Mr. A. J. Simons started the fund. Prize money was paid out for the matched pair show. If I have overlooked any member or made a mistake, please let me know. I would esteem it a great favour if members who have not paid their contributions will send on, as I have to get balance sheet out by our next meeting. Messrs. J. W. Hidiard and W. H. Webb were enrolled members.—E. Thomas, Sec.

STATFORD AND E. LONDON F.A.

Annual meeting held February 27. The Secretary, Mr. W Maxey, produced a report and balance sheet showing, after all outstanding debts were paid, a cash balance of £1 4s. 1d. This the members thought most satisfactory, as four years ago, when Mr. Maxey took the secretarial position, the Society's balance was nearly £20 on the wrong side. The membership has risen to 80 fully paid-up members, new ones still joining. After balance sheet had been passed a hearty vote of thanks was accorded retiring officials and a special vote of thanks was given to Mr. A. Wasey for the great help he had given the society with schedules, etc. Mr. T. H. Harrison was again unanimously elected Pres.; Vice-Pres., Messrs. T. Threlford, Dr. J. G. Buchan, F. A. S. Stern, Alderman J. R. Hurry, W. Maxey; Patron, Baron de Forest, M.P.; Chairman, A. Scars; Vice, S. Ruggles; Committee, Messrs. J. Sykes, W. H. Collings, Wm. Plummer, R. J. Cape, D. Sholl, Geo. Eves, J. Rudge, W. C. Branch, S. Ruggles, H. L. C. Shergold, G. Stanton, J. N. Garrett, A. L. Hawkes, G. A. Parker, P. Lalfleury; Auditors, Messrs. P. Humphreys and W. Stratton; Hon Treas A Wasey, Hon. Sec., A. E. Baker; Hon. Show Sec., W. Maxey. Resolved: (1) That the Cage Birds cup be for Unflighted Canaries, Canary Mules and Hybrids. (Mr. A. L. Hawkes kindly promised a cup for British birds.) (2) The Hawkes Cage Bird Points cup to be for most points throughout the year in the following sections: Canaries and Mules, Brit. and Hybrids, Foreign, thus giving all sections a chance of winning it. New member: Mr. G. Gillard, 1, Grange-rd., Plaistow, E. Committee meeting March 13th. All committee must attend as list of fixtures will be arranged that night. Fanciers wishing to join this old established Society should send on at once, and so be in time to have name and fancy inserted in annual year book and compete for points, medals and 16 challenge trophies. —A. E. Baker, Sec., 123, Capworth st., Leyton, N.E.

A CLEAN SWEEP

1913—we have won the Yorkshire Challenge Cup, so don't be led astray with misleading adverts. of winnings of the past. Also we have won the Yorkshire Challenge Trophy two years in succession, which now becomes our own property, also winning outright the 10-guinea G.M.Y.C.C. Trophy, also winners of "Cage Birds" competitions, and 40 points, leading at all Yorkshire Union Shows with four highest awards. The above is a feat never before accomplished, finishing up with two 1sts, 5 specials, at Crystal Palace. This is official proof where the best is to be got. We have the world's record for breeding winners. As for testimonials, we could publish them daily of winners bred from our strain. Those desirous of laying a solid foundation cannot equal our strain. Properly matched pairs, 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/-. Cocks or hens proportionate; also a few noted winners to spare. Special invitation, or birds sent on approval at our risk; stamp for reply: Ogden Bros., Dudley Hill, Bradford,

WHO HAS THEM?

Read below and judge for yourself. I have won outright Y.C.C. 20-guinea challenge cup, Yorkshire Union 30-guinea challenge trophy, Mr. H. Naylor's challenge cup, diplomas and highest honours at all leading shows; see 1913 "Palace" report; winner cup best yellow, winner cash special most points, with 8 entries (nearest opponent almost double); cash special, per Mr. White, Australia, best Yorkshire; championship diploma best cinnamon-marked and championship diploma best Yorkshire over all other varieties; in fact, these last 14 years I have won more cups, medals and championships at the "Palace" than any other firm or firms. Not bluff! but solid facts. My cinnamon-tick and clear yellow cocks are admitted to be two of the finest birds seen at the "Palace" show, and remember, they have been bred by me only, not purchased. Don't be led away with 30 years' strains, but have up-to-date, carefully matched pairs from this champion strain, mated to breed winners. Prices from 20/- per pair; 3 days' approval; cash or deposit "Cage Birds": J. Bailey, 46, South View-terrace, Sandy-lane, Bradford, Yorks.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS

Advt. Manager. "Cage Birds."

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit system should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which me must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expirration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

It is just upon that depends your prospect of getting pleasure, profit and prizes. But if you want to improve your knowledge so that you can win prizes, so that you can back your pets against the best in your Club and still be proud of them, you will do well to send for the free booklet offered below. It was written chiefly to describe the real use to every class of cage-bird lover, of the splendid one-volume work "Canaries, Hybrids and British Birds," but it is full of interest and well worth sending for on its own account; the 15 illustrations in the booklet will take your fancy.

Do not wait, send to-day for this handy free booklet to read during Easter.

CANARIES
HYBRIDS & BRITISH BIRDS

By the well-known authority

MR. JOHN ROBSON,

is a complete Encyclopædia

of everything pertaining to the hobby. It is far and away the best guide any man can have because it contains chapters by the leading Bird specialists, and the whole matter is brought into shape and expertly edited by Mr. S. H. Lewer of "The Feathered World."

There is nothing in regard to the subject that is too small to be overlooked; everything any man can possibly want to know is in the book; it is the most authoritative work on the subject ever issued.

That is why so many thousands of the work have been sold since it came out. Its 41 practical chapters are the result of many years' experience and cover with remarkable fulness every side of the subject. There are 26 exquisite full page coloured plates painted from life subjects, and 140 other illustrations.

How you can get this work at a special price and on special terms is told in the dainty and informative booklet.

Send for it to-day—It costs you nothing.

"PHOSTO" FOR CANARIES

Many of the most prominent exhibitors are regular users of "Phosto." To give one striking instance, Mr. Meads, 56, Conway Road, Plumstead, writes:—"I used the tin of Phosto for a hen that had lost the use of her legs, and in two days she was about and able to take the perch, and is now quite all right, and also for a Goldfinch that was in a ball in the corner of the cage, and it pulled him round, or I am sure I should have lost him." Nothing could be more convincing that such testimony, except a trial, which the reader is invited to make; use "Phosto" and nothing else; prices, in tins, 1/-, 2/6, 4/6, carriage paid, with directions for use. Sold direct by Judge Silk, Cage Bird Expert, Whitstable. (561)

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

400 PRIZES AT CHAMPION SHOWS SINCE OCT. 5th, 1912

My Yorkshires have won consistently all through the season. The following are a few out of a large number of honours: Special best hen Bradford National, Special best Yorks. Hartlepool, Diploma best Yorkshire Sunderland, Trophy for 3rd most points N.G.M.Y.C.C., Second most points Yorkshire Union Competitions, Third most points in both competitions of the Y.C.C., etc., etc.

There is no better blood in the Fancy to-day, and I am in a position to put the Amateur on the right road to breeding his own winners, or to supply the "old hand" with splendid stock or show birds at a working-man's price. The following are a few prices:

Yorkshire Cocks, grand lengthy birds, with good position, feathered to perfection, and in full song, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each upwards.

Grand racy hens, splendid type, and feathered like wax, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each upwards. Matched Pairs correctly mated for breeding winners, and sex guaranteed, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- 35/-, 40/-, 45/-, 50/- per pair. I can supply these in Clears, Ticks, Green Marked, Cinnamon Marked, or Self Greens.

To every Customer I guarantee complete satisfaction or Cash returned in full.

CHAMPION NORWICH PLAINHEADS. THE BULL-DOG STRAIN.

THIS strain has again upheld its reputation, and in addition to winning Firsts and Specials all over the country, has secured the following Trophies this year: THE PERCY ILLINGWORTH CHALLENGE CUP (won outright), the Sandiford Cup, THE O.N.P.C. CHAMPION TROPHY, F. Carl's Trophy, and has run second in the Cup competition of the N.P.C.

I am now offering a few grand birds bred from my strain. Yellows or Buffs, Cocks or Hens, real good show or stock birds for breeding own winners, at 10/- 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- each. I am also offering a few grand pairs, personally matched by me, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. Strain guaranteed. I have a few grand birds from other strains, good thick-set birds, Cocks on full free song, at 6/6 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each; Hens, grand smart-feathered birds, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

Pure-bred Seifert or St. Andreasburg Roller Cocks. Have just received (Feb. 22nd, 1913), a consignment of over 300 Roller Cocks straight from the training rooms of Germany. These are the best I have imported. They are in full rolling song, with plenty of changes, and represent the last word in training. Come and make your own selection, or allow me to send one on approval at my risk. Prices, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6. A few specially selected Schoolmasters at 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; hens, guaranteed same strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/- each; Cages, 3d. extra.

REAL SIBERIAN GOLDFINCH COCKS, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6 each.

Grand Large Sib. Hens for Muling, either Yorkshire or Norwich type, 3/-, 3/6 4/-, 6/-, 6/-, 7/6 10/- each.

WINNING BORDER FANCIES.—Having recently purchased the entire stock of a well-known Border exhibitor, who is declining the Fancy, I am able to offer exceptional value in this variety, which includes Clears, Ticks, Greens, and Cinnamons. Cocks, in full song, real gems, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Smart typical Hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- upwards. Matched Pairs, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/- 20/-, 25/-, 30/-. Every bird for sale.

LIZARDS.—Am offering 10 pairs Lizards, the entire stock of a well-known exhibitor, at 10/6 and 12/6 per pair. Odd birds 5/-, 6/-, 7/6 each, cocks or hens.

SCOTCH FANCIES.—A few real good birds, Clears and Pied, Yellows and Buffs, including some of this season's open winners. Cocks or Hens, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 30/-, 40/- each. Every bird for sale. For full particulars of all other varieties, send a P.C. for my Free Illustrated Catalogue.

Remember this, please: I offer an open invitation to all fanciers to call and inspect my stock. My rooms are open every day but Sunday. My files are open to all visitors who wish to inspect Testimonials, which I have received from fanciers during the last few months. These prove to all that birds supplied by me have been winning all through the season, both Norwich, Yorkshires, and Borders; also that many of this season's winners have been bred from stock supplied by me. If you cannot pay me a visit, however, don't forget that I send every bird on seven days' approval at my sole risk. I guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer, or cash returned in full. Easy payments can be arranged to suit the convenience of Genuine Fanciers. No Extras charged. Travelling Cages, 3d. Special attention to Export Orders.

LOST VITALITY RESTORED

The greatest food for your hens when run down; it restores them to wonderful breeding condition; hens, which have hitherto been bad feeders, after having "Phosto" will feed and bring up their young in an almost surprising manner; young birds fed on "Phosto" have health and size, full of vigour, and will leave the nest in a wonderful condition. The proof of these statements can be tried for a small outlay. Once you try "Phosto" you will never be without it. Prices, in tins, packed free, carriage paid, 1/-, 2/-, and 4/6. Note the name: Judge Silk, Norwich Specialist, Whitstable. (561)

to purchase a Roller from anywhere, just read the unsolicited testimonials given below, and when it is taken into consideration that these letters are written by persons whose only motive is to tell the truth and express their appreciation of the Rollers I have sold them, I think even the most sceptical person will admit that there really must be something special about my Leipzig Rollers, and that what I claim for them is correct. I have repeatedly said that the Leipzig Rollers are far and away better singers than the ordinary Rollers and that they have a much more pleasant song and a greater variety of changes than any other Roller on the market. To test the truth of this statement, I ask you to have a Leipzig Roller on a week's trial from me and an ordinary Roller at any higher price on similar conditions from elsewhere, test them side by side, and if in your honest opinion and the opinion of any Roller judge you can call upon, mine is not by far the better bird, return it to me, and I will instantly refund the whole of your out-of-pocket expenses. I now have about 1,600 (one thousand six hundred) of these Leipzig Rollers in stock, all cocks guaranteed in full song day and gas light, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft roulades, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong, and flute notes, etc., etc. and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or discordant notes whatever price; 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special Bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell rolls, 10/6 and 12/6 each (the latter at 12/6 are specially good value). Hens, guaranteed same strain as above cocks, 3/- each; two, 5/6. I also have a magnificent stock of genuine Glucke-bred contest Rollers at 15/- and 21/- each; hens, 4/- each. These contest Rollers have a wonderful range of soft mellow tours, and are of bluest blood Germany can boast of, just the birds for anyone starting to breed contest birds or for improving their stock. I also have a splendid lot of loud, free singing Hartz cocks in full vigorous song, day and gas light, at 5/6 each; three, 15/6; seven, 33/-. Hartz hens, 2/3 each; 4/- couple. All birds are safely and warmly packed (no matter how cold the weather) in special travelling cages free of extra cost, and are sent on full week's approval solely at my own risk during whole time either on receipt of cash or if same is deposited with Editor, and unless perfect satisfaction is given and your every expectation realised, the whole of your money is promptly returned without question or comment. Note, full name and address, also date, given with each letter below:—"Longley House, Rochester, Feb. 1st. Sir,—Bird arrived safe and I am very pleased. He is a splendid free singer, at it nearly all day. Thanking you for your honest dealing.—Yours, etc., Conway Gordon." "24, Park View, Nantwich, Feb. 1st. Sir,—Received birds on Wednesday, and have great pleasure in stating that they quite surpassed expectation.—Yours, T. Heap." "10, Rossall Road, Chorley, Feb. 1st. Sir,—Received Roller in splendid condition and was soon singing when put in fresh cage. I am more than pleased with your selection. He is a lovely songster. Yours, T. Blackburn." "Shakespeare Street, Cardiff, Feb. 5th. Sir.—Received Bandmaster safe, and must say he is a champion. He sang beautifully one hour after arrival.—Yours, S. Watkins." "6, Filman Road, Fulham, London, Feb. 10th. Sir,—Please send me a Leipzig Bandmaster. The one I purchased from you last year still sings as well as ever and gives every satisfaction to the friend I gave it to.—Yours, H. Brown." On Feb. 16th Mr. Brown again writes: "Sir,—Roller arrived quite safe on Thursday and started singing when caged and still keeping it up. Your advt. is not misleading; they are, as you say, reliable songsters, free from harsh notes, etc. Thanking you most sincerely for such a good bird.—Yours, H. Brown." "10, Queen Street, Ashby, Doncaster, Feb. 10th. Sir,—Please send Roller hen. The cock you sent is singing splendidly, and started before being taken out of travelling cage.—Yours, F. Mumby." "The Intake, Glenlea Foyers, Inverness-shire, Feb. 11th. Sir,—Roller arrived here safe after being 21 hours on the road. I must say I am more than satisfied with him. Your advt. does not give your Leipzig Rollers half credit enough for their beautiful notes at such a reasonable price, and I think there is nothing to equal them.—Yours, J. McMillan." "125, Windsor Road, Penarth, Feb. 11th. Sir,—Received bird in pink of condition. Am very pleased with your choice. Thanking you for prompt despatch.—Yours, G. Mounter." "Netherton Colliery, Feb. 11th. Sir,—Roller arrived safely and gave us a few tours three hours after arrival. He is a beautiful singer; his song is enchanting. I thank you very much for sending such a nice bird. The other bird I have is not in it with yours.—Yours, J. Wood." "11, School Street, Williamstown, Penygraig, Feb. 12th. Sir,—Please send Leipzig hen to match the cock. He is a little marvel and seems to get better every day.—Yours, J. Williams." "41, Kilmailing Road, Cathcart, Glasgow, Feb. 14th. Sir,—Roller hen arrived safe, and am pleased with same; also cock doing well and singing fine. They are a well-matched pair. Thanks for prompt attention.—Yours, J. McGilp." "Barrington Park, Burford, Oxon, Feb. 16th. Sir,—Many thanks for Roller received on 11th. He is a perfect gem, and was quite lively after travelling 24 hours. Shall recommend you to my friends.—Yours, R. Burden." Please note, as this is most probably the last consignment of Leipzig Rollers I shall receive this season, it behoves all intending purchasers to send their orders early as possible to avoid disappointment. STANLEY (Victoria Club) F. & F.S.

Meeting held March 9th, Mr. G. Lane in the chair, the balance-sheet was read over and passed as correct. Election of Officers same night. Mr. T. Currey, chair; G. Lane, vice.; J. Boyle, treas.; R. Peart, sec., with the following committee: J. Emmerson, W. Elliott J. Charlton, J. Lamb, G. Blogg, T. Blackett, J. Dover, and T. Metcalfe. It was decided to hold our show on Dec. 6 and 7, and other clubs in the district are requested to make a note of our date to avoid clashing.—R. Peart, Sec.

STANLEY (Victoria Club) F. & F.S.

Enjoyable Social Evening.

A grand social was held March 1, in the Vic. Club, at which the committee of the Vic. Club generously provided sandwiches, etc., for the members and friends. We had a company of over 100, and every one seemed to enjoy themselves. The social was ably presided over by Mr. G. Lane. The committee of this club are doing a lot to encourage the Fancy in this district, both financially and other ways. We had some grand talent, every artiste being well received. Mr. W. Hancock ably presided at the piano, and the following artistes contributed towards the harmony of the evening Messrs. A. Hancock, E. Mays, J. Mason, S. Chaytor, H. Bickles, and A. Saunders. We also paid prize money same night, 10s. per class for 34 classes, which, I think, is splendid for our first venture. Our members have no subscription to pay, just their entry fee 7d. per entry. We concluded an enjoyable evening with thanks to the committee and artistes for their kindness; also a vote of thanks was passed to the committee of the Empire Club for their donation towards the expenses of the evening.—R. Peart. Sec.

CLUB REPORTS.

SHETTLESTON C.B.S.

Monthly meeting and table show of matched pairs held March 8, in Johnstone's Rooms, with a good turnout of members and friends. The room was well filled, the business for the evening was the arrangements for first annual social to be held on March 15, in Johnstone's Hall. Tea will be on the table at 6.30, tickets 1s. each. All fanciers in the district wishing to join with us can have full particulars from the secretary. Six new members were enrolled, Messrs. Thomson, Booth, Yule, Allison, Forrest, and A. Taylor. Mr. Smart, Carmyle, judged, and gave every satisfaction. PLAINHEADS: 1, 4, Thomson; 2, 3, Rankine. BORD.: 1, 2, Lunn; 3, Baird; 4, Mackay; 5, Yule; 6, Baird; 7, Jarvie. YORKS.: 1, 3, Baird; 2, Jarvie. MULING PAIRS: 1, sp, Henderson; 2, Rankine; 3, Williams; 4, Berry; 5, Mackay; 6, Henderson. HYB.: 1, Rankine; 2, Hendrie.—A. Berry, Sec.

CHELTENHAM C.B.S.

At a meeting on March 5th, ten-minute papers were read by four members, and a very interesting and instructive evening was passed. The show manager, Mr. W. Pounsett, gave his impressions of his visit to the Palace show, comparing some of the sections with those at our show. He was particularly struck with the splendid show of British Hardbills, and paid a warm tribute to the manner he was received by all the fanciers he came in contact with. Mr. Madagan, vice-chairman, spoke of his favourite variety, the Border Fancy, describing the points necessary for a show specimen, and how to mate to get these points, laying particular stress on using typical hens only. Mr. Short gave a useful paper on common ailments and their treatment, and dealt with constipation, diarrhoea, inflammation of the bowels, colds, fever, indigestion, and congestion of liver. Mr. Hayling, who is a keen observer of British birds in their wild state, spoke of Blackbird, Bullfinch, Goldfinch, Linnet, etc., giving a short description of their haunts, nests, eggs, etc. A short discussion followed each paper.—A. S. Treasure.

LEICESTER (Hand-in-Hand) C.BS.

Meeting held at Headquarters the Old White Swan, Market Place, March 4th. Mr. Gibbins presiding. Rules were passed to govern the Westby Challenge cup. That it be competed for by British birds and Hybrids. To be won three times, not necessarily in succession. The programme for meetings for the session was drawn up. Such meeting to be held monthly as usual. The first three nights will be taken up with a paper on the Norwich Plainhead by Mr. E. H. Hulse, beginning March 18th, on "Mating of Norwich," with illustrations as several members have promised to bring pairs for explanation. It was decided to ask Mr. R. J. Howe (Wellingboro) to give a paper on British, the date to suit his convenience. If possible a table nest feather show will be held to come on a meeting night before the annual one. Also an exhibition of washing and preparing birds for show, which will about wind up the session. A table show was held, Mr. Hulse, judge. NOR. BUFF. UNFLIGH: 1, 3, Moores; 2, Gibbons. DITTO, NOV.: 1, C. B. Day; 2, Jolly; 3, vhc, E. Wood; hc, Pole. A.V. CAN. MULE or BYB.: 1, 2, Kilsby; 3, E. Wood.—E. Hulse, Press correspondent.

SCOTTISH BRITISH BIRD & M.C.

Annual general meeting held March 8, in rooms, 142, High Street, Edinburgh. Mr. Livingston in the chair, before a large turnout of members. The balance-sheet was gone into and passed, the balance in hand of £5 9s. is considered very satisfactory. The next item was the presentation to winners of trophy and cups, unfortunately the medals had not arrived from the maker, but these will be posted as soon as possible. Office bearers were elected for the coming year as follows:—Pres., Mr. Crossley ykes, vice-pres., T. Bell, J. Brown J. McHolm, and E. Taylor; sec., John Allan, 69, Dalmeny Street, Leith; comm., F. H. Craft, Geo. Brown, A. Hoyle, A. W. Watson, J. Leach, J. Sykes, J. Livingstone, L. J. Arrighi, Peter Gentleman; auditors, R. Craig and Jas. Winter. After much discussion the annual subscription was reduced to 2s. 6d., with no entry fee. The following new members were then admitted:—Messrs D. Brown, D. Sayers, J. Cunningham, H. Thomas, A. McKindlay, J. Laird, J. L. Burnett, J. Strachen, W. Sharp A. Craig. On the motion of the secretary, seconded by Mr. Watson, it was agreed to ask that all clubs asking for the patronage will state what number of birds there must be to get full prize money, also the amount of prize money. Moved by R. Craig that judges need not necessarily be members of the S.B.B. and M.C. This was passed after some discussion. A hearty vote of thanks to the retiring office bearers ended the business.—John Allan, Sec.

NORTHERN SPECIALISTS' CLUBS

Meeting of the delegates appointed by the above clubs was held March 5th, re making arrangements for the annual social and prize distribution. Decided that the same be held April 8th in the Co-operative Hall, Darn Crook. Tickets to be 1s. 6d. single, or 2s. 6d. double (lady and gentleman) including supper. It was decided to ask Mr. and Mrs. McKinnie to supply the musical part of the programme, and if they decide to do so there will be a treat in store for us birdy fanciers. It was decided to ask Mr. Haggie, the esteemed president of the Newcastle Cage Bird Society, to present the prizes. The order of the presentations was drawn out of the hat as follows:—Northern Yorkshire, Border and Scotch Fancy, Norwich and Cinnamon, British, Mule and Foreign, Lizards, and the Crested Canary. It was also decided to ask Inspector Robinson of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Society, to preside over the concert. Will fanciers please note he is a real lover of all varieties of birds, and it would be to the benefit of the humanitarian societies if they had more gentlemen in their ranks who understand their duties as well as does Mr. Robinson. We would then hear less of the prosecutions such as are being carried on at present I appeal to the members of the various specialist clubs, to make this social and presentation a success, by bringing their wives (or sweethearts) and their friends, as it is such functions as these which strength n the bonds of friendship Tickets can be had from the secretaries of the various clubs, or from T. C. Crawhall, St. George's Terrace; Mr. J. Mackenzie, the Aviaries, High Friar Street; or from myself. I shall be pleased to send full particulars to any fancier who does not belong to any of the specialist clubs, and who would like to join in this enjoyable evening.—W. Curry, Sec., 60, Grosvenor Gardens, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

THE YORKSHIRE UNION PRIZE DISTRIBUTION.

MAGNIFICENT GATHERING AT BRADFORD.

PRESENTATION TO THAT MOST EXCELLENT FANCIER AND INDEFATIGABLE WORKER, MR. H. HILL.

"It looks to me more like a Co-operative Store display than a Cage Bird Society prize-distribution." Thus spoke Mr. J. W. Ramsden, at the annual gathering of the Yorkshire Cage Bird Societies' annual re-union, held at the Market Tavern, Bradford, March 8, and the description was not very wide of the mark, for on the tables and benches were displayed such articles as challenge cups, rose bowls, gold and silver watches, electro-plated teapots, coffee pots, cream jugs, cruets, gentlemen's gold alberts, ladies' gold necklets, silver tankards, blankets, eiderdown quilts, sheets, rugs, suit lengths, dress lengths, blouses, ladies' furs, butter dishes, glove boxes, dressing cases, brush and comb cases, gold medals, silver flower vases, bronze figures, cases of dessert knives and forks, cases of cutlery, Chrystoleum paintings, mirrors, mirror pictures, smoking cabinets, table cloths, pocket wallets, umbrellas (ladies' and gentlemen's), overcoats, rain coats, sideboard ornaments, large decorative vases, tea urns, timepieces, looking-glasses, preserve dishes, barometers, boxes of cigars, boots, gold pins, hot water jugs, music stools, sewing machines, seed, etc.

The Chairman's "Grace."

The proceedings began at five o'clock, when about ninety sat down to a most excellent repast, which was prefaced by one of Mr. H. H. Towers' humorous remarks: "I suppose I ought to say grace, but at home I usually let one of the kids do it, so you had better get on with your eating." Yorkshiremen seldom need a second bidding of this character, and cage bird lads, and lasses, too (there were a lot of wives and sweethearts present) were soon making the waiters busy.

The dinner was followed by a meeting. Mr. Towers in the chair, and a most enjoyable programme was opened by a pianoforte solo by Mr. J. E. Priestley, and as we glanced round the room, which contained nearly 180 persons, we noticed amongst others the following well-known fanciers: Messrs. J. W. Ramsden, and R. J. Pretty (London), Craven (Plymouth), A. Hirst (Accrington), E. Brunskill (Darlington), W. Mundell, H. W. Battye, Matt. Broadley, H. Naylor, S. Dean, J. Thornton, H. Inman, T. Elam, Ogden Bros., L. Dykes, Joe Thomas, J. Bailey, F. Allen, Sutcliffe and Son, C. Morrison, M. Peel, P. Mason, Brown and Son, E. Stobart, W. Cruise, Wilkinson Bros., T. Moss, A. Radley, A. Whitley, S. Denby, J. Lunn, J. Ackroyd, T. Tidswell, E. Clegg, S. B. Grayshon, T. Elsegood, H. Simonett, A. M. Craven, C. E. Hall, S. Heap, W. Johnson, W. H. Ball, H. Clegg, J. Isherwood, B. H. Wilson, J. Wilson, S. Binns, A. E. Naylor, B. Wood, S. Midgley, E. Saville, W. Helliwell, J. Rhodes, H. Birbeck, J. W. Ingham-Watson, J. Ward, E. Butterfield, H. Taskey, W. Riley, F. Allen, T. H. Inman, Dr. Wilson, S. Woad, W. A. Wilson, H. Lord, F. Armstrong, W. Studd, to say nothing of the most excellent committee responsible for the arrangements of the gathering—Messrs. H. H. Towers (chairman), and F. Hammond (Yorks. Union C.B.S.), R. Halliday, and J. Greaves (Yorks. C.C.), W. A. Cowgill, and L. Ogden (Green-Mkd. Y.C.C.), R. Garnett, and T. Ogden (Cinn.-Mkd. Y.C.C.), H. J. Chittenden, and J. Lane (Yorks. Co. B.B. and M.C.), F. Rhodes and J. Fortnam (Open Nor. Plhd. C.C.), and H. Hill (hon. sec.). In addition to those we have mentioned, there were many unknown to us, and a whole host of ladies, whose names we were too bashful to inquire.

Mr. Towers said the first item on the programme was the chairman's remarks; that was soon disposed of, because there would be none. He would get on with the programme.

The Yorkshire Union Prizes.

Mr. F. Armstrong (President of the Yorkshire Union) presented the prizes won in the Union competition, and prefaced the same by saying that he considered it both a great pleasure and a great honour to be allowed to do so. Speaking words of encouragement to the novices, he said they were the backbone of the Fancy. The novices had to plan and think, and the successful ones were those who worked their plans out well beforehand. Referring to the days which he spent himself in the novitiate, Mr. Armstrong said he believed that all old hands looked back with pleasure and satisfaction to the day when they won their novice medal, no other medal won afterwards brought half so much pleasure. One's novice medal was always treasured and worn with pride. The novice medal competition had done much for the Fancy in the manner in which it had given encouragement to the young hands, and caused them to exercise care and forethought in their efforts. This year, for the first time, they had medals for amateurs. He heartily congratulated them upon their efforts, and hoped the competition would spread and become keener as the years rolled on. It was intended to prevent fanciers dropping away as soon as they had done with the novice section, and to encourage them to persevere until they could hold their own with the champions.

The winners in this section were: Ramsden's specials, Ogden Bros. and Joe Thomas, Errington's specials, T. Tidswell. Amateurs gold medals, A. Radley, E. Clegg, A. M. Craven, and A. Whitley. Novices, S. Binns (and Ramsden's), O. E. Naylor (and Ramsden's), J. C. Beaumont, S. Midgley, B. Wood, E. Saville, W. Helliwell, S. Wilkinson, and J. Rhodes. In connection with the latter award, Mr. Armstrong said that the most creditable point in Mr. Rhodes' success was that it had been secured by one bird, and one bird only, which had gone right through the season. This should encourage the men with small studs, as it proved that one good bird was quite enough to win a medal.

In the Norwich section the winners were: Novice medals: H. Birkbeck, J. W. Ingham, and Watson. Errington's specials: J. Ward and E. Butterfield.

"CAGE BIRDS" Specials.

These, in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Carl, were presented by Mr. C. A. House, who in apologising for Mr. Carl's absence, said it was stress of work entirely which prevented that gentleman from attending. He was enjoined by Mr. Carl to say how pleased he was that the competition for CAGE BIRDS' specials had once again brought out such keen rivalry. He was to say that it would give Mr. Carl the greatest pleasure to again offer the prizes. In concluding he paid a well deserved tribute to the work which Mr. F. Hammond had put in in the carrying out of CAGE BIRDS' competition, and the selection of the prizes. It was no light task, as the array of prizes showed, and it was Mr. Hammond they had to thank for the splendid work he had done in connection with the competition, and on Mr. Carl's behalf he thanked him most heartily.

The winners of CAGE BIRDS prizes were:—Yorkshire Union, Champion Section: Ogden Bros., 176 points, gold medal; L. Dykes, 137, cup and glass butter dish; J. Thomas, 136, blouse and coney tie; J. Bailey, 114, pair blankets; Fred Allen, 90, hearthrug; Sutcliffe and Son, 88, rug; H. H. Towers, 80; C. Morrison, 77; M. Peel, 61; P. Mason, 49; Brown and Son, 44; E. Stobart, 41; W. Cruise, 40; L. Dyson, 38; J. Helliwell, 25; Wilkinson Bros., 24; Tom Moss, 17; L. C. Casey, H. J. Chittenden, H. Charlesworth and Shaw Bros. Wilson, 15, rain coat; J Wilson 7, down quilt.

A Story of Success.

In presenting the prizes won in the competition of the Green-marked Yorks. C.C., Mr. Cowgill said that the formation of the club had proved a step in the right direction, as though it was only four years old, it had 138 members, but this was not enough. Every breeder of Yorkshires used Green blood, and as they used Green-marked stock, they stood a good chance of breeding a good Green-marked bird. It was due to the club that Green-marks had become worth more money, therefore fanciers should support the club, which had increased the demand and price for good birds, and had also provided extended classification and more specials. The half-a-crown subscriptions did not pay for all this, and had it not been for the help of friends, they could not have done so well as they had. When they started Mr. Shackleton gave a trophy which had to be won twice. It had been won by Messrs. Ogden Bros., Dykes, and Sutcliffe and Son, and now by Ogden Bros. again. The club now wanted someone else to get their hand down and provide another trophy. It was no use being bashful. They wanted another trophy. His circumstances would not allow of his giving one, or he would, but he hoped some wealthy fancier would. The competition during the past year had been a great success; the classes had averaged between thirteen and fourteen. This was not at all bad for an open competition, but he hoped that next year they would have a still better average. There was plenty of room for new blood. (Note Messrs. Ogden Bros. generous offer, vide "Twitterings" page.—Editor.).

The successful ones were: Open section, Ogden Bros., Shackleton trophy, and Ramsden's teapot; L. Dykes, Silver cup; J. Thomas, O. Morrison, and P. Mason. Amateur section, A. M. Craven. Sandiford's case of cutlery, and C. E. Hall. The third, fourth and fifth prizes were not awarded owing to lack of competition. Novice section: S. Binns, B. Wood, H. Taskey, and W. Riley. Again the fifth prize was not taken owing to lack of competition.

In handing Mr. Binns his prize, Mr. Cowgill said:—"Mr. Binns is like Ogden Brothers, he's ta'en t' lot. In t' novices he's carried all afooar him. I congratulate him, an' I'm pleased to hand him these here trophies." Mr. Binns: "I'm varry pleased to get 'em." Mr. Cowgill: I'll bet tha' art, lad!"

A Good Sportsman.

Mr. Cowgill said the club had given specials which had not been won. If some of the fanciers had persevered a bit more they would have had a prize. Fanciers should not get discouraged, but should keep on; it would pay them. There was one more special to be handed over. Mr. Morrison had given a special for the purpose of encouraging the novices. It was for most points gained with third prize birds, and it so happened that he had won it himself. Mr. Morrison, on taking the prize, said he wished someone else had won it, and he hoped next year it would be so, and to encourage the novices to try more, he would double its value.

On rising to present the Yorkshire Canary Club specials, Mr. Towers said that the other week he had to speak at Sheffield, and they told him the least he said the better, and he meant to act up to it now. They had had some good speeches, and he would not say much. This year had been unique in one respect. Messrs. Ogden Bros. had achieved great things in taking both the Bailey Trophy and the Ramsden cup. They had made a great effort, and were to be congratulated on having succeeded.

The winners of Y.C.C. specials were: Open section: Ogden Bros., Bailey trophy, Ramsden cup, and teapot; L. Dykes, Ramsden teapot, silver watch and flower vases; Joe Thomas, third in the Ramsden competition, and that of the club, whilst J. Bailey and H. H. Towers tied for fourth place in both competitions. Open novice section: S. B. Grayshon, smoker's cabinet and Ramsden's cruet; A. Whitley, pair chrystoleum paintings, and Ramsden's cruet; Elsegood, H. Simonett, and L. Jebson, tie for fourth place. Novice section: S. Binns, S. Midgley, B. Wood, and W. Helliwell. Sandiford's case of cutlery was won by F. Allen. Mr. A. Whitley was easily first in the open novice section, but owing to neglecting to mark all his entry forms, had a number of points deducted.

A Well Deserved Presentation.

When he rose to make the Hill presentation, Mr. Towers said he had reached the most important item in the evening's programme. All present were well aware of the wonderful result of the Cinderella Show. Although only established two years, the show had become recognised as one of the finest in the kingdom, and if they went on as they were doing, it would soon be the finest, and second to none. Much of the success achieved was due to one man. They all knew how important it was to have a good secretary for such a show. Mr. Hill had done wonders, and in saying that one did not overlook the good work done by his two able assistants, Messrs. H. Simonett and F. Hammond, and those gentlemen would be the first to praise Mr. Hill. Such confidence had the committee of the National Show in Mr. Hill that when anything awkward turned up that wanted careful handling they knew they could leave it in his hands with safety, and he would deal with it in a manner not to be improved upon. It had been decided to present all three of the secretaries with an honorarium, but Messrs. H. Simonett and F. Hammond said: "No, if anybody is to have anything, it's Hill," and they had generously refrained from taking what the committee wished them to. Could there be any better testimony to the value of Mr. Hill? Mr. Hill himself would not accept a cash present, but he had accepted a bookcase and secretaire. They must not forget that Mr. Hill's work was not all for the Fancy. Underlying all his work in connection with the National Show was his love for the poor children, and what he had done was beyond any power of expression which he (the speaker) possessed. Great as had been Mr. Hill's work, they must not forget the wonderful help he had received from Mrs. Hill. That lady was heart and soul with her husband, and had it not been for her, he could not have accomplished what he had. On behalf of the National Show Committee, he had the greatest pleasure in asking Mr. Hill to accept the present as a token of esteem from his fellow-workers.

Mr. Hill's Thanks.

A tremendous ovation was accorded Mr. Hill when he rose to return thanks—thanks which, he said, were more than he could express. It was with the sincerest pleasure he accepted the bookcase and secretaire as a token of their appreciation of his work. Before speaking of his work in connection with the show, he would like to thank his assistants, Messrs. Hammond and Simonett, for the help they had given him, and the grand work they had done, work which he alone knew of, and alone could appreciate. Further, their fancierlike conduct in declining to accept any presentation, so that the whole might be handed over to him, he should never forget. Their kindness was only equalled by the way in which they had worked for and with him. His reason for selecting the present he had was that books and birds were his dearest friends. The bookcase would hold his books, and the secretaire would be most useful for his work for the Fancy. One thing more than another which pleased him in Mr. Tower's speech was the reference to the help which his wife had given him. Had it not been for that help, he could not have done the work he had for the Fancy. When they came to think of it, the Yorkshire Union, the Bradford East Society, and the Cinderella Show could not leave him much leisure for other things, and Mr. Tower's remarks had given him (the speaker) the opportunity to publicly say how much he was indebted to his wife. Then as to the children. They were very dear and near to his heart. He had worked for the poor children of Bradford for a long time, for years before the Cinderella Show was thought of, and it was for the children's sake he had consented to go on with the secretarial work again. This was no one man's work, and he had been loyally helped by the committee, and each year they had handed over £50 to the Cinderella Fund for the poor children of Bradford. This was a magnificent result, but he wanted to double it before he laid down the reins, and after that night they would hear no more talk from him of resignation, until such time as the National Show had handed over £100. The handsome present they had given him would always remind him of the many friendships he had made in the Fancy, friendships of the nearest and dearest kind.

About the Britishers.

Mr. F. Archer, the president of the Yorkshire County B.B. and M.C., had been announced to present the prizes of that club, but owing to indisposition he was unable to attend, and his place was taken by Mr. W. A. Cowgill, who had warmed himself up for the occasion, and by his humour caused his remarks to be punctuated by roars of laughter. Dropping into the vernacular Mr. Cowgill interspersed his speech with many a "Bit of Yorkshire." He said: "I much regret that the president of the club, Mr. F. Archer, isn't able, owing to a touch o' t' influenza, to be wi' us to-neet to do this here job, and as I'm one o' t' vice-presidents I've been ass'd to tak' his place. I don't knaw what to say, but Mr. Lane has put a paper in mi hand, and I see it tells a varry wet blenkit sooart of a story. We've heeard a lot abart wet blenkits to-neet, but this here is a wet un, an no mistak'. It ommust looks as though t' club wor barn to wink up! T' club's been i' go now for summat like five or six year. I wor in at t' start, and I can tell you we made a gurt effort to 'stablish it. It's gone on all these here years, but hasn't made mitch heeadway. I'm sorry to say that the support given to t' British Bird and Mule Fancy by Yorkshur fanciers isn't at all encouraging. British birds and Mules are two o' t' principal features of any good show, and two o' t' greatest attractions, especially to them as isn't fanciers, and its high time that our Yorkshire fanciers took more interest in this side o' t' fancy. This club has had a hard struggle, but we keep on. We've had to send t' hat round, but we're worth twenty shillin to t' pahnd. I'm pleased to say that if we have had to struggle we've paid wer way, and we're out o' debt. I can tell you, though, that we are just out —— well! we're on wer uppers, an that's t' truth! I know it's a bit of a strain on fanciers to belong to sitch a lot o' clubs, but I do ask 'em to do their best to help t' Yorkshur County British Bird and Mule Club."

The winners were, open section, Mr. T. H. Inman, Dr. Wilson, and J. Lane; amateur section, Messrs. J. Isherwood, B. H. Wilson, and J. Wilson. Dr. Wilson said he was sorry there were not more members in the club. He would do his best to find some more, and also endeavour to get a friend to give them a challenge trophy of some sort.

The Cinnamon Marks.

Mr. A. Brown presented the prizes to the Cinnamon Marked Y.C.C. members, and in so doing, said the club had been through a very trying time during the past year. They had to thank their old secretary, Mr. R. Garnett, for coming to their assistance at a most critical moment, and helping them forward. They also had been helped by Messrs. Towers, Cooper, Sandiford, and Carl, and he had also done a bit himself. They wanted help. There were some who thought and said the Fancy was declining, but he hardly thought so. Still, when an impression of that sort got abroad it did much harm, he, therefore, asked for the support of every breeder of Cinnamon Marks. The breed should be kept to the front. He urged fanciers to make a strong effort.

The winners were, open section, Messrs. F. Allen, C. Morrison, whilst Ogden Bros. and Jim Bailey tied for third and fourth places. Amateurs, Messrs. Myers and Lumb, S. B. Grayshon, and C. E. Hall. Novices, S. Binns, S. Wood, and B. Wood.

"Ahr Albert" Missing.

When the time came for the Open Norwich Club specials to be presented it was found that Mr. Albert Hirst had been forced to leave to catch the last train, so his place was taken by Mr. W. A. Wilson, the newly elected president of the club, and he announced that Mr. Joe Thomas had promised to present gold medals to future winners of the challenge cup, but no member was to take two medals. The present cup had now been won outright by Mr. Thomas, who had also won the Sandiford cup. Mr. Heap had won the Thomas Rose bowl, and coffee-pot, and Mr. Harland came next. The open novice winners were Messrs. W. H. Ball, H. Clegg, and H. Toac. The successful junior novices were Messrs. H. Birkbeck, J. W. Ingham, and H. Lord, whilst Mr. W. Johnson had taken the Ramsden special.

Mr. R. Halliday, in proposing a vote of thanks to the donors of the prizes, said they were greatly indebted to the gentlemen who had so generously helped. It took a great load off the mind of the club committee. Mr. F. Armstrong, in seconding, said that it was only by the generosity of which Mr. Halliday had spoken that the Fancy could go on, as specialist clubs could not possibly meet their outgo from the members' subscriptions alone.

Mr. J. W. Ramsden, in replying, said he was sure it was quite as much pleasure to the donors to give the prizes, as it was for the members of the clubs to receive them. Looking round at the heavily laden tables, he said that seeing all these barometers and blankets put him in mind of a Cage Bird fancier who fell ill. The doctor told the wife that she was to put her husband between the blankets, and to take his temperature with a thermometer. When the doctor came again, he asked if she had followed his instructions. She said she had put her husband between the blankets, but not having a thermometer she had laid the barometer on his chest, and when she looked it had gone to "very dry," so she gave her husband a bottle of beer, and it did him so much good that he was all right. Concluding, Mr. Ramsden said "Those who have won barometers to-night will know now how to use them. So far as my specials are concerned I shall have great pleasure in repeating my offer for next season."

The Press.

Mr. Towers said they were all indebted to the Press, and seeing that Mr. Brunskill was present he would like him to say a few words. Mr. Brunskill thanked Mr. Towers for his kindness in referring to him, and hoped the company could not forget that without the Press the Fancy would not be much. Fanciers should support the Press all they could. It was a great pleasure to be present at such a gathering,—a gathering which could with profit be copied by many other parts of the country.

The Workers.

Mr. House proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman and committee. They all knew that without good organisation such gatherings could not be carried out successfully. Mr. Towers responded.

During the evening the musical portion of the programme was most ably sustained by Messrs. J. E. Priestley, M. Speight, W. Smith, and G. H. Hawley. The humorous sketch "Trying to oblige his wife," which the last named gave, caused much merriment, and Mr. Smith's rendering of "Glorious Devon," was indeed glorious, and received well-merited applause. Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem brought the gathering to a close.

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

The R.S.P.C.A. and Its Methods.

In our correspondence columns will be found a letter from the Countess von Hahn referring to the work done by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. On behalf of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE I have great pleasure in agreeing with much of the Countess von Hahn's letter. It is well known, and very greatly appreciated, that the R.S.P.C.A. has done, and is doing, eminently praiseworthy work in preventing the subjection of animals to unnecessary suffering and cruelty, and it is also well known that, when four-footed animals are concerned, the society does an immense amount of good in preventing, as well as punishing. Unfortunately, the word animal, for the purposes of the 1911 Act, includes birds, and it is in connection with the methods of the R.S.P.C.A. when dealing with birds that we, as birdkeepers and bird lovers, have our grievance. The inspectors of the Society whose duty it is to prevent cruelty to beasts of burden are all more or less skilled in their especial duty, and the veterinary surgeon to the Society has, of course, an expert knowledge of horses. The inspectors who visit bird shops, and lodge complaints against the shop-keepers, know nothing whatever about birds and their keeping—this they have had to admit time and again in the witness box. The veterinary surgeon who corroborates the inspectors' evidence as to the condition of the birds himself has to admit that he knows little or nothing about birds, and in a recent case proved this by chloroforming four Linnets because two of them had diarrhœa.

These men do not caution bird-shop keepers. They simply walk into a bird-shop and buy any bird they can find in what they think is a dirty or ill-used condition. This they carry straight to the veterinary surgeon, who promptly chloroforms the bird, and says in his opinion, which he admits is worth nothing at all, it had been subjected to unnecessary suffering. These are the methods against which Mr. Trower is protesting, with every justification, and they are quite different to the methods, very rightly upheld by the Countess von Hahn, adopted by the officials of the Society in cases of cruelty to four-footed animals.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE FOREIGN BIRDKEEPERS' AND EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE.

A Successful Send-off.

Sir,—If proof were wanted that the foreign bird Fancy required wakening up in the direction of exhibiting and show classification, surely the magnificent response awarded to the promoters (Messrs. Silver and Frostick) of the inaugural meeting of the above, which was held at the Inns of Court Hotel, High Holborn, W.C., on Wednesday, the 5th March, was sufficient to show that the matter only required to be tackled in a business-like manner, and the necessary support of the bird-loving public would be forthcoming. The meeting was a large, enthusiastic, and fully representative one, and must be pronounced an entire success. The following ladies and gentlemen were present: Miss Lydia Clare, Miss Flo. Harris, Mrs. F. Thynne, Mrs. H. Schluter, Messrs. G. Collingbourne, Chas. Cooper, J. Dewhurst, Frank Finn, John Frostick, Chas. Harris, F. Knight, C. A. Luer, Rosslyn Mannering, C. T. Maxwell, W. H. Mugford, J. C. W. Meadows (Luton), J. Montgomery, P. Pearson, H. Schluter, Allen Silver, A. J. Shipton, W. A. Shepherd, F. Thynne, T. R. Trower, S. M. Townsend, R. J. Watts (Watford), and V. Wynn. Mr. T. R. Trower was elected to take the chair, and, after a few encouraging opening remarks, called upon Mr. Silver to outline the proposed scheme, which he did in a very lucid manner, with the evident approval of all present. Letters of regret at inability to attend, but in full sympathy with the movement, and offers of support, were read from the Marquis of Tavistock, Lady Morshead, the Hon. Mrs. McLaren Morrison, Miss A. B. Smyth, the Rev. G. H. Raynor, Messrs. H. D. Astley, John Andrews, Frank Howe, C. H. Row, W. Swaysland, G. Rattigan, W. T. Rogers, J. Robson, A. S. Treasure, J. T. Edmunds, J. Weir, and Wesley T. Page. A proposition that the league be formed was carried unanimously, Mr. Pearson proposing that the word "keepers" should be added to the title, was seconded by Mr. Cooper, and carried. The following is a list of officers elected: President, Mr. A. Ezra; vice-president, Mr. C. T. Maxwell; patrons, Lady Morshead, the Hon. Mrs. McLaren Morrison, Mr. H. D. Astley, M.A., F.Z.S., M.B.O.U. the Rev. G. H. Raynor, M.A., and Mr. Gerald Rattigan; chairman, Mr. T. R. Trower; executive committee, Miss L. Clare, Mrs. F. Thynne, Messrs. J. Dewhurst, John Frostick, H. W. Meadows, J. Montgomery, W. T. Rogers, W. A. Shepherd, A. J. Shipton, and R. J. Watts; auditors, Mr. C. Cooper, Mr. Rosslyn Mannering; hon. treas., Mr. J. C. Schluter; hon. sec., Mr. Allen Silver, 303, High Road, Streatham, S.W. The annual subscription was fixed at 3s. 6d., in order to bring the privileges of membership within the reach of all. A proposed classification for 29 classes was handed round, and in the event of this being accepted at one prominent exhibition in London, arrangements will be made for the guaranteeing of a certain proportion of classes by the league. As funds come to hand it is hoped to extend the offer to all societies who already give at least six classes for foreign birds. This is probably all that can be done during the first season, but with the hearty co-operation of all bird-keepers much may be accomplished. The following donations were offered towards the objects in view: Mr. Trower, £2 2s., and the offer to guarantee a certain number of classes if the proposed classification was adopted at a selected show; Mr. Allen Silver, two silver cups: Mr. John Andrews, silver cup; Mr. C. T. Maxwell, £1 1s.; Mr. Montgomery, £1 1s.; Mr. J. Schulter, £1 1s.; Mr. Chas. Harris, 10s. 6d.; Mr. C. A. Luer, 10s. 6d.; Mr. Meadows, 10s. 6d.; Mr. R. J Watts, 10s. 6d.; Mr. John Frostick, 10s. 6d. The question of suitable headquarters was settled by Mr. Montgomery generously offering the committee the use of a room free at 24, Duke Street, Piccadilly, S.W., where it was decided to hold the next meeting on March 11th. Hearty votes of thanks to the chairman, the promoters, Mr. Montgomery, and the donors to the guarantee fund closed a remarkable meeting, which, it is hoped, marks a new era in the history of the foreign bird Fancy. It now rests with exhibitors and others interested to prove by their actions that they are not apathetic to the efforts that are being made on their behalf.

JOHN FROSTICK.

R. A. Newley is "the" man for breeding and stock cages. Order at once. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W.—(Advt.)

We hear from Mr. A. Nicol, sec., that all prize money won at Bathgate Show has been paid, and that specials will follow later.

Have you seen Enoch Tams' advertisement on page 228? If you cannot see what you want in it, send for his new Price List.—(Advt., 572))

Will secretaries please note, writes Mr. J. Stevenson, sec., that the Thrums C.B.A., Kirriemuir, has fixed Dec. 6 for its annual open show.

Please announce in your valuable paper, Cage Birds, writes Mr. J. Jeffrey, that I have resigned the secretaryship of the Sunderland C.B.A.

I beg to acknowledge receipt of gold medal won by me at the late Crystal Palace Show from Messrs. Trower and Co., writes Mr. T. J. Hose (Clapham).

Mr. John Rukin, so long hon. sec. of the Lancashire and Lizard F.A., has resigned, and the new hon. sec. is Mr. A. Martin, 6, Allison Street, Shaw, near Oldham.

I have removed to 19, Fairfield Terrace, Manningham, writes Mr. H. Grange. I intend starting breeding again. I shall be pleased to see new and old friends.

Owing to an oversight, Mr. Harding, of Wellingborough, breeder of Greens, had his advertisement last week placed under "Norwich." Those interested please note.

The Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S., writes Mr. W. Hodson, hon. sec., has paid all its liabilities to the London Federation of C.B.S., on its withdrawal from the Federation.

Cage Birds 1913 Annual, I consider, contains a wealth of information and is invaluable to every fancier. I thank you for sending me my copy.—W. J. Dean (Matlock).

At the last meeting of the Bishop Auckland and Dis. C.B.S., writes Mr. R. Elliott, hon. sec., Mr. H. W. Battye was elected judge for the first annual open show, fixed for Nov. 19th.

We hear from Mr. W. Tallantyre, sec., that the annual open show of the Haltwhistle C.B.S. will be held on Nov. 21 and 22. Messrs. J. Patterson, Chirnside, and T. Dixon, Bedlington, will judge.

At our meeting held March 5, writes Mr. G. Lord, sec. Radcliffe and Dis. C.B.S., we decided to hold our first Feather Show on the first Saturday in July. Room and judge to be decided at a later meeting.

I have been appointed secretary of the Edinburgh Norwich and Mule Breeders' Society, writes Mr. J. Stormont, Glendevon Place, Murrayfield, Edinburgh, and all communications should be sent to me.

Will you kindly allow me, writes Mr. W. Hathaway, to remind fanciers about the new new society for Openshaw and district? Next meeting March 19th, at 8, at Good Intent Temperance Hall, Old Lane, Higher Openshaw.

Cage Birds 1913 Annual to hand, and you have indeed "backed another winner," for it eclipses all previous issues. The articles are a credit to the contributors. It is a dirt cheap sixpennyworth.—J. W. Metcalfe (Liverpool).

We shall esteem it a favour, write Messrs. Ogden Bros. if you will add to your report of our annual prize distribution that we will give a trophy value ten guineas for competition, in the Y.C.C. We have only decided on this to-day.

I thank Cage Birds and its artists, writes Mr. R. Jamieson, jun., Linlithgow, for the fine drawing of my Light Mule, "Scotland Yet," which appeared on the front page of the issue of March 1. I wish Cage Birds every success.

London and Provincial O.S., Thursday, March 20, 8 p.m., "Raglan Hotel," Aldersgate Street (next G.P.O.). "Questions and Answers." Now then, novices, come and ask questions about your birds, and get them answered by experts, and ensure a successful breeding season. This meeting is free, and all welcome.—(Advt.)

Cage Birds 1913 Annual to hand, bigger and better than ever. It is absolutely indispensable to every fancier. Young fanciers in particular will find it a guide and friend, while old fanciers will find much useful information in its pages. No society official should be without a copy. Truly it is a wonderful sixpence worth. I hope the Annual will have a record sale.—J. S. Napier, hon. sec. Arbroath C.B.S.

EASTER HOLIDAYS.

In consequence of the Easter Holidays next week CAGE BIRDS will be published one day earlier, and be on sale Thursday Morning, March 20th. All "copy" must reach us Tuesday (March 18) first post at latest.

ADVERTISERS:

Remember to send your advertisements NEXT WEEK to reach us TUESDAY FIRST POST CERTAIN.

FURTHER: Kindly send along your advertisements for The following week's issue (March 29th) at the same time.

The offices of CAGE BIRDS will be closed from Good Friday to Easter Monday inclusive.

We have engaged the following gentlemen as judges for our next annual show, Dec. 6th, writes Mr. Duncan, sec., Clackmannan C.B.S.: Mr. J. McLay, Kirkintilloch, Canaries; Mr. Raine, Cathcart, British and Foreign. A number of classes are to be added to schedule, which the committee hope will meet the wishes of all fanciers in the area (15 miles from Alloa), and they sincerely hope they will have their support. Six new members have joined since last show.

OBITUARY.

The members of Aberdeen and Woodside Bird Associations, writes Mr. J. Lyon, express their sympathy with their esteemed member, Mr. James Sandison, of Great Northern Road, whose wife died very suddenly, and was laid to rest on March 8. The Fancy is poorer by the loss of such a woman, for to her counsel and assistance were due the measure of success achieved by her husband. We all tender Mr. Sandison our most sincere sympthy in his bereavement. May he be given strength to bear up under such trying circumstances.

I do not know whether Messrs. Trower and Co., Food Specialists, of London, have furnished you with a list of the winners of their specials, offered at the last Crystal Palace show, for birds fed on their seeds, etc., but I am pleased to inform you that I had a very pleasant surprise on Thursday morning last, in the shape of a lovely silver medal with gold centre, which I take to be the special offered by this firm for the second best bird in the Canary Classes.

The City and Suburban A.C.B. has issued a very neat book of rules and fixture list for the season 1913-14. It is distinguished by an exceptionally good and attractive series of items arranged by the go-ahead secretary, Mr. V. Wynn, for the entertainment of members on the various meeting nights, and the lectures, discussions, etc., should bring out a great deal of valuable information anent to the hobby. Fanciers desirous of joining should communicate with Mr. Wynn (22, Park Lane, Piccadilly, London, W.).

The Norwich P.C. Patronage.

Societies desiring the patronage of the Norwich Plainhead Club should write to Mr. F. Cunliffe, sec., 19, Lark Street, Burnley.

Long Service Appreciated.

The committee and members of the Markinch C.B., etc., Society, held a smoker in the Galloway Inn, March 8th. Mr. John Thomson, sen., chairman, called upon Mr. Adam Grant, the oldest member of the society, to present Mr. Arch Mitchel with a marble timepiece, for his valuable services rendered, first as secretary, and afterwards as president, during a period of 27 years. Mr. Geo. Mitchell was also presented with a timepiece for his services as secretary for the last 17 years. Both gentlemen very suitably replied, and hoped the society would go on and flourish. A very pleasant evening was spent in song and sentiment.

My advert. of Goldfinches brought me 19 applications, and I disposed of birds on Monday. I thank all those who wrote me, but could not reply to all of them. "CAGE BIRDS" is undoubtedly a fine advertising medium, people writing me from all over the British Isles.—W. D. Eley (Mumbles).

I am pleased to say my advert. in last week's "CAGE BIRDS" sold me eight birds to people who called to see them. My Norwich hens are now all sold; enquirers please note. This speaks volumes for "CAGE BIRDS" as the best advertising medium. I also had several enquiries from different parts of the country. Wishing our splendid paper every success.—T. A. Hathead (Purley).

Wild-Bird Life.

March Notes.

We are now in the middle of the month of March, and we feel that we have safely passed the worst of the winter, and that although we may get the usual cold cutting winds, we are not likely to have any long period of bad weather. The wild birds are particularly forward; one can hardly see how it could be otherwise, as food has been plentiful, and there have been no adverse climatic conditions to check their progress. Rain we have had in abundance, but this does not appear to have much effect upon adult birds; it is the frost and snow, and the consequent absence of food, that throw them back and deplete their numbers. We are so used to having a single Robin in our gardens, that two of them continually together is an almost startling sight, and, somehow, hardly seems natural. The pair haunting the writer's premises are on the most affectionate terms, and can hardly move without each other. They are constantly peering into odd corners, and appear to pay particular attention to a clump of ivy straggling over an old tree stump, and climbing on the fence. We hope they will find hereabouts a spot to their liking, but fear the ancient elms or the old brick wall, with many cosy nooks in it, surrounding the park will have the same attraction for them as in former years. Even if this should be the case, we shall not lose our familiar friends altogether; they are constantly in the garden, and one, at least, is practically with us all the year round. In selecting nesting sites around buildings and in gardens it always appears that wild birds show more fear of domestic animals than of human beings. A cat or dog constantly running about will do more to prevent birds nesting than the owner's continual presence. Human beings they get used to, and place confidence in, but not animals, for of these they are always suspicious.

THE PHEASANT.

Along the thick hedgerows and in the woods the strident call of the cock Pheasant is now a familiar sound, and if we wander quietly along the edge of the plantation he can often be seen out in the open, accompanied by his soberly-clad partners. The plumage of the male bird is rapidly assuming its most gorgeous colouring, and no wild birds of the woods is such a striking object, his size alone would attract attention, and added to this is a ruddy breast, greenish iridescent neck, and bright red face. His walk is a strut of conscious importance, that tells one plainly he considers himself the Lord of the Woods.

Where Advertising Pays.

More Remarkable Testimony.

CAGE BIRDS will sell your surplus stock at once. Advertise, and see for yourself.

I had great success with my small advt. in "CAGE BIRDS." You might state that all Budgerigars are sold. I thank those who enquired for them, as it is impossible to write to them all. I had 66 letters and cards. I wish "CAGE BIRDS" the greatest success.—J. Robb (Crossgates, Fife).

I have received an order for Mealworms from South Africa, also an order for Husk Nests from Budapest, Hungary, writes Mr. T. Pearson (Royal Menageries, Greenwich).

The Crested Hen, 1st Carlisle, is sold, Mr. John Main, Aberdeen, being the plucky purchaser. I had so many answers to my advert. in "CAGE BIRDS" that I cannot reply to all. All those who sent a stamp I replied to, but wish to thank all.—George Goulden (Carlisle).

Kindly allow me through "CAGE BIRDS" to thank all those who replied to my advertisement, for they were too many to answer singly. I wish all readers success.—J. Morris (Nantymoel).

Kindly thank all those who answered my advert. for Budgies and Cockatiel. I had so many replies (and still they keep coming) that it is impossible to answer all individually. I disposed of the four Budgies and hen Cockatiel to one person, who answered by first post Saturday. With all good wishes for your most helpful paper.—A. Munday (Axminster).

I had 12 replies to my advert. for the two Goldfinches. Please thank all those who replied, as I cannot answer them all.—W. G. Taylor (Southall).

I have had over one hundred answers from my advertisements the last three weeks. Will you please thank all those who answered them, through "CAGE BIRDS," as I cannot write to each one individually. Whenever I have anything to sell I can always do so through "CAGE BIRDS."—J. A. Robinson (Rushden).

Grand result of my last advert. under "Norwich"; nearly all sold. Everyone satisfied I have sent to.—C. Hillmen (Aufield).

BIRD KEEPING IN A NORTHERN AVIARY.

Besides the large rhododendron in the aviary, I have a cypress bush and another of box wood. I try also to grow hop and clematis; but these have not been very successful, in spite of my efforts to shield them from the attentions of the Bullfinches, etc. As a matter of fact, I find Canaries are as destructive as anything, and my Twite-Canaries are certainly great delinquents. Grass grows over about half of the ground space. The Spice Birds seem to be very fond of eating the tender blades.

Some time ago I noticed in CAGE BIRDS a correspondent stating that to cure bronchial trouble in Canaries a good plan was to turn them into an outdoor aviary. I wondered at the time if it was said in satire! But I may say that one of the two hens in my aviary was put out last May, after a winter indoors, and she had become decidedly "wheezy" (in spite of "cough mixtures" and supposed cures). I was afraid that she would probably get worse, and perhaps succumb during the winter. Instead of that she seems to be quite cured, and I have not heard her cough or wheeze for long, and she does not seem to mind the cold at all.

Nothing Could be Prettier.

Early in the year I was fired with enthusiasm, on reading an article in CAGE BIRDS about Waxbills, to put up a separate aviary, in the sunniest spot I could find, entirely for Waxbills, in the hopes that I would get them to breed. This is a very snug affair, with a span roof partly glass, and a shelter house 3½ft. x 6ft., the flight being 8½ by 6 and a good height. I have a large species of reed planted at one side, which grows to about 6ft., and an artificial grass bank and a box shrub, besides other twigs, etc. Nothing could be prettier than the little Waxbills disporting themselves in and amongst these. I put in originally 9 Grey, 4 Orange-cheeked, one Golden-breasted, and a pair of Cordon Bleus. They got the length of building three nests, all on the ground, and all belonging to Greys; but they did not lay any eggs to my knowledge. I am sorry to say that their number is now reduced to eight, including the cock Cordon Bleu, who now seems very hardy, and the Golden-breast, who is the smallest of all. I hope if they come through the remainder of the winter that they may achieve something next summer.

In May I was given a fine pair of acclimatised Gouldian Finches, and, as I knew they were delicate birds, I decided to put them in with the Waxbills. I turned them out in June, and in July they went to nest in a cigar box inside the shelter house. On August 7 I heard interesting sounds proceeding from the cigar box, which grew louder and louder each day, and on September 1 five fine youngsters put in an appearance in the flight. The youngest of these must have fallen from the nest and been injured, and he died that same night; but I still have the other four outside, in spite of all weathers. I also have their mother. The cock, alas! I have lost. On my return after a fortnight's absence in October I found him dead, as also all the second nest full of youngsters, which had hatched just before I left. The hen had evidently ceased to feed them when the cock died. Had I been at home I might have succeeded in hand-rearing them, as they were partly feathered and well grown.

Something Worth Doing.

The cock was a very fine bird, a Black-head, and always in perfect plumage. I do not know what was the cause of his death, but presumably a chill. The young ones seem quite hardy, and should, I think, come through the rest of the winter all right. I cannot yet tell their sex from their plumage, but I have seen two of them singing for all they are worth, and probably have two cocks and two hens. I shall buy another cock for the old hen, and try my luck again. I think it might be worth while to build up a strain of hardy Gouldians!

To return to the aviary. The Goldie and the Bullie hen paired off as soon as the cock was taken out—she never seemed to miss him at all. This I consider decidedly strange, and I am awaiting with interest to see what will happen this spring, as these same birds are again flying loose in the aviary, and they say that Bullfinches pair for life. The hen built a nest in the "scrub." I may mention that in the flight grows a large rhododendron, which I prune judiciously, making it send out new shoots where required, and on the branches on the side which comes under the tarpaulin I tie large bunches of heather, juniper, and withered bracken. These make a sort of "jungle," which provides cosy roosting places, and delights the heart of mother Bullfinch when selecting a site for building purposes.

Not to be Imposed Upon.

In her first nest she laid two eggs, which I exchanged for Canaries, which looked very much like her own, but she must have detected the deception, for she deserted at once and laid no more there. The two I removed I placed under a Canary, but they proved unfertile. She then repaired into the shelter and built a nest in a clump of whins in the corner. She laid four eggs, but something happened, as I found two thrown out, and she deserted again. Having no Canary ready, I gave the remaining two to a fancier, who had a convenient hen just beginning to sit on 5 eggs. One got broken in transit, but the other egg hatched out, and the young bird lived for a week, but being small it got "smothered out" by the young Canaries.

Nothing daunted, the Bullfinch built another nest higher up in the whin. It was so well concealed that it took me several days to spot it without interfering too much. She sat her full time on 3 eggs, but nothing came of them, though one was fertile. On giving up this lot she built another nest outside, in the "scrub," and, laying four more eggs, again sat her full time. I was just on the point of leaving home again or I should never have done what I did, but thinking the eggs were overdue and useless, I removed them, replacing them by 2 Greenfinches' eggs on the point of hatching, as I wished to see what she would do. I broke my "useless" eggs, one, two three, and the fourth, alas! contained a bird about a day off from hatching! My feelings at that moment were not to be envied. The Bullie hatched the two Greenfinches and was feeding them when I left home, but on my return a week later they had entirely disappeared, and I do not know what happened to them.

SOME PROBLEMS OF MULE AND HYBRID BREEDING UNRAVELLED.

By J. STEEL (Dalkeith).

What new varieties of Hybrids would you consider worth trying for?

While I have seen some breeders put up pairs for Hybrids which revealed either a sad ignorance of species or the possession of an abnormal development of the bump of faith, the number of crosses which, though as yet unproduced, are not outside the bounds of probability, is very large. I find that Hybridisers are strangely averse to trying for anything new, and would rather devote time and patience to the improvement of some variety which has already been proved possible of production. The Canary-Bullfinch is a conclusive proof of this lack of initiative on the part of Hybrid breeders. The pairs I would suggest for experiments would be, Siskin-Bully, Hawfinch-Greenfinch (reversing the sexes if more suitable, or preferred), Crossbill-Bullfinch, Chaffinch-Greenfinch, Bramblefinch-Greenfinch (this latter I have proved possible by breeding and rearing a youngster of this cross to 12 days old), and Linnet-Chaffinch (this also I have verified, quite a number of fertile eggs being obtained from this mating by a Fife fancier last year. I would strongly advise transferring the eggs from the two last-named crosses to a Chaffinch's nest.

Will it prove Fertile Soil?

The Bunting family is virgin soil in which to experiment, as though I have seen quite a few claims to the production of Yellowhammer-Canary Hybrids, all have failed to stand the test of analysis by the best experts. I would confine my Bunting experiments to the crossing of the various members of that genus, such as Corn-Snow, Yellow-Cirl, Reed-Meadow, It will be seen that by reversing the sexes quite a number of crosses are "possible," any of which would, if a good specimen, be a triumph of hybridisation. These eggs would also be safer transferred after they had been proved fertile, as though I have succeeded in Canary rearing both Bunting and Chaffinch, the number of failures does not bode well for the chances of rearing their Hybrid offspring.

Of Hybrids between insectivorous species we have few, if any, instances. I remember seeing an account of Thrush-Blackbird being obtained, but apparently the event failed to create that stir which a new variety of Hybrid generally raises, which is scarcely to be wondered at, as the resemblance such a cross would bear to a hen Blackbird would probably result in its being declared a "rare-feathered" specimen. We have had quite a few such masquerading as Hybrids. The breeding of the Grey Wagtail in confinement by Mr. Nicholson, of Stockton-on-Tees, should stimulate interest as to the possibility of crosses between the various members of this graceful and charming family. In the Warblers the same may be said. The success which has crowned the efforts of that prince of aviculturists, Mr. Teschemaker, of Teignmouth, to breed these in confinement has opened up a vista of possibilities. Of these I am inclined to favour the Blackcap-Greater Whitethroat as being the most likely to be successful. The 'Gale, Robin and 'Starts, members of the same sub-family, are not unworthy of consideration from a Hybridising point of view. If we include all the foreign Finches, Buntings, Larks and Starlings, and weigh up the chances of crosses with their British relatives, we cease to wonder why the foreign section has such an attraction to the Hybridiser. Possibly he dreams of a time when a National Board of Avicultural Research, instead of watching species live their lives out in a zoo, gives hybridising the same attention floriculture gets at Kew, and sees beyond the present to a future when our land shall resound with strange bird voices, and our woods and hedgerows shelter birds of gorgeous plumage, as a result of our old-world avifauna having been blended with that of the new.

The Blue Niltava.

By HUBERT D. ASTLEY, F.Z.S., M.B.O.U., Etc.

Many of our readers were delighted with the opportunity of admiring the chaste beauty of the charming Blue Niltava exhibited by Mr. H. D. Astley at the London C.B.A. Show, and pourtrayed by our artist, Mr. H. Goodchild in our Birthday Issue. We are sorry, indeed, to learn of the death of this exquisite little bird, and are much indebted to Mr. Astley for the following notes.

A good many aviculturists have seen the beautiful Rufous-breasted Niltava, with his brilliant purple-blue upper parts, but few except those who went to the L.C.B.A. Show at the Horticultural Hall, in November last, have seen the Blue Niltava. The male bird's head, back, and tail are real sapphire-blue; his cheeks, throat, and breast being black; and his under parts snowy white. I believe that my bird was the only one in Europe, certainly in England, and I only exhibited him once, and never shall again, for he died a few weeks afterwards. A sad loss! Mr. Goodfellow brought him over from S. China last summer, when he, at the same time, imported the rare and lovely Mikado Pheasants from Formosa. The Blue Niltava is a native of China and Japan, is a migrant, and may be seen, I believe, in certain parts, seated in flycatcher-like fashion on tombstones in cemeteries, or on other posts of vantage, his mate accompanying him, looking very different with her pale brown colouring. In the sunshine this blue bird is most beautiful, and I cannot bear to think of his loss, for I took him last September for a two months' stay in Italy, so that I could care for him during his moult, which he successfully accomplished. There I was able to give him plenty of black meadow crickets, which he much appreciated, and he never, until after he had been to the show, evinced any signs of ailing; not that I wish to imply that his death was due to his being exhibited.

He used to come out of his cage, and would sit and sing his charming song. His notes gave one the impression of a Robin's, mingled with wilder metallic sounds, reminiscent of moorlands and heaths, of Whinchats and such-like denizens of the uplands.

Up to the time of his fatal illness he had always appeared strong and healthy, though inclined to corpulency, so that one had to limit his food supply, and allow him plenty of exercise. He would take a mealworm from my fingers, and was a great bather, plunging in to a bath two or three times a day.

WHY YOU NEED IT.

Thousands of birdkeepers throughout the world have profited exceedingly by "CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL," and the issue for the current year has been eagerly awaited. Of "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" we are able to say that never before has such a grand production been offered to Fanciers for the small sum of 6d. (8d. post free).

In 192 pages, 6¾ inches by 4 inches, "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" minutely traces out every phase of cage-bird keeping from January to December. The contents have been so carefully arranged and indexed that with a minimum of trouble the Fancier in doubt, be he beginner or old hand, may in a second solve any problem which may face him.

No matter what is wrong in your birdroom or aviary, reference to "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" will immediately right matters; no matter how often you may be exercised in your mind as to which of two methods is the better, the "ANNUAL" will enable you to decide.

In compiling the "ANNUAL," the Editor has not only considered the hobby during all the defined periods, but has endeavoured, with a great measure of success, to foresee and prescribe for every possible emergency. With "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" at hand, you will find that the year in your birdroom will go swingingly, without the many disappointments which hitherto have made you almost give up the hobby.

"CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" is the reference for beginner and expert, for big breeder and small, and for those who keep birds for either pleasure or profit.

Exhibitors, Society Secretaries and Show Officials, too, are catered for no less than ordinary Fanciers. This marvellous year book, the golden cover of which is but an earnest of the sovereign value of its contents, will be found to contain full particulars (alphabetically arranged) of some 600 Cage Bird Specialist Clubs, ordinary Societies and Singing Clubs that are flourishing in the Kingdom. Just turn up this section and see the most convenient to join, and the advantages of membership.

The past Show Season has been a record one, and in the "ANNUAL" will be found magnificent reviews of every variety seen on the bench, together with lists of the principal winning exhibitors. These reviews are not to be found elsewhere, and, written by specialists who have closely watched the course of events through the season, they, with the full standards and scales of points that are also given, afford exhibitors practical and infallible guidance in their preparation for big things next season.

With "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL" to help you, you will be able to gauge for yourself what chance of success your exhibits have, or whether they are worth sending at all.

The "ANNUAL" contains the only full list of Judges published, with their qualifications. Show Officials please note.

all go to make "CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL"

The Evolution of the Canary.

By, J W. CUTMORE (Liverpool).

A Lecture delivered before the Anfield, Everton C.B.S.

It is sometimes asked, which came first, the bird or the egg. When commencing to breed Canaries, we usually procure the birds first, but perhaps the best starting point for a talk of this description is with the egg. The external appearance of a Canary egg is familiar to everyone here, so I will only describe its internal structure. The diagram No. 1 shows the kidneys of a bird and the female organs, the ovary and the oviduct. In the male there are two small oval bodies on the kidneys, which are as large as peas in the breeding season, but as small as a pin's head in winter. These are the tests. In the diagram (Fig. 1), the ova are shown very prominently; one ovum is ready to pass into the oviduct, where fertilization takes place When the ovum is ripe it passes into the upper portion of the oviduct; here it is surrounded by the spermatozoa, which have worked themselves up through the oviduct from the cloaca where they have been deposited by the male, perhaps only a short time previously, or it may have been days. One or more spermatozoa find their way into the germinal vesicle and fuse with the contents; impregnation follows.

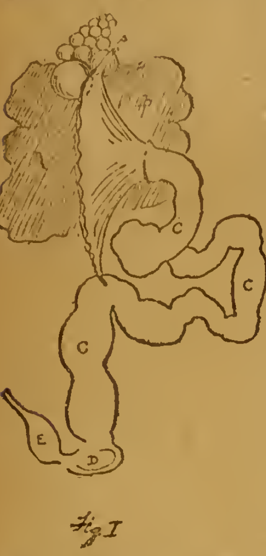

Fig. 1: A, ovary; B, kidney; C, left oviduct; D, cloacal chamber; E, abortive right oviduct.

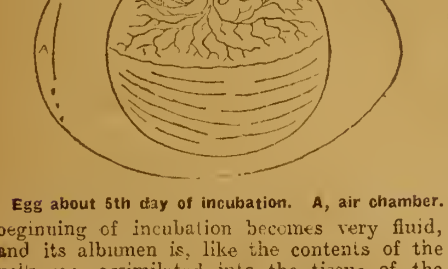
On Its Way to the Outer World.

The egg, having been received into the oviduct, is propelled in a spiral course by the peristaltic contractions of the walls, and receives from the glands of the lining membrane a mantle of albumen, or the "white of the egg," which contains 86 per cent. of water. At the ends of the egg the white shows like twisted cords acting as elastic pads to steady the yolk. The egg passes on to the part of the oviduct where the shell membrane gives the egg its final shape and covering, first a skinlike lining, and then the shell. At the broad end these coverings tend to separate and form an air-chamber between them: this is not noticeable in a fresh egg, but makes its appearance and increase in size as the white of the egg loses in bulk from evaporation. When the egg shell is completed, the egg is protruded into the lower chamber (the cloaca), big end foremost, and out through the vent by violent contractions of the wall of the cloaca—the egg is "laid."

The whole mass of the white of the egg between the shell and the yolk soon after the beginning of incubation becomes very fluid, and its albumen is, like the contents of the yolk sac, assimilated into the tissue of the young embryo. A few days before hatching it is used up completely. The whole embryo changes its position in the egg about three days before hatching, so as to be lengthways in the egg, with its beak touching the delicate shell membrane where this forms the inner wall of the rapidly increasing air-chamber at the broad end, and on about the 12th day the beak, furnished with the hard "egg-tooth," is thrust through the inner shell membrane, and the bird begins to breathe the air contained in the chamber. Thereupon the heart becomes active, and the blood flows freely to and from the allantois. (See B Fig. 2.) This old supply, "the allantois system," dries up, and the navel through which it had supplied the nourishment closes. The chick by repeated filing motions pierces the shell at the broad end with its egg tooth, that little white speck formed on the end of its beak, (a small crack is sufficient to break the egg), and steps or tumbles out into the world—it is "batched."



Egg about 5th day of incubation. A, air chamber.

The length of the period of incubation varies in different birds, with large birds it is longer than with small ones. Climate and season have their influences, high temperature above the normal does not hasten incubation, but a lower temperature retards it; an occasional slight cooling of the egg retards the development of the embryo.

An Indication of Energy.

We pass on now to the fully developed bird. A bird has been described as an organism round a stomach Birds are big eaters; this largeness of appetite is an indication of strength and energy; little appetite, little energy is a rule that holds throughout nature. Of course, the appetite alone without proportionate digestive power would be worse than useless. In all birds the alimentary canal is well developed. (See Fig. 3.) In the seedeaters the crop is a distinct sac, in which the food is first retained; then it passes on to the stomach proper (the proventriculus), where the soft food is digested, the harder food passing on to the mill (the gizzard), where it is crushed up by the aid of the stones swallowed, and the contraction of the muscular walls of the gizzard. The food is then fine enough to be acted upon by the digestive juices from the liver and pancreas in the duodenum (small intestine). The breathing apparatus in birds is very powerful, the lungs are not large, but have the addition of air sacs along each side of the body, the bones are also hollow.

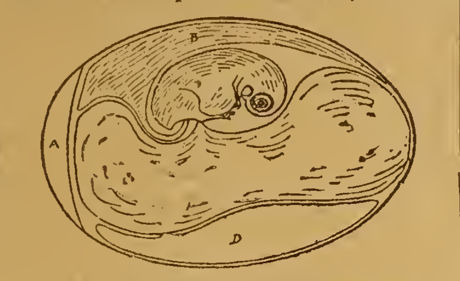


Fig 2: Egg A, advanced stage of incubation. A, air sac; B, allantois; C, yolk; D, white.

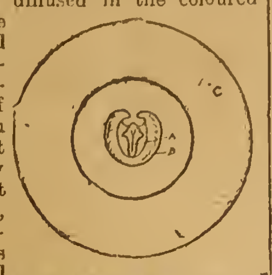
A feather is an elaborate growth, especially those of the "tail" of a Peacock or the wing of an Albatross, but it is nevertheless an epidermic growth similar to our finger nails, or to the scales of a reptile; when fully grown it is more or less a dead thing. All feathers are concave underneath for resisting pressure from below, feathers do not grow all over the body, but in tracts. Moulting is a reptilian characteristic, inherited from their remote ancestors (these ancestors we will deal with later on). Most birds moult completely in the summer or autumn; many have in spring a partial moult at which only small feathers are shed. The colour of the feathers is produced by pigment, or by structure, or by the combination of both. First, the so-called chemical or absorption colours are always due to colouring matter, which may exist in the form of a solution diffused in the coloured parts, or in the form of pigmented corpuscles, distributed in and between the cells of various parts; such colours do not change under any position of the light or the eye; black, red, and brown always belong to this class, orange and yellow mostly, but rarely green and never blue.



After about 86 hours of incubation. A, embryo; B, area vasculosa; C, yolk sac.

Some of the principal colour pigments are: Zoomelanin (black), an animal colouring matter distributed in shapeless little corpuscles. Zoonerythrin (red), such as seen in the Red Cardinal and Scarlet Ibis. Zooxanthin (yellow), such as seen in legs, feet and beaks of birds of prey, etc., like zoonerythrin, it is a coloured fatty oil. Brown is the result of a mixture of red and black colouring matter. There are other colouring pigments, such as turacin, found in the wing of the African Turacou, and easily extracted by acidulated water, but these do not concern us here, as we are dealing with the Canary.

The Case of the White Canaries.

As there are white Canaries now, we may consider this lack of colouring matter. White is never due to pigment, it is due to there being an innumerable number of interstices between the molecules (feather structure) or the air cells in its substance. The whole substance of a white feather is colourless, its texture forms a fine network which diffracts and reflects the light. Yellow, as seen in the Orioles, and green, as found in Love Birds, is produced by the combination of a certain pigment with a special structure of the colourless part of the feather. Blue has not been discovered as a pigment, blue feathers contain only orange or brownish pigment, the blue appears on the outer surface structure of the feather. (To be continued.)

The Thrush and the Malewurrms.

AN ILLIGANT STORRY AV A BROTH OF A BURRD!

Our esteemed contributor, Mr. J. Steel, Dalkeith, sends us the following contribution. There seems to be poetry, as well as pathos, lurking somewhere in its depths, but we print it in prose form as received.

"Sure, it's busy ye are, Pat, this marning; it's the illigant trinch yez have made. Is it the landschape your afther adarning? Be the powers, yez can handle a spade." "Misther Faney, it's glad aim to say yez, for it's misery loves company, they say, and me heart and me back's far from aisy, what wid sorra and digging this day, but sit down and loit up your dhudeen, and yez may just take a luk at thot can. Yes, thim's wurrms, and its digging the same oi have been. There's a tousand in there if there's wan. But its betther you'll be understanding, since its absint you've been for a whoile, if oi till yez now why oim dispandint, what wance was the loif of Straboyle. De yez moind me woif's brudder, Dan Glaincy, him what lives down beyant at Portrush? Well, he came on a wisit last Saint's-day, and he brought her a foine singing Trrush. Sure the crathur brought joy to the cabin, for the bhoys wid their colleens would come, and sit round the dure ov an avening, whoile it sung till decloine ov the sun. Sure to hear it 'ud done your heart good, Fane; aven the hunthers would come home our way, and sthop for a whoile at the fut ov the lane, and listhen to ut's swate meloday. And sometimes a colleen would favour, wid such songs as rach all Iirish hearts, and the burrd 'ud choime in and sing wid her, and in swate 'Gra Machree' take a part. But black gloom now rists over Balliney, and me Norah's near out ov her wits, and its all Sackville Strate to a pinney, that this moment she's in hoisterics. Oi was planting the praties last Friday, whin Tim Brinnen's bhoy brought me the wurdd, 'You're to come home at once, Misther Grady, for there's something gone wrong with the burrd.' Oi was aff, Faney, loike a lamploiter, but oi knew better far than go home, for oi moinded Phin Dooley, the writer, kept some burrds, and had a tillyfone. And, though his place was a good tin moiles distant, Killmeded Post Office was two, where me brudder Dan's bhoy is assistant, he'd ask Phin what he thinks oi should do. Sure Dan's bhoy soon got talking to Dooley, and they gabbled away for a spell, oi was asked to state simpytums fully, and advoised to get Cage Burrds' Nut Shell. 'Put wan fourth ounce ov spirits in its wather, if it caffed, then give some gloicerine, some male wurrms in the cage I should scatter, and be sure that oi kipt its fate clane.' Sure the spirits ut first was a tazer, for how could we waigh out potheen, till Mike Healey, what knows waits and measures, say ov drams in an ounce there's sixtane. But the male wurrms they bate us complately, sorra won the blamed riptoiles cud sex, Nid Malloy swore faymales differed greatly, for the haymales had rings round their necks. For a whoile, Fane, oi thought we'd have ructions, so sez oi the way out the fix, and to carry out Dooley's insthructions, is the whole wurrms and nutshells to mix. So we dug wurrms ov all sorts and soizes, and turned in a hundred or more, but the number of faymales surprised us, for the whole but won cript to the flure. Phin, the house is a loive wid the varmints, and me wolf's chasing hins in her slape, it's a score more ov ducks we are wanting, to ait up the wurrms that escape. But oi mane to kape at it till Froiday, for oi gave Misther Dooley me wuurd, that from now oim a constant subscriber, for our Trrush owes its loife to Cage Burrds."

"BALDNESS" IN BULLFINCHES.

A CONSIDERATION OF ITS CAUSE AND CURE.

By Mrs. M. B. PARTRIDGE (Worthing).

I think these notes may interest readers of Cage Birds, and I hope that some will correct, and instruct me, if my assertions prove incorrect.

A hand-reared cock Bullfinch, born in 1909, an exceptionally fine bird, developed after his moult this year a yellow scaly disease extending across the back of the skull over the right eye and the edge of the ear. My usual treatment of sulphur and glycerine was apparently too strong for this bird, for the skin became inflamed. Therefore I applied daily, by means of a fine camel-hair brush, Jeyes' fluid, in the strength of three drops to a tablespoonful of water, which caused baldness. Internally, I gave a dose of Epsom Salts, as much as would lie on a sixpence dissolved in his drinking water, for one day only, followed by half a teaspoonful of fluid magnesia in water on alternate days, plain water on the other days. After about a fortnight, the scale loosened and came off, leaving healthy skin underneath.

The Trouble Re-appears.

Unfortunately, I was called away from home, and had to put the bird back with the others, and on my return I found that the disease had broken out again badly. After a few more days of internal, and external, treatment, a small scab came off, which I examined under the microscope. It was really too thick to see the structure very clearly, but fibres like branches of trees interlacing were easily seen. Finding the bird inclined to be slightly thin, I gave Parrish's chemical food in his drinking water for a fortnight, which did him much good. After more treatment a tiny scab with feathers attached fell off, and the disease disappeared from the head, the parts round the eye and ear being the last to become clean. At first I feared loss of sight, for it was very difficult to paint so close to the eye, and the constant lowering of the nictitating membrane showed weakness.

When the skin was quite free from scales I rubbed in fresh lard on alternate days, and soon small papillae bearing tiny feathers appeared. These I see daily growing, and fresh feathers breaking through the skin, but in patches (instead of in lines, as usual) thus showing where the softest parts of the skin are. As the bird looks well, and is lively and full of song, I believe the perfect gain of new feathers will be only a matter of time.

The Conclusions Arrived at.

The following points have suggested themselves to me:—1. The disease is a fungus growing on the epidermis only. Proof:

(1) When the scale comes off, the skin is soft, and healthy, underneath.

(2) The presence of these scales does not cause loss of feathers, but the treatment with Jeyes' fluid did.

(3) When the scale is gone, and the skin softened, feathers reappear.

2. The disease is generally (though not in the case quoted), the result of malnutrition. Hitherto, I have found birds thus afflicted in a very thin condition, but this one was in very good condition, with bright shining plumage, and in song.

3. The disease is non-contagious.

4. The disease is peculiar to Bullfinches, probably to middle aged or old birds, and probably due to their being deprived in captivity of the animal food, e.g., flies and insects that they would get in the wild state.

The Opinion of a Noted Fancier—
"It makes Bird Breeding Easy."

THE STOCK BOOK

Compiled by G. E. WESTON.

Simplifies the operations in the Bird-room and makes it possible for every-one, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. It affords facilities for the recording of the complete pedigree of all your birds; of your experiences during the season; an account of every bird reared. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird and Show Registers of simple and unique character; Cash and Profit and Loss Accounts for the year. Gives valuable hints for times of emergency during the breeding season.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

IS IT AS GOOD? (Miss M. L. B.).—I myself prefer the homely egg and bread or biscuit prepared fresh as often as required. See last part of reply to "Willie, Belfast," in last week.

SWANSDOWN LININGS (R. O.).—(1) Yes, it is necessary to stick the linings in the pans with some adhesive. (2) Ordinary flour or starch paste is perhaps about the best thing for the job, being at once handy, harmless, and effective. A little common flour mixed to a stiff cream with cold water and used sparingly is sufficiently adhesive, although any ordinary paste or "sticker" may be used. (3) It is not necessary to cut out the lining over the holes in the nest pan.

TREATMENT FOR OVERFED HENS (G.M.D.).—By far the best plan would be to keep an eye on the birds from about Christmas onwards and prevent them getting into an overfat condition by limiting the diet both in quantity and quality, if necessary, as soon as they appeared to be getting beyond a condition of moderate plumpness, and giving them plenty of space for exercise. It is quite late now to commence reducing them. Keep in the largest cages you have, as it is rather too late to run them in groups in flights, and allow only a teaspoonful of seed per bird per day. Give only plain canary seed for two days, then equal parts canary and rape for one day, and the next day equal parts canary and white millet, and repeat this course again and again until birds are sufficiently reduced. Give a liberal supply of green food daily. In the drinking water give as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and after that six drops of tincture of gentian and three of tincture of calumba for three or four days.

CANARY QUERISTS

should consult St. John's "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (7d.); House's "Canary Manual" (1/2); Battye's "Yorkshire Canaries" (1/1½); House's "Norwich Canaries" (1/1); Weston's "Stock Book" (7d.); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping (1/1); Norman's "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); Ramsden's "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); "Seeds and Foods for Cage Birds" (1/2); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 5 "The Pet Canary," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 10 "The Roller," No. 23 "The Border Fancy," No. 24 "Green Canaries." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

BLEEDING WINGS (E. Warrender).—It is quite useless washing or interfering with the bird's body to prevent red mites. As I am frequently pointing out, these pests harbour in the cage or quite near, and visit the birds only at night. It is quite possible for a cage so recently limewashed as yours to be infested, so you may make a good search about it and its surroundings. On the whole, however, I am inclined to think your attentions to the birds are the cause of the bleeding and loss of feather. Do not wash her again this side the breeding season. Keep mites at bay by regular weekly dressings of the cage with some such insecticide as essence of quassia, but do not disturb the bird. Just touch the ends of perches, joints of floor, and any likely harbour, such as cracks, open joints, or nail holes with a small camel hair pencil dipped in the fluid. Touch the sore places with Lanocyllin three times in one week. I suspect the birds were not really ready to mate, so if the hen has made no preparation for nesting, separate them for a week or ten days, and treat both birds as advised to "Brighton" last week for a backward cock.

A POINT OF HYGIENE (Room, London).—You do not mention the size of the room in question, but if it is of ordinary dimensions, and sufficiently well ventilated for the requirements of human occupants, I do not hesitate to say there would be no risk whatever to the health of a person sleeping in the same room, always provided the cages were kept scrupulously clean. As a matter of fact, if the cubic capacity of the room was too small for the living occupants, or ill-ventilated, so that the air became vitiated and impure the birds would be the first to suffer, so as long as they thrive and flourish and are kept in a perfectly clean and inoffensive condition, their health may be taken as a fairly safe indication of the hygienic conditions of the surroundings.

THE ETERNAL HOPE (A. Jordan).—It is a pity you were so badly advised when you bought the birds, as they were clearly not ready for mating, and the season was also too early. This is the sole reason for the nesting material being pulled about and wasted. To prevent further errors of this kind, you would do well to get a copy of "Canary Breeding for Beginners," 7d, post free, from our manager, and be guided through the coming season by the information you will find there. Meantime, take away the nesting material, and do not give the fresh supply until you see the hen going often into the nest pan scratching about, turning round, and calling to the cock. Then, if the cock is attentive and copulation is taking place, you may give a supply of material, and things will go more satisfactorily. Give a staple diet of a mixture of three-parts canary to one part summer rape, and add the extras advised to "Brighton" last week for a backward cock, but do not give the medicines in water, as these are not necessary for your birds. For the rest of the season, you will find full information in the handbook mentioned above.

NORWICH HEN ILL (Silarie).—I am afraid the hen will be of very little use for breeding, and you would be best advised to bar her from the breeding cage, and get instead an active healthy hen. In addition to the staple of plain canary, give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a fortnight, and on these days give also a pinch of a mixture of equal parts maw, sesame, and gold of pleasure. On the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of a seed mixture composed of two parts each of hemp, niger and charlock; one part each of millet and teazle; a half part each of thistle, linseed and broken groats; and a quarter part of mustard seed. Give two leaves of dandelion daily. In the drinking water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny piece every second day for a week, and in the following week give instead four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day.

UNRESPONSIVE COCK (Novice, Lincs.).—You are quite correct in your surmise that the cock was not ready for mating. Having this suspicion, it is difficult to see what you could expect to gain by mating them. There is really nothing to gain by such a procedure, but much may be lost, as when the hen is coming forward nicely, as was the case with yours, putting them together incites the hen to start nesting, and, in many cases, to produce a clutch of eggs which are quite useless. Separate the birds again, and if the hen has got forward with nesting and you can get another cock which is a suitable mate for her, and in good condition and full song, let him take the place of the one you remove for the first nest at least. In this way you will avoid having a first clutch of unfertile eggs. Cage the cock you remove alone, give a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape, mixed together, and treat him otherwise the same as advised to "Silarie" in this issue for two or three weeks.

OUTDOOR BIRDROOM (Experiment).—With the exception of two details, I think you are quite on the right track, and may safely go ahead and carry out your idea. The exceptions are that you purpose building with five-eighths inch wood, but do not say whether you intend to make walls single or double. If the former, your timber is scarcely substantial enough to maintain a fairly even temperature, and you should add a lining inside of thin boards and fill in the space between with wool waste or sawdust. It will be well worth the extra outlay and trouble. The ventilators you mention at each end will, I assume, be high up near the roof, and will be exits for vitiated air, but you make no mention of any inlet for fresh pure air. This must not be overlooked, and should be placed low, near, or in the floor. As the floor will be raised off the ground, I would suggest an airway underneath and a ventilating grid for inlet in the centre of floor. The birds will certainly flourish in such a place without artificial heating.

MATES, AND CROUPY COCK (M. O. P.).—(1) The best age for mates for your young birds bred last June is either 1911 or 1910 bred specimens. They must, of course, match their mates in typical points quite irrespective of age, which is of minor importance compared with physical features. A 1912 bird, early bred for preference, if it matches its prospective mate in typical points, would be preferable to an older bird that did not match it. (2) I would not advise you to breed again with the old cock that makes "a croupy noise." See that he is in a comfortable place free from draughts. In addition to the usual seed diet, give a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut soaked in cold milk, drained, two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with maw seed. Give this every second day for a fortnight. On the alternate days give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts inga, teazle, millet, and gold of pleasure. Give two or three dandelion leaves daily. In the water add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn for three consecutive days, and afterwards five drops each of glycerine, oxymel of squills, and ipecac. wine, and two of eucalyptus oil well shaken in the water every second day for a fortnight.

VENTILATING SHED (Perplexed).—Thanks for your letter with sketch and further details, which put the query much more clearly. With a little trouble the shed adapts itself excellently to very efficient ventilation. Take away one board from the ceiling midway between partition and window, or, if they lie in the other direction, remove one from the end over the window to the partition leaving the ceiling untouched beyond the partition. Then, in the highest angle of the end of the window, or rather as high as the angle will allow you to go, cut out a space six by four inches, and in the middle of the side containing the door cut out another space six by four near the floor. Cover both these spaces with perforated zinc, a separate piece nailed over on the inside and outside in each case, and the sheets arranged so that the zinc of one sheet eclipses the holes in the other when looking straight at it. This will prevent draught, and provide good ventilation when the door cannot be kept open. The shelves for cages will be best placed on the end at the side of the window, the side in which the door is placed, and the partition facing the window. The side opposite the door will be too draught-swept when the door is open, I fancy, so the most I would advise you to have on that side is a large flight or stock cage, placed near the centre. This side would do best for storing seeds, appliances, etc., on shelves or in cupboards.

CREST AND CREST-BRED (F. Wood).—Thanks for letter. You were clearly under a misapprehension, which I am pleased was removed by last reply. There is nothing to add to that reply about the mating of the two hens, save to say that the one with the most perfect crest, irrespective of size, is the one you should mate with the Cinnamon marked Crest. You would do well to read up the chapter on the Crest and Crest-bred in Part XII. and XIII. of "Our Canaries," also the article on mating in the current CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL.

BREEDING IN LARGE CAGE (J.W.C.).—Your cage is small for running two hens and one cock together. You may succeed, and you may not. It is so much a question of the temperament of the birds concerned that only the actual experiment can decide the matter. You would have had a much better chance of success if you had made the same space into three separate compartments, the bottom one 3ft. 4ins. long, and 19½ins. high, and above this two compartments, each 19¼ins. high, and 13¾ins. long—that is, allowing ample space for the dividing partitions. You could then run a hen in each of the upper compartments, and work one cock with them alternately, or, if you preferred doing so, make up two distinct pairs by using both cocks. The lower compartment would have served the purpose of a nice roomy flight to transfer the young birds to when able to leave the hens. See reply to "A Constant Reader" last week about running two hens with one cock.

YORKSHIRE HEN WITH INSECTS (P.A.N.).—Although you say the hen is in good condition, it is a singular fact that these insects, which are grey lice, almost invariably attack birds that are weak and out of condition, and the panting, failure to moult properly, and the fact she is the only bird in a group of many thus infested, all seems to point to the fact that she is decidedly below par. The quickest and surest way of dealing with the insects is to hand-wash the bird twice with an interval of a week between, and in the first and second waters add a teaspoonful of creolin to each pint of water. Whilst bird is drying, well wash out its cage with a similar solution. Remove the bird to a moderately warm temperature until the weather gets mild and settled, and in addition to a staple diet of plain canary seed, give a small teaspoonful of scalded rape every second day for a week, and on the alternate days a morsel of bread and milk with two drops of the cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with soft sugar. In the drinking water add twenty drops of whisky, ten of glycerine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, two days in every three. After the first week feed her as advised for a backward cock to "Brighton" last week.

DIET FOR ROLLER SCHOOLMASTER (Constant Reader, H.R.).—A staple diet of good German rape, with a quite mild nutty flavour when a little is chewed in the mouth, is best for a schoolmaster. Reject any dusty samples, or one that "bites" the tongue when chewed. For extras give the same as advised to "Hoopoe" last week, or get the Nutshell booklet on the "Roller," for full details of feeding. You cannot safely prevent the birds coming into breeding condition as Spring advances, especially as you are compelled to keep them in the same room as your breeding stock. The most you can do is to limit the supply of mixed seed and such stimulating foods. Give only a small pinch of mixed seeds about every fourth day, and a small teaspoonful of egg or biscuit food once a week only. As the birds' staple diet will be rape, add one part of good sound canary to the seed mixture. Give a fair sized spray of green food daily throughout late Spring and Summer. It is a bad plan to keep your schoolmasters among the breeding stock. It would be much better to keep them quite beyond ear-shot, and transfer the young cocks as soon as ready from the breeding room to that occupied by the tutors.

A WRONG STEP.—(J.F.).—If the hen has not made any start at nesting separate the birds again for a fortnight, and meantime feed up the cock. The hen seems sufficiently forward, so if you feed her the same as the cock for the last four or five days of the fortnight's separation, it should be quite sufficient. Give the cock a staple diet of three parts Canary to one part summer rape. Every second day give half a teaspoonful of egg-food, or crushed sponge cake, with half the quantity of a mixture of equal parts maw and gold of pleasure mixed in it. On the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, black rape, and teazle, with a sprinkling of mustard seed in it. Give two small dandelion leaves daily. If the hen has been given nesting material, take it all away until after the birds are re-mated. In case the hen has already commenced nesting, you can do nothing but let nature take her own course, and hope for the best.

MISSING CLAWS (F. T. Craig).—It is difficult to say whether the missing claws will be reproduced or not, as you give no idea how long they have been lost, or of the cause of the loss. In most cases the total loss of a claw is permanent, but the rule is not invariable. I have known a claw torn out by being caught in the wires reproduced in about six months, and in other cases lost claws have regrown after the lapse of more than this number of years. Keep the cage floor and perches as clean as possible, and try the effect of bathing the feet for a few minutes three times a week in a lukewarm solution of wych hazel—a teaspoonful of the extract in a saucerful of luke-warm water. After bathing dry carefully, and anoint them with a little Lanocyllin. You may also try the treatment advised to "Brighton" last week for a backward cock, to bring out his song.

PREPARING CAGES FOR BREEDING (Breeder).—Provided you dried the cages well and allowed the odour of paraffin to pass off in the open air before putting the birds in them, there could be no harm in saturating the woodwork with paraffin before starting to breed. Neither, if the above conditions were fulfilled, could any real good come of it for preventing mites later on in the season. The only reliable way to keep red mites at bay is to thoroughly overhaul the cages before starting to breed, and then maintain constant vigilance throughout the summer to prevent any settling in any likely harbour. It is utterly useless thinking you can paint something over the cages now, and then take no further concern about them all through the summer. Read up my article in the last birthday number on this subject. (2) Beyond a nauseating effect, I do not think the smell of paraffin is particularly harmful to birds. It is a case where one might reason by analogy. Imagine yourself cooped up in a close room, the walls of which were washed over with paraffin, then, surely you would not inflict a similar existence upon a bird. (3) It is early yet to mate birds. The last week in this month, or first week in April is soon enough.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.,

WHAT BIRD? (D.P.H.).—Your bird is the Guira Cuckoo, which, in the aviaries of Lord Poltimore, nested and fully reared one young bird in 1911. Diet: Insectile mixture, live food, and finely minced raw meat. Do not overdo latter. The live food can consist of caterpillars, beetles, cockroaches, mealworms, and almost any kind of larvæ or pupæ the garden supplies. This species is not parasitic. It will be better to give as much live food as possible, and not too much raw meat.

TALKING BUDGERIGAR (Alice Hobert).—Such are not common. At the same time it is merely a case of patient training and attention. I should think the mating would not check its loquacity, though when busy with a brood it might only talk at intervals, or perhaps stop for a short period. Budgerigars breed both in cages and aviaries—more freely in the latter. They do well out-of-doors, and are usually very prolific. Aviary birds seldom talk, however, and any you want to train must be taken quite young and caged. Budgerigars are charming birds in an outdoor aviary.

OUTDOOR AVIARY (Retlaw).—No, the birds certainly would not, or very seldom indeed, go under the partition. What I advise, as the shed is already well lighted by a window, is to board up from the ground to eaves, and only leave open the entire angular portion under the roof. When altering the roof of flight—wood to wire netting, I advise letting the roof of shed overhang flight by from nine to twelve inches. I think you would find the above alterations fully meet the case. You might make a wooden shutter, hinged at back, which would partly cover the flight, to be propped open during the day and let down at night; also during long periods of wet or severe weather. This could be easily arranged with ordinary skylight fittings. What I mean is, the present covered portion of flight could be strapped together to form a hinged shutter, which could be raised and lowered at will; wire netting, of course, being stretched beneath it.

BLUE-FRONTED AMAZON (Polly, London).—I do not think you need be under any apprehension. Your bird is a young one, and the earlier moults are irregular with such. Keep it where it will get light and air, be out of draught, but not in a stagnant corner of the room. Give it the following seed mixture (do not allow it to feed entirely on sunflower seeds): One quart each canary and white millet; one pint each hemp and white oats; half a pint each dari, maize, paddy rice, and sunflower seeds, half handful of chillies; well mix and keep supply in cage. Dry biscuits, ripe fruit, nuts and greenfood, also to be regularly supplied. Keep a piece of cuttlebone in the cage, and keep grit and sand scattered over the tray. While the moult lasts put half-a-teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates every other day into the drinking water.

IS IT SUITABLE? (J. Fraser).—Yes, the sketch suggests a very suitable small aviary, which at the same time could be made very much more so by the addition of an all-wire flight the same size as shed at the south end. The cost would be very small, and you could grow in it grass and cereals. It would tend greatly to the welfare of the birds. All that would be required would be to erect two 2in. sq posts parallel with the south end of shelter, 6ft. from it; connect these at front, back, and ridges with tie rods, 2 x 1 inch, and a skirting board (9in.) at base of end and front, and then stretch wire netting over it and put in a few branches and turn one of the wire netting spaces in south end of shed into a hinged door to give them ingress and egress from the shed. If your Budgerigars have the constitution they should breed for you this season, presuming they are true pairs. I should not screen off any portion of the shed.

should consult Page's "Foreign Birds for Beginners" (1/1½); Arthur's "Budgerigars and Cockatiels" (6d.); Arthur's "Parrots for Pleasure and Profit" (7d.); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 14 "Gouldian Finches," No. 16 "Avadavats," No. 17 "The Grey Parrot," No. 18 "Budgerigars," No. 19 "The Pekin Robin," No. 20 "Waxbills." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet St., London, E.C.

WHAT BIRD? (D. E. Pithie).—I am rather at fault re the bird you describe, and incline to the opinion that it is in mature plumage and may eventually alter at the next moult. As it is already beginning to talk you certainly obtained it cheaply. I will keep the query by me and try and define if for you a little later. Re the Passerines, some pairs of these are very wild at first, and I can only advise perfect gentleness and quietness when attending to their wants, gradually accustoming them to the sound of your voice, and keeping them where they will not be subjected to hurried movements in their vicinity. With some it is a work of time, but complete confidence should ultimately come. As to how long it takes, this is very variable with respective individuals.

AVIARY QUERIES (G. S. W.).—You give me no idea as to what groups—Parrakeets or Finches—you prefer, neither do you give county, etc., thus my reply must be limited entirely to reasonably hardy species. Here are two selections, either of which you might have, but you must not mix up the two selections: (1) 1 pair each Zebra, Bib, Ribbon, Spice, and Green Singing Finches, Avadavats, Bengalese, Silverbills, Golden-breasted and Orange-cheeked Waxbills, Long-tailed and Rufous-tailed Grassfinches. "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1/1½, Nutshells Nos. 16 and 20, 2½d. each, will tell you all about food and management for the above varied and pleasing series. (2) One pair each Green and Yellow Budgerigars, Madagascar and Blue-winged Lovebirds, and either Cockatiels or Ring-necked Parrakeets. "Parrots for Pleasure and Profit," 7d., and Nutshell No. 18, 2½d., would guide you as to feeding and treating above.

GREY PARROT (W. Wood).—You must give me more details. You give me no idea at all. Is the parasite internal or external? If the latter, dust the affected parts with insect powder. You have evidently let it get into a very bad state before asking for advice, but I cannot help you till you give full details, and also tell me how you are feeding it. In the meantime get bottles of Dinneford's Magnesia and Byno-phosphates from your chemist, and put one teaspoonful of the former into the drinking water, stirring this up several times during the day. After an interval of three days repeat the dose; on the others days, that is when not giving the magnesia, stir half teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates into the drinking water.

PIGEON-COTE AVIARY (R. H. Walsh).—In the first place, unless the cote is well lighted, the birds will not use it. Introduce a square or two of glass, sufficient to make the interior quite light, but all glass must be covered with netting on the inside. Also make one or two holes, say, six inches square, for the birds to go in and out by close up under the roof, as well as one larger one lower down. I do not think I should attempt to do too much filling up. I advise as under: Get mates for the Ring-neck, Red-crested and Dominican Cardinal, and the Ribbon Finch. Also, you could include pairs of the following:—Rosella Parrakeets, Blue-wing Lovebirds White Java Sparrows, Saffron Finches, Red-eared Bulbuls, Pekin Robins, Madagascar and Napoleon Weavers, Cowbirds, Glossy Starling, and an additional pair of Budgerigars.

IN POOR PLUMAGE (Waxbill).—(1) You should put this bird in a roomy cage till early in May, and put half-a-teaspoonful of byno-phosphates in its drinking water every other day; let it have a bath every day if it will take it, and keeps a millet spray continually in the cage, and as soon as you can get sound green food, free from frost, give it a tuft daily. I take it you have an outdoor aviary; if so, you should turn this bird out of doors in mid-May, and leave it there, at any rate, for the summer, and I opine it will recover tone and plumage. (2) I know several aviaries which contain holly, and which the birds use, but I should not personally care to have this for the sole evergreen. I should add a box or some kind of cupressus as well. The common broad-leaved laurel is a good aviary bush, so is euonymus, fir, privet, hawthorn, etc. If you were to give me dimensions of aviary and what it already contains, in the way of plants and birds, I could give a more definite reply.

NEW ARRIVALS (Nemo).—(1) It is impossible give you an adequate reply in this column. Our Nutshells Nos. 6 and 9 should help you, 2½d. each from our manager. All birds, on arrival, need careful nursing. Clean cages should be ready for their reception, and they should not be crowded together, but given conditions which will enable them to feed and rest comfortably, and so recoup after the voyage. They have no chance kept together in a crowd. The room in which they are put should be airy, and at the same time not draughty, and the atmosphere temperate. A few drops of fluid magnesia (Dinneford's) and some form of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water is beneficial. Of course, the birds should have only clean, sweet, wholesome food, and grit should only be given with caution to hardbills at first. Care must also be exercised that the birds do not over-drink, which often occurs when the water supply has been restricted en route. These are general directions, which may be said to apply to all species. (2) Birds in a weakened or debilitated condition are very liable to be so attacked, and on the first sign of parasites, wash them in a tepid solution of quassia, and when dry, dust with insect powder. (3) Our Nutshell No. 19 gives full details. These birds need ripe fruit ad lib.; soft food and live insects. On arrival a little milk sop is very beneficial, and also for a little time afterwards—condensed milk, boiling water, crushed biscuit, or sponge cake, and a little Mellin's Food, mixed rather sloppy. Bathing the eyes with a solution of rose-water and zinc is very beneficial. (4) Bathe the nostrils twice daily till relieved with a tepid, dilute solution of glyco-thymoline. (5) A good simple preparation is one part each ants' eggs and dried flies and two parts each crumbled sponge cake and biscuit (arrowroot biscuits are good). In a dry state this will keep indefinitely. For use, take the required portion and make it crumbly moist (not sticky wet) with boiling water; then afterwards stir in a little grated carrot or minced lettuce. Note.—The birds must be kept under observation, as most of the complaints referred to are contagious, and ailing birds should at once be isolated. Kept together in a crowd, and practically no period of rest after arrival, it is not surprising if mortality is heavy.

PARROT WITH SWOLLEN EYE (Constant Reader).—The eye must be cleansed with tepid water and then bathed with a dilute rosewater and zinc eye solution (from any chemist). At the same time keep the bowels moving quite freely with occasional doses of Dinneford's Magnesia (one teaspoonful in the drinking water), but the bird must not be scoured. On the days you are not giving the magnesia, it would be well to put half-a-teaspoonful of byno-phosphates in the drinking; continue the above treatment while the trouble lasts. Stop giving the bread sopped in tea, but if it cares for the moistened bread, then moisten the bread in a little sweetened water. It should have some kind of ripe fruit daily, and occasionally a nut. Keep cuttlebone in the cage, and it will be well to promptly remove the voidings. Apparently the mouth is a bit slimy also, get a box of honey and borax from your chemist, and put a little in its mouth. I have found it easy to give this on end of a stick, most species being quite ready to nibble the end of the stick; but the stick must be cleansed each time previous to dipping it in the mixture. I should say the trouble had arisen in the first instance by a draught catching the eye.

PAINT FOR INSIDE AVIARY (B. S. F.).—Hall's washable distemper is a good preparation if put on thinly and evenly, and allowed to dry hard before the birds are turned in again. Duroline is another similar preparation, and answers equally well. Both preparations can be put on with an ordinary distemper brush, as they are of about the same consistency. It is well to wash walls and woodwork with a strong Condy's Fluid solution before applying the colour preparation. A pale sea green shows up the birds well, and there are very few colour harmonies it clashes with.

AILING GREY PARROT (J. E. K.).—Continue to use the Dinneford's Magnesia sufficiently often to keep the bowels moving quite freely, but there must be no appearance of scouring. In addition to the seed, let it have ripe fruit liberally, the biscuit is wholesome, it can also have a nut or two occasionally. Keep cuttlebone and grit in the cage. It should be kept in a warm but well ventilated room, yet out of the reach of draughts. I should bathe the nostrils daily with dilute glyco-thymoline. Also it would be the better for half-a-teaspoonful of byno-phosphates in the drinking water on such days as you are not giving the magnesia. Report progress a fortnight hence.

LOVEBIRDS, ETC. (W. H. B.).—(1) "Foreign Birds for Beginners" tells you how to manage Budgerigars, and many other birds, and the Madagascar needs the same treatment as the Budgerigar, with one exception, that is, a roomy box is a better nest receptacle than a husk for this species; the box must be closed all round with, say, a two-inch circular hole for entrance near the top at one side, or a small barrel would answer equally well; also you must supply it with leaves, pieces of thin bark, etc., which it will carry into the box and construct a nest with. (2) An Alario Finch or a Cape Canary (Grey-necked Serin) would be the better bird for such a cage. It is not roomy enough for a Pekin Robin. (3) A little sweet apple, if they will take it, or lettuce (tender and fresh), but you'll soon be able to get flowering or seeding grass now. They can also be given a little of any sort of salad on hand that they will nibble at.

WILL THEY LIVE OUT OF DOORS? (B.S.F.).—I should not care to risk the Shamah as company for small Finches and Waxbills, unless the aviary is a very roomy one, and the demeanour either of the Loo-choo and Japanese Redbreast is also doubtful; the Robins have not yet been tested out of doors, but unless your locality is in the extreme North, if the aviary has a good weatherproof and well lighted shelter attached to it, I should have no hesitation in leaving them out myself, providing they had been out the whole of the summer. All the other birds you name could be successfully wintered in a properly constructed outdoor aviary, and if not too crowded, should agree well together—a little sparring always occurs during the breeding season.

WAXBILLS NOT AGREEING (E. A. B. N.).—Even in an avairy, except with gregarious species, I never advise more than one pair of each species, and in a cage, if any attempt is made at nesting, three pairs would be fatal, and I am sorry to say that spiteful cock Cordon Bleus are by no means uncommon. Personally I have never found either Avadavats, Orange-cheeks, or Gold-Breasts disagree, and I think you would be safe in keeping, say, Avadavats and Gold-Breasts (Zebras) together, or Orange-cheeks and St. Helenas, or Green Avadavats and Cordon Bleus, if you take the precaution of putting a cocoanut shell or rush nest at each end of the cage; but generally speaking, if breeding is attempted within the limits of a cage, the better plan is one pair to each cage. However, individuals vary very much, and I have seen a crowd of a score or more Waxbills living quite happily within the limits of the so-called "Crystal Palace Aviary." Under the conditions of cage life, plucking each other bald is a vice Waxbills are very prone to, and the only remedy is to isolate the plucked one till in good feather again, and if the plucker persists in his vice, it must have a spell of solitary confinement also, whatever happens. I think I should leave the cock and two hens together, and chance it for a time at any rate. I should say it would be best if you could arrange an exchange, and only keep one pair of Cordons. I fear Firefinches would be quarrelsome if they attempted to breed with other species in a cage. If you have not got our Nutshell No. 20, I should advise you to get it; it will help you.

GOULDIAN FINCHES (Gould).—You cannot do much more than you are doing. You might try a little crumbled sponge cake moistened with a little boiling milk, and sprinkle a pinch of maw seed over it. Some Gouldians will peck at a slice of sweet apple, and a small lettuce leaf. You should grow grain for them in half-a-dozen pots on a sunny window sill, and watered regularly according to the weather; one pot could be cut over daily and supplied to the birds. As regards the canary and millet seedlings, they benefit even from the pecking of it, and undoubtedly some little is eaten. Get some Lark turves and put these either in pots or small boxes, and treat as above, and you'll easily be able to keep up a supply, no matter how built in you may be. Moreover, during the season it should be easy to arrange with some cottager in the country to send you up a supply twice a week for a trifle. Take the nest away for a time, unless it contains eggs, in which case leave it, as it will check the attempt to produce others immediately; but if there are either eggs or young, leave them and treat as above. Keep cuttlebone in the cage, and put half-a-teaspoonful of byno-phosphates in the drinking water daily for a month. If you take away the nest, do not return it till mid-April. The bird evidently is not fully in condition, and she is finding the sudden atmospheric changes trying.

ROCK PARROTS (Rock Parrot).—I am afraid that keeping birds mated does check their propensity to talk. The excitements of married life are too much for him, and for the same cause I am afraid you cannot check the shrieking of the hen; it is pure excitement. I am glad to see they have the liberty of the room, and if you hang up for them a small barrel or log-nest, they will undoubtedly breed. Some of the excitement of the hen may arise from house-hunting and being unable to find what she requires. There can be no given quantity; the appetite of respective individuals varies too much; it's a case of filling the tins and replenishing as required, especially with birds getting ample exercise.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

BREEDING QUARTERS (G. Heath).—You might very likely succeed in the Crystal Palace aviary, but I have no hesitation in saying that a good big box pattern breeding cage would be by far the more suitable.

HAND-REARING BLACKBIRDS (R. Piper).—Get a copy of the "Nutshell" booklet dealing with the Blackbird (only 2½d. post free), and in it you will find the method of hand-rearing described, together with much other valuable information.

A SMALL INDOOR AVIARY (R.M.C.).—Your feeding is far from correct. Surely you must have often read that wild-seeds are for occasional use, not for use as the staple item of diet. Stock seed mixture should be: Canary and teazle two parts each, summer rape and sunflower one part each. Also make up a mixture of wild-seeds two parts, niger and maw half-part each, and vary this with hemp, giving a small tablespoonful of each alternately, every second day. It will no doubt be better to hang the seed and water outside, but make some provision for a bath.

FEATHERS KNOCKED OUT (Joey).—It is not uncommon for a bird to lose its flight feathers, generally as the result of a fright, and sometimes the tail feathers are lost as well. If it happened in the night, no doubt the bird was startled—sudden noise, or light, mouse, cat, etc., possibly (who knows?), a bad dream—when it would dash madly about the cage for a time, losing its feathers in the process, until its alarm subsided. No permanent harm is likely to accrue; no doubt the Mule will have his new feathers all spick and span in 6 to 8 weeks from the day of the accident. If wakened suddenly (startled) birds are very liable to take fright and dash about panic-stricken.

HEN BULLFINCH SINGING (F.W.L.).—You do not own a unique specimen, as the hen Bullfinch always "sings" quite as well as the cock when she is "feeling fit." Hens, too, learn to pipe tunes quite as proficiently as do cocks. One of the best piping Bullies I ever listened to was a member of the gentler sex.

THREE WOODLARKS (O. S.).—There is not any certain way of sexing Woodlarks, except by the song. Cock and hen are very similar in plumage, though the latter, contrary to general rule, is usually the better colour and the better in markings. The male, however, as in the case of the Skylark, is always the bolder in bearing, more fearless and "cocky" in manner, and can be told with certainty by those well acquainted with the species. I should think that the one which has never sung is a hen. Could you not try putting it along with the known cock—or the two cages side by side and watch their behaviour. You should soon then be able to accurately arrive at the sex.

INTO THE UNKNOWN (E.E.S.).—As a Hybrid between Magpie and Jackdaw has never yet been bred, my answer can only be more or less guess-work. It does not occur to me in the light of an impossibility. Your birds certainly seem determined to put the matter to the test, and I hope you will let them go ahead and see the matter through. The fact that the hen Jackdaw is building a nest proves that she, at any rate, is in deadly earnest, and I have no doubt that the Magpie will ably aid and abet her. Whether the Magpie-Jackdaw Hybrid is produced, or whether it isn't, I hope you will kindly let me know how the couple continue to behave, and what progress is made.

CORPULENCY AND MARRIAGE (W. G. Smithson).—The method most likely to bring success would be the mating of (1) cock Siskin, hen Canary; (2) cock Goldfinch, hen Bullfinch. Still, it would be a far greater achievement to breed Siskin-Bullfinch Hybrids, if only your birds would oblige, as this cross has yet to be obtained. It is useless to attempt to try each cock with each hen; the only tangible result will be "ructions." Make your mating and then stick to it for the season; it is seldom anything accrues from a policy of chop and change, especially where hen Bullfinches are concerned, for they invariably "cut up rough" (very rough) with any fresh husband one endeavours to introduce to their notice. Don't take any notice of slight over-fatness; I would always sooner see my birds a trifle fleshy than a trifle the other way about. Plumpness is no bar to success in the breeding cage—only gross corpulency, such as one sometimes finds in birds getting on into years (Canaries I speak of more particularly). Give the Siskin an occasional mild dose of sulphate of soda; as much crushed as will lie on a sixpence, dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water.

FEEDING UP THE HEN CANARY (F.H.).—You cannot do better than follow the method advocated in "Canary Breeding for Beginners." In fact, this is the only way to "feed up" hen Canaries to get them into breeding condition; there is no "special way" for muling hens only. As a matter of fact, it is usually bad policy to feed up muling hens at all, for they are generally fit some weeks before one's Finches. Give the hen that is a bit "slack," and wants bracing up, a course of citrate of iron and quinine (see reply to Miss Haydon); this will soon pull her together. Let her have a teaspoonful of egg-food every other day at least. On the days you are not giving egg-food, offer a teaspoonful of mixed hemp and niger seeds.

SEVERAL ITEMS (D. M. Bidwell).—I cannot recommend as a likely muler the Goldfinch with the broken leg, which has "healed the wrong way." The best bird, and the easiest to manage, would be the Linnet. The "correct" time to start is when both the hen Canary and the Linnet are ready; it is no use doing so before. The hen will tell you by carrying about bits of nesting material, and looking for a place in which to deposit them; the Linnet by singing stoutly, having a deep, slate-blue coloured beak, and fussing around the hen. You should purchase the "Nutshell" booklets which deal with the species you mention; in them you will find full details as to sexing, management, etc. The hen Chaffinch is very different in colouring to the cock; and the same remark applies almost as forcibly to the Greenfinch.

A QUARTETTE (Caruso).—(1) I have never tested this point, but should say 3 weeks to a month, easily. (2) The Blackcap is the freest singer, and sings over the longer period of the year. (3) There is little in it, but I should favour the Blackcap, the chief point being the provision of plenty of ripe fruit. (4) I think the Linnet is the best songster of the British seed-eaters. This birds varies much, however, some members of the species being much sweeter and more musical in tone, also with a greater range of notes than others of their kind. Some Linnets are what I can only describe as "Wooden" songsters—jerky in delivery and lacking beauty (roundness) of tone. Others are silvery-voiced, and utter many mellow, quite flute-like, phrases.

BULLFINCH OFF COLOUR (Miss Haydon).—Get one ounce of crystals of citrate of iron and quinine from a chemist, and give the bird a course of this tonic medicine daily for a week. It will also correct any tendency to looseness of the bowels, which will be helped, too, by giving him a small teaspoonful of maw seed daily for a time. Dose: As much of the crystals as will just cover a threepennypiece, dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water. If necessary, continue it longer, but give then only on alternate days (plain water in between).

GENERAL.

Answered by The Editor.

L. J. Arrigi.—Thanks for cutting which you will see we have utilised.

E. J. Reynolds.—Many thanks for the excellent photos, which we shall have pleasure in publishing in due course.

S. Cooper.—We regret to say that this photograph is not sufficiently clear to permit of satisfactory reproduction.

J. Stout, Jun.—We have read your cutting with interest. It has been held that a cat, like a dog, is entitled to its "first bite." If an aggrieved person can prove that a cat, which has destroyed or injured his birds, was known by its owner to be mischievous in this direction, an action for damages would be likely to be successful. No one has a right to keep a domestic animal which is known to be dangerous to the person or property of others.

H. Saxton.—We cannot understand why you have received no answer. Look in Mr. Page's column next week. We are inclined to think the bird is merely an Ortolan Bunting, an inexpensive bird, sometimes imported in large numbers, and sometimes sold as "Auckland Nightingales," or by some similar ridiculous name.

Roller Singing Society for Leigh, Lancs.

Sir,—A very successful meeting was held at the Globe Inn, Bradshawgate. The next meeting will be held March 19, at 7.30, when officers and committee will be elected, and we have every prospect of a very good society. All intending members wishing to join should either attend this meeting, or send their names and addresses to me.

Partnership Points: How Are They Counted?

Sir,—There has been some little discussion as regards point specials for partners at the meetings of our society, the Abertillery C.B.S. Now, would any member of the Yorkshire C.C. or the Southern N.P.C. kindly let me know how these societies count points in the case of partnerships? By so doing they will greatly oblige their fellow fanciers and members of the Abertillery C.B.S.

Proposed Amalgamation of Darlington C. and B.B.F.A. and Darlington C.B.S.

Sir,—Kindly insert in your correspondence columns that we, the undersigned, have decided to call a meeting of the members of the two respective societies, to be held at the George Hotel, Bondgate, Darlington, on Wednesday, the 19th inst., to discuss the affairs of both societies, and to endeavour to arrange an amalgamation of the same, so that we may have one good society in Darlington. We shall therefore be glad if all the members of the two societies will use their best endeavours to be present at the proposed meeting in order that we may come to some definite conclusion on the matter.

Appointment of Judges at Gateshead Show.

Sir,—Kindly grant me a little space in reply to "Bobby," re Judges at Gateshead Show. If he is a member of the Gateshead Society I hope he will kindly address himself to the Society. If not, then I cannot see how it concerns him. This question, a one-man affair, was thrashed out at our committee meeting held December 19th, 1912. Furthermore, as far as I am concerned there is nothing to conceal, and if "Bobby" is an honest fancier and a man of principle, he will come from behind his "nom de plume" and prove himself to be such, as in my opinion a man who hides himself in such a manner is afraid of his skin. If he wishes to ventilate his grievance through the Press, then let him show himself, and I can assure him he will receive all he wants. Otherwise he can only expect to be treated with contempt.

Cockatiel or Cockateel.

Sir,—Although I possess several English dictionaries, not one of them condescends to include the name of this beautiful New Holland Parrakeet. Most people, and most authors (including Greene and Mr. Seth-Smith) spell it Cockatiel, but Mr. Wesley Page and Dr. Butler prefer Cockateel. The latter of these two authors says, "The name is usually spelt Cockatiel, but I have followed the more natural spelling adopted by the Zoological Society." Perhaps Dr. Butler will kindly tell us why he says "natural." The name in question must be a diminutive of the word Cockatoo (which is of Malay origin), but I can't at this moment think of any other English word ending in -iel, or -eel, and denoting a small form of something larger. I wonder who invented the word I have been discussing.

(Rev.) G. H. Raynor.

Newton's "Dictionary of Birds" gives the following: Cockateel, a bird fanciers' name lately invented by Mr. Jamrach, and now in common use, being an English adaptation of Kakatieljc, which, in its turn, is supposed to be a Dutch sailor's rendering of a Portuguese word, Cacatilho or Cacatelho, meaning a little Cockatoo, and applied to the Australian Cockatoo-Parrakeet, Calopsitta novae-hollandiae, a favourite cage bird.—Ed.

Some Important Points Discussed by Mr. Prior.

Sir,—Every person of either sex who is interested in the keeping of even a single caged bird is under a debt of gratitude to Mr. T. R. Trower, for the vigorous and forceful appeal he issues through your columns this week for organised resistance to an organised tyranny. Particularly would I emphasise the following passages, which I make no apology in asking you to reprint:—

> "We have not done with these prosecutions. The need for banding together to properly fight each one is stronger than ever. Will every bird dealer, bird-keeper, and seed-dealer, help and assist? Or is this only a small explosion to be forgotten when the smoke drifts away? If so, one day the big catastrophe will come, and no wild birds will be allowed to be kept in cages.
> "The R.S.P.C.A. exists by getting convictions. It is its business, and it and its officers would cease to exist if they failed to do this. . . . . They are supported by a very wealthy and influential set of patrons, and plenty of money to back up their work. . . . . Now, you keepers of birds, will you fight and uphold your interesting and valuable hobby? Are you men and women, English people? Are you going to be downtrodden and have your shows destroyed, because certain faddists choose to call your innocent and enlightened hobby cruel?"

I beg most earnestly of bird-keepers in general, and the trade in particular, that they will give heed to these repeated warnings from thoughtful people who are far sighted enough to see that, unless this unwarrantable interference is at once defeated, our hobby is doomed to extinction. I also cordially endorse Mr. Trower's appeal to shopkeepers to have everything in their shops in the highest possible state of cleanliness and well-doing. The hirelings of the faddists who are banded together to destroy our pastime have minds as elastic in their conception of truth as that of the average Kaffir. It would be suicidal, then, to offer them the slightest lever to a successful prosecution in the shape of a specimen really suffering, even in the smallest degree, from neglect. We have recently seen cases decided in favour of dealers in which the decision has turned on conflicting evidence, or a learned (?) discursion into the weirdest of side issues. These are not the kind of decisions we want. We have to vindicate not only our right to keep caged birds, but also our claim that the keeping of them is not cruel. The wickedly untrue, or grossly exaggerated charges of our opponents have enveloped our hobby in a sinister atmosphere. It is our business to clear the air. It is for us to educate our legislators, the dispensers of justice at our law courts, and the great, broad-minded public (who after all will be the final arbiters if things are pushed to extremities) that bird-keeping is not the atrocity that maudlin sentimentalists and professional humanitarians wish to make it out; and that the branding of the thousands of kind-hearted bird-keepers as persons guilty of persistent cruelty is an abominable insult. It is the bounden duty of every bird-keeper, in season and out of season, to impress the truth of the matter upon everyone who will pay attention.

It is equally the duty of all birdshop keepers to remove the stigma of dirtiness and neglect, which has rested upon them in the past. A dirty birdshop is a weapon in the hands of the opponents of bird-keeping, and the worst possible advertisement for its supporters. It would be most unwise to be unduly elated at the failure of the prosecution to secure the convictions they hoped for in these few recent cases. We may be well assured that they will return to the charge. We know already that "Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just." We have also to thoroughly learn the cynical truth, "and four times he who gets his blow in fust." The dirty birdshop is a vulnerable point in the armour of our defence. It must be attended to. Let the bird-dealer make no mistake; every prosecution is a nail in the coffin of his business; every successful one may be a whole row of nails. The dirty birdshop must go.

There is another matter which concerns exhibitors and their societies. I refer to the practice of scheduling classes for field-moulted birds. I would ask show committees very seriously to consider the wisdom of providing these classes. Birds caught during the current show season are not as a rule steady enough to be shown in numbers together. They may behave fairly well at home, but the exciting conditions of an exhibition are too much for them. One fidgety bird in such a class is enough to set the whole lot racing round their cages; and the sight of a score or so of, for instance, Linnets, taking the two perches and the cage bottom at the rate of three jumps a second, carrying their droppings from floor to perches, and scattering them amongst their food as well, is not likely to convey a favourable impression to the onlooker. Even old stagers are not always proof against panic. The idle, prejudiced, and wealthy class who have thrust this quarrel upon us have already shown us what they are capable of in the way of misrepresentation. Let us take care that we offer them no point of attack which it would be difficult to defend. Let us, above all, cease talking forthwith, and act.

C. Prior.

Sir,—In your last issue, Mr. Trower in a letter says: "The R.S.P.C.A. exists by getting convictions. It is its business, and it and its officers would cease to exist if they failed to do so." Now such a statement is most unfair and misleading about a society which has done, and is doing, so much good towards the protection of all animals from cruelty and neglect. It is not a prosecuting society, but aims to keep people out of prison by publishing and circulating broadcast Cautionary placards warning would-be offenders, and its officers are always ready to help and advise people about treatment of their animals. In 1911 25,540 cautions were given, and 7,038 convictions obtained, which bears testimony to the fact that the R.S.P.C.A. prevents rather than prosecutes. Not a single penny of the fines imposed go to the Society, and it is only supported by voluntary contributions.

The Provincial Roller Canary Club's Challenge Trophy.

Sir,—In the first place let me point out that the P.R.C.C. formulates rules of its own. At a meeting held January 8th, 1910, a minute was passed, "That the best bird (young birds, of course) in each class be eligible to compete for cup. These birds to be rejudged." Under these conditions the cup has been won four times. Mr. Firth was made aware of this rule more than a month ago, for in a letter dated February 7 he says, "Had the special cup rules been pointed out to me earlier, or sent me, the matter would have been done with long ago." I have other matters to attend to, but at the first opportunity, March 1st, I notified him that his appeal had failed, and in reply to mine I received a postcard from Mr. Firth: "Thanks for your letter. Your reply has come too late. Mr. Tomlinson promised to report this, and as he has not done so I sent the full facts to the Press on Saturday." Evidently Mr. Firth thinks I am not capable of telling the truth, or was afraid of bringing his appeal forward. If this is not so, why does he bring in another party? As to Mr. Firth's reference to "a little child shall lead them," I may tell him that his child-like appeal did not lead to very much. His appeal was read. Our President asked if the cup had been awarded according to rules, and it was moved, seconded and carried that judges' decision was final. Had Mr. Firth attended the meeting, and won his appeal, without a doubt, the report would have mentioned something about the band striking up with "See the conquering hero comes," and later, Mr. Ives rendering in good style his well-known tour, "All's well." Now, Mr. Firth, you brought your appeal in very poor form. The different tours were without substance, and not worthy of a point, and the fact of your going into foreign climes for evidence left nothing for general effect.

Andrew Percival.

Sir,—It is lamentable that Mr. Firth should so far forget himself as to endeavour to cast ridicule upon any of his fellow-members through intentionally misconstruing my report of the entertainment following the dinner of the Provincial Roller Society. At a glance some might think it to be intended for humour, but I hold a contrary opinion, on the grounds that it is unusual for a business man to mingle humour in a business letter. Mr. Firth wilfully ignores the stops at the end of the sentences, and construes one as having a bearing on another, and then contemptibly insinuates there is a reference to himself and two other gentlemen. No! Mr. Firth, I am not in the habit of speaking, or writing innuendos. Who is guilty of "Fabrication?" I will leave others to decide. I, also, am a busy man, and have to travel seventy miles to attend a meeting, leaving my home about mid-day, and not arriving back again until 1.30 a.m. Sunday. I recollect telling Mr. Firth to await the committee's decision, and, even should I have promised to report his appeal in the press, the fact that I afterwards found it was being discussed by letter, between himself and the secretary, would have over-ruled any such promise, for I should not think fit to divert it on my own initiative.

Baldness in Birds.

A Simple and Effective Remedy.

Sir.—I thought you would be interested to hear remedy we have found out for baldness in birds when it is not "red mite." My remedy is: Mix in equal quantities, and quite a little, paraffin and vaseline. Rub on the bald place every other day for a fortnight. Do not be discouraged if the quills do not appear for a month after the first dose, as ours took quite that time before the feathers grew.

New Society for Birtley and District.

Sir,—Will you, through the medium of your excellent paper, kindly bring to the notice of fanciers that a meeting was held at the Station Hotel, Birtley, on the 8th inst., for the purpose of forming a Cage Bird Society for Birtley and Dist. After having appointed officers, it was decided to hold a nest feather show about July next. Will any fanciers desirous of becoming a member kindly communicate with me? Next meeting at Station Hotel, March 26th, at 7.

The Suggested Southern Border Fancy Canary Club.

Sir,—I was very pleased to see the letters of Messrs. Norman, Moore, Gwilliam, and Burgess, re the formation of a Southern Border Fancy Club. That success would follow such a club I have no doubt, for the "Border" has come to stay. I have noticed many new names in the Border classes at Southern shows and of the few I have met their love of the "Bantam" is well over the "fever" line. There has been a large increase in the number of classes at some shows, and more Societies are giving one or two Border classes, which formerly did not. These I take to be good signs that the bird is not only bred more in the South, but that societies are anxious to foster it. The management of the Border Fancy Club are perhaps a little too far away to fully understand the necessities of the Southern Border men, and seeing that the members of the Fancy in the south like to have a finger in the pie and manage their own affairs, I think that a Border club here would succeed. The membership could be open to the United Kingdom, and the shows confined to the South of England and Wales (where all the good 'uns are). Should such a club be formed the "Border" would increase in numbers and popularity down south, and in the course of time we should see the list of winners at the Crystal Palace containing fewer Scotch names. The English and Welsh are fond of a fight. Why not give the Scots a run for their money, and even have an international contest? I would be pleased to attend a meeting to discuss the formation of a club, and would suggest Saturday, March 29th, as a suitable date, and I could announce the place of the meeting in Cage Birds of that date. Will any fancier desirous of assisting in commencing the club write to J. McGuffie, 202, Lymington Avenue, Wood Green, London, N. I shall be only too pleased to send all particuars. I shall be pleased to receive the names of any fancier in Wales, for should there be sufficient members in Wales a sub-committee could be formed to look after the interest of the "Wee Gems" and themselves in the principality.

J. McGuffie.

Sir,—Re Border Fancy Club, I have received several names of fanciers desirous of becoming members. If all Border Fancy breeders willing to support the movement by becoming members will send their names to me, with any suggestions they may wish to make, I will arrange for meeting to take place at an early date, for the purpose of forming the Southern Border Club, and getting it in working order for next show season. Now, fanciers, give me your whole-hearted support, and I will do my best to make the movement a success, and so further popularise the "Wee Gems" in the South.

Mules and Canaries in the Same Clutch of Eggs.

Sir,—I can assure your correspondent that the above is not an uncommon experience for Mule breeders. Some few years ago I had Brown Linnet and Canary, also Goldfinch and Canary Mules in the same nest—and that selfsame season thought I had at last reached the much-desired goal of the Mule breeder—a clear Mule. I had a nest of three eggs; the cock Canary had only been allowed in with the hen for a few minutes, and during that time I was called from my bird room, and, consequently, saw nothing happen between them. On returning I separated them, and put a cock Goldfinch with the hen, and three weeks afterwards the hen laid her first egg. She went to nest with the three eggs, and two proved fertile, one dark, one light, and at eight days old I was sure I had a clear Mule. Alas, for one's hopes! They grew up, and I kept both young birds until the adult stage. One proved dark Goldfinch-Canary Mule, the other a clear yellow Canary—both cock birds. I could have sold the young in the nest for a fair sum, but preferred to wait. The fancier who would have taken the risk was glad afterwards that his impatience was checked.

Scotch Fancies at Ulster O.A (Belfast) Show.

Sir,—I regret I have to admit some inaccuracies in my letter of Feb. 8 which arose from the fact that I had not read rule 5 of the general rules, the latter part of which says: "And if less than four entries, entry fees will be returned as prize-money." So I beg to apologise to Mr. Winkup for any harm unintentionally done his Fancy in the eyes of any show committee, and to assure him and all Yorkshire fanciers that I would be very sorry to in any way reflect on their very popular and interesting variety. I must point out that Mr. Winkup repeats the inaccuracy your reporter made regarding the Scots Fancy, there being a loss, he says, of 6s. I find from the balance-sheet submitted to the annual meeting that the difference to credit between entry fees and prize-money is £1 14s., made up as follows: Scots Fancy 2s., Norwich 10s., Yorks 4s., Mules 4s., British birds 4s., song bird selling class 10s. profit. I may say that in consequence of the Scots Fancy classes filling so well, the Association did not get so much profit by the "Stuck at Seven Rule." Now for Mr. Barclay. I cannot agree with him that any sore point was exhibited or discussed. Immediately on the matter being referred to the efficient secretary, he gave the name of the writer, and explained how the report was supplied, and in the absence of the reporter no further reference was made to it. I observe Mr. Barclay gives your reporter credit for taking a "bull's eye," but he does not point to a single inaccuracy in my letter. I see he refers to the selling class added in 1912, but he fails to say that in every show of the Association down to 1911 the Scots Fancies had two selling classes, one for each sex. Then Mr. B. ignores the fact that the Norwich for which I presume he takes up the cudgels, have six selling classes, and also that in three years they have had eight classes added to the schedule, with I regret to say an increase of only 4 in entries. I am rather surprised at Mr. B. making light of selling classes, as when he goes to some of the leading shows across the water he appreciates them. Regarding the donors of the special prizes and their allocation, I repeat my assertion and defy Mr. B. for proof to the contrary. Now for the very pertinent question Mr. B. wants answered: I repeat there was a gain on the Scots Fancy classes, and not a loss, as stated by him, and that the other classes judged by the accomplished gentleman showed a profit, and in my humble opinion, the judge costing only £2 2s. was better value to the Association than the one who cost them £3, and whose classes show only a profit of 14s. It has been my privilege and pleasure to be often in a mixed company of fanciers. and I can safely say I never heard the Norwich stigmatised as "White Mice" and if anyone described them so I would consider him colour blind.

Linnet Singing in Lancashire.

Sir,—My Committee has instructed me to write to Cage Birds to inform Mr. Harrison that if he holds any contests for time alone, the members of the Globe Inn will not attend. If Mr. Harrison will meet me at the headquarters, after the contest on March 15th, we will try and arrange future dates.

R. Holcroft,
Sec. Globe Inn Linnet Club.

Sir, Mr. Holcroft, in his letter admits I was right in the dates arranged. He also says I am slow; well, I shall not be alone in that if Mr. Holcroft changes dates at his pleasure. I have not much chance to look after my club's interests when he has all his own way. I have had two dates for contests, and run them on the dates arranged. Surely secretaries who act as gentlemen will not be in Mr. Holcroft's opinion, "slow"? J. Harrison.

The Proposed New Specialist Club for Ireland.

Sir,—If your correspondent, "Rip Van Winkle," was much interested in the Norwich P.C.C. of Ireland, the reports of recent meetings published in Cage Birds, and contributed by Mr. James Stewart, would not escape his observation. Mr. Stewart imparted in a few words the desired information re cups. The fact is he was rather lenient on his enquirers, particularly the apostle of fairplay, who would have us believe the men who held the cups were not sportsmen. They are ideal fanciers, in my opinion, and I have yet to see them supporting a show by entering four birds in a selling class, and none in open classes, or keeping their birds at home when they could not just be on top. A few weeks back Mr. W. Connell complained of the poor competition for these cups a couple of years ago. It would be interesting to know how many shows he supported; also why he, as a subscriber to the cups, has seen fit to let the cups rest for want of competition this last two years. "Rip Van Winkle" sugests the birds should be bred by exhibitors, not bought. Well, if a cup is for unflighted birds bred by the exhibitor, I think it as "honest" to purchase as to exhibit a two-year old and win a cup with it as a young bird. One of the Knuts.

A Fanciers' Society Formed at Sevenoaks.

Sir,—A new fanciers' association has just been formed in Sevenoaks called the Sevenoaks and District Fanciers' Association. The radius is to be ten mile limit, and the president is J. Russell, Esq. It is proposed to hold the first annual show during October. At next meeting on April 17th Mr. J. Clarke will lecture on Cage-birds, chiefly Canary Any wishing to become members should apply to Hon. Sec. A. H. Westcott, Woodleigh Cottage, Sevenoaks. A. H. W.

THE TROUBLE ABOUT THE SOUTHERN NORWICH PLAINHEAD CLUB'S £10 10s. CUP.

Sir,—I am exceedingly sorry and surprised Mr. Gill has seen fit to adopt the very unkind and unsportsmanlike attitude which he has done, and, in justice to myself, I think it best to give as accurately as I can what all this "storm in a teacup" is about. As far as I remember, after the first season's competition for the cup considerable discussion arose at the annual meeting as to who the winner really was—Mr. Hodder, Mr. Rennie, and Messrs. Gill and Pethick all claimed it. I believe the cup was then awarded to Mr. Hodder. During the discussion, Mr. Gill, in what I then considered a most graceful and sportsmanlike way, withdrew his claim; by so doing, did he not forfeit any claim he may have had to the cup? This discussion arose through some members of the S.N.P. Club thinking that only a limited number of birds should compete, whilst others thought the whole entries made by a member should count. In order that no mistake should be made in future it was decided that all birds entered should compete. The cup, as I then understood, entered upon a fresh basis for competition. Since that time Messrs. Gill and Pethick have won it twice, and myself twice. This, as far as I can remember, is really what happened, but as this took place, I believe, four years ago, I do not remember whether every detail is correct. If it is not, I hope the secretary, who has got the minutes of the meeting, will correct me. On February 20th (the day previous to the appearance of Mr. Gill's letter in Cage Birds) I received a letter form him which somewhat surprised me. As the same was not marked private, I'll quote two paragraphs from the same. First: "Now, I am not going to argue; I shall, if needs be, leave this matter in the hands of the law to settle." Who can wonder at me trembling at such a threat? Now, if Mr. Gill wishes to indulge in that most expensive luxury, he has only himself to please; personally I keep as far as I possibly can from it. The next paragraph shows a most lamentable spirit on the part of so good a fancier. It reads thus: "Now, I have no wish for anything of an unfriendly nature to creep into this matter. I do not crave the cup, and nothing would give better pleasure than to melt it in the pot and then sell it for old silver, and give it to some charity, and so end its unsatisfactory career." Now, Mr. Gill, what do you mean by "its unsatisfactory career?' With the exception of the misunderstanding at the meeting mentioned, I have not heard of any unpleasantness concerning the cup. In Mr. Gill's letter he asked me to state, for the benefit of the members of the S.N.P. Club, what the position of the cup really is? I would like to ask Mr. Gill to state what members of the S.N.P.C. have made any inquiry respecting it, or how many have asked him to plead their cause? From what I know of the members every one has sufficient intelligence to know that by applying to the secretary he could get any information respecting it. Stange to say, Mr. Gill is apparently the only one who has expressed any anxiety concerning it. Will Mr. Gill kindly explain why, if he does not crave the cup, he is so anxious about it? Also why he would like to see it melted down and sold for old metal, and the proceeds given to some charity? Now, Mr. Gill, since you are so generous respecting charities, I consider it would be such a pity for any charity to suffer through your not being able to do as you would like in dealing with it, that I'll make you a sporting offer. The secretary shall get a jeweller to value it at old silver price, and I will give one-half its value if you will give the other, the amount to be sent to the Editor of Cage Birds, and he shall have the option of giving it to any London charity he may choose. I would here like to remind Mr. Gill that until the cup has been won outright every member of the S.N.P.C. has an interest in it, and I may also suggest that it savours somewhat of presumption to suppose that because two members of the club have won it twice they will win it the third time. If I am not greatly mistaken many of the older members of the S.N.P.C. will have to look to their laurels in the future. Many of the younger members staged birds of great promise during last season, which did them great credit. (Success to them.) I do not want to see the cup melted down. I hope it has a long career before it, one that will be an incentive to the younger members to try and win it, and thus help and encourage the Fancy. I also trust they may compete in a generous and gentlemanly way that will be a credit to them, and the Fancy generally. Personally, I have troubled so little about it that I can honestly say, although I have won it this last two years, I have never once troubled about counting the points, and that I do not know how many points I have made in any one season. As regards Mr. Gill's letter of last week, it appears somewhat puzzling. It represents him as being at one time wise, at others otherwise—one week he asks for information, and a fortnight after he does not want it, but most generously supplies the unasked for points of the different seasons. (Unfortunately his memory failed him somewhat, as he did not give the points of the last two seasons.) It is somewhat remarkable that until now there has been no unpleasantness concerning the cup; the question, as far as I know, has not before arisen. Why did not Mr. Gill have this matter thrashed out at the annual meeting? That was the time and place, and not through the Press. I believe the committee of the S.N.P. Club are to be called to settle this matter. If those gentlemen consider that Messrs. Gill and Pethick have won it already, it is their duty to award it to them, and I sincerely hope they (Messrs. G. and P.) may live long to enjoy its pleasing appearance, and I trust it will not deter us from having many a friendly competition. One word more. Even if Messrs. Gardner and Cole may, after due consideration, have changed their opinion respecting a breeders' cup, I still think it would be courting dishonesty and disaster—from a breeder's point of view I do not fear it for one moment; I have bred hundreds of winners, and hope to again. I should like before the S.N.P.C. adopts such a rule to get the opinions and experiences of societies that have tried it; let us know their results.

A New Society for Openshaw.

Sir, A Cage Bird Society has been formed, "The Openshaw and District C.B.S." We are to have our next meeting on March 19, at 8, at the Good Intent Temperance Hall, Old Lane, Higher Openshaw, for election of officers, etc. Will all local fanciers turn up as strong as possible, and help to make this a very large society.

The Proposed Foreign Bird Exhibitors League.

Sir,—The proposals of Messrs. Silver and Frostick should be heartily supported by the rank and file of Foreign Bird Exhibitors, and if they will give their support, and let us have some well filled classes, show committee would only be too pleased to extend the classification to any reasonable extent, but without adequate support from exhibitors no society can afford to run classes outside the F.B.C. classification. For instance, at our late show, which was held under the patronage of the F.B.C., we ventured to add a class for Budgerigars pairs, any colour (which is surely a very popular species). We offered 26s. prize money for a 1s. 6d. entrance fee. Result—a grand total of three entries, two of which were made by the lady who asked us to put the class on, and the other from one of our own members whom I asked to show to make some competition. Now is the time to make your wants known as regards classification, so that show committees can include them in their next schedules, and then don't forget to give those shows (which I trust will include Nottingham) a bumping entry.

Suggested Breeders' Cup for the Southern Norwich P.C.

Sir,—"G. G.'s" remarks under the above heading are very misleading. "G. G." states that I favoured the proposal to alter the conditions of the £10 10s. cup. This is not true. I seconded Mr. Garland's motion, which was a necessary provision for the welfare of the S.N.P.C., and which would not alter the conditions one iota—the conditions governing the cup would remain intact, as before. Mr. Garland's motion was to make all the S.N P.C. trophies breeders' trophies, and this is the very thing that "G. G." is now supporting, and claiming as his own suggestion. Now the S.N.P.C. offers six trophies in the champion classes; five of these are won outright each season. If "G. G." did not agree to this motion being attached to the £10 10s. cup, what was there to prevent it being attached to the other five, which would have made the £3 3s. cup a breeders' cup, and there would have been no need to have gone begging? But, no; "G. G." allowed Mr. Baker, and also Mr. Matthes, to drag this motion in the mud. Their remarks on same appear in Cage Birds, February 15th, 1913. "G. G." never said a word in favour of this motion at the meeting. But directly after the meeting "G. G." is discussing this matter, and we find him in favour of a breeders' cup—hence my being agreeably surprised. Now, "G. G." would have us believe that he is a sticker to the rules. Cage Birds, February, 1909, contains the report of the S.N.P.C. annual meeting for the season 1908-9, which gives Mr. Rennie as the winner of the £10 10s. cup for that season. Here the secretary allowed a new bye-law to govern five shows that had been held before this bye-law was published. I objected to Mr. Rennie on those grounds—i.e., that he had not won according to the rules published. The committee then withdrew the cup from Mr. Rennie and awarded the cup to Mr. Hodder under a different rule altogether—a rule that has nothing whatever to do with the £10 10s. cup. I would ask "G. G." is this sticking to the rules, and is this what he calls fair play? "G. G." was one of the S.N.P.C. committee for that season, and did not raise any objection, to my knowledge, to these irregularities; and I say that the real difference is a vital difference between the way "G. G." acted in 1908-9 and the way he acted at the Palace meeting in 1913, hence my being amused. S. Gill.

A Chaffinch in a Dirty Cage.

Someone has sent us the following newspaper cutting, with the name of the defendant cut out, and as it did not reach us until press-day (Wednesday), we have had no time to obtain this missing detail. The sender asks us to impress upon readers the fact that inspectors cannot claim to enter any house unless they can produce a magistrate's warrant.

At Dartford, —— was summoned at the instance of the R.S.P.C.A., for causing unnecessary suffering to a Chaffinch on February 27th. Haydn Fletcher, Inspector to the Society, said that he visited defendant's house, and found a number of cages hanging round a small, dark room. In the dirty cage produced was a bird in a very dirty condition. It had no feathers on its head.—The Chairman: Had you a warrant to go in this house? Witness: No sir.—The Chairman: Did you simply walk in? Witness said that defendant's wife asked him to go in. He afterwards saw the defendant, who said he always cleaned the cages out once a week. Now and again it might be a day or two over.

Edgar Robards, veterinary surgeon, was called. The Chairman: Are you an expert in birds?—I don't profess to be.—Then how can you give expert evidence?—Witness said that he could give evidence as to the general condition of the bird.—The Chairman: You don't know any more than we do.—Witness: If a client comes to me and asks a question about birds, I always say I'll do the best I can, but I know very little about birds.—If a child were brought to you, what would you do?—I should tell them to take it to a doctor.—Why did not you say take this to a bird doctor?—Because there are no expert bird doctors. There are bird fanciers; I don't call them bird doctors.

Witness said the cage was much too small, and owing to dashing against the side the bird had lost the feathers on the head.—Defendant was asked if he had any questions to ask the witness, and replied: "No, he doesn't know anything about it, he's a horse doctor; what does he know about it? (Laughter.)—The Chairman: He has told us very frankly he knows nothing.

Defendant, who gave his address as 7, Plough Court, said the bird had been in captivity four years. It was a wonderful singer, and was just coming into song. Asked by the Chairman why the bird's head was bare, defendant replied that it was due to the moult, and could not be altered. "It's like an aged man. You can't make hair grow on the bald head of an aged man. (Loud laughter.)—The Chairman (ruefully): I know I can't. (Loud laughter.)—In conclusion, defendant remarked: "I've been a fancier 28 years, an' never had a complaint against one o' my birds."

The Chairman said this was the first case of the sort they had had. The defendant ought not to have kept the bird in that condition, and to mark their sense of his conduct, defendant would be ordered to pay 2s. 6d. towards the costs.

Club Reports.

WHITBURN C.B.S.

Annual meeting, held in the Baillie Institute, March 10. Secretary reported that all prizes, including spls., had been paid, and that there was the small balance of £2 2s. to the credit of the society, as against £1 8s. 4d. last year. This was considered very satisfactory, in view of the increased classification, and about 100 less entries. The committee was appointed as formerly. The usual date was fixed for annual show, and judges nominated.—Robert Lambie, Sec.

ARDWICK & MANCHESTER C.B.S

Meeting and table show of British held at the Onward Hall, March 4, Mr. Robinson in the chair, and a fairly good number of members being present. Discussion re changing of meeting room came up, and it was decided that we accept the offer re St. Thomas's Schools, Ardwick. So will members not present kindly note that the next meeting will be the last at the old rooms. The British men did not turn up as well as we expected, only four showing birds. Result: 1, 2, Hope; 3, Holland; 4, Fulcher, the winner being a grand Goldie, which should be heard of again. Mr. Smith, who judged, had not a big task; all the same, he placed the birds satisfactorily, and after judging gave us the good and bad points of the exhibits, and answered several questions with credit. We also had an amateur judging competition, eight of the members competing, Mr. R. Booth being the winner, correctly placing the birds. Several questions were asked relating to sick birds, and were answered by members present. The thanks of the members were given Mr. Smith, who so kindly came and judged, and Mr. Smith ably responded. Altogether we had an enjoyable evening. Next meeting, Mr. Boothman and Mr. Robinson will lecture on the Norwich Canary, so we hope all the members will rally round and make the meeting a success.—R. Booth (Reporter).

OPEN NORWICH P.H.C.C.

Annual general meeting, held at the Market Tavern, Bradford, March 8th, 1913. Chairman, Mr. A. Hirst, Accrington. The following resignations were accepted with regret: T. C. Crawhall, Newcastle; J. W. Holmes, Bradford; H. H. Towers, Glusburn; John Haigh, Buttershaw. The following were accepted as new members: Mr. J. A. Watson, Halifax; Mr. H. Gledhill, Ambler Thorn. The balance-sheet was passed, subject to the report of the auditor, who was not present, showing a balance in hand of a few shillings. The following officers were elected: President, Mr. P. H. Illingworth, M.P.; vice-pres., Messrs. H. W. Battye, J. W. Ramsden, J. Thomas, A. Humphries, G. Harland, W. A. Cowgill; chair, W. A. Wilson, Leeds; sec. and treas., F. Rhodes, Bradford; auditors, Messrs. H. Simonett and J. P. Moir. Messrs. T. Fortnam, J. Roe, R. J. Jones, and F. Rhodes were elected to represent the club on the Bradford National Show Committee. Mr. Joe Thomas kindly promised to give a medal value one guinea to winners of "Rose Bowl" which he presented to the club last year. Several others contributed to the prize fund, and we shall be pleased to accept any other donation. An alteration in Rule 11 was made, and this will now read as follows: That the members be divided into two grades, viz., "Novice" and "Champion." The word novice shall mean a member who has not won more than three first prizes in open competition, Norwich classes, before the current season (first feather or members' classes not to count). Any member residing in the same house as a champion exhibitor shall be debarred from competing as a novice. This rule should now give us an increase in membership, which I should like to see, and would gladly forward to any intending members all particulars, so roll up amateurs and join us. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to all retiring officers. Mr. A. Hirst, who has been chairman for the past three years, ably responded, and thanked all members for the courtesy they had shown towards him, and hoped they would extend the same to the new chairman elected. F. Rhodes, Hon. Sec.

REDHILL C.B.A.

Annual meeting held March 4th, at Lindsey's Hotel. A good number were present. Proposed that in future the meeting nights will be the first Wednesday in the month at Lindsey's Hotel, at 8 p.m.; also proposed to hold Y.B. show July 2nd. Officers selected for year: Mr. Baldock, Chairman; A. W. Bacon, Hon. Sec.; Committee: Miss Edwards, Messrs. Marriott, Whitmore, Tillett and Bignall.—A. W. Bacon, Hon. Sec.

STOKE-ON-TRENT C.B.A.

Meeting held March 3rd for the third annual open show, which has been fixed for Nov. 13th. Decided to appoint Mr. J. H. Roe as judge. Essay competition was then considered, and as two other prizes have been offered, it was decided to extend the time for handing in the papers until the April meeting. I hope those members who have not written a paper yet will now do so. All can write one that will be more or less interesting to the other members. It need not be a lengthy one, nor does it require a lot of experience, so that all members should participate in the competition, which is sure to prove of a helpful nature. Several members have been endeavouring to improve their stock by recent additions and(given a good breeding season and a favourable moult, will no doubt gain honours when the show season comes round again.—J. Pitchford.

SHEFFIELD O.S.

Monthly meeting held at headquarters, Rose and Crown Hotel, Waingate, Mr. T. Dawn chairman. Members turned up in full force (numbering nearly 50) to listen to a lecture by Mr. G. Brotherton on "Hints on Breeding," a very appropriate subject at this season. He went into the matter from the foundation, first taking the cages, construction, cleaning, etc., then he took us through every little matter up to staging for nest feather show. His remarks were keenly listened to, and a good many questions were asked, all of which were ably answered by the lecturer. Nine new members were elected, which makes 26 this year. All fanciers and friends are invited next meeting, April 1st, table show of British birds (3 classes); prize money, 4s., 2s., 1s. No entry fee. Judge, Mr. H. J. Chick (Nottingham) followed by lecture by the same gentleman, "What Constitutes Ideal Specimens of British?" Don't forget April 1st. Make a big entry; members nothing to pay. Anyone joining April 1st can compete at table show same night.—John A. T. Woodall, Press Correspondent

PARTICK C.B.C.

Monthly meeting and muling pairs show held in Trades Hall, Anderson Street, March 7th, Mr. Fraser presiding over a fair turnout of members. The following classification was arranged for our British show: For., Goldf. or Bullf., Brit. Goldf. or Bullf., Linnet, Siskin, Redpoll or Twite, Greenfinch, A.O.V. Finch, Light Mule or Hyb., Dark Mule, Foreign. Mr. Huggings, Mr. Coats, and Mr. Swan were elected members. Mr. Fraser then called on Mr. E. Barron to deliver his lecture on breeding and rearing Canaries, which he did in a very able manner, and members and friends learned a great deal from his lecture; Mr. Maxwell and Mr. Park joined in the discussion. At the close Mr. Barron was accorded a very hearty vote of thanks. Mr. Barron replying said he would like to see lecturing taken up more. Muling pair show being the next business, Chairman called for specials, and six were handed in and allocated. Mr. M. Craig judged, and his awards were well received.

FOR. GOLDF. AND CAN.: 1, Fraser; 2, Priest; 3, R. Anderson; 4, McMillan; 5, Aitkenhead; 6, Park. BRIT. GOLDF. AND CAN.: 1, spl, 6, MacRobbie; 2, Fraser; 3, Anderson; 4, Priest; 5, Park. LINNET AND CAN.: 1, 4, spl, Henry; 2, Aitkenhead; 3, McMillan; 5, Fraser; 6, Priest; 7, Anderson. SISKIN AND CAN.: 1, 5, Fraser; 2, 4, Webster; 3, Priest. REDPOLL AND CAN.: 1, 6, Fraser; 2, 4, Anderson; 3, spl, Webster; 5, Priest. TWITE AND CAN.: 1, 2, Webster. GREENF. AND CAN.: 1, 2, spl, 6, spl, McMillan; 3, 5, spl, Webster; 4, Fraser; 7, Priest. A.O.V. PAIRS: 1, Priest; 2, 3, Webster; 4, Anderson. A hearty vote of thanks accorded to Mr. Craig for judging, and Mr. Fraser for presiding, brought the meeting to a close.—Wm. Priest, Sec.

BRADFORD WEST C.B.A.

Annual social and prize distribution, held in the club rooms (Shoulder of Mutton), Girlington, when about 60 members, wives, and friends sat down to an excellent repast provided by our worthy host and hostess (Mr. and Mrs. Payne). After tea the Chairman, Mr. W. Crabtree, opened the programme with a few choice remarks, and called upon Master L. Crabtree to play a selection on the piano, who was greatly appreciated. The artistes contributing to the programme were Messrs. A. Hird (tenor), A. Bentley (baritone), A. Star (comic), who caused roars of laughter, A. Whitley (sentimental), T. Terry (elocutionist), and G. Willock, who gave us a treat in songs, and was loudly applauded. At the interval prizes were presented to the successful winners as follows: Champion Section.—Mr. A. Whitley, 1st, cup and spl., 59 pts.; 2, E. Clegg, gold chain and pendant, 50; 3, F. Wallbank, pair of vases, 40. Novice.—1, F. Weston, cup and spl., 96 pts.; 2, A. Bennett, flower stand, 83; 3, E. Butterfield, flower stand, 39; 4, A. Craven, bird and cage, 36. Winner of Mr. Payne's cup for amateurs and novices was F. Western, with 96 pts. After a few remarks by the winners, Mr. E. Clegg and Mr. W. Crabtree gave donations to the society to encourage competition next season. Both gentlemen were thanked by Mr. W. A. Cowgill, who spoke on behalf of the members, for their generous offer. Songs and recitations were then continued. The chairman kept the ball rolling, and there was never a quiet minute until getting near time, when a vote of thanks to the host and hostess, artistes, and chairman was proposed by Mr. W. A. Cowgill, who fully voiced the opinion of the members present in a neat little speech. Mr. E. Butterfield capably seconded, and Mr. T. W. Mountain supported same. This brought to a close one of the best evenings ever held by the Bradford West C.B.A.—F. Western, Sec.

BOLDON COLLIERY F. AND F.S.

Meeting held in Colliery Institute, March 8th, J. Stephenson presiding. There was a fair attendance of members present. W. Reid, of Sunderland, was selected to judge our first feather show. The formation of the rules caused a fair amount of discussion, but they were drawn up satisfactorily. Two new members were elected: E. Johns (Boldon) and W. Metcalf (Jarrow). Next meeting, April 5th.—Anthony Widdowfield, Sec.

DERBY C.B.S.

Special meeting March 8th, when, owing to failure of smoking concert organised to wipe out existing debt in club finances, it was resolved to hold a judging competition at Club House on March 28, all members to take part. Particulars will be sent to those who were not present. Will those members who were not present at last meeting please make a special effort to attend, as more enthusiasm must be put into these meetings if the society is to continue to forge ahead.—Wharam and Bansey, Secs.

SITTINGBOURNE C.B.S.

Annual general meeting held at headquarters, Mar. 3. There was a good turn-out of members, and it is hoped that in future every member will make a special effort to attend the monthly meetings. The balance-sheet showing a balance in hand of £1 10s. 9½d., was submitted and passed as read. Officers were elected for the year:—Pres., W. R. Elgar; vice-pres., C. Town, E. Tidy, E. F. Handcock, and F. Filmer; chair, R. Churchill; vice, T. Attwood; sec., W. G. Broadbridge (pro. tem); stewards, G. Burley, H. Olive, E. Stevens. Mr. E. Smith was elected a member. Mr. C. Town presented the specials given in each section for members making most points during the year to the winners as follows:—Canary Section: H. Olive, silver cup, 107 points; runner-up, W. Broadbridge, gold medal, 63; Brit.: G. Grant, rose bowl, 130; runner-up, T. Attwood, gold medal, 73; For.: J. Jacobs, china clock set, 32.—W. Broadbridge, Sec. (pro. tem).

YORKS C. & C.B.S. OF IRELAND.

Annual general meeting held at 5 South Anne-st., Mr. J. Dowling in the chair. There was a good attendance of members. The Secretary's report and the Treasurer's balance-sheet were then put forward and passed unanimously. A vote of thanks was passed to Messrs. W. Smyth and Son, solicitors, for their kindness in defending our case for the recovery of our staging, also for lending us an amount of staging until our own was recovered, and charging us with no costs. A vote of thanks was also passed to Mr. Barclay for his kind donation. New rule: "Relatives exhibiting birds must show in the highest class in which any of them have exhibited." This caused a great discussion, but it was eventually passed. The next business was the suspension of two members, which came up for either rescission or confirmation. In one case the suspension was rescinded, and in the other case, after a great controversy, the suspension was confirmed. The following were appointed scrutineers: Messrs. Smyth, Bolton, Mahon, and Waters. Result of ballot for officers for 1913: Pres., Mr. Rooney 28, Mr. Dowling 2; Vice-Pres. (2), Messrs. Furley 30, Keating 29, Barclay, Sholedice, Rooney, Norton, Honan, 1 each; Hon. Sec., Messrs. Lattimore 30, Holley 1. Committee (12): Messrs. Dowling 39, McDonnell 27, O'Callaghan 27, McNally 25, Bolton 24, J. Fleming 24, Bannon 23, Mahon 22, McGee 22, Walsh 22, Lea 21, Payne 20, O'Carroll 20, O'Toole 17, Keogh 10, Mulcahy 8, Kelly 6, Barclay 5, Lawless 4, McKeon 3, Briggs 3, Carolan 3, Reville 3, Furley 2, Mathews 2, Wall 2, Carroll, Hyland, Mullen, and Gillen 1 each. Provincial Council (8): Messrs. Devins 30, Tansey 30, Dunwoody 31, Dawson 31, Ryan 31, Waters 29, Sholedice 28, Birch 28, Stewart 7, Dr. Lavery 2, Fleming 2, Keating, Hawkins, Morgan, Woods, Dunlop, 1 each. Date of annual open show was fixed for Oct. 22 and 23. A vote of sympathy was passed with the relatives of Mr. J. R. Hyland upon the loss he has sustained by the death of his father; all members standing. This report will probably be a surprise to some fanciers, as it was thought that we were defunct, but we are in a better position now than ever, having a balance on hand of £13 7s. 9d., notwithstanding all the opposition we met during the past year.—C. Lattimore, Hon. Sec.

THRUMS C. AND C.B.A.

Meeting held Airlie Arms, March 7th, Mr. David Lawson presiding. Judges were nominated for open show. A motion was tabled to alter date of show, and after a very lively discussion it was agreed to fix same for Dec. 6th. Also agreed that we advertise same in Cage Birds. A vote of thanks to the Chairman terminated the meeting.—Joe Stevenson, Sec.

LARKHALL C.B.A.

Meeting held in Y.M. Hall, March 8th. Agreed to abandon the pair show owing to the hall being engaged on the date fixed. A motion was laid on the table to raise the annual subscription from 2/6 to 3/6. Office-bearers were elected for the ensuing year. President, Mr. Rundell; Vice-President, Mr. Kennedy; Treas., Mr. McEwan; Sec., Mr. Allan Thomson, Croft Place, Larkhall. The committee to be fixed later. At next meeting, May 22nd, the question of an open show is to be considered, and it is hoped the members will turn out and give their views on the matter.—A. Thomson, Sec.

AYR C.B.S.

The first social evening the members of this club have had since its inception five years ago was held in Academy Halls, Ayr, March 5th. Mr. John Forbes, president, was in the chair, and in a few well-chosen remarks opened the proceedings. After tea had been served, and full justice done it, Mr. Forbes presented our retiring sec., Mr. Sloan, who has gone to Glasgow to a new situation, with an English lever watch, and Mrs. Sloan with a gold broach, in recognition of services rendered to the club. We were entertained to some well-rendered songs by Misses Roxburgh and Buchanan, and Messrs. Craig, Forbes, Young, Aitken, and McKay. Mr. Forbes brought a most enjoyable evening to a close by moving a vote of thanks to the purveyor, Mr. Provan, and to the committee responsible for the arrangements, especially Mr. McKay. Over 50 sat down to tea. The company dispersed after singing "Auld Lang Sync."

LEEDS C.B.S.

The pair show held at headquarters, March 1st, brought a splendid entry of 42 pairs. These were greatly admired by the numerous visitors present. Special winners were: E. Norton, most points Yorks; E. Hattersley, Norwich; W. Hornby, A.O.V. class; E. Hattersley, British. Mr. Hattersley kindly handed the latter special over to Mr. E. Middleton, who was runner-up in the section. W. Graham, Nov. Yorks; Mr. Norwood, Nov. Nor. The winner generously handed his special over to be given for best pair, and it was won by W. A. Wilson with pair of Norwich. Messrs. C. E. Hall and J. Owen judged and gave entire satisfaction.

YORKS (10): 1, 2, 3, E. Norton; 4, Sykes; vhc, Storey; hc, c, Baldwinson. NOR. (6): 1, hc, Wilson; 2, 3, 4, vhc, Hattersley. A.O.V. CAN. (3): 1, 2, 3, Hornby. MULE OR HYB. LEITH O.S.

Monthly meeting held in Liberal Club, Hope Street, March 8th. The President (Mr. Lumsden) presided over a capital attendance of members. We regretted that not one breeder of the Scotch Fancy section put in an appearance on such an important occasion as the fixing of the classification for annual show, as that was the principal business of the meeting. After a good deal of discussion the following classes were agreed upon: Scotch Fancy 10, Norwich 9, Crests 4, Lizards 2, Bord. 10, Brit. 14, Mules 2, Cift 1. A motion to limit the number of entries per member was defeated. Mr. Sykes (Musselburgh) very kindly gave the members some capital advice on the treatment of British birds for exhibition, and his remarks were listened to with wrapt attention, and it is hoped the members will profit greatly thereby. He was accorded a hearty vote of thanks at the close. Next meeting will be held April 12th, usual time and place. Any fancier desirous of becoming a member might kindly send his name to the Secretary, who will give all information necessary.—George W. Brown, Sec., 89, Henderson Street, Leith.

ROCHDALE (Good Intent) C.B.S.

A successful whist drive was held February 19th, at the Reform Club, when upwards of 120 players took part in a contest for ten valuable prizes. After paying expenses the function produced a balance of £2 10s., to which is to be added the profits of another to be held later on. Specials purchased with the profits will be competed for by our members at our back-end show. Also on March 5th we had a very good attendance at headquarters, several local societies being represented, to hear Mr. R. Schofield, of Heywood, give his lecture on Yorkshires, etc. Mr. C. Pleasance took the chair, and after opening the meeting Mr. Schofield began by saying that when undertaking this lecture he had to bear in mind that to interest the meeting he would try something rather different owing to the fact that the Fancy papers nowadays contained so much valuable information. After dealing with the subject of Yorkshires right through to cinnamon marks, he took up the subject of management. For the prevention of mite he finds that the best way is to smear the cages at the back with lard. Since using it he has been rid of them; he wired the ends of perches to keep the birds from the woodwork. Many other items of interest concerning the successful breeding and management of birds were dealt with, after which Mr. Schofield was kept busy answering questions for a while. Mr. W. T. Banks proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Schofield for the help he had rendered the society in giving his lecture; Mr. R. Blincoe, in seconding same, said how pleased he had been to spend such a pleasant evening with us. Several others also supported the vote of thanks, and Mr. Schofield suitably responded.—Wm. Adams.

MANCHESTER AND NORTHERN COUNTIES O.S. HOLD SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL EVENING.

PRESENTATION TO A RESPECTED MANCHESTER FANCIER.

A social evening, which included a presentation to Mr. Bladon, was held March 1, at the Clarion Cafe, Market Street, when over sixty members, their wives and friends sat down to tea. In opening the concert Mr. Bladon said he was pleased to see so many present. He hoped all would enjoy themselves; he always enjoyed being amongst them. After songs capitally rendered by Miss Welch and Messrs. Williams, Meadowcroft, and Fulcher, and a humorous recitation by Mr. Kail, came the most pleasing part of the evening's entertainment—the presentation to our worthy president of an illuminated address and a pair of handsome marble and bronze vases and a silver tray for Mrs. Bladon. In making the presentation Mr. T. Pease (who is one of our oldest members) said it gave him great pleasure to be there that night. He saw the first president in 1883, and now they all saw the present one, whose ambition had always been to make it one of the best societies in England, and he felt sure he had done so. The society had advanced since the beginning, and never advanced so well as it had done since they had their present President. He was greatly esteemed, not only by the members, but by the Fancy in general, and always got on well with his hard-working committee. It therefore gave him great pleasure in asking Mr. Bladon to accept the illuminated address and vases and silver tray for Mrs. Bladon, and hoped they would both be long spared to be among them.

It took Mr. Bladon some little time to pull himself together, all present being able to see his emotion. He said he had no idea he was going to have such a handsome present given to him that night. He and his wife would always look on these as a token of the earnest regard they had for him, and he appreciated it very much. Mrs. Bladon had always done whatever she could to help him with his hobby and his office. He had always been helped by a good committee, and had always tried to get this society as one of the best in the kingdom. He felt sure it was looked up to all over the country. Mr. Bladon concluded by saying he thanked the members very heartily.

We then had a few minutes' interval for all present to look at the address, etc.

ORNITHOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

To Mr. W. A. Bladon.

The members of this society, on the occasion of your taking the office of President for the twentieth consecutive year, desire your acceptance of this address and accompanying vases, as a token of their great personal esteem, and to record their deep appreciation of the general broad-minded and kindly manner in which you have for so long a period presided over the meetings of the society and watched over its affairs. We are mindful that you were one of the promoters of the society 31 years ago, and have continued your membership through all these years, that for four years at an earlier period you held the position of President, that during its varying fortunes you have ever been loyal to the society and most zealous for its welfare, and that it has been your greatest endeavour to uplift its tone and character and maintain its prestige as one of the foremost societies in the kingdom. As some acknowledgment of these services the members at the annual general meeting were unanimous in electing you a free life member of the society. It is the members' earnest hope that you may long be blessed with health to evince the same keen interest in the society as heretofore, and in the furtherance of the cage bird hobby.—Signed on behalf of the members by the sub-committee, J. Raynes and Geo. W. F. Lythgoe, vice-presidents; H. Boothman, hon. sec.

After the interval Mr. Ashurst, ventriloquist, gave us a very amusing entertainment, accompanied by his doll, Tom Jones, which caused much laughter. Mr. Griffiths then gave us a treat with his concertina, holding us spellbound with the "Intermezzo" from "Cavalleria Rusticana," and a selection from "Il Trovatore" as an encore. We then had more songs (including encores), from Miss Welch, Mr. Williams, Mr. Meadowcroft, Mr. Fulcher, and Mr. Welch, and Mr. Wilding ably accompanied at the piano. Mr. Raynes, in a few remarks, said he was glad to see so many ladies present; they would see what kind of company their husbands kept when they were away at the meetings. They were a great help to their husbands when they were away all day during the breeding season, giving the birds egg food and looking after them in general. Eleven o'clock came all too soon, when Mr. Lythgoe moved a vote of thanks to the artistes and all those who had helped to give us such a grand entertainment. This was seconded by Mr. Atkinson, who mentioned that it was not only social, but educative. In replying, Mr. Meadowcroft said he was only too pleased to come at any time we wished. "God Save the King" was then sung, and we all went home having thoroughly enjoyed ourselves.—H. Boothman, Hon. Sec.

BLACKPOOL AND FYLDE ROLLER C.S.

First annual meeting held March 4 at headquarters, 150, Whitegate Drive, before a good number of members, Mr. J. Lightbown in the chair. The balance sheet was read showing a balance of £5 7s. 5d., which was considered very satisfactory for the first year, and unanimously adopted. The Committee hope to be favoured with the support of all the Roller fanciers in the district, which has a radius of 20 miles. Any fancier wishing to become a member should kindly communicate with Mr. S. Morrison, 46, Charnley-rd., Blackpool, who will be pleased to give full particulars. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Chair, Mr. J. Lightbown; Vice-Chair, Mr. R. Tomlinson; Hon. Sec., Mr. S. Morrison; Treas., Mr. Ferguson.—S. Morrison, Hon. Sec.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

Annual meeting held March 4, at the Staffordshire Knot. Mr. Hathaway presided over a fair muster of members. Great dissatisfaction was expressed at Sheffield deciding to clash with us, and some very strong comments were used. The balance-sheet was read and adopted, and was considered highly satisfactory, a good balance being carried forward. It was decided to have a Table Show of British, and also a question night at the next meeting. The following were elected officials for the ensuing year: Pres., Col. Ratcliff; Vice-Pres., E. Street, W. J. Read; Treas., H. Bond; Auditors, H. L. Bond and C. P. Smith; Chair, Dr. Docherty; Vice-Chair Mr. H. Hathaway; Committee, T. Kirkland, W. Elliot, J. Englang, J. Lee, A. Crouch, A. Ford J. Freer, J. Oldham W. Springall J. Fitchett, J. Emery, H. Emery, W. Mason A. Emery; Secretary, A. Wood.

DONCASTER C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held March 8, Black Bull, Mr. Presley in the chair. There was a good turn out of members and business was gone into with a will. Decided that Dr. Gray's cup be competed for by three unflighted birds bred by a member, points to count upwards. It was also proposed that we try and arrange an open Nest Feather Show (with British classes) in conjunction with the Doncaster Agricultural Society's show, June 26. Mr. Tonkinson gave us his promised washing exhibition, which was enjoyed by everyone present, as he handled the birds and put them through their paces with the skill of the master (which he is). Mr. Truman, in moving a vote of thanks, said he had learned something (and he is no novice at washing birds), but would like to know some of the secrets which the cracks have, and will not let out. He was ably seconded by Mr. Binks, and the vote was carried unanimously. We should very much like to see some more fanciers joining us, as subs. are only 2/6 with 1/- entrance.—G. Hunt, Hon. Sec.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held March 6th; Mr. T. C. Crawhall in chair. The following new members were elected:—Messrs. J. Gray, Newcastle; W. Turnbull and R. Calvert, Gateshead; and Mrs. Crosby, Newcastle. Decided that the question of having a social be left over until April meeting. The nest feather show will be held July 5; the following judges were selected: Messrs. W. Curry, R. Tindale, A. Montgomery, and J. Maddison. A table show took place with results as follows:—LINNET: 1, Cotiman; 2, Reed. GREENF: 1. McGuire; 2, Voult. SOFTBILL: 1, Graham. GOLDF. OR BULLF.: 1, Scott; 2, Petterson. SISKIN, ETC.: 1. Scott; 2, McGuire. A.O.V. HARDBILL: 1, 2, McGuire; 3, c, Graham. FOR. SMALL: 1, 3, Scott; 2, c, Petterson; 4, Voult. LARGE: 1, Petterson. Mr. J. Scott won medal given by Mr. Curry for most points. Mr. W. Mackenzie promised medal to Mr McGuire. The donors of medals were thanked for same. Vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Maddison for judging. Mr. Petterson had on exhibition a specimen from which the present day Canary is supposed to have originated. An interesting chat took place on the pairing of birds, several members giving their opinions and experiences, from which those present no doubt learnt something. Mr. Gill, curator of Newcastle Hancock Museum, will give us a lecture at April meeting, entitled "The Structure of Birds." Those who were privileged to listen to the last lecture given to us by this gentleman got a treat, his subject being "The Migration of Birds." Mr. Gill is too well known for me to dwell on the abilities he possesses to impart his practical knowledge of bird life. We shall be pleased to see anyone, whether fanciers or not. So do not forget April 3rd, Lockhart's, 65, Grainger Street, 7.30 p.m. Let us have a good turn up. Subscriptions now due. Intending members note: 1s. on nomination; 2s. 6d. subscription per year.—J. W. Reed, Secretary.

LEICESTER C.B.S.

Meeting at headquarters, Bull's Head Hotel, March 5th, Mr. Hawthorne presiding. At a committee meeting it was proposed to hold a whist drive to raise funds for the purchase of a cup for the Canary section, but as there was such a small attendance at the ordinary meeting nothing could be done in the matter, and it was decided to leave it open until next meeting, March 19th. The question of having all birds rung was raised, and this was also left over until next meeting. The best thanks of the society were expressed to Mr. Westby for his most generous gift of a cup. We should very much like to see more members present at our meetings, especially the older fanciers, so as to give some encouragement to the younger members. Mr. Yates placed the following awards at the table show, giving every satisfaction. NAT. COL. CK. OPEN: 1, Gamble. NOV.: 1, 2, 3, vhc, hc, c, Davis. HEN OPEN: 1, Gamble. NOV.: 1, 2, Brooks; 3, vhc, hc, c, Davis. SELL.: 1, vhc, Brooks; 2, hc, Davis; 3, Gamble.—J. Cook, Sec.

MANCHESTER AND N.C. O.S.

General meeting held at Deansgate Temperance Hotel, March 3, when Mr. Atkinson presided over a good attendance. The secretary read his annual report and the balance sheet. (There is a printer's error in balance sheet. In the October show account the amount for entry fees, etc., should be £127 19s. 6d., and not £129 19s. 6d., as printed.) A table show was held, 23 birds being entered in the four classes for Mr. A. G. Smith to judge. The following were his awards, which gave every satisfaction:—GOLDF. OR BULLF.: 1, hc, Metcalfe; 2, Atkinson; 3, Oldham; 4, c, Critchley; vhc, Jones. LINNET: 1, Fairhurst; 2, Oldham; 3, Bennett; 4, hc, c, Metcalfe; vhc, Fulcher. SISKIN, ETC.: 1, 2, Metcalfe; 3, Massey; 4, Oldham; vhc, Fairhurst. A.O.V.: 1, 2, Oldham; 3, Boothman. Mr. Smith, after judging gave his reasons for his placings. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to Mr. Smith. We hope to see a crowded room on Monday next, when Mr. Cutmore will be giving us his lecture (see Notices). Those who have heard Mr. Cutmore before will not need asking twice; they will come with a rush. Friends are cordially invited.—H. Boothman, Hon. Sec.

COLINTON AND CURRIE O.S.

Monthly meeting, held in the Higher Grade School, Juniper Green, March 8; President Mr. Begbie in the chair. Mr. J. Dewar (Juniper Green), Mr. P. Riddell (Balerno), and Mr. W. Elder (Balerno) were elected members. Decided to have a nest feather show, June 28, in the Drill Hall, Juniper Green, with 9 classes: 2 Scotch Fancies, 4 Borders, 2 Norwich, and 1 Mules. 3d. per cage; admission to show 2d. Members admitted free. Entries close first post June 26; birds staged 3 o'clock. Three model and three commended cards for each class. At the close of the meeting a very interesting lecture on British birds, their selection and management, was given by Mr. Steel, of Dalkieth. Mr. Steel dealt very minutely with the Finches, and one or two softbills, and his hints on feeding and catching were very much appreciated. Mr. Steel illustrated his lecture with coloured plates from Cage Birds. He took every bird he lectured on and showed what was wanted and where most failed. In short, he practically told the members how every feather should be placed. On the motion of the chairman, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Steel for his kindness in lecturing to us.—J. Napier, Sec.

GATESHEAD C.B.S.

Committee meeting held Feb. 26th. Mr. Holden took up his new position as chairman. Show date, as passed at previous general meeting, was rescinded, and December 12 and 13 fixed instead. Sorry to record the death of one of our members, Mr. John Brown, of Elswick, one of our late show stewards. One of our members has had to be expelled, through breaking the rules re members' classes at our show. Omitted from last report: Mr. J. W. Reed and Mr. R. Topping were elected auditors, and Mr. J. Bertram as a new member. J. G. Gresson, Sec.

OLD RADFORD C.B.S.

General meeting held at White Horse Hotel, Mar. 3. Books were audited, and several items were brought forward that were of very great interest to the club. Our club has only been started since the first of January, 1913, and we find the balance on the right side. The chair was taken by Mr. C. Pratt, ably supported by W. Grunday and R. Clifford.

A table show of Norwich and British stock pairs was held on March 8. NOR.: 1, Pratt; 2, Spencer; 3, Dickinson. BRIT.: 1, Spencer, Goldfinch; 2, Smith, Linnet; 3, Dickenson, Snow Bunting.—A. Spencer, Sec.

PENZANCE F.A.

Annual meeting held February 19. The Hon. Treas. reported a balance of £12 19s. 10d. in the bank, an increase of £1 2s. 3d. on the year's working. Sir Clifford Cory, Bart., M.P., was re-elected President and the following gentlemen Vice-Presidents: The Mayor, A. H. Barnett, Esq., Major Harvey, Col. T. H. Cornish, Messrs. J. H. Tonking, J. V. Thomas, Howell Mabbot, C. E. Venning, J. P. Milton P. T. Chirgwin, J. W. Scobell-Armstrong, S. G. Bazeley, Edgar Hall, W. Badgery, W. Bazeley, C. Hanley and J. W. Hawke; Chair, Mr. Ernest Michell; Vice-Chair, Mr. J. C. Rogers; Hon. Treas., S. O. Watkins; Hon. Auditor, J. P. Sampson; Hon. Sec., W. C. Bodinnar; Assist. Hon. Sec., W. H. Batten. The annual show will be held at Corn Exchange, November 19, 20. Mr. W. G. Poole, Stratford-on-Avon, will judge.

SKELMANTHORPE C.B.A.

On March 4th this Society held what was termed a "surprise supper," on premises kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. W. Hutchinson. Before the supper two interesting addresses were given by Messrs. J. Hirst and W. Wadsworth on their experience in breeding and rearing, both gentlemen describing the development in type and quality during their experience of the Yorkshire Canary. Mr. Hirst is well known by all the old fanciers, having for a great number of years been represented on the bench of our Union shows with honours. For the past few years he has been obliged to relinquish his usual occupation owing to rheumatism, and he has devoted all his time in the interest of his favourite hobby, therefore Mr. Hirst may be safely relied upon as an expert authority. In his opening remarks he strongly advised us not to be over anxious in pairing up too early, as he had found in the course of his experience in Canary breeding, the best results were obtained when the birds were paired up at the beginning of April. He next drew attention to the treatment of the birds in bringing them into condition ready for pairing up. Mr. Hirst said he never gave the hen Canary any egg-food or mixed seed, but always specialised with the cock bird, thus avoiding getting the hen so eager to nest that she begins plucking her feathers. He warned us against the dangerous practice of frequently handling the nest when the hen has laid her eggs, as many valuable birds had been lost by this unnecessary habit. He then described to us his method of rearing the young. For the first few days after the young were hatched out he will give nothing but egg and bread, well mixed with maw seed. When about four days old he then throws in a good teaspoonful of mixed seed into the cage bottom, consisting of hemp, maw, inga, and rape, as a special inducement to keep the hen from sitting too closely and sweating the young. Mr. Hirst said strict attention should be given the young birds until well on seed, as they seem to have inherited innumerable kinds of diseases since his first acquaintance with the Yorkshire Canary. Mr. Hirst's address throughout was deeply interesting, infinitely more so because his hearers know he breeds as many birds annually as most fanciers, and invariably produces among them a few of those such as which all exhibition breeders are striving after. This appealed to us all as being the strongest evidence of a fancier's ability in the selection of a typical breeding stock, and their efficient treatment for producing the best results. Both speakers denounced the idea of introducing the Cinnamon for improving the green blood. A lengthy discussion followed. Several theories were advanced on the cause of so much disease and fatality amongst the young birds. A few preventions were suggested, but no cures. We terminated an instructive meeting with a lively song well rendered by G. H. Fisher.—J. Hird, Sec.

BLAYDON-ON-TYNE C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held March 8th. There was only a small attendance. Decided to write judges re their terms, etc. It was also decided to advertise our annual show in Cage Birds, the show to be held November 14 and 15th. One new member was proposed, and there are several more who intend to be members.—Geo. Havver, Hon. Sec.

HUTHWAITE C.B.S.

Monthly meeting and table show held at the Shoulder of Mutton. A good number of members were present, and five new members were enrolled. Mr. Marshall judged and gave very satisfaction. BRIT. HARDBILL: 1, 2, Gabbitass; 3, Butler and Barlow; vhc, hc, Sheppard and Williams. NOR. STOCK PAIRS £1 10s. limit: 1, Vardy; 2, Butler and Barlow; 3, Sheppard. £1 limit: 1, Vardy, 15/-: 1. 2. Connah.—B. Gabbitass.

FENCE HOUSES C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held March 8, at Station Hotel, Mr. R. Gowland in the chair. A good number of fanciers turned up and a lot of business was got through. The nest feather show will be held July 5th. We nominated a few judges, of which one will be chosen at our next monthly meeting. We enrolled another four members, this making up a splendid total of membership. I also would like to thank Messrs. Hyde, seed merchants, through your valuable paper Cage Birds for sending us without charge a good amount of printing for the use of our new society. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Chairman.—W. Halton, Sec.

HALIFAX O.S.

Annual general meeting held March 1, at the Plummit Line Hotel, Mr. T. Pilling in the chair. The balance-sheet was read and passed to the satisfaction of the members present. Special winners for most points throughout the season were: Champion section, 1 Messrs. Burdekin Bros, 2 D. A. Macpherson; novice, 1 A. Mann, 2 E. Saville. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—Pres., J. J. Dunn; vice-pres., A. Rose, S. Haigh, and D. A. Macpherson; sec., H. Clegg; assist. sec., J. Burdekin; auditor, D. A. Macpherson; steward, W. Wild; delegates to the Yorkshire Union, P. Child, S. Haigh, and F. Townend; trustees, T. Pilling and J. Mottram; comm., J. Mottram, W. H. Ball, T. Pilling, S. Haigh, H. Lord, P. Child, F. Townend. Five new members were enrolled.—J. Burdekin, Assist. Sec.

THATTO HEATH O.S.

Monthly meeting held at Railway Hotel, March 3rd, Mr. H. Enever in the chair. A good muster of members came to hear Mr. R. P. Bixter give his paper on the Norwich Plainhead, which he did in a most able manner, not forgetting to mention those minor points that are essential in a good bird. He also put some very realistic sketches before the members. Questions were asked and answered to the satisfaction of everyone. Mr. A. Ashcroft proposed a hearty vote of thanks, in which all the members joined, and Mr. Bixter suitably responded. Mr. H. H. Bixter kindly promised to give, at next meeting, a paper on "Hints on Cage Making." Mr. Bixter being an authority on the subject it ought to prove a very useful lecture. Hoping members will turn up as they did at this meeting. Mr. R. Barker, Widnes, was elected to judge at our Nest Feather Show, July 5. Other business was gone through, which brought an interesting meeting to a close.—H. Cuttler, Hon. Sec.

CITY & COUNTY OF PERTH O.A.

Monthly meeting held in Laidlaw's Rooms, Lenord-st., March 3, Mr. A. G. Forest, President, in the chair. There was a good turn out of members, when the following judges were appointed: Judge for our open show in the Co-operative Hall, Mr. J. Sanderson, Aberdeen, Crests and Nor.; Mr. J. Craig, Brechin, Borders; and A. W. Watson, Edinburgh, British, Mules, and Foreign. Two new members were enrolled.—John L. Smith, Hon. Sec.

PONTYPRIDD AND DIS. F. & F.S.

Monthly meeting held March 8, at the Victoria Hall. It looks as if the membership will reach at least 50 this year. Six names of fanciers were given in to become members. It was unanimously decided to have a dinner on Whit Tuesday, the date of the annual meeting. The Secretary will be pleased to to receive the names of any fanciers wishing to join and make this function—the first of its kind in the history of the Society—a grand success. Selection of judges was left over to next meeting, April 7. Owing to the great interest taken in the competition for the cups which the Society have at present, it was stated by the Sec. that he intended trying to have a few more for the next show.—A. A. Gordon McLucas, Sec.

CHESTER-LE-STREET C.B.S.

Meeting held March 1, with a good muster of members, Mr. Forster in the chair. Decided that we accept Mr. A. Holden's tender for our next feather show, and he was elected to judge same; also decided to hold first annual open show Oct. 25, and not Nov. 22 as previously reported. Decided to hold table show next meeting night, March 29. Class 1, Goldie or Bullie (Brit. or For.); Class 2, Redpoll. A vote of thanks was given to Mr. Redpath for judging table show. We have eight new members joined this year; we would like a few more, all fanciers welcome. Second monthly table show British held same night, and proved another success, both classes being well filled. Mr. J. Redpath judged to the satisfaction of everybody present. HARDBILLS: 1, 2, 3, vhc, Davidson, rattling good Goldie, Bramble in grand trim, very good Linnet, and Bullfinch; hc, Hedley; c, Forster. SOFTBILLS: 1, 2, 3, Davidson, very nice Thrush, in the pink, 2nd Waxwing, 3rd Blackie.—R. Ward, Sec.

READING C.B.S.

Usual meeting held March 5th, before a very good attendance. The following new members were elected: Messrs. Lovegrove and Lovegrove (Henley) and Mr. Eggleton. Discussion took place re proposed summer ramble, and hon. sec. was left to try and arrange one for Henley. Sec. would be glad if members having any suggestions for annual show would send them on; also fanciers wishing to join us should send their names. Mr. Brooker kindly gave us his idea of how to wash birds properly, illustrating his remarks with birds provided by members; three were washed in a masterly fashion, and the operation was followed with great interest by members present. Questions were asked and answered in a practical fashion, and then Mr. Yates had a turn. We are lucky to have two such pastmasters of the art, and the members greatly appreciated their kindness. Next meeting will be question night, so bring a stock of questions with you. Also please note that all subs. not paid by March 31 will be 3s. instead of 2s. 6d., so do not blame me if you forget it.—W. H. Pyke, Hon. Sec., 102, Radstock-road, Reading.

DULWICH AND PECKHAM C.B.S.

At headquarters, Mar. 4. Mr. J. Hodder was announced to lecture on the Norwich Plainhead. Unfortunately, Mr. Hodder found himself unable to keep his appointment owing to sudden attack of influenza, which confined him to his bed. A large number of members and friends were present, and much disappointment was felt at Mr. Hodder not being able to be present. Regret was expressed at his illness, and best wishes for his speedy recovery. Mr. Frank Cole, who was in the chair, kindly undertook to say a few words on the Norwich, which those present had come to hear about. Mr. Cole kept his audience well interested for close on an hour, after which he invited questions or a discussion. He was well plied with questions, which he ably answered, many of the points raising very considerable discussion, those taking part being Messrs. Tringham, Crawford, Tomsett, Cant, Goodwin, Hazell, Clarke, and Fairman. After a very animated meeting, a vote of thanks to Mr. Cole for so ably carrying out his double office of chairman and lecturer, was unanimously carried.—W. Hodson, Sec.

LANCASHIRE AND LIZARD F.A.

General meeting held at Old Boar's Head Hotel, Manchester, March 1. We had a very good muster of fanciers present, amongst whom we were pleased to see Mr. W. P. Barnes, from Grantham. Sec. placed the balance-sheet before the meeting. Total income being £[illegible] 18s. 4d.; expenditure, £3 1s. 3d.; balance in hand, £3 17s. 1d. Photo. of members, value 1s., being in secretary's hands, there remains £3 16s. 1d. to be paid away in specials. The charge of 2s. 6d. for room was made up by the members present. There was also a matter of £1 9s. 6d., which had been paid from funds for losses at the Sheffield and Nottingham shows, and which sum had been guaranteed by our members generally. Towards this 17s. was collected from the members present, so that there is a sum of 12s. 6d. still to be subscribed to put matters right. The loss per member amounts to a shilling per head, and the sec. was instructed to write each member not present to see if he be willing to help to pay the same. The following were elected as officials for coming season: Pres., Mr. J. Garner; vice-pres., Messrs. W. P. Barnes, G. Fitton, C. F. Bosworth, Dr. Maitland, S. R. Compston, W. Ridgard, E. Fuller, and N. Stansfield; treas., Mr. J. Swalwell; sec., Mr. A. Martin, Shaw; comm., Messrs. E. Ollerenshaw, J. E. Ollerenshaw, T. H. Collinge, B. Clegg, E. Lord, J. Lee, J. Hampshire, F. Hamer, J. Hamer, Geo. Thurling, A. Hordern, J. Vickers, W. Kay, H. Mowbray, I. White, J. Oldham, and J. Rukin; auditors, Messrs. J. Oldham and J. Rukin. Decided that we have a tea and social to present prizes. This will be held at Oldham on April 12. Further particulars as to room, price, etc., will be sent out later. Mr. A. Martin is making all arrangements for the meeting. Members are particularly invited to bring their wives and friends. Mr. W. P. Barnes made a notice of motion that we have a special meeting to discuss the best way to provide specialist judges at any show where our patronage is given, and it is hoped that every member will endeavour to be present and get the thing into working order. Now, Lancashire and Lizard fanciers, we have a good man in our new secretary; he is young, enthusiastic, and one with the club's interest at heart; so just find him some new members, and help him as you have helped me, and things will go with a swing with our favourites the coming season. Mr. Martin wishes me to see things through till our social, after which all communications must be addressed to Mr. A. Martin, 6, Alison Street, Shaw, nr. Oldham, hon. sec. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Garner as chairman concluded the business.—John Rukin, late Sec.

ROTHERHAM C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held at the College Inn, Feb. 22, Mr. W. Brotherton in the chair. Decided to alter the date of annual show to Oct. 24 and 25 instead of 25 and 27, some of our members not being in favour of Sunday showing. It was also passed to use closed rings for the cups. We have fixed our next feather show for June 28 at the Mail Coach Inn. Birds staged at four o'clock. Mr. J. Webster judge.—B. Bailey, sec.

CLAPHAM AND DISTRICT C.B.A.

Meeting held Mar. 3. Prizes won at recent Pair and Finch show were presented to the winners by Mr. C. T. Maxwell. Balance-sheet of same passed, showing a balance of 10s. 6d. to the club funds, which is a record. Mr. Brighty being unable to continue in office as secretary, Mr. T. J. Hose, 5, Wells-terrace, Camberwell, S.E., was elected to fill the vacancy. All communications should be addressed accordingly. Carried that for the future the headquarters of the society be the "Clock House," Clapham Park road, and the meeting night the first Tuesday in the month. Mr. Simpkins (Balham) and Mr. Gardiner (Peckham) were nominated for membership, and will be elected at next meeting. Meeting closed with vote of thanks to chair.—T. J. Hose, Hon. Sec.

LUTON C.B.S.

Second Table Show held March 4. Mr. W. M. Thring judged. There were some good pairs put together for Mule breeding, and by the look of it we are going to have in Luton some of the rarest crosses in existence. The awards were: CANARY CROSS (9): 1, 4, Smith; 2, Bloomfield and Rose; 3, Titchfield and Sons. OTHER CROSSES (7): 1, 3, Bloomfield and Rose; 3, Anstie. GOLDF. AND BULLF.: 1, 2, Smith. OTHER BRIT.: 1, Smith; 2, Bloomfield and Rose. A rare team of Foreigners was shown by Mr. J. C. W. Meadows.—E. Bloomfield, Hon. Sec.

FILEY F. AND F.S.

Second annual show, held at the Masonic Hall. Mr. George Simpson (Scarborough) judged. The members' cup was won by Mr. J. R. Bottomley (Bridlington), Mr. F. Gray won special for best Canary and Mr. H. Wilson for best Yorks.

CARDIFF C.B.S.

Annual matched pair show held Feb. 20 at Naish's Royal Stores, kindly secured for us by Mr. W. Harrington. Entries did not come up to last year by 30, the total being 117. Norwich and Yorks. were good, but the British and Mules were poorly represented. Quality was good throughout. Several well-known winners had to take a back seat through not being put down in the usual show style. The chief winners were: Norwich, W. Chedgey; Yorks., H. C. Smith, these exhibitors putting down their teams in faultless style. Members should look to this in future, as it is evident that condition plays a big part on the show bench. Mr. F. Jones judged Norwich and British, Mr. T. Meluish Yorks., etc., and their awards gave satisfaction.

TONBRIDGE F.A.

Annual members' show held at Headquarters, Feb. 26, some very good birds were staged in the Norwich section, a nice class, but Yorkshires were short in numbers. Should like to see more Yorkies turn up to make better competition. Among the Norwich was the fine yellow var., which stood 4th at Palace show, belonging to Mr. Greenaway, and this was much admired. Mr. F. Wraight, Tunbridge Wells, judged, and gave every satisfaction.

DEAL AND WALMER F.A.

A very interesting feature of the special and very successful table show, held at Nelson Hall, March 6th, was the presentation of fountain pens to W. H. Thompson and W. H. D. Lacy, the joint secs., as a token of appreciation of the devoted services they have rendered. There was a good attendance of members and friends. Mr. Alec. Pattenson, late of Gravesend, judged cage birds, and commented on the birds as follows:—Yorkshire cocks and hens a good class; toppers. Norwich cocks and hens well up to standard. A.O.V., very fair class. Brit. in good form and plumage. The exhibits are rather excited owing to near approach of breeding season, but taking them as a whole they are all in good condition and well staged. EAST HAM C.B.S.

Pair and British show held at Hartley Avenue Schools, Feb. 15. The weather was most depressing, but the attendance was good. The society made a fine show with over one hundred entries. It was most encouraging to have so fine and interesting a show. Some splendid pairs were put down, and the British were a fine lot, everyone seemed pleased, and all had a pleasant evening. Mr. A. E. PENRHIWCEIBER.

Fourth annual show held February 27, at Park Hall, an admirably adapted place for an exhibition. Owing no doubt to the lateness of the season our section was rather poorly represented in point of numbers; some really good quality exhibits, however, somewhat made up for the lack of entries. The birds were well looked after by Mr. Wilkins, who is an enthusiastic fancier. The sec., Mr. W. Brown, was a very courteous and obliging official. The placing of the awards by Mr. D. A. S. Longden gave every satisfaction.

DULWICH & PECKHAM C.B.S.

The ninth annual pair show, held at the Reindeer Hotel, Peckham, Feb. 25. The entry was not extra large, but the pairs staged were of tip-top quality. Norwich, both in champion and novice classes, were well above the average, and should produce some real good birds for their owners during the coming season. Yorks. were a nice lot, and those in novice section were distinctly better than anything seen here before. Some very nice muling pairs were also shown. A good attendance of fanciers visited the show during the evening. Catalogues with awards were on sale a few minutes after judging was over. Mr. J. Robson judged. The secretary had everything well in hand, being ably assisted by Messrs. F. Cole, H. W. Tomsett, J. S. Fairman, and G. Cant.

(From the catalogue received, we gather that the principal winners were: CHAMP. NOR., Cole; YORKS., Fairman, Carpenter; MULES, Clark, Richardson; NOR. NOV., Hodson, Tomsett; YORKS., Cornish, Cant; MULES, Tomsett.—Ed.)

LONG EATON C.B.S.

General meeting and stock pair show held Mar. 1. We had a full gathering of members, and, besides other business, decided to have an open show in connection with our annual members' show, Dec. 6. There will be 20 classes; our last members' show was very successful, and we have a bit of cash to add to the bank balance. The general balance for the year was just under £9, thanks largely to some excellent local patronage. We have four cups and one rosebowl at present in the society, having been given by local gentlemen. Mr. J. Lowe judged, and his awards were well received. Only eight members showed out of 23, and it was only in Yorks. that there was any competition. NOR.: 1, 2, 3, sp, Horwood. YORKS. Singing Contests.

LEIGH.

A meeting was held at the Globe Inn, Bradshawgate, March 7th, and as no other club has taken March 15th for a contest, we decided to have a contest on that date for time and quality, and eight good prizes given. Will secretaries meet me at the Globe Inn after the contest to arrange future dates.—R. Holcroft.

CASTLEFORD.

Weekly Linnet contest held March 8; 42 birds entered for four good prizes. 1, Ratcliffe; 2, Longfield; 3 and 4, Nelson. Also March 9, 29 birds entered for three good prizes given by the landlady. 1, Smith; 2 and 3, Nelson. A few real tip-toppers at 10/6 and 12/6 pair. High-class typical Yorkshire cocks, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 each; Hens, 2/6, 3/-, 3/6, 4/6 each. Thousands of well-known breeders and exhibitors testify to the high quality of my birds. All birds on seven days' approval. Travelling cages, 3d. each. Illustrated List of Yorkshires, Norwich, Borders, post free.

E. L. STOREY, Roller Importer, CROWLE DONCASTER.

R. HANFORD, DERBY

has still few typical Yorkshires for sale, including some lovely cocks, also hens and matched pairs; prices to suit everybody; state requirements; inspection invited; approval willingly.

SHACKLETON'S YORKS.

Having selected my breeding stock, can spare some really grand birds, full of type and quality; this strain is well known, and needs no bounce; pairs, properly matched to breed the best, also single birds, cocks or hens; prices reasonable; stamped address for reply: W. H. Shackleton, Melrose House, Lytton-rd., Girlington, Bradford.

A CLEAN SWEEP

1913—we have won the Yorkshire Challenge Cup, so don't be led astray with misleading adverts. of winnings of the past. Also we have won the Yorkshire Challenge Trophy two years in succession, which now becomes our own property, also winning outright the 10-guinea G.M.Y.C.C. Trophy, also winners of "Cage Birds" competitions, and 40 points, leading at all Yorkshire Union Shows with four highest awards. The above is a feat never before accomplished, finishing up with two 1sts, 5 specials, at Crystal Palace. This is official proof where the best is to be got. We have the world's record for breeding winners. As for testimonials, we could publish them daily of winners bred from our strain. Those desirous of laying a solid foundation cannot equal our strain. Properly matched pairs, 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/-. Cocks or hens proportionate; also a few noted winners to spare. Special invitation, or birds sent on approval at our risk; stamp for reply: Ogden Bros., Dudley Hill, Bradford.

WHO HAS THEM?

Read below and judge for yourself. I have won outright Y.C.C. 20-guinea challenge cup, Yorkshire Union 30-guinea challenge trophy, Mr. H. Naylor's challenge cup, diplomas and highest honours at all leading shows; see 1913 "Palace" report; winner cup best yellow, winner cash special most points, with 8 entries (nearest opponent almost double); cash special, per Mr. White, Australia, best Yorkshire: championship diploma best cinnamon-marked and championship diploma best Yorkshire over all other varieties; in fact, these last 14 years I have won more cups, medals and championships at the "Palace" than any other firm or firms. Not bluff! but solid facts. My cinnamon-tick and clear yellow cocks are admitted to be two of the finest birds seen at the "Palace" show, and remember, they have been bred by me only, not purchased. Don't be led away with 30 years' strains, but have up-to-date, carefully matched pairs from this champion strain, mated to breed winners. Prices from 20/- per pair; 3 days' approval; cash or deposit "Cage Birds": J. Bailey, 46, South View-terrace, Sandy-lane, Bradford, Yorks.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2. END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3. AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expirration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

Abroad or at Home

It is just the same—Satisfaction. Read proof positive:—

Montreal, March 5th, 1913.—Dear Mr. Rudd,—The Crests, Yorkshires, etc., arrived all safe, all alive and in good condition. Thanking you for attention to order, and I hope to send for more directly.—R.A.S.

Bermondsey, March 17th, 1913.—Received sib. buff hen safely. It gives me every satisfaction. I was surprised to get such a bird for 5/-, having paid considerably more for birds not so good. I shall certainly recommend you to my friends.—S. Parkinson.

Ossett, March 14th, 1913.—Received pair of Yorkshires safely. I could not have picked better if I had come over to your place. They are just what I ordered. Thanks for prompt dispatch.—J. N. Senior, to W. Rudd.

(Scores of other foreign opinions could be given, and hundreds of British; but the above three examples should suffice.—W.R.).

These are all exceptional value for the time of year, and require no "gush" or foolish exaggerations.

EGGERTINE TRADE MARK

The best Egg Food ever known for Rearing and keeping in Health and Song all kinds of Canaries, Goldfinches, Nightingales, etc. Invaluable to those having an Aviary. This food will positively rear young Canaries without any chopped egg or other preparations, far better than egg alone, and is decidedly the Best Food ever brought before the public. For getting hens into breeding condition its effects will be found wonderful. It is made fresh every few days, hence, unlike any of the preparations made from foreign yolk of eggs, Eggertine being made from New-Laid English Eggs and other valuable ingredients on the premises. Tins, post free, 1/3; larger, holding three times the quantity, post free 2/6. Give it one test trial and be convinced.

ONLY FOOLS

believe in cure-alls. Who can imagine a medical man prescribing a cough mixture as a good tonic or pick-me-up? The following have no equals for the purposes intended. "Asthmarine," for asthma and all lung affections, "Norwich Golden Tonic Drops," for birds run down after showing, or gone light, also for hens at all weak. Inflammation Remedy, invaluable for this dangerous and prevalent complaint. Diarrhoea Mixture, the best and most reliable remedy in such cases, and acts quickly. All 9d. and 2/6 bottle, post free.

The "Standard" Double Breeding Cage.

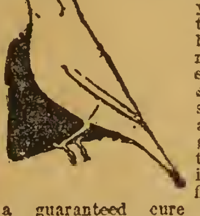
SOFT MOULT, NOT SINGING.



Wanted, a trial. We are confident our medicines will give you satisfaction. Special offer to all bird fanciers. If you have any birds that you are relying upon for the coming season that have gone off song, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure. We have the grandest medicine ever introduced for bringing birds into breeding condition. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for loss of voice, soft moult, egg binding, going light, feather plucking, diarrhœa, and for dull and moping birds. Sold in 7d. and 1/1 (treble size) bottles. Our medicines can be given in the drinking water, and the birds take them freely with marvellous results. Fanciers note: If our medicines fail to do as advertised, we guarantee to return full money. For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfield's Lung Tonic. Also in 7d. and 1/1 bottles. The safest and most reliable medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds. As an advertisement, we will send a 7d. bottle of each medicine for 1/-, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9. All medicines post paid at our risk. Two valuable seed recipes, how to feed Linnets and Rollers for contest singing given free to all purchasers of our medicines.—Frank Ditchfield, Bird Specialist, Oldham. EASTER HOLIDAYS

Are you wondering where to spend your time during Easter? If so, remember, I offer an open invitation to all fanciers to pay a visit to my Aviaries. I shall be at home all through the holidays, and all visitors, whether intending to purchase or not, will be assured of a hearty welcome. I have nearly 4,000 birds in stock, including some grand specimens in all varieties, and it will be a pleasure to show you round. If you should be able to pay me a visit, however, and are in need of any variety of birds, don't forget that I am prepared to send on seven days' approval at my sole risk, to any address in the United Kingdom any of the following varieties:—

My Yorkshires have won consistently all through the season. The following are a few out of a large number of honours: Special best hen Bradford National, Special best Yorks, Hartlepool, Diploma best Yorkshire Sunderland, Trophy for 3rd most points N.C.M.Y.C.C., Second most points Yorkshire Union Competitions, Third most points in both competitions of the Y.C.C., etc., etc.

There is no better blood in the Fancy to-day, and I am in a position to put the Amateur on the right road to breeding his own winners, or to supply the "old hand" with splendid stock or show birds at a working-man's price. The following are a few prices:

Yorkshire Cocks, grand lengthy birds, with good position, feathered to perfection, and in full song, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each upwards.

Grand racy hens, splendid type, and feathered like wax, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each upwards. Matched Pairs, correctly mated for breeding winners, and sex guaranteed, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- 35/-, 40/-, 45/-, 50/- per pair. I can supply these in Clears, Ticks, Green Marked, Cinnamon Marked, or Self Greens.

To every Customer I guarantee complete satisfaction or Cash returned in full.

CHAMPION NORWICH PLAINHEADS. THE BULL-DOG STRAIN.

THIS strain has again upheld its reputation, and in addition to winning Firsts and Specials all over the country, has secured the following Trophies this year: THE PERCY ILLINGWORTH CHALLENGE CUP (won outright), the Sandiford Cup, THE O.N.P.C. CHAMPION TROPHY, F. Carl's Trophy, and has run second in the Cup competition of the N.P.C.

I am now offering a few grand birds bred from my strain. Yellows or Buffs, Cocks or Hens, real good show or stock birds for breeding own winners, at 10/- 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- each. I am also offering a few grand pairs, personally matched by me, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. Strain guaranteed. I have a few grand birds from other strains, good thick-set birds, Cocks on full free song, at 6/6 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each; Hens, grand smart-feathered birds, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

Pure-bred Seifert or St. Andreasburg Roller Cocks. Have just received (Feb. 22nd, 1913), a consignment of over 300 Roller Cocks straight from the training rooms of Germany. These are the best I have imported. They are in full rolling song, with plenty of changes, and represent the last word in training. Come and make your own selection, or allow me to send one on approval at my risk. Prices, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6. A few specially selected Schoolmasters at 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; hens, guaranteed same strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/- each; Cages, 3d. extra.

REAL SIBERIAN GOLDFINCH COCKS, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6 each.

Grand Large Sib. Hens for Muling, either Yorkshire or Norwich type, 3/-, 3/6 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6 10/- each.

WINNING BORDER FANCIES.—The entire stock of a well-known Border exhibitor for sale. These include Clears, Ticks, Marked, Self Greens, and Cinnamons. Cocks in full song, real gems, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Smart typical Hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- upwards. Matched Pairs, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/, 30/-. Every bird for sale.

LIZARDS.—Am offering the entire stock of a well-known Lizard exhibitor, at 10/6 and 12/6 per pair. Odd birds, 5/-. 6/-, 7/6 each, cocks or hens.

SCOTCH FANCIES.—A few real good birds, Clears and Pied, Yellows and Buffs, including some of this season's open winners. Cocks or Hens, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 30/-, 40/- each. Every bird for sale.

GOLDFINCH-CANARY or LINNET-CANARY MULES.—Bold free songsters, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 each. For full particulars of all other varieties send a postcard for my free illustrated price list.

NOTE THIS, PLEASE.—I undertake to give complete satisfaction to every customer, or return cash in full.

Easy payments can be arranged to suit the convenience of Genuine Fanciers. No Extras charged. Travelling Cages, 3d. Special attention to Export Orders.

HENS which will not feed show plainly they are out of sorts; no hen is naturally a bad feeder. "Phosto" decreases your worry and increases your youngsters. Try it on some of your old favourites, those you would like to get just one more season from; "Phosto" will do the trick for you. Read what well-known fanciers say:—"Mr. Dines, Hanworth: "My hens are feeding finely on 'Phosto'; one that starved her first nest has brought up a grand lot this time since using it." Mr. Bandbridge, Brixham, Devon: "I cannot speak too highly of 'Phosto' for Canaries. I have some five weeks old larger than their parents." Try it at once; delay is dangerous. Tins, 1/-, 2/6, 4/6, carriage paid, with directions: Judge Silk, Cage Bird Expert, Whitstable. (585)

CHAMPION pair, correctly matched, high-class Norwich Plainheads, rare size, type, and quality, feathered like silk, certain to breed winners in keenest competition, only 17/6, honestly worth £2 for stock alone, rare chance for beginner, cold-room bred, satisfaction guaranteed; approval: Warminger, 28, Guernsey-rd., Norwich (572)

CHAMPION Norwich monster stock yellow and buff cocks, 7/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 21/-, 25/-, and 30/- each; monster stock yellow and buff hens, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/6, 15/- and 21/- each; all strong, healthy, and in tip-top condition; all cold-room bred; give me a trial, and I will guarantee satisfaction; state wants fully; approval: Warminger, 28, Guernsey-rd., Norwich. (521)

I AM offering you this week birds of exceptional merit, some which I had intended keeping back for my own breeding, but find I cannot comfortably accommodate so many pairs. I need not use unnecessary comment on these for, as is well known, every bird has a reputation behind it. So often has this strain been right on top that it is only repeating what everyone knows. Silk's Norwich are so far in front that if you would succeed on the show bench you must have this blood. (1) Grand yellow cock, show specimen, in pink of condition, 60/-; (2) marked yellow cock, big winner, 60/-; (3) ticked yellow cock, good stock bird, nice head, etc., 21/-; (4) variegated unflighted yellow cock, good bird to improve your colour, 15/-; (5) grand yellow hen, winner keenest competition, 50/-; (6) sweet clear yellow hen, grand size, etc., 40/-; (7) another charming yellow hen, 35/-; (8) nice marked yellow hen, 20/-; (9) short very cobby buff hen, regular topper, 30/-; (10): beautiful unflighted buff cock, winner, 30/-; (11) very shapely unflighted buff hen, grand head, 20/-; (12) another very similar, 17/6; (13) fine clear buff cock, 17/6, good one and cheap; (14) four unflighted marked yellow hens, 7/6 each, not giants, but dirt cheap; (15) four sweet unflighted buff hens, 6/- each to clear, worth double; (16) three useful pairs, properly matched, 20/- per pair, real grand value these, guaranteed my own breeding and cold-room bred, sent per return, three days' approval. This is an opportunity you will not see again to get the best. Have you tried "Phosto"? If not, why not? I will guarantee you will have no bad feeders if you use it. See "Phosto" advt. Note the name, the great Norwich specialist, Judge Silk, Whitstable. (567)

An Interesting Exposition of the art of Exhibiting by Mr. C. A. House.

There was a full gathering of the members of the Gainsborough C.B.S., and a number of friends, at the Central Hall, Hickman Street, on March 15th, to witness a Canary Washing Exhibition, and to listen to a lecture by Mr. C. A. House, on points of importance in the exhibition, and preparing for exhibition of Canaries and British Birds. Mr. Palliser, the chairman of the society, presided, and the lecture, as well as the washing exhibition, was most attentively followed by the large company present.

Mr. House first of all washed a couple of Canaries, and afterwards explained to his audience the why and the wherefore of the different phases of the methods employed in the washing and drying. Having dealt with the toileting of birds in a most exhaustive manner he went on to show how that preparation for exhibition did not commence and finish with such, but that the fancier who would be successful as an exhibitor must first of all consider the natural advantages and drawbacks of the room in which he was compelled to keep his stock. Sketching an imaginary bird-room, Mr. House dealt with the questions of lighting and ventilation, strongly advising his audience to keep their stock in a healthy condition by attending well to the ordinary rules of hygiene. Fresh air and sunshine were both needed by the animal world. He strongly advocated the bird-room window being open wide all through the day during the summer months, and for some portion of the day every day all the year round.

The Sun and the Colour.

The strong rays of the sun were undoubtedly harmful to the colour of exhibition stock, but that was no reason for going to the extremes which some fanciers did in keeping their birds almost in darkness during the moulting and exhibiting months of the year. The active rays of the sun were what killed the colour in the birds. Therefore if the power of those rays was killed there was no reason why birds should not enjoy the blessings of light.

Speaking of the killing of the sun's colour destroying rays, Mr. House said that if the sun had to filter through red matter of some kind the purpose could be achieved, and this was easily done by draping the window with some thin red material, or failing this mixing some red ochre, or other colouring matter, with whitening, and painting the glass of the window with the mixture. If this was done the cages need then only be covered with a thin linen, or unbleached calico curtain, of such texture as to keep out the dust and dirt that may be floating about, but not thick enough to render the cages dark by the non-admittance of light.

Points about Green Food.

Dealing with colour feeding, Mr. House impressed strongly upon his hearers the necessity for regularity in feeding if the best results were to be obtained. It was not so much the quantity of colour-food consumed, as it was the manner in which what was consumed, was digested and assimilated. If too much was given the liver was apt to become clogged, and thus the colouring matter was not conveyed regularly through the blood. Aperients during the moult Mr. House said he did not believe in, they thinned and impoverished the blood at a time when it needed strengthening and nourishing. He did, however, strongly advise the use of green food. Any non-poisonous herb or weed from the fields and hedgerows was of service, and had the same effect upon the birds as did fresh vegetables upon their masters. Green vegetable matter was good at all times, but he did not believe in physic. Never give a Canary, or any other bird, medicine until you are forced. Care was needed in feeding green food, not to use rank and quickly grown herbs and weeds. Those grown on the road sides, in fields, and on common land were to be preferred to those garden grown.

As to how often the colour food should be given, Mr. House said the oftener the better. Three times a day was better than twice, because every time fresh food was given the birds would eat some. Thus, the more frequently the birds were fed the more regular was the supply of colouring matter to the blood, whence the feathers grew. Another point was that the bodies of the birds were better nourished by such a system of feeding, and that was a great consideration, because birds which were kept in high condition during the moult, were invariably the best and strongest birds at the finish, and could stand the knocking about to which exhibition stock were subjected by railway servants and others.

Study Effectiveness of Contrast.

Touching upon show cages, the lecturer said he considered pale blue the best colour for painting the inside of Canary show cages, as it reflected the colour of the birds upon the eyes of the judges better than any other colour. In dealing with British Birds one had to be guided by the principal colours in the plumage. As an instance in Goldfinches the scarlet of the blaze, and ruddiness of the chestnut was best shown up in a cage painted a medium shade of green, because green was the complimentary colour of red, and enhanced its appearance. The same shade of colour was effective for Bullfinches and others of similar plumage. Blackbirds, he thought, looked best in a very light blue interior; the same tint would suit Thrushes, but he thought a very pale green tint even better. Now-a-days, when competition was so keen in the British Bird section the man who considered all the little points of staging was the fancier who achieved the greatest success. In a word it meant that the man who paid attention to detail, and used his brains, was the successful exhibitor. There was no such thing as "standing still," we must ever be progressing, and it did not follow that because one man had been successful on certain lines, that the same methods would bring fame and renown to another. The man who could best adapt himself to his environment was the one who reached the top of the tree first.

At the close of the lecture a number of questions were asked and answered, after which Mr. Palliser proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. House for the splendid lecture he had given them. They had, he was sure, all much enjoyed it, and had learnt a very great deal. He hoped they would have the pleasure of listening to Mr. House again. Mr. Green, the treasurer, seconded, and with Mr. House's reply the proceedings terminated.

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

A Greeting from Overseas.

Mr. C. Chamberlain, Port Elizabeth, S. Africa, in sending his renewal subscription, writes: "Kindly accept my best wishes to yourself and brother members." I am sure that our English members will appreciate as greatly as I do myself this kind greeting from our far away member.

The Millom Case Recalled.

Members of Cage Birds League will remember that in August, 1911, the Health Authority of Millom served, through the Inspector of Nuisances, notices upon all known owners of birds who kept them upon their living premises, informing them that the birds must be disposed of within a certain period.

The cage-bird owners of Millom communicated with Cage Birds League, and I was able to advise them that the Health Authority was not empowered by law to order anyone to dispose of his birds. All that this body could do would be to lodge an information before a magistrate to the effect that a person was keeping his birds in such manner as to be a menace to health or a nuisance to his neighbours. If the magistrate was satisfied that the allegation was proved, he would grant an order to put a stop to the nuisance.

Acting upon this advice, the Millom fanciers ignored the notices which had been served upon them, and they heard no more of the matter.

The Same Again in Nantyglo.

Now comes the news from Mr. J. Thomas, Nantyglo (Mon.), that during his absence at work an assistant surveyor and a doctor called at his house and instructed his wife that he "would either have to put them outside, or sell them." Mr. Thomas sends full particulars of the way in which his birds are kept and tended, and, these being correct, he has no more reason to fear the assistant surveyor and the doctor than the fanciers of Millom had to fear the Health Authority of that town.

The unfortunate part of the matter is that a neighbour of Mr. Thomas was similarily visited, and this man has been sufficiently scared to get rid of his birds. I hope Mr. Thomas will advise any other of his friends who are keeping birds (that is, if they are keeping them properly) to take no notice whatever of any threats made by assistant surveyors. Let these people, if they choose, apply to a magistrate for an order, and, before this order is granted they will have to satisfy the magistrate that the birds are being kept in such conditions as to be a menace to health. If they lodge an information, the bird-keeper will be entitled to give evidence in his own defence.

Medals and Bird Dealers' Certificates.

I hope soon to be able to report that these, like the badges, been sent to those who are entitled to them. The matter is well in hand, and it will not be long before the medals and the certificates are sent out. I should like to point out to all bird shop keepers the desirability of possessing one of these certificates. If any such shopkeeper will write that he is willing to have his shop visited by an experienced bird-keeper, and to have his methods of treatment reported to Cage Birds League, I will get some member of the League to make a call upon him from time to time, and if at the end of six months the report is a favourable one, a certificate to that effect, signed by the Cage Birds League inspector and countersigned by the secretary to Cage Birds League will be granted to the shopkeeper without any charge whatever. I hope all bird shop keepers who are readers of Cage Birds will take advantage of this offer, and members of the League will be doing a service to our hobby if they will call the attention of bird-shop keepers to the advantage of having one of these certificates as an answer to charges brought against them by people whose one idea is that it is "an acted blasphemy" to keep birds in cages at all.

All Associate Badges Out to Date.

I am pleased now to be able to announce that at the time of writing, every application for associate badges has been attended to, and that I am now dealing with the fresh applications from day to day as they come in. I have on hand a number of bundles of coupons with which I have been unable to deal, as they have been sent without any note to indicate which of the six signatories was the sender. If, therefore, any reader has not received a badge for which he has applied I should be glad to hear, so that I may look through these unidentified applications, and send the badge accordingly.

Coupons Need Not be All of One Date.

Scarcely a week passes during which I have not to answer the question whether the six coupons which readers have to send, in order to be registered as associates of Cage Birds League, must all be taken from copies of Cage Birds of any one date. The coupons are not dated, and may be taken from any copy of Cage Birds. There is one point, however, which many readers seem to have missed. It is not sufficient for a would-be Associate simply to fill in the other five coupons with the names and addresses himself. One of the coupons must be signed by the sender, and each of the other five must be personally signed by a friend, who must fill in his or her own name and address.

TERMS OF MEMBERSHIP.

PATRONS.—A donation of not less than Ten Guineas in one amount, or an annual subscription of not less than Two Guineas, shall constitute the donor or subscriber a Patron.

LIFE MEMBERS.—A donation of not less than Five Guineas in one amount shall constitute the donor a Life Member.

VICE PRESIDENTS.—An annual subscription of not less than Half-a-Guinea shall constitute the subscriber a Vice President.

HONORARY LIFE MEMBERS.—The payment to CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE of a legacy of £20 and upwards shall constitute the administrator or executor making the payment an Honorary Life Member. A form of bequest will be sent, post free, on application.

ORDINARY MEMBERS shall pay an annual subscription of Two Shillings and Sixpence.

JUNIOR MEMBERS.—Members under the age of fourteen years at the date of joining shall pay an annual subscription of One Shilling.

Leaflets setting forth the aims and objects of the League will be forwarded, post free, to any reader upon application.

BADGES.

Neat and unobtrusive badges are supplied to members, without any charge beyond their subscriptions as above. The badges may be had either in button form, or mounted in rolled gold in two forms, one as a brooch for ladies or for cycling caps or coat lapel, and the other as a pendant for bracelet or watch-chain. The kind required should be specified clearly.

CERTIFICATES OF MEMBERSHIP, ETC.

Certificates printed in seven colours, and suitable for framing, are supplied at One Shilling each. Each certificate bears an enlarged facsimile of Cage Birds League badge and Motto, and is signed by the Secretary.

GUMMED SEALS printed in gold and colours in facsimile of the LEAGUE BADGE are supplied for affixing to note paper, postcards, or envelopes. Price eightpence per hundred, fivepence for fifty, post free.

Notepaper with the badge and motto of the League in the top left-hand corner and the address of any member at the top right-hand, may be had at the following prices:—

100 Sheets, Two Shillings and sixpence.
250 Sheets, Four Shillings.
500 Sheets, Five Shillings and sixpence.
1,000 sheets, Eight Shillings and sixpence.

Henry J. Fulljames,
Secretary Cage Birds League,
154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of Cage Birds have written to say that they would like to join Cage Birds' League, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the League, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of Cage Birds League, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the League. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

POPLAR C.B.S.

Second annual concert, held March 8. 150 members and friends were present. Amongst the 25 items on the programme, it was difficult to point to any single turn as the best, as all were most excellent, but deserving of special mention were Messrs. Clare, Potts and Co., who worked very hard indeed, and whose songs were well received and applauded. Many thanks are due to the musical director, Mr. P. Gedge, who gave us such a variety of talent, and we take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of his work in this direction. During the evening it was announced that our president, Mr. V. Wrigglesworth, had decided to present the society with a challenge cup, which announcement was received with much applause. Our number of cups is now eight in all.—H. W. Cook, Hon Sec.

GRANGEMOUTH AND DIST. O.S.

Meeting and table show of pairs, held in the Rechabite Hall, York Lane, March 12. Only five members turned up, with three pairs, which does not say much for the fanciers of Grangemouth, who can lay claim to having the best club show in Scotland. In the absence of the chairman, Mr. Pagan occupied the chair. A letter was read from the sec., Mr. Ovenstone, stating that owing to business pressure he could not see his way to carry on the duties of secretary, and asking that another sec. be appointed in his place. After some discussion Mr. Scaife agreed to act as secretary pro. tem., and it was arranged to appoint another secretary at the next meeting if possible. Also agreed to have another table show of British, two classes, Linnet and Greenfinch, so we hope our members will rally round us at the next meeting, and make it a success. Give the officials of your society a little encouragement.—Wm. Scaife, Sec. pro. tem.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.B.

Meeting held March 10, at headquarters, The Marylebone Church Institute, 60, Paddington Street, Mr. F. Knight in the chair, Mr. V. Wynn, Hon. Secretary, and over thirty members present. Letters were read from Mrs. Parry, and Messrs. J. Pooley, Armstrong, and Dewhurst. The Hon. Sec. was instructed to settle account £2 13s. 6d., this Association's share of the loss sustained by late Federation show. Mr. and Mrs. Hobden, and Messrs. A. Fleet, Parnaby, and A. W. Marks were elected members. Result of pair judging competition was announced and medals presented to F. Eaton, 1st; W. Mugford, 2nd; and T. Monger, 3rd. The sealed packet for most entries was awarded to W. Knight. The delegates to London Federation, Messrs. Chard and Sayer, reported proceedings at their last meeting, and gave the outline of a suggested reconstruction scheme. After much discussion it was decided not to withdraw from Federation until the new scheme had had a trial. The feature of the evening was an egg-food competition, for which 13 members entered. Their methods of making food were various and interesting, and a full account with results will be given next week. Vote of thanks to chairman concluded the meeting. —Fred. Thynne, Assist. Hon. Sec.

LIVERPOOL FANCIERS' CYCLE CLUB.

Monthly meeting held "Marlborough Cafe," Dale Street, good number in attendance. Decided to hold the first official run on Good Friday to beautiful Ince Woods, to watch the wild birds in their haunts. Then on Easter Sunday we make the venue dear Old Cronton, where "Old Oliver Cromwell" used to catch some of the best Linnets sold at the markets. The following Sunday, March 30, we will trespass on the happy hunting ground of Prince Rupert, namely Rufford, where, through beautiful valley and glen, the boys will be delighted with the abundance of various wild seeds they can gather. We are progressing splendidly in this new enterprise (cycling), but would like to obtain the cooperation of members of other local societies. We extend a hearty welcome to Aintree, Garston, Bootle, Birkenhead, and Wallasey Societies. For any further particulars a postcard sent to me at 41, Guilford Street, Everton, will receive prompt attention. On all club runs members will meet at headquarters, Metcalfe's, Brunswick Road. Meeting time for the above three runs, Good Friday 2 p.m., Easter Sunday 10 a.m., Sunday, March 30, 2 p.m. Next monthly meeting April 2, at "The Marlborough Cafe."—R. Malone, Hon Sec.

LONDON C.B.A.

Annual general meeting, held at the Feathers' Great Chapel Street, Westminster, March 12. Mr. John Robson in the chair. There was a good attendance of members. Mr. Shepherd handed to the chairman the result of the voting for officers for 1913, which was as follows: Pres., Mr. R. L. Crisp; chair., Mr. J. Robson. Secretaryship was not decided owing to Mr. Mugford and Mr. T. L. Sayer having equal number of votes. Mr. Mugford withdrew in favour of Mr. Sayer, but unfortunately Mr. Sayer was not present at the meeting, and the decision had to stand over until next meeting. Mr. Mugford kindly offered to act as secretary pro tem. Treas., Mr. T. R. Trower; auditors, Messrs. Boxall and Cook; Press corres., F. Knight; committee, Messrs. Shepherd, Dewhurst, Marley, Peverall, Penton, Carson, Offord, Wallington, Tyson, Easterling, H. Smith, and Tringham. Mr. Mugford gave a brief outline of the objects of the Foreign Bird Exhibitors League, which has recently been formed to extend the classification of foreign birds at shows. Mr. Wallington gave a detailed report of the London Federation meetings. Decided to forward to the Federation our contribution towards the loss on the Federation show. The scheme for the reconstruction of the Federation was favourably received. The balance sheet not being quite complete, the meeting was adjourned. Mr. Mugford stated that it would be complete by next meeting.—F. Knight.

The Shows.

NEW CROSS AND DIST. C.B.S.

A very successful show of British birds was held March 6, at the People's Hall, Tanner's Hill, Deptford. Entries were far in excess of last year, and the society is to be congratulated on having such an enthusiastic lot of members. Fanciers living in the district would do well to write the secretaries with a view to joining this go-ahead society. The quality throughout the show was excellent, many of the exhibits being fit to win in open competition. Mr. Pope and Mr. Weston had grand teams out, the latter winning special for best in show with a splendid Greenie. This is very encouraging, especially as he is a novice. Mr. C. Botting placed the cards, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

LINNET (13): 1, 2, Weston: 3, Pope; vhc, Simants; hc, Deane; c, Hill. REDPOLL, SISKIN, OR TWITE (5): 1, Pope; 3, Deane; vhc, Barton; hc, Hill. GOLDIE OR BULLIE (4): 1, 2, 3, Pope; vhc, Parker. SELL. (4): 1, vhc, Hill; 2, 3, Allen.—Burton Bros., Hon. Secs.

BEDFORD O.S.

Pair show, held at Ham's Restaurant, Silver Street, March 13. The quality of the exhibits was about the best seen in Bedford, and gave promise of something worth seeing in the future, especially was this the case in the Norwich classes. The class for novices was not supported, and consequently cancelled. Mr. H. Markham made the awards, and gave satisfaction.

YELL. NOR. CK. and BUFF HEN (11): 1, Keech, excellent mkd. ck., rare size and lovely feather, with clear hen, excelling in head, neck, body and qual.; 2, Keech, massive saddle mkd. ck., very typical in shape, best of feather and col., and lovely clear hen, of model shape and qual.; 3, res., Goodman, large cl. ck., well proportioned, warm col., nice qual. and excellent cl. hen, a good pair; vhc, Wilmot, Keech, Johnson, and Beanland; hc, Notley and Beanland. BUFF CK. AND YELL. HEN (10): 1, Keech, fine large cock, mkd. head and wings, well made throughout, and nice qual., with clear, typical hen of lovely feather and excellent carriage; 2, Keech, stylish marked wing cock, rare quality, hardly so good in col., with capital hen, excels in all Norwich properties; 3, vhc, (2), Beanland, very fine nat. col. cock, good head and body, with large clear, typical hen; res., Goodman; vhc, Notley; vhc, Curling; hc, Johnson. MULE BREEDING PAIRS (7): 1, Notley, good cock Goldfinch, very steady, excellent blaze, with large, typical yell. Nor. hen, of nice qual.; 2, Notley, cock Greenfinch, H.M., with monster clear yell. Mr. C. A. House will judge cage birds at the show of the Tiverton F.S. on October 30

Will secretaries please note, writes Mr. J. Gray, secretary, that the Arbroath C.B.S. has fixed Nov. 22nd for its annual show.

Societies desiring the patronage of the Norwich Plainhead Club should write to Mr. F. Cunliffe, Sec., 19, Lark Street, Burnley.

The Canterbury fanciers will hold their annual show on December 10th, when Mr. H. Norman will judge the Cage Bird section.

R. A. Nowley is "the" man for breeding and stock cages. Order at once. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W.—(Advt.)

Secretaries please note that Broxburn and District C.B.S. hold their annual show on Dec. 20 next, writes Mr. W. McLaren, the sec.

Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) has, we hear, been appointed as judge for Bolton and Dist. C.B. Society open show on Oct. 10 and 11 next.

Kindly state that Mr. T. Heath is judging our next show (Nov. 4 and 5) writes Mr. J. D. Horrill, Hon. Sec., Barnstaple and North Devon C.B.S.

Mr. H. Norman, we are informed, will judge the annual show at Royal Windsor, which will be held a week earlier than usual, Oct. 29th being the date fixed.

The proprietors of "Phosto," the well-known phosphatic food for cage birds have appointed a number of agents, among whom is Mr. A. E. Silk, of Whitstable.

In the report of Sheffield O.S. meeting for March sent you last week, writes Mr. Woodall, it should have read: "A lecture 'Hints on Breeding,' by G. Browning, of Rotherham," not Mr. Brotherton.

Mr. J. A. Anderson, the Aintree Fanciers' Society's Hon. Sec., has "gone over" from cavies to cage-birds, he having exchanged some champion "pigs," for some champion Norwich. We hear that Mr. J. W. Metcalfe has the "piggies" for sale.

On receiving my Cage Birds on Friday last, writes Mr. A. Smith, Coldstream, I was pleased to see my ticked buff cock on its front page. It is a splendid drawing and reflects great credit on the artist. I wish your valuable paper every success,

Our show, writes Mr. A. Walker, hon. secretary, "Crendon," Innerbrook Road, Chelston, Torquay, is fixed for Oct. 16th. Judge Mr. C. A. House. I shall be glad to hear from any fancier in society willing to guarantee a class, or offer specials.

We have received from Mr. J. Brown, sec., the balance-sheet of the Scottish Norwich Plainhead Club. We are glad to note that after paying a loss of £4 17s. 6d. on the club show and all current expenses the balance in hand stands at £2 5s., an increase of 7s. 9½d. on the amount brought forward from 1911. The club has a satisfactory membership roll of 127.

The Aintree Fazakerlay fanciers, we hear, are contemplating several outings, i.e., nesting rambles, visit through the Liverpool University, etc. Four new members were elected at the last committee meeting. There was a small profit on the last quarterly show, when cage bird entries were in the majority. Mr. E. W. T. Gasking (Manchester Street, Liverpool) has kindly consented to act as hon. solicitor.

I must thank you very much, writes Mr. R. Willison, Barrow-in-Furness, for the reproduction of my Buff Scotch Fancy on Cage Birds' front page. It is excellent, and every credit is due to your artist, Mr. Norman. I wish your paper every prosperity. I was just looking up No. 1 issue last night. I have seen it growing yearly. May it go on and prosper, is the wish of your old reader.

A HOLIDAY REMINDER.

Owing to the Easter Holidays, CAGE BIRDS has had to go to press one day earlier than usual this week; thus any notices, advertisements, &c., which reached us after Tuesday mid-day have had to be held over until our next number.—Editor.

Mr. A. Cooper has been elected secretary of the Bradford West C.B.A., and all correspondence should be sent to him at 69, West Park Road, writes Mr. F. Western. I wish your paper every success.

Littleborough C.B.S. have selected June 28 as the date of their fur and feather show, to be held in the Parish Church School, writes Mr. H. Woodhead, hon. sec. Mr. Hardy, of Oldham, has been asked to judge.

Yorkshire breeders contemplating holiday visit to Bradford and district should call at Knight's Yorkshire Aviaries. A hearty welcome from our veteran breeder, Jonas Knight. Trams to Allerton every few minutes, stopping place Cobden St., near residence, Copy St., Allerton.—(Advt. 581.)

I have resigned the secretaryship of the Scottish Metropolitan (open Derby) O.A. for business reasons, writes Mr. J. R. Meikle, and fanciers and others might from this date, until my successor is appointed, address all letters, etc., in connection with this Association to Mr. C. R. Drysdale, president, 11, Melbourne Place, Edinburgh.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

During the Easter Holidays the offices of CAGE BIRDS will be closed from Friday to Monday next inclusive.

Will Advertisers, and Correspondents generally, kindly note that all matter intended for NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE should be posted early, to reach us on Tuesday. Mar. 25 at latest (or Wednesday first post).

The meeting of the City and Suburban A.C.B., which falls on Bank Holiday, has been abandoned, writes the hon. sec., Mr. V. Wynn.

The fact that George Baxter and Sons, of Fochabers, have for 45 years handled rare old Highland whiskey, lends interest to their announcement in the "Household" column. They offer to send readers a bottle of splendid "Scotch" for 3s. 10d., postage free.

Kindly make it known through your columns, writes Mr. J. G. Greason, Gateshead C.B.S., that we have engaged the following judges: Messrs. A. Holden, J. Bailey, J. Patterson, J. Maddison, J. Robson. I also have two additional prizes for our prize drawing, closing this week. Mr. W. Curry will shortly take the Secretary's position, as I am resigning same.

In the March issue of "Bird Notes," the organ of the Foreign Bird Club, appear some remarks by Mr. W. T. Page on the foreign bird section at the Crystal Palace show, and by Mr. Goodchild on the British section, both accompanied by illustrations by Mr. Goodchild. Capt. J. S. Reeve contributes an interesting account of breeding successes in the Leadenham Aviaries. Mr. E. Hopkinson continues "Birds of Gambia." Mr. Wesley T. Page writes a practical article entitled "Aviary Observations." Mr. F. Somers writes on the public aviaries at Roundhay Park (Leeds), and Mr. Douglas Dewar tells of "Birds of the Sal Forest."

The Avicultural Magazine, the organ of the Avicultural Society, opens with a most instructive article by Dr. Butler, on the sexing of the Liothrix, the so-called Pekin Robin. This should go a long way towards solving the difficulties of amateurs in this direction. Notes on "The Great-billed Raven in Captivity," apropos of the pair of these birds recently acquired by the Zoological Society, are supplied by Mr. B. Theo. Stewart, these being based on the bird in Mr. Stewart's own possession. Miss Innis Dorrien-Smith sends from Tresco notes on "The Tameness of Wild Geese. The Countess Baldelli writes a delightful account of a pair of Syrian Bulbuls in her possession. Mr. F. E. Blaauw contributes a chapter on "My Antartic Goose," telling the story of the bird's importation and the troubles incidental thereto. Other articles are "Bird Notes from Kent," by Mr. E. G. B. Mealde-Waldo, "The Hooded Parrakeet," by Mr. G. M. Mathews, and "Bird Notes from the Zoological Gardens," by the Curator, Mr. D. Seth-Smith.

Norwich Alliance New Secretary.

I should esteem it a great favour, writes Mr. E. C. St. Quinton, 35, Calvert Street, Norwich, if you will kindly state in your valuable paper, that I have taken over the secretaryship of the Norwich Alliance All England C.B.A., and all communications should be addressed to me. We have arranged to hold our next exhibition in the Corn Hall, Oct. 16 and 17, Messrs. W. E. Greeve, Wrentham, W. H. Howe, Wellingborough, and J. Stark, Norwich, will judge. I might say I was elected secretary of the N.A.A.E.C.B.A, when it re-formed and started afresh in 1901, and I have taken no active part in the fancy since then till I was elected secretary this year, and I hope I shall make a much greater success than I did that year.

The Foreign Birdkeepers' and Exhibitors' League.

In the classification as printed last week Parrot Finches were included among the birds to be shown in class 13. This was a printer's error. Parrot Finches should be among the birds catered for in class 14.

Yorkshire Canary Club.

Nomination of officers for 1913: Will all members please fill in the nomination paper, which will be found in the centre of the Club's hand-book, and return to me before March 31st.—John Greaves, Sec., 279, Hollings Road, Bradford.

L.C.B.A. Lose Their Secretary.

Kindly make known, through Cage Birds that owing to pressure upon my time, I have been compelled to relinquish the secretaryship of the L.C.B.A., writes Mr. W. H. Mugford. I will let you know my successor as soon as possible.

Supper and Social at Bolton.

The Bolton and District C.B.S. will hold a supper and social in the Bow St. Assembly Hall on Wednesday, April 2, writes Mr. J. Gerrard, the sec. All fanciers and friends are cordially invited, especially those from neighbouring societies. Tickets for supper and social sixpence each.

City of Bradford's Two Cups.

The City of Bradford O.S. having purchased two silver-plated cups for competition (which starts in June) will be pleased to welcome all fanciers of the Yorkshire or Norwich varieties in Bradford and District as members at their next meeting, Saturday, March 22.—W. Helliwell, Sec., 116, Mill Lane, Bradford.

Charity Show at Leicester.

We note with pleasure (vide the letter appearing in our correspondence columns this week) that the show held by the two Leicester societies in aid of the funds of the local Children's Hospital, resulted in £7 10s. being handed over to that deserving institution. The fanciers concerned are to be congratulated on carrying so praiseworthy a notion to such a successful issue, which redounds to the credit of the Fancy generally.

Commencing with our issue for April 5th, the minimum rate for trade advertisements in "Twitterings" will be 10/- per insertion.

A PHENOMENAL SUCCESS.

Get Your "Annual" and Study it During the Holidays.

CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL is achieving a record sale. It contains just the very articles and information all bird-keepers, whether old hands or raw recruits, need—up-to-date and vitally helpful. Don't miss it.

Many thanks for Cage Birds 1913 Annual. In information it excels all previous Annuals.—W. Elliott, sec., West Stanley and Dist. C.B.S.

I must say that Cage Birds 1913 Annual is really a treat, and will be hard to beat. I will show it to the members here at our meeting on Wednesday.—Geo. Mitchell, Brechin.

I must congratulate you on sending out such a book as Cage Birds 1913 Annual. It is full of interesting information and should make a useful addition to every bird room.—A. E. Brooks, Cambridge.

I have just been reading Cage Birds 1913 Annual, and I think no amateur should miss getting it, for to my mind it is just the book to be able to run to when you have a bird fall queer, and you want advice urgently.—L. J. Olford (Portsmouth).

Cage Birds 1913 Annual to hand. Thanks for such a useful book; it is full of good and useful information, and should be in the room of every fancier. The painting of the Norwich hen by Mr. H. Norman, is a masterpiece. Wishing you a record sale.—Chas. Hy. Hill (Wiveliscombe).

Cage Birds 1913 Annual to hand. Encyclopædic throughout, marvellous sixpennyworth, truly invaluable to amateurs and novices, indispensable to the old hands, and a unique guide to all officials of societies; far in advance of all past editions.—J. C. Barnes (Sheffield).

I am writing to say that I think Cage Birds 1913 Annual is a real good thing, really worth its weight in gold. Every bird-lover ought to have one. The articles are written so that the youngest novice can understand what he is reading—it is just what bird lovers want. "How to Mate Birds to Breed Winners," by Claude St. John, is splendid, and is true in every word.—J. Little (London, W.).

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

SHOW DATES FIXED.

To secure insertion in this column, a guarantee that the show will be advertised in "C.B." to the extent of at least 25/- must be sent to our manager,

HINTS ON BUILDING AND FITTING AN OUTDOOR BIRD-HOUSE.

Written and Illustrated by H. NORMAN.

THE hobby of the genuine bird fancier is one of never-ending fascination. During the whole twelve months of the year he has something connected with his fancy to interest and occupy his spare time. The breeding season is followed by the moulting time, then come the shows, and almost before he is aware of it, it is time for him to pair up his birds once more. Before doing so he must set his house in order, any necessary additions or alterations must be commenced and finished before the hens settle down to their duties.

Every fancier is not blessed with a spare room in the house that can be given up entirely to the birds, and if a room is only partly used for their benefit, the fancier is, in a way, handicapped from the start. While incubating and rearing young ones, our domesticated Canaries are very much like the wild birds of the woods and fields; they like to be quiet, and disturbed as little as possible.

Making the Best of Things.

I know that by usage and familiarity Canaries will nest under the most trying conditions, and I have met fanciers (mostly ladies) who have been in the habit of handling their birds at all times and seasons, and the birds were so tame and confiding that they did not appear to mind it. But the average fancier has not the time to steady his birds to this extent, and if a room can be set apart for the breeding stock so much the better; if not, a well-made outside building is indispensable.

Fanciers as a rule do not have much choice in regard to the selection of aspect for their out-door building. The ordinary garden is seldom so extensive that the owner can use any chosen corner, and it frequently happens that what he thinks would be the most suitable position is already occupied. Then, again, comes the question of expense, and there is frequently a wall or sound fence that he would wish to make use of in erecting his structure.

During the many years I have been connected with the Fancy I have seen bird rooms erected in all aspects, and I have come to the conclusion that situation makes very little difference as regards success in breeding. Undoubtedly the worst of all positions is the one facing north, with the back of the house, consequently, against a wall or fence facing south. If that position must be used, a window should be put in, either on the eastern or western side, so as to allow a shaft of sunlight to penetrate the structure, or, failing this, the roof should be made with a strip of glass along the span facing south, as in sketch No. 1, or, if the house is to be a lean-to, the back should be carried up above the wall, so that a row of glass may be put in at the top, as in Fig. 2.

In very hot weather a short blind could be put up to run upon a rod, so as to exclude the sun at mid-day, if desired, but, personally, I am in favour of allowing as much sunlight as possible (with comfort to the inmates) to enter the bird house. The sun is undoubtedly beneficial to the birds, and, as we all know, is a great factor in killing disease germs.

A Preference for Shady Nooks.

At the same time, I do not think it wise to have too many windows in a bird house; the hens, when nesting, appear to dislike exposure to the light, for if you notice them carefully you will see they take much more readily to the nest pan placed in the shady corner of any cage than they do to one in the full light. Sitting hens are sensitive beings, and generations of breeding have not taken all the wild instincts out of their nature.

Finches and Warblers, in their natural freedom, love the shade, and to keep themselves hidden from observation. Seldom does a wild bird nest upon a branch which is fully exposed to the sky; there is generally another branch overhead, or a few leaves flicking to and fro in the breeze, and casting a refreshing shade over the sitter.

On entering an old fancier's room we frequently find that part of the cage front opposite the sitting bird covered over with a thickness of newspaper. So I would advise any novices thinking of erecting an outside house to be careful about the light, also to remember that if half the front is glass, the house will be less cosy in winter. Of course, blinds could be made for use during the breeding season. Some fanciers contend that plenty of light plays an important part in keeping down the red mite, but for my part I think plenty of fresh air is of far more importance. Red mite are nocturnal insects, and are hidden away securely during the daylight, and we all, unfortunately, know how fast they propagate during the "dog days."

A Thing One Cannot Do Without.

Fresh air is absolutely essential to healthy life, and cage birds are no exceptions. Fanciers should look carefully round their rooms and bird houses, and see if they have in the past taken this important fact practically to heart; if not, now is the time to make the necessary alterations.

Where a bird house is built with a span roof the ventilation is easy to manage. The house should have a ceiling of match board nailed from the eaves; in the centre of this a hole can be cut with a sliding shutter, as in Fig. 3. At each end of the span holes can be bored about 1½ inches in diameter, and over these some coarse perforated zinc should be nailed. This would allow the foul air to escape.

There are some people who are satisfied with the fact that if you get rid of the foul air, fresh will take its place. This is so, but the fresh air may enter the bird house at a point where it is not required, or where it is dangerous to the birds. The wiser plan, therefore, is to arrange for it to come into the house where it is required. In my book on "Aviaries" I gave a drawing of a system of ventilation that I think will not be out of place if repeated in this article. In Fig. 4 it will be seen that the cold air is admitted near the ceiling, it falls to the floor, circulates, and goes out at the top. This is undoubtedly a very good system, but I think it is to be improved upon by carrying the cold air down to near the floor, by means of a pipe or partition inside the wall of the house, as shown in Fig. 5, for by this means the air is slightly warmed before entering the building, and does not enter so abruptly. If a fancier is building an outside house of wood and quartering and then re-lining it, he could easily manage this system of ventilation.

Beware of the Cat.

During the hot days of summer a wire door is almost a necessity. This should be boarded up for about 2 feet in order that stray cats may not be seen by the inmates, for although the animals could not get at them, the sight of their enemy might easily frighten sitting hens off valuable clutches of eggs.

The roof of a building is frequently a source of trouble to the fancier, and I have frequently heard complaints of leakage, especially with roofs that have been tarred. The cause of this is that the roofs are built far too steep. A roof that is intended to be tarred should be almost flat, or have just sufficient pitch to it to allow the water to drain off. If a roof is steep, the tar melts in very hot weather, and runs off, leaving only the bare felt as a protection against the autumn and winter rains.

If a roof leaks in spite of frequent applications of fresh tar the felt should be stripped off and fresh felt put on. This is not by any means an expensive operation, as the cheapest felt is quite good enough; what makes it waterproof is not the quality of the felt, but the care with which it is laid and in which the tar is applied; a good layer of clean sand should be thrown over the tar as soon as it has been applied.

IS IT A MISTAKE TO FEED UP HENS FOR BREEDING?

What "Old Breeder" thinks about the matter.

LETTERS recently published in CAGE BIRDS record several early nests of young being hatched in January. As a very old breeder of some thirty-five years' experience, that to me is nothing new. I have done it dozens of times. In my early breeding days, when youth could not wait, if only anyone came in to say that they had got an egg, and I had not, it would set me off at once with a vengeance to put up my birds, only to end by proving the truth of the old proverb, "the more haste the less speed."

I never in those days took into consideration the birds, but they generally have something to say on the matter. It did not at that time make any difference to me whether the birds were in breeding condition or not. Egg food was given them in vengeance, in fact nearly enough to fatten a pig. The consequence would be that my over anxiety ended in total disaster—by ruining the birds for the season. It certainly brought on eggs, faster than it should have done; and what with shell-less eggs, egg-binding, and deaths, the troubles came thick and fast.

Is this the Correct View?

If they laid all right and started sitting they would probably leave the eggs, or even if they got as far as hatching young they would leave these to start building and laying again. It is one of the greatest mistakes to force the hen out of her stride and bring her on so early, especially as our springs are generally so variable. I hope these reports of early breeding will not cause young and inexperienced fanciers to be too eager to get early birds.

There is nothing like letting Nature do her share of the work, and I should not advise young fanciers to start giving too much egg food at present; it is better to be on the safe side and not give any at all; give only the best canary seed you can obtain. That will keep them in good sound condition; a little German rape now and then will not hurt, but bar the hemp entirely until the young are hatched. Giving such fat-producing foods as egg and hemp causes the hen to become much too fat inside, and the consequences are shell-less eggs and egg-binding. Should these occur, it is wise to give the hen a rest for a month until the warmer and more settled weather comes.

A Case in Point.

Take for an example poultry which are confined in a small run and fed three or four times a day on such fattening food as nearly all maize, boiled potatoes and barley meal. The consequences generally are that they are too fat to lay. They don't lay eggs when they are dear, and when they do lay, it often happens they lay shell-less eggs.

Canary hens are something similar, you must consider that they also are confined in cages where they have not much room to fly about and get plenty of exercise, and so they get over-fat; neither is it advisable to give them much dandelion leaves, as this also helps to bring them forward. As the spring comes, so will the hens be ready; that is, if in good and robust health.

Of course it is different with the cock birds, they can do with a small teaspoonful of egg food once or twice weekly until they are mated up. A dandelion leaf a day, young and tender of course, and free from frost would do them good and help them, if not in full song, to come on with their vocal powers, and as a rule the singing of the cocks will soon bring on the hens. But remember this, the spring has not yet arrived, and it is always as well to wait until the end of March or the beginning of April before you put them together. If both are ready, they will soon be at work; and it will certainly repay you for waiting a little longer before you pair up.

Getting the Home Prepared.

Now is the best time to make a good start in the breeding cages, and give them a thorough good cleaning out. Get a good strong solution of hot water and disinfectant, and well go over all the cage inside and out, and let the perches have a good soaking in the solution. After the cages are dry then, to make sure, give them a good coat, if you may call it so, of paraffin or turps. Work the brush into every hole and crevice, also give the wires a painting as well; let the cage then stand out of doors for a few days to let the weather take off all the smell, etc. In my cages I still like the old fashioned limewash. I make it with unslaked lime, a good handful of salt, and a little blue from the blue bag. Paint the inside with this, not too thick, but a nice thin mixture, and when dry, if you think it is not quite to your mind, go over them again. By using it thin, you stand a better chance to get into every hole and corner, and if there are any red mite left from the washing they will not have much chance to escape from this double dose of lime washing.

Keeping on the Safe Side.

After you have done the lime washing, go over all the outside with a small sponge and paraffin; this will liven up the woodwork, and give it a nice polish, besides being death to the red mite; all the perches should have their ends dipped into the paraffin and left to get dry. All nest boxes or pans should be served the same, also the seed and egg drawers, and left out in the open for a few days for the smell to get off. Some young fanciers may think this is a lot of extra work and trouble to take over breeding a few birds, but they will soon find out, if the weather becomes hot and the red mites get the upper hand, that it is better to be on the safe side.

When you set a hen, and also just before she hatches, give the nest a good dusting of insect powder; if there are no pests, so much the better, but prevention is better than cure. You will know that the hens can sit comfortably, which is a great deal off the mind of the breeder. I hope these few lines will have the desired effect on young fanciers.

"It makes Bird Breeding Easy."

THE STOCK BOOK

Compiled by G. E. WESTON.

Simplifies the operations in the Bird-room and makes it possible for every-one, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. It affords facilities for the recording of the complete pedigree of all your birds; of your experiences during the season; an account of every bird reared. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird and Show Registers of simple and unique character; Cash and Profit and Loss Accounts for the year. Gives valuable hints for times of emergency during the breeding season.

Questions and Answers.

Note Rules on page 242 last week.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

Canaries.—Claude St. John. British Birds, Mule and Hybrids—G. E. Weston. Foreign Birds—Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S., &c., Wild Bird Life—H. Norman.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

SLOW STARTERS (John Barnetson).—In all probability the birds were not ready for mating when you put them together, which is a quite sufficient explanation of the hen not yet showing signs of nesting. Even now it is quite early to think of mating up birds in unheated rooms. But, again, if the birds were just coming forward when you mated them, it would be nothing unusual for them to have made no start after being together only ten days. If both birds are not in good forward condition when mated, it is not very uncommon for them to be three or four weeks before getting to work. Should the hen show any indication now of beginning to nest, you had better leave them together and exercise patience; otherwise, separate them again for a fortnight, and in either case feed as follows:—Give a staple of three parts canary to one part summer rape mixed together. Every second day give separately, in addition, half a teaspoonful of egg food, with about half the same quantity of a mixture of equal parts maw, gold of pleasure, and sesame mixed in it. On the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of the seed mixture advised to "Silarle" last week. Give two crisp young dandelion leaves daily. All the above quantities are for each bird.

WILL THEY BE FIT? (C.J.B., Dulwich).—Yes, certainly, as far as age is concerned, your Canaries which are twelve months old will be quite fit for breeding this season. Indeed, if they are in sound vigorous health they should be getting very forward now, and be practically ready for mating at any time. When the cocks are ready they will, in all ordinary cases, be bubbling over with health and spirits, in full lusty song, sometimes, in fact, they get so full of excitement that the song appears to get broken and fragmentary by being jerked out in short runs, even as the bird is hopping about, and it appears to be too much excited to remain still more than a moment, being constantly hopping briskly from perch to perch, pecking at wires, flapping its wings, and all the time jerking out more or less lengthened runs of song. Every now and again it goes through its song connectedly, but with the wings slightly drooping and tremulous. This is the description of a cock in fine breeding condition. The hen should show the same life and health, and restless activity, and will be frequently calling "sweet," or a more incisive "chit," and occasionally a sort of appealing "tz-tz-tz-tz-tz," when she hears the song of the cock—the latter call being rather low and uttered with drooping wings. When she gets very forward and in need of immediate mating she will now and again grip a beakful of the feathers on her breast and make pretence to carry them about, and eventually try to place them in some selected spot. At this stage the birds may be put together at once. When not quite so forward the cages should be side by side or the bird placed in a breeding cage, separated only by a wire slide for a day or two to become acquainted with each other, and when the cock feeds the hen freely through the wires they may be allowed to go together.

CANARY QUERISTS

should consult St. John's "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (7d.); House's "Canary Manual" (1/2); Battye's "Yorkshire Canaries" (1/1½); House's "Norwich Canaries" (1/1); Weston's "Stock Book" (7d.); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping (1/1); Norman's "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); Ramsden's "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); "Seeds and Foods for Cage Birds" (1/2); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 5 "The Pet Canary," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 10 "The Roller," No. 23 "The Border Fancy," No. 24 "Green Canaries." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

TWO FAILURES (F.E.N.).—It is not unlikely your impatience in mating the birds months before the proper season, has set up an aberrant cycle, which may be very difficult to break this season. Your best plan now is to separate them, feed the cock on an ordinary seed diet, with just a morsel of egg-food twice a week, and a dandelion leaf daily, until the end of this month, and treat the hen similarly until about the end of the first week in April, but in her case give a morsel of watercress, groundsel, or chickweed, instead of the dandelion. Then feed them both as advised to "John Barnetson," in this issue, until the middle of April, when you may give them another trial. Provide a shallow nest-pan, and if the hen crouches in it when "calling," place an egg-drawer, or some similar obstacle in it during most of the day, until she is ready to begin laying.

BACKWARD YORKSHIRE AND MARKING RINGS (Lux Prima).—It is not likely that running the cock with two hens last season overtaxed him sufficiently to prevent him coming into breeding condition this season. See if he is in a gross overfed condition, and if so treat him for a week or fortnight, as may seem necessary, as advised to "G. M. D." last week. If not grossly fat, stop the tonic you are giving, and add to the water six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece every second day for a week. Also feed the same as advised to "John Barnetson" in this issue. Stop giving the tonic in any case. With this he should be ready to mate by the beginning of April, which is early enough to have a good season. Do not, however, try to get the utmost possible out of him this year. It would be wisest to limit him to one hen this season. As regards the safety of metal marking rings on hens during the period of incubation, it is rather a moot question. In a general way they add something to the risk. It is just one of those risks which may or may not be worth a thought.

WARMING A ROOM (A.C.).—You say the birds are very late in coming into breeding condition in consequence of your cold room, but you do not say about what time they get to work. If they begin nesting the first half of April that is, after all, the most natural breeding time, and is quite early enough to allow of one getting a good amount of success. The tendency is to begin a great deal too early, which is apt to make one look upon the proper natural season as abnormally late. Still, in your circumstances, having a properly constructed fireplace and flue in the room, assuming there is no down draught in the flue, there would be no risk whatever in having a gas-fire fitted in the fireplace, so that the fumes would pass directly up the chimney. There would be no danger to the health of the birds under these conditions.

AVIARY IN SCHOOLROOM (B.W.).—There are several factors tending to militate against successful breeding in such circumstances as you describe. The noise of the children is not in itself an absolute bar to success, but the publicity accompanying it is doubtless fatal. The glare due to cage being in a sunny window is another serious drawback, and the fact that the male bird is a mule is another fatal bar to success, or at least it is generally believed to be so. I take it you mean the bird is the produce of a Canary and some other species, a Goldfinch, for example, and not a variegated Canary, as some people term the latter birds Mules. True Mules are, as a rule, perfectly sterile, so the only object in mating them should be purely experimental. Apart from the publicity and disturbance around your birds, the hen may not have been in good breeding condition, which would increase the tendency to this abnormal nesting. The only way in which you can hope for any success in this place is to screen off a portion of the aviary, both on the window side and from the schoolroom, so as to make the portion allotted for nesting as private as possible. All hens like privacy for nesting, and very many of them absolutely fail without it, which would succeed well with it. Finally, you must substitute a cock Canary for the Mule if you want to have a sporting chance of success. Read through replies this week.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.,

WILL THEY AGREE? (O.M.).—I do not think any trouble likely to arise from putting a pair of Whydahs with your Pekins, and should recommend either the Paradise or Queen Whydahs for the purpose. Both are handsome species, the latter especially so.

TO GO WITH BUDGERIGARS (F.B.).—The Blue-wing Lovebird could go with the Budgies and Madagascar Lovebirds; it is a bright green bird with blue flights and lower back. The Black-cheeked Lovebird is quite a gaily covered creature, but some individuals prove very aggressive and interfering, unless in very roomy quarters. If you choose to take the risk, this species would please you as to colour and size. The genus Brotogerys are small and pleasing, but are mostly green birds relieved with yellow and white. They are fairly numerous, viz., Tui, Canary-winged, and Tovi Parrakeets and others. A pair of either of the three named would suit; the Canary-winged is perhaps the most showy.

BIRDS FOR SMALL AVIARY (A. Bowell).—Your indoor aviary is only a cage, and you can only have one pair of birds in each division. Long-tailed Greenfinches, White Java Sparrows, and Zebra Finches would be a nice trio, and all should breed, but the pairs must be kept in separate divisions. As regards the suggested outdoor aviary, some such idea as you indicate should answer well, but it would be better to have wood for two-thirds of the roof and wire work for the other portion, and, of course, make it as large and roomy as you can. The Budgerigars will be better out of doors, and in the aviary you suggest you can risk a pair of Canaries with them if you choose. You could put in the aviary one pair each Green and Yellow Budgerigars, Cockatiels, White Java Doves, and odd birds for effect. Red-crested Cardinal, Madagascar and Napoleon Weavers would be an interesting sesies. As you have not had much experience, "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1½d., post free from our manager, would assist you greatly.

LARGE FLIGHT CAGE (A.O.F.).—You can put in it six pairs of small Finches and Waxbills, and if you put up a few rush nests for them, some of them will breed. The following are all pretty or beautiful, and also varied: Zebra Finches, Silver-bills, Avadavats, Gold-breasted, and Orange-cheek Waxbills, and Bib Finches. "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1½d., and Nutshells No. 16 and 20, all post free from our Manager, would tell you how to treat and feed. The better way is to make two small doors in the front of the cage, if they are not already there, and have baths to hang outside the cage over the open doors. Re the cage bottom, give it a good scouring with water and Condy's Fluid, and as soon as it is thoroughly dry, give it two coats of good oil paint (white or grey), and if it is put on evenly and allowed to become quite hard before putting in the birds, no harm will result from it.

FOR CRYSTAL PALACE AVIARY (W.H.M.).—(1) Yes, and if there are partitions, parting it into three compartments, you could have one pair in each division: with a suitable nest they should breed. I suggest Zebra Finches, Avadavats, and Gold-breasted Waxbills. Nutshells No. 16 and 20, 2½d. post free from our Manager, would tell you how to feed and treat. (2) Pekin Robins, Java Sparrows, and Orange Bishops should get on well together, but the Waxbills would lead rather a worried life, even if they were not harmed, if caged with such. If you want merely a crowd flying together as an attractive series, and will give full attention to cleanliness, and use the aviary cage as one flight, then you could have a dozen small birds, say one pair each of: Grey Singing Finches, Zebra Finches, Avadavats, Gold-breasted and Orange-cheeked Waxbills, Bib Finches, and Green Singing Finches. The colours would be varied, the antics of the birds interesting, and there would be some song.

TAME BUDGERIGARS (W. J. Man).—One or other of the birds is not yet in breeding condition. There is no regular period, and also no hurry; in fact, if they delay nesting operations for another month it will be all the better. Let them take their own course, and in due season they will settle down to the serious business of house-keeping. They are young birds and have not nested before, and such are often very erratic at first. If they are brother and sister that may account for it as such will not pair together if they can find other mates; but under any conditions you will, I opine, have young before the season is out. As soon as you can get it, give them as much flowering (seeding) grass as they will eat, such will soon be obtainable, and it will bring them forward. In their native wilds, they only breed when and while the indigenous grasses are available for the rearing of their progeny.

WHAT IS IT? (H. Saxton).—There are many birds which would fit in with your description, and the trivial name is no help at all, as any bird which sings abroad seems to have the cognomen Nightingale tacked on to it in some form. I have, however, been unable to trace the name in the books on my shelf covering that region. It is evidently a Seed Finch of some species or near ally, and this means looking through several genera, which I am unable to do at the moment of going to Press. It would be helpful if you could tell me from what source you obtained it—it might possibly be some European Finch. Your previous query I have no remembrance of; most certainly if I had I should either have given you its name or confessed my inability to do so, or asked for further information. Owing to the holidays, I may not be able to give a definite reply till our issue for week ending April 5th. In the meantime, if you can send me anything really definite as to where it came from it will be a help. I doubt its pairing with a Canary.

BUDGERIGARS (D.B.).—(1) In an article or book one gives general directions, but in this column the replies are modified by the conditions given by the queriest. Moreover, I do not keep queries by me: they are returned to office with my reply, and I certainly do not remember even the details of your last query. In a roomy outdoor aviary Budgerigars are usually left to go their own way, and they usually breed more or less continuously, only making a short pause for the moult. In more limited quarters it is well to limit the broods to three, and this is even the better course in the aviary, as more robust progeny, etc., are the result. The only way to check breeding is to separate the sexes, and this is not always easy in a large aviary. Husks make good sleeping quarters, but they should be either scalded out and then dried in the open, or renewed at least annually. The period depends on the start. Some pairs come on earlier than others, thus the respective broods are easily spread over the seasons. (2) When they get the chance, Budgies will take mealworms readily enough, but in a cage, or aviary cage, they are better without such stimulating food, but in a roomy aviary one, two, or three per bird daily, do no harm; in fact, help to keep the birds in tone. When wild, all seedeaters take insects at certain seasons.

Owing to the necessity of going to press one day earlier this week, many answers to questions cannot be published until our next issue.—EDITOR.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

OUT OF THE ORDINARY (T. Lukey).—Your question is so extraordinary that I find some difficulty in believing it genuine, and not a pleasant little piece of "leg-pulling." You ask: "Is the Goldfinch a British songster, or does it pipe, whistle, or warble?" Well, the answer is in the affirmative, except as regard the "piping." What sort of bird-keeper and reader of CAGE BIRDS can you be, I wonder, to have to ask such a question!

A LADY VOCALIST (T. Praiten).—Your singing "cock" Goldfinch laid 4 eggs in its cage last July, eh? Well, you are not the first, by many a one, to be deceived by the vocal ability of a hen Goldie. Some hens sing quite well. I know of a good-noted one which was bought at a high figure by a song fancier, and won many handicaps for him, and in the summer, to its owner's astonishment, it laid eggs—although an experienced fancier, and one of the cute brigade, he had never doubted its sex. You could try mating her with a cock Goldfinch (get a real cock-bird, of course); or, if you prefer hybrids, either Siskin, Redpoll, or Linnet. It will be best (probably absolutely essential) to have the eggs incubated by a hen Canary; no doubt, however, you are aware of this.

should consult Houlton's great work, "Cage-Bird Hybrids" (7/6); Norman's "British Bird Manual' (2/3); or Part 1 "Hardbills" (1/1), Part 2 "Softbills" (1/1); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); "Secrets of Hybrid Breeding" (1/2); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); Dr Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); "Colour-feeding' (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 1 "Goldfinch," No. 2 "Linnet," No. 3 "Skylark," No. 4 "Song Thrush and Blackbird," No. 11 "Bullfinch," No. 13 "Chaffinch," No. 15 "Greenfinch," No. 22 "Siskin, Redpoll, and Twite," No. 25 "Small Insectivorous Birds," No. 26 "Large Insectivorous Birds," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "Disinfection of Cages, Birdrooms, etc.," No. 12 "How to Moult British Birds." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

A MATING MATTER (J.H.F., Bristol).—It seems highly likely that the Linnet referred to is a hen. Can't you sex the bird by its plumage? The "Nutshell" booklet on the Linnet would explain to you how to do this. Two cock birds will "feed" each other when the pairing fever is upon them as assiduously as any cock bird does a hen. With regard to the cock Bullfinch pairing successfully with the hen Linnet, I can only repeat what I have often said before, i.e., that precedent points to failure of attempts to mate cock Bullies with hens other than those of their own species. Why this should be so is not altogether easy to understand, and possibly if the cock Bullie were to be widely used, instances of success would follow—I cannot see any adequate reason for concluding otherwise.

AN AILING BULLFINCH (Rag).—Get one ounce each of tincture of gentian and tincture of rhubarb from a chemist, and into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water stir 15 drops of each. Give this fresh daily for five days, then give the gentian alone for a period of ten days, but only on alternate days—plain water in between. This should benefit the bird considerably, and "pull him together." Let him have half-a-teaspoonful of maw seed daily for a time. Is it possible that he is being pestered by red-mites; do you understand what manner of things these are? If so, you would do well to read the part dealing with parasites in the "Handy Bird Doctor" in CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL.

LARK NOT SINGING (B.W.).—I certainly think that your method of feeding is not adequate—who told you to give niger seed? You should invest 2½d. in a copy of the "Nutshell" booklet dealing with the Skylark, which will put you on the right road to getting your bird into full song, and give you many valuable hints concerning its management.

SEED SAMPLE (Lorraine).—It is gold of pleasure seed, and this is the name under which it is sold at the shops, etc. (note advertisements in our "Food" column. You may, however, find it difficult to obtain, except at such shops as cater thoroughly for bird-keepers, for it is not a seed at all commonly in use, or even known. Your sample is a good one.

TWO ITEMS (J.M.W.).—(1) It would not be safe to turn another cock Bullfinch into the aviary, which at present holds a pair—the two cocks would be sure to fight, and at this season of the year especially so. (2) The cock Snow Bunting is usually larger than the hen (in many cases, however, this does not apply) and much richer in colour so far as the black and rufous (or light chestnut) tones of the plumage go, and much purer in the white areas. The cock, however, is a duller colour in winter than when in summer dress, much of the black and white being then obscured by rufous "shading." The hen is duller in white (dirty-looking, by comparison) and clouded, especially about the head and upper parts, with a dusky rufous tint. The sex difference of the plumage is not particularly easy to describe in words, but not at all difficult to discern in actual practice—when members of the two sexes are in front of one.

THE LESSER REDPOLL WHEN BREEDING (Constant Reader).—The Lesser Redpoll is not well known as a breeding species in the southern parts of England, i.e., south of a line drawn through Leicestershire, Shropshire, and Norfolk, but northwards of this line it becomes common enough. I cannot say what is the "favourite" tree wherein to lodge the nest, but perhaps the birch holds this position. I know the species is very fond of haunting birch woods—though no doubt willows and alders are much favoured. This bird, too, though more of a tree-haunting species than either Linnet or Twite, frequently builds in bushes and hedges.

A QUARTETTE (A. Grierson).—(1) Yes, there is certainly a good sporting chance of the cross succeeding—in fact, I think the Goldie-Bullie mating far from a difficult one—and the cage you mention is a fair size, though it would be much improved by being 30 to 36 instead of 24 inches long, and also a little wider. However, if you have no option in this matter, by all means make the best of the available accommodation. (2) If you did not wait until the hen Canary had laid, how could you induce her to sit the Bullfinch eggs? When the hen Canary gets "Broody," i.e., has laid her third egg, you can put under her any reasonable number of Bullfinch eggs, say up to 6 or 7. Of course, I do not mean 6 or 7 in addition to her own eggs—the latter need to be removed, or the hen will have more eggs under her than she can properly cover. On the other hand, it does not matter if the hen has been sitting 2 or 3 days before you put the Bullie eggs with her. I always prefer to have two or three "feeding" hens going; if you take care they do not go to nest at the same time, but in succession, you are then seldom in a fix with regard to testing the Bullfinch eggs; (3) I have often proved that eggs can be kept 10 to 12 days without detriment to their hatching powers—what is the actual limit I have never attempted to ascertain. I store mine in a cool place, lying on their sides in cotton-wool, and give them a half-turn every day. (4) It is quite a commonplace of courtship on the part of the hen Bullfinch to run after and "feed" her mate—especially if the latter is a little backward in coming forward. The hen Bullie, when she feels that way, is a very ardent lover indeed—she likes it as I like my whisky, hot and strong and plenty of it.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

R. Eames.—The dead Canary you sent through the post unprotected in an ordinary envelope, naturally reached us in a disgusting, "squashed" condition, and was at once cremated. Evidently, too, you have overlooked the rules under "Post-Mortems" (see the "Questions and Answers" pages this week.)

Canariensis.—We cannot trace the advertisement of the mouse-trap, so cannot give the address of the maker, but we are certain the pattern you describe is a well-known one, and sold by almost all large ironmongery stores.

H. Wardill.—Not there now, and we could get no information as to his present address.

Fair Exhibitor.—We cannot publish your letter; it would be actionable under the law of libel. Had the bird been disqualified it would be a different matter.

G. Bonser.—You amaze us when you say that no grocer in Hull sells Osborne biscuits, and that your local grocer states he cannot get them. We should have thought the difficulty would have been to find some grocer who did not stock them. Osborne biscuits are made by Huntley and Palmer, Peek, Frean and Co., Macfarlane, Lang and Co., and all the leading biscuit firms, and until your letter reached us we were certainly under the impression that they were sold everywhere, and were everywhere popular. Surely there must be some mistake on your part.

BROUGHTY FERRY C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held March 4th in Victoria Cottage, Broughty Ferry, Mr. Carmyllio presiding over a good attendance. Mr. Low proposed three new members for the society, who were accepted unanimously. The judges for open show were selected and nominated, the secretary being instructed to write the successful gentlemen. The date of club show was fixed for Nov. 1, and judges selected, which concluded the business of the meeting.—J. F. Langlands, Sec.

GAINSBOROUGH AND DIS. C.B.S.

First of a series of lectures held March 15, in the Central Hall, Kickman Street, the society being fortunate in securing the services of that well-known judge and expert, Mr. C. A. House, who gave the members and friends an exhibition of washing Canaries and preparing them for the show bench, which was followed by a lecture on moulting and staging birds, both Canaries and British. The manner in which he dealt with his subjects proved him to be a master of his art. At the close he was asked several questions, which he answered in an instructive manner, greatly appreciated by the members asking them. On the motion of Mr. T. Palliser, seconded by T. Green, a hearty vote of thanks was unanimously accorded Mr. House, whose response brought a very instructive and successful meeting to a close.—J. E. Conway, Hon. Sec.

LONGTON C.B.S.

Meeting held at headquarters, Swan Hotel, March 11, Mr. E. Tams in the chair. Balance sheet was passed as read. Proposed, that a vote of sympathy be given to Mr. H. George, the retiring secretary on his present illness, with the hope that he will soon be amongst us again. Proposed that Mr. P. Barker become secretary pro. tem., Mr. Davies chair., and Mr. McMurtrie vice-chair, Mr. Ratcliffe treas., Mr. Hickman and Mr. Kilkin were made auditors. Proposed and carried that the annual open show be held October 4, and that two judges be written to for their terms. Proposed that we should hold a nest feather show June 14, and that four judges be written to for their terms. Mr. Davies has promised a silver cup to be won outright at our nest feather and winter shows, inclusive for most points, and Mr. Ratcliffe is giving a gold medallion for second most points. Local fanciers desirous of joining, please attend next meeting, as announced in CAGE BIRDS this week, or address to the secretary for particulars. We enrolled two new members at our last meeting.—Philip Ed. Barker, Hon. Sec., 6, Prospect Place, Longton. (Please note that reports should be written on one side only of each sheet of paper used.—Ed.)

KELTY AND BLAIRADAM C.B.A.

Meeting held March 11, James Stenhouse (Pres.) in the chair. The West of Fife Cage Birds League was discussed and the delegates instructed for next meeting. The following judges were appointed for open show, Nov. 8: Borders, Wm. McAdam, Lasswade; Yorks., J. McLennan, Renfrew; Crests, Wm. Reid, Falkland; Plainheads, A. Chalmers, Kirkintilloch; Mules, British and Foreign, Crossley Sykes, Musselburgh. Sec. was asked to write a Scotch Fancy judge; when he is engaged I will send along his name. Agreed, that we get show stationery from Spratt's Patent, Ltd., the Secretary to get offers from local printers for show printing. Balance sheet of Club show was read and approved of. It showed a gain of £3 11s. 10d. On the suggestion of Alex. Anderson it was agreed to give a class for F.M. Linnets at open show, also that Large Hardbill Class read, Hawfinch, Crossbill, Corn Bunting and Snow Bunting. Agreed, to discuss at next meeting how to make our Association more beneficial to novice members, seeing that half of our members are novices. Donations received, £2 15s. Two new members accepted—John Robertson and George Cooper.—Adam Dickson, Sec.

WINDHILL C.B.S.

Smoking concert and presentation, held at the "Blue Bell Hotel," March 12:—The attendance was good for a mid-week affair. The following artistes contributed to a very enjoyable evening: J. Edwards, comedian; E. Mason, tenor; and G. Ipkin, as pianist. After part of the programme had been got through our chairman, W. B. Atkinson, made a few remarks as to our two members (Messrs Rushworth and Gunn) who are going to America shortly, and alluded to the good work they had done for the society during their membership. Mr. R. Garnett also made a few remarks on the good work they had done for the Society. Later on, each of these members was presented with a good pipe and case, and the presentations were made by two of our oldest members, Messrs. M. Broadley and E. B. Denton, who said a few words to each member as they handed the presents over to them. Then we had two good recitations from Messrs. T. Elsegood and E. Shepherd, which were received with loud applause. After this the health and success of our two members was drunk by all present, Mr. A. Brown, of Yeadon, proposed a vote of thanks to our worthy Chairman, and this was seconded by Mr. T. Elsegood and carried unanimously. Mr. R. Garnett proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the artistes; this was seconded by Mr. R. Sutcliffe, and carried in the usual manner. A few more songs were rendered and brought a very successful evening to a close. —Taylor and Ellis, Secretaries.

SOUTH BIRMINGHAM O.S.

Meeting held Mar. 12, Chairman Willmott occupying his usual place before a good gathering of members. Mr. Pythian, Small Heath, duly elected a member. The Chairman briefly dealt with the business of the committee meeting, held Mar. 7, all being present. Three new important rules were passed on the committee's recommendation. The question of seeking fresh rooms was thoroughly debated, and the members decided that no better quarters could be found, although the society was willing to pay for a good room. The important item of holding an open show was again gone into thoroughly, and the majority were in favour of spending a sum of money on two solid silver cups for competition during the coming season, believing that this would interest the members and attract more into the society, also the members would feel the benefit of their own money instead of giving same away to outsiders. Decided to hold a table show of British birds at the April meeting, Mr. Raby drafting the classes, no entrance fee. Some good specials will be given, also a novel competition will be announced for the members relating to this. Chairman Willmott makes a special appeal to all the members to attend, as besides the table show the members are requested to make a final decision with regard to holding the show or purchasing cups. The coming season's prospects in birdroom and societies' progress were debated upon, and the season again promises to be a topper, as all agree that things are brighter than ever for the young bird shows, and specials will be more numerous than before.—J. Sheppard, Sec.

RUNCORN B.B.A.

Monthly meeting, held March 7, at headquarters, Mr. Sutton in the chair, before a good number of members. A very lengthy discussion took place on Bird Breeding, which was enjoyed by those present. Three new members, Messrs. Falkner, Cook and Booth were made. It was decided to have a novice washing competition on April 4.—E. Rone, Sec.

WELSH C.B.S.

I should like to remind our members that the subscription, viz., 3s., for 1913, is now due, and I shall be glad to receive same. The cup and medal winners for last season are as follow: Leach Canary Cup, Norwich Plainhead Cup and two medals, Mr. S. H. George; Sandiford's and one medal, Mr. D. H. Tidstone; Leach Bristol Cup and two medals, Mr. J. E. Jeffreys; medal most points at club show, Mr. W. J. Mock. Cash specials will be sent to winners in a few days; only one cash special can be won during the season. I shall be glad to receive applications for patronage from the various societies.—A. E. Brown, Hon. Sec., 66, Clare St., Merthyr Tydfil.

GATESHEAD C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, held March 12. Mr. Holden took the chair to a good attendance. Committee's recommendation to alter show date to December 12 and 13 was confirmed. The following judges were elected: Messrs. A. Holden, Gateshead; J. Bailey, Bradford; J. Patterson, Chirnside; J. Maddison, Newcastle; and J. Robson, Peckham. Owing to the sec. not being able to carry out the society's work any longer, Mr. W. Curry, Ashcroft House, Ebchester, was elected to fill the position. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring secretary for his past work on the society's behalf. The following new members were elected: F. Rowan, Gateshead, and J. Johnston, Wallsend. Judging from the present progress, the prize drawing looks as though it would be a complete success by the closing date.—J. J. Greason, Sec. pro. tem.

NORTHERN B.M. AND F.B.C.

Meeting held Feb. 26, the chairman, Mr. C. Pettersson, presiding. Decided to have a table show at next meeting, this being the last one of the series of six shows for the specials. I hope the members will bring plenty of entries. Mr. Maddison will judge. All previous winners over table shows will be entitled to compete. The following classes were decided upon: Linnet, Greenfinch, A.O.V. of Hardbill Brit., Mule or Hyb. pairs, and Foreign Medals were selected; these will be bronze medals in cases, which will be presented at the forthcoming distribution of prizes on April 8. In connection with the meeting, a table show was held. Mr. J. Bertram judged. LINNET: 1, 3, Pettersson; 2, Scott. SISKIN, ETC.: 1, 2, McGuire; 3, vhc, Voutt; 4, Scott. A.O.V.: 1, McGuire; 2, vhc, Pettersson; 3, Scott; 4, Voutt. FOR.: 1, Scott; 2, Pettersson. Vote of thanks to judge brought the meeting to a close. Tickets for the social evening can be had by applying to me; single 1s. 6d., or 2s. 6d. double.—W. Curry, Sec. (Report received this week,—Ed.)

NORTHERN BORDER & S.F.C.C.

Annual meeting and election of officers, held March 3, Mr. W. P. Snaith in the chair. Post-card was read from Mr. T. C. Crawhall, asking that two delegates be appointed to attend a meeting to make arrangements for social and presentation of prizes of the Northern Specialist Clubs. Mr. Greason and Mr. Potts were chosen to attend. Following new members were elected: T. Davison, Sunderland; J. Jobbing, Heaton; E. Phillipson, Byker; T. Moat, Shiremoor. Mr. J. Johnston proposed, Mr. J. G. Greason seconded, that a letter of condolence be sent to the widow and family of our late member, Mr. J. Brown, who passed away after a two days' illness. It was then moved and seconded that Mr. Snaith ask Mr. Barr to become pres., and Mr. Parkin vice-pres. The following officers were elected:—Chair, Mr. W. Smith; vice-chair, Mr. W. P. Snaith; committee, G. Greenwell, W. Espie, J. G. Greason, T. Davison, W. Affleck, J. Craig, C. Farrar, W. Harvey, J. Johnston, A. Montgomery, W. Parkin, J. W. Reid, T. Smith; auditors, W. Affleck, W. P. Snaith; hon. sec., M. C. Potts. Mr. J. Johnston moved and Mr. W. Affleck seconded that the Scotch Fancy section be dropped out of the club, as it was a drawback to shows seeking our patronage. Mr. Espie moved and Mr. G. Wilson seconded that the section be left in. After a good deal of discussion, Mr. T. Smith moved and Mr. A. Montgomery seconded that the rules be left over, and the meeting be adjourned to allow all Scotch Fancy members to attend.—M. C. Potts.

FALKIRK (Good Intent) C.B.A.

Meeting held Oddfellows Hall, Feb. 22. Judges were nominated for the shows in connection with our Association, and they will be finally settled on at our next meeting, March 29, when I hope there will be a good attendance to assist us to select suitable gentlemen.—Walter Clarkson. (Report received this week.—Editor.)

CODNOR PK. & EASTWOOD C.B.S.

Meeting held at Three Tuns, Eastwood, March 15, when the best number of members for some time put in an appearance. Mr. L. Parsons was in the chair, and a large amount of business was transacted. Decided that a silver teapot should be awarded at the end of the season for most points won at the table shows. The first lot of birds—Greenfinches—were shown, and a good class resulted. Mr. C. Martin judged. 1, 2, Lees and Smith; 3, Simpson; vhc, hc, Bestwick. Next table show, March 29, 2 classes, Goldfinches and Bullfinches; entrance 6d. per cage. Officers selected: Pres., Jas. Taylor, Three Tuns; Comm., C. Martin, B. Simpson, G. Lees, W. Harrison, B. Mitchell, P. Watson, S. Cook, A. Bestwick, T. Pegg, J. Argyle, J. Dodman, A. Wood, and A. Kew; Treasurer, Jas. Taylor. Will all members kindly hand in unsold tickets and money for prize draw, Feb. 15th, to enable draw to take place at next meeting, March 29th.—A. Smith, Sec.

NORTHERN NORWICH CLUB.

Meeting held Feb. 10. The chairman, Mr. Topping, presided. Re annual distribution of prizes, it was decided that we join in with the other Northern specialist clubs, and Mr. Holden and myself were appointed delegates for same. Re medals won by the members over the late shows, we decided to buy bronze medals in cases instead of silver medals; we also decided to buy a gold medal for the cup winner, Mr. H. Wellsbury, and that a special, value 10s. be given to Mr. Butler, as the winner of the other special competed for on the same conditions as the cup. In connection with the meeting, a pair show was held. Mr. F. Wyndham judged, and his awards were well received, it being his first attempt at judging. YELL. CK. BUFF HEN: 1, 3, Holden; 2, Smith; vhc, c, Topping; hc, Curry. BUFF CK., YELL HEN: 1, 3, Holden; 2, Smith; vhc, Curry; hc, Topping. New members elected: Mr. Pearson, Gateshead; Mr. Wyndham, Newcastle. Tickets for the social can be had from me; single 1s. 6d., double 2s. 6d. Vote of thanks to Mr. F. Wyndham for judging brought a pleasant meeting to a close.—W. Curry, Sec.—(Report received this week.—Ed.)

Is This a Breeding Record?

A One-legged Hen Has Ten Nests in One Season and is "Still Running."

Sir,—In 1911 I reared a nest of Norwich, one of which had claws on one leg only, the other being a stump. This I gave to a little niece of mine who is passionately fond of birds (so much so, we call her "Dicky") and can manage them like an old fancier. In 1912 "Dicky," who keeps her pets in the dining-room, paired this hen to a buff cock and she went to nest on ten occasions, laying 39 eggs, hatching 15 youngsters, and rearing 14. The last nest in 1912, of five eggs, two only hatched out on Boxing Day and are now doing nicely for themselves.. Since then the hen went to nest again and the latest news I have received was to the effect that she hatched three more youngsters on Saturday, March 15th. Is this not a remarkable breeding result?

The Provincial Roller Canary Club's Challenge Trophy.

Sir,—I am pleased to see Mr. Percival's reply to my appeal re the above trophy. He says that the club formulates its own rules. I have not disputed this. The only thing I find fault with is, why they don't print them when they haie their cup competition? He also points out a special rule passed Jan. 8 (10th) 1910 re cup competition. The secretary, however, did not know that this rule was in existence until Feb. 5, 1913, when I have a letter from him pointing this out to me, with a footnote, "I have just come across this minute, so send it on." This confirms my statements that at the time of the contest they did not know of any definite rule, and that I should have been the winner, and that if the two birds had not tied the cup would have been awarded to the member with highest song points. I have no wish to extend this controversy further, and we can pass the remaining part of Mr. Percival's and their special correspondent's letters as being childlike, and having no reference whatever to the subject. To do Mr. Percival justice, I did receive his reply March 3rd—nine days after the appeal—but my report had gone to the press on March 1st. In concluding, let me ask the secretary to print the full rules next time, and not shield themselves under an old rule that they fortunately found out.

Andrew M. Firth.

Short Entries at Scottish Shows

Are "Clique" Judges to Blame?

Sir,—I again crave your indulgence to review some of the epistles of your correspondents, who, like "Lover of Justice," assert there are clique judges, hence the short entries at our Scottish shows. Some of the statements are so ridiculous that I don't think any of your readers could look upon them as true. Such, for instance, as a judge, after seeing a catalogue, when judging was over going and marking "soft" on the cage of a bird that should have been first. True, often a judge has to mark a good bird "soft," and often in the afternoon the bird will be all right again. But I have yet to visit the show where, after the catalogue is out a judge would have an opportunity to mark a bird soft that was not soft. As to a certain judge saying that some of the birds at a large show near Glasgow were too small, that may be true. A bird may be 5½ inches and yet be too small, as there is a very large percentage with empty and guttered backs, sharp fronts, empty fronts and thin necks, with small spiky heads—nothing to commend them but the standard length of 5½ inches. Now, I prefer a full-sized Border, for, as a rule, you get them better filled in all over if you have substance. Yet many possess the mistaken idea that a small bird with a pose (apart from its failings) should always win. As to colour, it is important that a Border should be judged for colour along with other points; it should be soft and level throughout. Unfortunately there is reason to doubt the colour of some, but where there is a doubt, the exhibitor has a right to the benefit of it. I would like to know how a judge can make a mistake to benefit the novice? If a judge should put the bird of a novice where it should not be, would that benefit the novice? I think not, as the novice in future would expect every judge to do likewise. In reviewing Mr. Logan's latest effort, let me frankly tell him that I have as yet got no "gruelling," as I am not guilty of any of the imaginary crimes, and am still doubtful whether any other person is. Without bluff, Mr. Logan, let me tell you that I never had a conversation with you in all my life on any subject of the hobby, and don't think it worth my while to differ with you further than to say that, I don't believe your guessing assertions to be true. Neither is it true that you accepted my first entry and that it was a Border Fancy, as my first entries were a Norwich P.H. hen and a Goldfinch, and made before you were in the Fancy. But I well know the party you are guessing to be me. Again, I say, from my own knowledge that these same men had won more, before ever they judged, than you have ever done. Yet all this has no bearing on the vexed subject of short entries. Now I know a man who for years carried on a small business, among an increasing population, but quite recently had to dismiss his assistant because of short sales; was this because he was a dishonest man? I say no; it was because he gave better attention to other people's business than his own, and the increased opposition in the growing district took a large share of his sales away from him. Our shows, too, now have too much opposition for large entries to be obtained. "Even Mark" admits my statement as to the number of shows he has visited, while, again, he agrees with me that sometimes a good bird can be purchased by a judge at the price of a songster, or a feeder. But I regret I cannot claim the credit he confers on me as to getting many of my winners for 4s. 6d. or less. He says he has judged a few club shows. Well, it might lengthen his purse were he to give his name (at least) in your advertising columns, as a judge, which should cure the present evil of short entries at our shows, because he is the sort of judge that is wanted by all fanciers—one who can give the best of satisfaction. After all his claims, however, I hope he won't be like the young judge who judged a club show at which a certain fancier did most of the winning, but did not find his best birds always at the top. He was a little surprised, yet had not long to wait for the reason, as the young judge approached him and made him an offer for one of his best (not then a "top-marker"), but the offer was refused. He then wanted to exchange, but did not succeed. He asks what good purpose it serves to show with extra thick spars, etc. Well, he has tried; and with what results? It certainly did not lengthen his purse. Your more experienced readers will know that there has always been a difference in the staging of birds, and that it is an old game to imitate the champions. How far has it ever been a success without the good birds? "Even Mark" came out last year to sweep the decks, and feels annoyed at his disappointment. Still, we may expect to see all wrongs righted when he officiates at open shows as judge, and gives the best of satisfaction.

Plainhead.

Sir,—I was sorry when I read "Another Arbroath Fancier's" letter; it is lamentable to read his wail for me to come over and help. I would advise him, when he has taken the plough by the stilts, to go to the end of the rig. I never inferred anything about the Arbroath secretary. But as he has drawn me in I won't object to give my opinion. I think he is the strongest-minded member on the committee, and likely to make a good secretary. "A. A. F." accuses me of keeping back my experience. I never was a man of that sort, or I would never have lifted my pen. I have been in harness since the seventies, and I think "A. A. F." has a long lane to travel before he does as much for the feathered Fancy as I have done—at least, I am prepared to go into the balance with him since coming to Arbroath. If Mr. Gray comes along to E. Mary Street I'll give him any information he wants, if it is in my power.

Wm. M. Hastings.

Sir,—I am very much obliged to the Countess von Hahn for the facts and figures in reference to the R.S.P.C.A., also the notes of the secretary of Cage Birds League concerning same. We have quoted 25,540 cautions, to 7,038 convictions. This works out roughly at about three cautions to one conviction, as there must be taken into account the proceedings in which they do not get a conviction. I should very much like the Countess von Hahn to make enquiries of the R.S.P.C.A., and kindly inform your readers how many cautions they have given London bird dealers before commencing prosecutions. I have had a good deal to do with such dealers, and in no single instance has it come to my knowledge that the R.S.P.C.A. has given anyone of them a caution. Their procedure was never better illustrated than in your report of last week headed "In the Courts." Here you have a poor old man keeping birds; the Society officer visits his premises, does what no policeman dare do, enters without a warrant, picks out a bird from amongst his lot, promptly summons him for cruelty, and, in addition, to supplement and confirm his own evidence, calls veterinary evidence. Was any caution given here previously, or was it only the conviction required? Think of it, bird-keepers! A great and powerful Society like this, an inspector, a veterinary surgeon, a bench of magistrates, court officials, all engaged in a trivial little prosecution on the ground that a bird was perhaps a little dirty; not starved, mind you; plenty of seed and water, and not being cruelly illused! Is it not ludicrous that the Society's funds should be wasted in a prosecution of this description? or rather, is it not part of their campaign to try and get a conviction wherever possible? Perhaps the Countess von Hahn will kindly tell us why this poor old man was forthwith prosecuted when it would have been far more becoming in their officer to have pointed out to him the necessity of keeping his birds perfectly clean.

This Society was founded to prevent Cruelty to Animals, but when they arrogate to themselves the right to extend their work far beyond their original conception, and carry out a crusade against a perfectly legitimate and innocent hobby, then we have a perfect right to criticise their assumption. My previous letter refers to birds, not animals, and I am very much afraid many of their officials are often too prone to exaggerate facts in taking proceedings. What has occurred to my own personal knowledge tends to confirm this view.

In all fairness to the traders, they should, if they find a stockkeeper who, in their opinion, is not keeping his live stock in the necessary condition according to the present laws, caution him once or twice before taking proceedings. Then if he refuse to do what is necessary, they would have, I am quite sure, the heartiest support of all bird and animal lovers in any proceedings they took.

T. R. Trower.

The Shows in Ireland.

Sir,—I should like to answer the points "Wide Awake" raises. In the first place, as he has been already informed, Holywood is not asleep as regards fixing the show date. The show date has already been fixed, and has been for some time. As I do not think it is any of his business, it will be issued in due time and course. Re Holywood fanciers not exhibiting at any other shows, may I point out he has already been told the reason, and I do not think there is any necessity for repeating it. Re Holywood members exhibiting in the members' classes at their own show, what in the name of all reason does he think they have members' classes for, when it is a rule that members must show in these classes at our show, as all members' birds are shown on their merit amongst themselves, and all members are judged alike, so that there will be no favouritism. Re Mr. Morgan's letters, you have also been informed as to the reason in that case, and I should like also to point out that there was no delay on our part.

Now I have corrected you, "Wide Awake," I trust you will drop this useless discussion.

John Dunwoody, Hon. Sec.

[We cannot see that any good purpose would be served by the continuance of this correspondence, which must now close.—Editor.]

Damage Done by Birds.

The Fallacy of Over-Protection.

Sir,—I beg to enclose a cutting taken from the "Farmer and Stockbreeder" of the 10th inst., and hope you will consider it suitable for publication in your columns. The "Farmer and Stockbreeder" is one of the soundest, broadest-minded, and most ably conducted farming journals I am acquainted with; and the cutting I enclose is a letter written by their veterinary expert, who probably cures or alleviates more real suffering in a twelvemonth than all the humanitarian leagues prevent in a generation. This letter gives an interesting glimpse of the views of agriculturists (upon whom devolves the toil of providing bread and beef for the teeming millions of our cities) upon the subject of bird protection by law; and it also throws a lurid light on the utter indifference of the makers of those laws to the needs of those who, though silent, are most nearly concerned. Although a town-bred man myself, I take no exception whatever to the writer's scornful tilt at the neurotic namby-pambyism taught by teachers of what is called "Nature Study" drawn from great cities.

C. Prior.

Sir,—I don't often chip in upon subjects other than veterinary, but this bird question has been a study of mine for more than fifty years, and I made collections of eggs before I was ten years old. The bird plague had its foundation in the gun licence first, and was followed by the foolish legislation for the protection of birds against their natural enemies. Gunners were squelched by the licence, but formerly they had a half-day or two during the winter, and a Boxing Day Sparrow and Starling shoot, and made a bag of Blackbirds, Thrushes, and other "small deer" on that one great day of the year when the poor man or youth with an old muzzle-loader went forth with his gaspipe and powder and shot flask. A namby-pamby generation has been taught by teachers, drawn from great cities, to feed Sparrows with crumbs upon the window-sill, instead of following the wholesome instinct of boys to trap them with four bricks or a sieve propped up with a stick to which a string was attached, and exercise themselves by climbing after their nests and taking the eggs, or feeding the ferret with the young ones. The "Nature Study" which has taken the place of natural history has no regard to the question of utility of birds and beasts, and the children are taught to think they are doing a meritorious act in nursing a fledgling that has fallen out of the stack pipe. While playing tennis with some high school teachers last year one of them interrupted the game to care for a damaged codlin moth and put it back into my hedge. It was only from deference to my years that this teacher tolerated my explanation of the codlin moth's mission in life; she was not in the least convinced of anything, except that I was an old brute with no modern refinement of feeling such as she was paid to impart to her juniors. "A new heaven and a new earth" have not been discovered by the elementary teacher in the State-supported schools, and the "balance of power" must still be maintained among nations as well as birds and beasts. The increased parasitism of late years should be an answer to those who slop over with sentiment and make laws to suppress the natural enemies of birds.

An Explanation Wanted from the Scottish Norwich P.C.

Sir,—Seeing that the management of the Scottish Plainhead Club have not had the courtesy to reply to my note, I shall thank the secretary to acquaint me of the date of the general meeting, when I shall be very pleased to go before the members and have my case (if there is any) threshed out. What I want to preserve is my reputation and character, and should I not be allowed to vindicate my character, then I have been convicted without a trial. We are not in Russia. Further, I have complied with all the rules of the club, and every bird that I exhibited was my own bona-fide property (£5 to any one who can prove otherwise). What have the management to say to this?

William C. Smith.

Eleven Young by March 11.

Sir,—Having been a reader of your valuable paper, Cage Birds, I would like to ask if the undermentioned constitutes a record? I have a pair of Yorkshires that were nesting in January, the hen laying seven eggs first clutch, sitting on the 17th Jan., and hatched out five young on 30th Jan., the same hen going to nest again in February, laying another seven eggs second clutch, sitting Feb. 26, and hatched out six young on March 11, so that is fourteen eggs and eleven young. The last six young ones are going on well, but I am sorry to say I did not succeed in rearing the first clutch. I may mention this is my only second attempt to breed Canaries, therefore I am only a novice.

Rural Rambles.

How is Success Ensured?

Sir,—Anxious and inexperienced as to the modus operandi of a well organised and conducted country-side ramble for cage-bird fanciers, I should esteem it a favour if some person or persons having the knowledge would be good enough to inform me through Cage Birds how best to go about it. Here are some of the points I would like touching upon:—(a) the most suitable date for searching for British wild birds' nests, (b) best time of day, (c) how to locate the different kinds of nests, (d) should the search party proceed enbloc or otherwise, (e) should ladies accompany the party, (f) is it advisable to seek the assistance of the game-keeper and consent of the landowner or farmer over whose fields you may desire to traverse? Further, how about wild seed expeditions? Are these worth undertaking? The idea that fanciers' societies within easy reach of each other should fully avail themselves of each other's lectures and rambles seems quite the proper thing; but then, I am as yet.

Unflighted.

Appointment of Judges at Gateshead Show.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. J. G. Greason's letter, as the secretary of the Gateshead C.B.S., I think he was the fit and proper person to address. If, as he says, "there is nothing to conceal," then candidly I cannot understand why my questions have not been answered. My assuming a "nom-de-plume" does not prevent me from being an "honest fancier," nor does it in the least alter things, and whether I am Smith, Brown or Jones, they remain the same. I am not afraid of my "skin" (it would probably bear inspection), but would remind him that personal abuse is neither argument nor in good taste. The conducting of the business of a society's open show concerns not its members only, but every exhibitor in the Fancy, and by it the reputation of any society rises or falls. Can it be shown then, that the matter relative to my inquiry has been properly dealt with? If it can, then let it be made known. Should Mr. Greason still refuse to answer my questions, surely from his silence and "contempt" there comes, but one logical inference. At a meeting held in December, 1912, was a question asked as to when Mr. Harland's letter was received, and was his (Mr. G's) reply, "Thursday morning," meaning morning previous to show? If so, then, I challenge the correctness of his statement, and will give half-a-guinea through Editor of Cage Birds to some charitable institution in Gateshead if he can prove this statement to be founded on fact.

Bobby.

THE TROUBLE ABOUT THE SOUTHERN NORWICH PLAINHEAD CLUB'S £10 10s. CUP.

Mr. Gill and the Threat of Legal Action.

Sir,—Mr. Baker's letter of the 15th inst. is nothing more nor less than a composition of mis-statements and self praise. I will, therefore, reply to his remarks in rotation, as they appear in Cage Birds. Mr. Baker states that after the first season's competition for the cup, considerable discussion arose as to who the winner really was, and that Mr. Hodder, Mr. Rennie, and Messrs. Gill and Pethick all claimed it. This is not true, as neither Mr. Pethick nor myself was present at the annual meeting. Mr. Baker also states that I withdrew my claim from the cup that year. This is also untrue; how could I withdraw my claim at this meeting, seeing that I was not present? I knew, therefore, very little of what took place at the meeting until I read the report in Cage Birds. I then wrote Mr. Matthes as follows:

"February 28th, 1910. Dear Sir,—Seeing in this week's Fancy papers the result of the annual meeting held at the Crystal Palace, Feb. 8, giving the names of the successful winners of the S.N.P.C. specials, will you be good enough to send me the number of points each of the five named made both for the £10 10s. and the £3 3s. cups, as I have made a detailed account, which does not agree with the reports."

I received a reply dated March 1, asking me to send the number of points I made to our birds, and I complied with this request on March 2. To this Mr. Matthes replied on March 10th, sending me the list of points as he made them; to which I replied on March 12, pointing out to Mr. Matthes his list was not correct and that Mr. Rennie had not won the cup according to the rules governing same. Mr. Matthes replied on March 14, saying he thought it would be wise to be content with what he had done. I replied on March 18th, saying it must be thrashed out to the end. On June 17th, Mr. Matthes wrote as follows: "At Committee last evening it was decided to count points for £10 10s. cup as per byelaw 7." Now here the Committee disregarded the rules governing the £10 10s. cup, and awarded the cup to Mr. Hodder under a rule that has nothing whatever to do with the £10 10s. cup. Now I would point out to Mr. Baker that it was at this meeting that the cup was withdrawn from Mr. Rennie, and illegally awarded to Mr. Hodder, and not at the Palace, as he stated in his letter, and we, Gill and Pethick, have never withdrawn our claim on the cup for that season. We were well aware that we had won the cup for that season, and also the two succeeding seasons, and could have legally claimed it two years ago. But we were quite willing to have let it gone on, and would have welcomed any member to have won the cup in a sportsman-like manner. Now I am quite prepared, if necessary, to come to London and meet Mr. Baker, and the Committee and produce the whole of Mr. Matthes's correspondence with myself on this matter. If Mr. Matthes will arrange a meeting to be held on a Saturday, any time will suit me. I would suggest, too, that a representative of Cage Birds be present so that a full report may be conveyed to all its readers. Mr. Baker is also very much mixed with regards to the birds that should count; in fact he has put the cart before the horse, but this I will leave, as he suggests, to the secretary to correct. Mr. Baker says he understood that from that time the cup entered on a fresh basis for competition. Yet at the Palace meeting he stated that the conditions under which the cup had been once competed for could not be altered until the cup had been won outright; does not this apply to 1908-9, as well as 1913? Mr. Baker also states that on February 20th he received a letter from me, and he quotes two paragraphs as coming from the same. As regards the first paragraph, I say that my letter to Mr. Baker never contained those words, and it looks to me as if there is a conspiracy going on, and in justice to myself I must ask you, Mr. Editor, to publish these true copies of my letters, both to Mr. Baker and Mr. Matthes.

My letter to Mr. Baker (19-2-13). Dear Sir,—I am writing you as I think it only fair that you should know I have written Cage Birds, and I hope you will reply to same through Cage Birds for the information of all members of the S.N.P.C. as to what is the position of the £10 10s. cup to-day. You said at the meeting that the conditions under which the cup had been competed for could not be altered until the cup had been won outright. That being so we, Gill and Pethick, won it in 1908-9, 1909-10, 1910-11 in accordance with the rules published in the S.N.P.C. rule books, and could have legally claimed same two years ago. Now I have no wish for anything of an unfriendly nature to creep into this matter, and nothing would give me better pleasure than to melt it in the pot, and then sell it for old silver and give it to some charity, and so end its unsatisfactory career.—Yours faithfully, S. Gill."

Letter to Mr. Matthes (19-2-13). Dear Mr. Matthes,—As you already know Mr. Baker stated at the Palace meeting that once the rules under which the cup had been competed for cannot be altered until the cup had been won outright, that clearly proves that the committee had no power in 1908-9 to award the cup to Mr. Hodder and as we, Gill and Pethick, won the cup in that year and the two succeeding years according to the rules printed in the S.N.P.C. rule books, it became our absolute property two years ago. I have written Cage Birds, and also Mr. Baker, and I hope Mr. Baker will reply through Cage Birds, for the information of all members of the S.N.P.C., the exact position of the £10 10s. cup to-day. Now I want you to clearly understand that whatever action I may take in this matter is nothing personal between yourself and myself. I am not going to argue the point, and shall leave it if needs be in the hands of the law to settle. I would much rather it had gone on as it is, but I consider Mr. Baker is acting in a very selfish manner, and we have won the cup three times, and it is legally ours. Trusting you are quite well, with kind regards.—Yours faithfully, S. Gill."

Now I will leave readers of Cage Birds to judge for themselves as to what they may think of the actions of both Mr. Baker and Mr. Matthes, and also whether there is anything lamentable or unsportsmanlike in my letters to them. Now, Mr. Baker, I shall be very pleased to accept your sporting offer as published in Cage Birds, providing you can produce the letter bearing the two paragraphs which appear in your letter in Cage Birds, the same to be in my own handwriting and sent direct from me to you. I have never asked you for any personal information, concerning the cup. I asked you to supply this information to all members of the S.N.P.C. My reason for this was that since 1908-9, all information as to who are the winners of the S.N.P.C. specials for each season has been left out of the rule books, and therefore very few of the members knew anything as to the position of the cup, and as you declined to give this information through Cage Birds, I consider I was quite at liberty to do so, and what I have stated are facts. You ask, why did I not have this matter thrashed out at the annual meeting? I quite agree with you that this is where it should have been done, but it was impossible owing to you taking offence at Mr. Garland's motion. You said it was a direct slap at you. Now if the motion had come from Clapham it would have been the same thing—you would have been quite as much justified to say it was a direct slap at you, and you have only your own self to thank for this controversy.

S. Gill.

An Invitation to Dunfermline Fanciers.

Sir,—As will be seen from the Club Notices, we, the members of Dunfermline and Dis. C.B.S., have been fortunate in receiving for exhibition the fine collection of wild seeds collected by Mr. J. S. Clarke, of Rothesay, who has recently been writing on them in the columns of Cage Birds, and who has kindly consented to exhibit them at our monthly meeting to be held in the Co-operative Hall here on March 29th. We extend an invitation to all fanciers to this meeting, and hope that all who have not had an opportunity of seeing these will take advantage at this time. We hope we may have a pleasant and profitable meeting with our brother fanciers. Mr. Clarke has written a few special notes for this meeting, which should help the fanciers to identify the plants this coming season. The meeting will be an open one, and chair will be taken at 7 prompt.

Motherwell Fanciers Please Note.

Sir,—Will you, through the medium of your excellent paper, kindly bring to the notice of Motherwell fanciers that a meeting of the old Motherwell N.P.B.F.C. and M.C. will be held on Saturday, March 22nd, in the Y.M.C.A., Brandon Street, for the purpose of forming a committee to carry on the club show this season. There are some who think that it would be better to have the club open to a ten miles radius; let all fanciers interested in this old club turn out to this meeting and give us their opinions, and settle this question whether we will go on with show or not.

Successful Charity Show Held at Leicester.

Sir,—In connection with the combined show held by the Leicester Hand-in-Hand and Leicester C.B. Societies in aid of the funds of the Leicester Children's Hospital, a joint committee meeting was held Mar. 12, the chairman, Mr. Hulse, presiding. The balance-sheet was passed as read. The show was a great success, and the nice sum of £7 10s. has been handed over to the secretary of the institution. It reflects the highest credit on the fanciers of Leicester and Leicestershire for the interest and help given in such a splendid cause. A vote of thanks was passed to the judges, Mr. E. Fox (Long Eaton) and Mr. T. Judd, the secretaries (Mr. A. Freestone and Mr. J. Cook) and the other officials for their gratuitous and untiring services. The committee expressed the hope that the show may be an annual event.

BIG BUFF COCKS

I have a few to spare, splendid length, grand position, pedigree birds, best strain going, and bred off parents costing £5 to £8 pair; my price, 5s. and 7s. 6d. each; approval willingly. Stripe, Grocer, Selby, Yorkshire. (585)

"PHOSTO"

This wonderful discovery, which will be a boon to every breeder; no bad feeders, no weakly youngsters, no sweating. Read the following:—Mr. Down, 123, Tiverton-rd., Exeter: "'Phosto,' in my opinion, should be in every breeder's room. It produces vitality, keeps the hens in splendid condition, plenty of strength for feeding, no sweating. The young come out of the nest in the pink of condition, strong and robust." Mr. Warwick, 32, High Lever-rd., Kensington: "It has given excellent results. I have had 18 chicks hatched out, and not lost one. I have a hen that would not feed her first brood; the second brood I gave her 'Phosto' and she is feeding grandly." Prices, in tins, post free, 1/-, 2/6, and 4/6, with directions: Judge Sill, Whitstable. (585)

KNIGHT'S YORKSHIRE AVIARIES

is probably the one place in the North where Yorkshire variety breeders and fanciers of limited means are assured of getting best value in return for moderate outlay. My present stock (about 200, including own breeders) consists of clears, ticked, greens, marked, cinnamon marked, and clear pinkeyed, suitable in every respect for producing progeny of the desired size, style and quality for stock or exhibition. All cold room bred, reared and kept. Personally selected guaranteed unrelated pairs from 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, to 30/-; single cocks and hens proportionately. All sent on strict approval terms, cash or deposit. List and particulars post free from old and only address: Jonas Knight, Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire. (581)

H. H. TOWERS

A last chance, only a few left; clear yellow cock and buff hen, 25/-, worth double; a few hens from 8/- each; also one or two odd cocks, from 10/- upwards; approval, cash or deposit; write at once, or too late: Glusburn, near Keighley.

SHACKLETON'S YORKS.

Having selected my breeding stock, can spare some really grand birds, full of type and quality; this strain is well known, and needs no bounce; pairs, properly matched to breed the best, also single birds, cocks or hens; prices reasonable; stamped address for reply: W. H. Shackleton, Melrose House, Lytton-rd., Girlington, Bradford.

A CLEAN SWEEP

1913—we have won the Yorkshire Challenge Cup, so don't be led astray with misleading adverts. of winnings of the past. Also we have won the Yorkshire Challenge Trophy two years in succession, which now becomes our own property, also winning outright the 10-guinea G.M.Y.C.C. Trophy, also winners of "Cage Birds" competitions, and 40 points, leading at all Yorkshire Union Shows with four highest awards. The above is a feat never before accomplished, finishing up with two 1sts, 5 specials, at Crystal Palace. This is official proof where the best is to be got. We have the world's record for breeding winners. As for testimonials, we could publish them daily of winners bred from our strain. Those desirous of laying a solid foundation cannot equal our strain. Properly matched pairs, 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/-. Cocks or hens proportionate; also a few noted winners to spare. Special invitation, or birds sent on approval at our risk; stamp for reply: Ogden Bros., Dudley Hill, Bradford.

WHO HAS THEM?

Read below and judge for yourself. I have won outright Y.C.C. 20-guinea challenge cup, Yorkshire Union 30-guinea challenge trophy, Mr. H. Naylor's challenge cup, diplomas and highest honours at all leading shows; see 1913 "Palace" report; winner cup best yellow, winner cash special most points, with 8 entries (nearest opponent almost double); cash special, per Mr. White, Australia, best Yorkshire; championship diploma best cinnamon-marked and championship diploma best Yorkshire over all other varieties; in fact, these last 14 years I have won more cups, medals and championships at the "Palace" than any other firm or firms. Not bluff! but solid facts. My cinnamon-tick and clear yellow cocks are admitted to be two of the finest birds seen at the "Palace" show, and remember, they have been bred by me only, not purchased. Don't be led away with 30 years' strains, but have up-to-date, carefully matched pairs from this champion strain, mated to breed winners. Prices from 20/- per pair; 3 days' approval; cash or deposit "Cage Birds": J. Bailey, 46, South View-terrace, Sandy-lane, Bradford, Yorks.

AMBLERS' CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.

A few real gems for sale. Pairs, matched to breed the biggest champions. Hens, beautiful shape, full of style, and feathered like wax. The finest strain in the Fancy, winning thousands of prizes, championships, Palace, and all leading shows. Pairs from 15/- to 60/-. Hens, 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- each. Dont's be misled. We do not spend hundreds of pounds buying trophies, but we are the actual breeders of champions, who have bred them and sold them yearly for over 30 years. We guarantee satisfaction. Approval, cash or deposit.—Messrs. Amblers, Langton Lodge, Scotton, Knaresboro', Yorkshire. (565)

Various Canaries.

GARNERED IN TWO YEARS

Mr. E. J. Reynolds, of Seven Kings, with drawing of one of his team of winning Yorkshires which secured the cup and bowl seen in the photograph.

ø ø ø

"The year 1912 was only my second in showing Yorkshires," writes Mr. Reynolds. "I won the East Ham F. S. Cup in 1911 and again in 1912, and the bowl at the 1912 annual show of the Ilford F. and F. S. I have been a constant reader of 'Cage Birds' this last seven years, and wish it every success."

F. CARL, Publisher, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

The surest guide to prize winning—the most authoritative work on Canaries and British Birds—the work in which the world's leading experts give freely and fully of their specialized knowledge is

CANARIES,

IN ONE SPLENDID VOLUME.

By JOHN ROBSON
and
Many Specialist Contributors.

166 Illustrations, 26 Being Coloured to Life.

This massive and superb volume interests you in every aspect of the hobby. The whole of the contents are reliable—only those men who know most of the respective branches of the hobby were asked to write, and their contributions have undergone the keen editorial scrutiny of Mr. S. H. LEWER, the well-known author of "The Feathered World." It is therefore a book every bird-lover should possess, because every point is dealt with. Not only the ordinary care of pets, but full and dependable advice on their ailments. Not only really helpful instruction for the daily welfare of birds, but concise details on Exhibition condition and how to attain it. As an investment Canaries and Cage Birds are exceedingly profitable if carried out on right lines—there is always a keen demand for better-than-average specimens, and a ready sale for young birds bred from good stock. The profit side of the hobby is expertly told in this work by men who have made "pots of money" at it—they here present you with their knowledge. In short, everything about bird-keeping can be learned from this work, which is practical and explicit in every detail.

Ever tried to Win Prizes?

To the man who keeps birds for breeding or exhibition purposes, to whom every point that counts for quality—whether of form, or plumage, or song—is of consequence, this work will prove invaluable, supplying practical information and instruction that will greatly help in the effort to pull off prizes.

Every stage of preparation or provision is minutely described in terms that cannot be misunderstood, with an amplitude of detailed illustration that will be exceedingly serviceable.

On the lines here laid down, success in breeding and exhibiting—and there is good money to be made in both directions—ought to be easy of attainment. If you follow the advice given, your birds will always look their best on the show bench.

To the beginner the book will be most valuably practical. It gives the right advice for buying; saves you from mistakes by explaining which are the best birds and why they are so—their points and qualities are recognizably set forth.

Then the most suitable housing arrangements for each class of bird are described in detail and fully illustrated. The important question of food receives equally adequate attention, so that the novice on all these points may know unerringly that he is doing the best for his pets in regard to comfort and well-being. He also has the satisfaction that he is doing it all at the minimum cost and in the best way possible.

A WELL ILLUSTRATED BOOKLET FREE

It is impossible to crowd into an advertisement any comprehensive idea of the scope and value of this entirely up-to-date work. Hence a little book has been written which informs in more detail the extraordinary value of the volume, the right-down, every-day practicality of the advice given, and the true-to-life beauty of its coloured plates. This book is sent free to all applicants. Use this form TO-DAY PLEASE. ☛

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

EGGERTINE

TRADE MARK

The best Egg Food ever known for Rearing and keeping in Health and Song all kinds of Canaries, Goldfinches, Nightingales, etc. Invaluable to those having an Aviary . This food will positively rear young Canaries without any chopped egg or other preparations, far better than egg alone, and is decidedly the Best Food ever brought before the public. For getting hens into breeding condition its effects will be found wonderful. It is made fresh every few days, hence, unlike any of the preparations made from foreign yolk of eggs, Eggertine being made from New-Laid English Eggs and other valuable ingredients on the premises. Tins, post free, 1/3; larger, holding three times the quantity, post free 2/6. Give it one test trial and be convinced.

Clean Red Cow Hair, 9d. per lb.; White Cow Hair, 1/6 per lb.; Forest Moss, 6d. per bundle; or Moss and Cow Hair mixed, 6d. per lb. Charpie, all hand-picked and imported direct by me from Germany, sample 3d. This is the material used by all the great Continental breeders. Beware of cheap imitations. Cow Hair and Moss, medicated, 3d. per lb. extra. Postage per lb., 4d. extra, two lbs. 5d. The above are not substitutes for nesting material, but the genuine articles used by all experienced breeders. Send for Illustration of "Little Wonder" Seed and Husk Separating Machine.

EASTER VISITORS.

During the holidays I had visitors from Manchester, Oldham, Chorley, Preston, Burnley, Bacup, Huddersfield, Bradford, Birkenhead, Hebden Bridge, Greetland, Blackburn, and almost every part of England. One and all speak in the highest terms of my birds and Aviaries, and my straightforward business methods. Remember, I offer you the same invitation to come on any day but Sunday and inspect my stock.

I still have for sale Thousands of High-class Birds in all varieties, and if you cannot pay me a visit, and are needing birds, don't forget that I am prepared to send to any address in the United Kingdom, at my risk, and on seven days' approval, any of the following varieties:—

My Yorkshires have won consistently all through the season. The following are a few out of a large number of honours: Special best hen Bradford National, Special best Yorks, Hartlepool, Diploma best Yorkshire Sunderland, Trophy for 3rd most points N.G.M.Y.C.C., Second most points Yorkshire Union Competitions, Third most points in both competitions of the Y.C.C., etc., etc.

There is no better blood in the Fancy to-day, and I am in a position to put the Amateur on the right road to breeding his own winners, or to supply the "old hand" with splendid stock or show birds at a working-man's price. The following are a few prices:

Yorkshire Cocks, grand lengthy birds, with good position, feathered to perfection, and in full song, 7/-, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each upwards.

Grand racy hens, splendid type, and feathered like wax, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each upwards. Matched Pairs, correctly mated for breeding winners, and sex guaranteed, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- 35/-, 40/-, 45/-, 50/- per pair. I can supply these in Clears, Ticks, Green Marked, Cinnamon Marked, or Self Greens.

To every Customer I guarantee complete satisfaction or Cash returned in full.

CHAMPION NORWICH PLAINHEADS. THE BULL-DOG STRAIN.

THIS strain has again upheld its reputation, and in addition to winning Firsts and Specials all over the country, has secured the following Trophies this year: THE PERCY ILLINGWORTH CHALLENGE CUP (won outright), the Sandiford Cup, THE O.N.P.C. CHAMPION TROPHY, F. Carl's Trophy, and has run second in the Cup competition of the N.P.C.

I am now offering a few grand birds bred from my strain. Yellows or Buffs, Cocks or Hens, real good show or stock birds for breeding own winners, at 10/- 15/-, 20/-,25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- each. I am also offering a few grand pairs, personally matched by me, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. Strain guaranteed. I have a few grand birds from other strains, good thick-set birds, Cocks on full free song, at 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each; Hens, grand smart-feathered birds, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

HENS at this time of the year require more careful feeding than at any other. This great food "Phosto" has been well thought out, and it is the thinking out that makes all the difference. "Phosto" is not a medicine; it is a great food for all times, but especially beneficial now. I used to say myself that if you had a bad feeder nothing would make her better, and I have sold many a grand hen at a low price on this account, but now, what a revelation! "Phosto" is absolutely It. Why should you not try it? It costs little and will save you valuable stock. It is a food which will increase size in your youngsters and do away with all the great breeding anxieties. I guarantee no bad feeders. Tins, 1/-, 2/6, 4/6 carriage paid, with directions: Judge Silk, Whitstable. (598)

DON'T miss your opportunity. You may do. If you are wise, however, you will send for some of these advertised below and lose no time. I know quite well you want to be in the show reports next show season, and I am willing to help you get right on top. Have any of these grand birds on appro., of course, and you will then see why you have been behind. This strain stands so much in advance of others, and it is being improved every year, bear in mind. That is why it is always in front. There is something besides blood—a grand bird on the perch to look at. Therefore you have the bird you can see, but the greatest of all the blood you cannot see, or get from any but the fountain head:—(1) clear yellow cock, a right down good one, 45/-, winner; (2) grand yellow cock, fine round head, nice size and quality, 40/-; (3) very shapely yellow cock, good stock bird, 30/-; (4) another, similar, trifle more size, 32/6; (5) one of the best buff cocks in the Fancy, regular stormer, 50/-, win anywhere this; (6) magnificent buff hen, charming damsel, 40/-, cheap; (7) massive buff hen, grand head and quality, 30/-; (8) two similar buff hens, not quite the size, but big, 20/- each; (9) excellent yellow hen, grand all over, the one you are looking for, 40/-; (10) sweet wedge-shape yellow hen, very fine quality, 30/-; (11) four nice yellow hens, fine type and quality, 10/- each; (12) four unflighted buff hens, 6/- each, plenty sold for 20/- each not so good; (13) sweet unflighted yellow cock paired to nice buff hen, 25/- the pair; (14) grand unflighted buff cock to one of the right type yellow hens, 25/- pair; (15) champion unflighted green yellow cock, wonderful size and substance, 25/-, bargain; or paired to charming buff hen, 37/6 the pair. If you see nothing to suit you, state requirements. I may be able to supply you. Three days' approval willingly. This advertisement will not appear again. See "Phosto" advertisement, this column. Note the name; this should be a guarantee that the birds are the finest money can buy: Judge Silk, Whitstable. (598)

HENRY J. FULLJAMES,
154, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

I hereby promise to take every care of my feathered pets and to induce others to do the same

The Shows.

SALE C.B.S.

A successful table show of British birds and Mules was held at the Volunteer Hotel, Sale, March 17. Mr. J. Hurst judged, and gave his reasons for the different placings. Miss Barlow, and Messrs. Allcock, Whitney, Morgan, and Grey were the principal winners. The thanks of the meeting were awarded the judge for his kind services. It was decided to hold the young bird show on July 10, in the Excelsior Working Men's Club, Sale. A lecture will be given on March 31. It is hoped that all members will be present.—Geo. F. Hardcastle, Sec.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE O.S.

Fourth table show held at the club headquarters, P.S.A. Rooms, March 18, when the British Bird fanciers were on the hunt for points. Muling and hybrid pairs were staged in two classes, and were judged by Mr. F. Barraclough, Hyde. Judging by their "pairs" exhibits some exhibitors were either very optimistic or endowed with an unusual amount of patience. The following were the awards:—MULING PAIRS: 1, 4, Baron; 2, Marsland; 3, hc, Heap; vhc, Gavin and Broadhurst. HYB. PAIRS: 1, 2, hc, Gavin and Broadhurst; 3, vhc, Baron; 4, Marsland.—J. R. Colville, Hon. Sec.

HUDDERSFIELD O.S.

Monthly table show held March 17. Judge, Mr. H. Mallinson. Twenty-two birds staged. YELL. YORKS. CK. (5): 1, 3, Rhodes; 2, vhc, Cawtheray and Son; hc, Atkinson. BUFF (8): 1, 2, 3, vhc, c, Cawtheray and Son; hc, Atkinson. CINN. MKD. YELL. CK. (2): 1, 2, Rhodes. YELL. NOR. CK. (3): 1, Moss; 2, 3, Rhodes. BUFF (4): 1, Rhodes; 2, 3, vhc, Cawtheray and Son. The principal points are: Champions: 1, T. Moss, 65; 2, A. Morris, 55; 3, J. Jackson, 36. Novices: 1, Cawtheray, 139; 2, 3, W. Sykes and R. Rhodes tie, 83 each.—A. Lawford, Sec.

REDCAR C.B.S.

First annual pair show held March 15, at the Crown and Anchor. There was a capital entry, considering it was the first venture, and that the majority of the members are novices. Quality was excellent all round, more especially in Yorks., in which there was keen competition. Mr. Milburn judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

YORKS. COL. FED. (19): 1, c, Metcalf; 2, 3, 4, vhc, Dixon; hc, Harvey. NON-FED (8): 1, c, Close; 2, Elwick; 3, Harvey; 4, Bray; vhc, Mallory; hc, Strickland. A.O.V. PAIRS (3): 1, Dixon; 2, Harvey; 3, Wiggens. LINNET (3): 1, Wiggens; 2, Mallory; 3, Bray. BRIT. A.O.V. (4): 1, 3, 4, Wiggens; 2, Bray. Next meeting March 29, Crown and Anchor, 7 p.m. Will all members please attend.—C. L. Mallory, Hon. Sec.

VALE OF LEVEN C.B.S.

Mule and Hybrid breeding pairs competition held in Village Schoolroom, Alexandria, March 11. In securing this hall the club have made a great improvement, as was evident by the large turnout of visitors. Vice-president Gillies had charge of the arrangements, and everything went smoothly and well. Mr. Kerr, Dumbarton, judged, and his awards were well received.

MULES (13): 1, sp, hc, Hannah Bros, Can.-Bullf.; 2, Finlayson, Lin.-Can.; 3, McCuan, Greenf.-Can.; vhc, McLean; c, McBridge. BULLF. HYB. (17): 1, sp, McBride, Goldf.-Bullf.; 2, Dow, Linn.-Bullf.; 3, Finlayson, Goldf.-Bullf.; vhc, Binnie; hc, McLean; c, Donaldson. A.O.V. HYB. (5): 1, sp, Binnie, Greenf.-Chaff.; 2, McKinnon, Goldf.-Linn.; 3, Finlayson, Sisk.-Redpoll; vhc, Hannah; hc, Clemso.—A. H. McLean, Sec.

NORTH LONDON C.B.A.

Pair show held at the Library Hall, Church-street, Stoke Newington, March 19, Mr. G. Mortlock in the chair. Numbers were well up to the average, and we were pleased to see such a good attendance of members and visitors, several ladies being present. Birds were staged by 8.15, but owing to the pressure of business (it being holiday week), the judge, Mr. J. Robson, was unable to be present until 8.45. In the interval of waiting, the chairman proceeded with the general business, the chief point being our resignation from the London Federation of Cage Birds. This was fully discussed, and it was carried that we settle our liabilities of the loss on the last Federation show, viz., £1 13s. 11d., and that we tender our resignation. Mr. J. Robson had by now arrived, and at once proceeded with the judging. At the conclusion of judging Mr. Robson gave his reasons for placing the awards. Among the exhibits were to be noticed several birds that had won honours at the last Crystal Palace show. Manuals for 1913 were given out to the members present, and others will receive same within the course of a few days. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Robson concluded a most successful evening. Following is a list of awards:—

GOLDF.: 1, 2, vhc, res, Stephens; 3, Bell; hc, Sadler. BULLF.: 1, Sadler; 2, Stephens. GREENF.: 1, Ward; 2, Stephens; 3, vhc, Hammond; res, Bell; hc, London. LINNET: 1, Sadler; 2, Hammond; 3, Mortlock; vhc, Shearman; res, Bell. SISKIN, ETC.: 1, Mortlock; 2, 3, Sadler; vhc, Hammond; res, Stephens. A.O.V. BRIT.: 1, Mortlock; 2, Sadler; 3, res, vhc, Stephens; vhc, Hammond; hc, Madell; c, London. HENS: 1, Mortlock; 2, Madell. FOR.: 1, Bell.—P. W. Jeffries, Hon. Sec.

Singing Contests.

BLACKBURN.

A quality singing contest was held at the club headquarters, Empire Hotel, Bolton-road, March 22, when 32 birds competed for six copper kettles; there was some extra good singing. 1, Barnes; 2, Statham; 3, 5, Jones; 4, Dobson; 6, Smedley. After the contest we spent an enjoyable evening.—T. Hayhurst, Sec.

CASTLEFORD.

Easter contest held March 22nd; 46 birds were entered for 10 good prizes and specials, but it was the worst sing we have had for weeks. Winners: 1, Kirk; 2, 3, Smith; 4, 7, 8, Nelson; 5, Ratcliffe; 6, Caddy; 9, 10, Morley; also March 23rd, 20 birds entered for 3 good prizes: 1, Morley 2, Caddy; 2, 3, shared between Morley and Smith.—Walter Dobson, Hon. Sec.

Open sing held March 24th. 35 birds were entered for 3 good prizes, but only poor singing was heard. The winners were: 1, 3, Nelson; 2, Morley.—Walter Dobson, Hon. Sec.

KIPPAX.

Members' special sing held at headquarters, Commercial Hotel, March 22. Thirty birds sang for four good prizes. We had a good attendance of listeners to hear Mr. Atkinson's winner break the club's record for one sing, his bird singing 136 secs. out of last three minutes—exceptionally good singing, as the bird is in wild feather yet. A winner that was heartily welcomed by all members. 1, Atkinson, 136 secs.; 2, Moulding, 51 secs.; 3 and 4 shared by Wallis and Liversidge, 41 secs. We shall hold usual members' sing on March 29; first pair 3 prompt.—A. Tomlin, Sec.

Uddingston C.B.S. will hold its annual show on Nov. 22.

The annual show of the Windsor C.B.A. has been fixed for Oct. 29 next.

Please announce that I am secretary of the Arbroath C.B.A., writes Mr. I. Gray, 23, Guthrie Port.

We have fixed Dec. 6 for our open show, writes Mr. Tom Clelland, sec. Coaltown of Wemyss C.B.S.

R. A. Newley is "the" man for breeding and stock cages. Order at once. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W.—(Advt.)

Mr. H. Norman has been appointed to judge our annual show on Nov. 26 and 27, writes Mr. D. Smith, hon. sec., Dublin South County C.B.A.

I find Cage Birds Annual for 1913 full of information valuable to the bird fancier. It ought to be in the hands of all bird lovers.—E. A. Kemp, Yeovil.

At the table show of British birds to be held by the Sheffield O.S. next week, there is fixed prize-money and no entry fee, and fanciers joining the same night are allowed to compete.

Mr. R. Aitken, 30, Allison St., Ayr, writes that he has been elected sec. and treas. of the Ayr and Dist. C.B.C., and that all communications should be addressed to him accordingly.

Commencing with our issue for April 5th, the minimum rate for trade advertisements in "Twitterings" will be 10/- per insertion.

Mr. E. H. Hulse, Leicester, writes that he has sold the unflighted Buff Norwich, 1st Leicester, Burton, Coventry, Birmingham, etc., to Mr. Nichols, of Twickenham, and hopes he will do his new owner good service.

Cage Birds Annual for 1913 is a handy and neat little book, choke full of every information that a fancier requires, and my opinion is that this year it is better than ever.—John Young, Rutherglen.

I have received Cage Birds Annual for 1913, and have found it to contain a budget of sound information. No cage-bird secretary should be without one.—Walter Connelly, sec. Glasgow and W. Counties C.M.B. and F.B.C.

Mr. Jas. Winter, Edinburgh, writes Mr. J. Napier, sec. Colinton and Currie Parishes O.S., has kindly consented to judge at our nest feather show to be held in the Drill Hall, Juniper Green, June 28.

Mr. R. Lile, 15, Argyll Terrace, Edinburgh, writes that he has been appointed sec. of the Scottish Metropolitan Open Derby, and trusts that members will favour him with their support in as liberal a manner as they did the late secretary.

Buckhaven and District Cage-Bird Society, writes Mr. Foster, sec., have been fortunate in securing the following judges for the open show: Norwich, J. McLay, Kirkintilloch; Borders, G. Brown, Leith; Yorks., C. Martin, Glasgow; British, W. Sharp, Bathgate. As we have opened up our Yorkshire classes we hope the Yorkshire fanciers will rally round us on Nov. 22.

We have received from Mr. J. C. Charlton, 33, Watson Crescent, Edinburgh, hon. sec. of the Edinburgh and Dist. C.B.S., the syllabus of the society for 1913. Among the lectures are "Mule and Hybrid Breeding," by Mr. A. W. Watson, May 20, and "Wild Seeds," by Mr. J. Steel, Sept. 16. Dates of the table and other shows are given, and a copy will be forwarded on application to Mr. Charlton, as above.

To Society Secretaries, Advertisers and Correspondents generally.

Will all correspondents, and secretaries and officials of societies in particular, please note that CAGE BIRDS now goes to press on Wednesday afternoon so that all matter for publication in our issue of the same week MUST reach us on TUESDAY TO BE CERTAIN OF INCLUSION, or first post Wednesday at latest.

It would much facilitate our work if Secretaries and others would kindly write out their club reports, notices, etc., in the style in which they see them printed. Write on ONE SIDE ONLY of each sheet of paper used.

We have received the balance-sheet of the Scottish Crested C.C., from which we are pleased to note that the balance in the hands of the treasurer is now £3 9s. 5d., an increase of £1 16s. 0½d., upon the amount brought forward from 1911.

Will members and those interested in the Bootle and D.C.B. Society, writes Mr. L. S. Hamilton, hon. sec. Bootle C.B.S., please note meetings and shows in future will be held in St. Andrew's Parochial Hall, Linacre Rd., Litherland, opposite Johnson's Dye Works, hoping members will turn up in good numbers to view the splendid show rooms.

We are told by the most successful men to-day it is the little things that count in the sum total of success; for this reason you should not fail to fit to cages R. Jones' roller bearings (registered), ensure silence and ease in removing and replacing sand trays; easily adjusted to any cage. See advert "Appliances.—(Advt. 605.)

Please announce in your valuable paper, Cage Birds, writes Mr. S. Wilcock, 16, Back Manor St., Eccleshill, Bradford, that Mr. W. Nettleton has resigned secretaryship of the Eccleshill C.B.A., to the deepest regret of the members, and that I have been appointed in his place. All communications should be sent to me at the address given.

OBITUARY.

Mr. WILLIAM MONTGOMERY, Corkerhill.

Many of your readers in Scotland, especially those in Glasgow and Edinburgh, will be sorry to hear of the death of Mr. W. Montgomery, which took place with startling suddenness on March 16, writes Mr. H. R. McMillan. Mr. Montgomery, who was an engine-driver on the Glasgow and South Western Railway, brought in his train from Carlisle to St. Enoch Station at 6.35 p.m. He then went home, was quite happy and looking well, started to hang up some pictures. While doing so a slight pain started in his chest, which increased in violence till the doctor had to be called. However, after six hours of suffering he passed away. His remains were followed to Craighton Cemetery on Mar 19 by a large company of his fellow-workers, and a few Scotch Fancy lovers, amongst them Mr. Fleming, sec. of the Southern O.A., Mr. Wm. McClure (Govanhill), Mr. Fergusson (Renfrew), Mr. Jno. Moore and others. Mr. Montgomery was one of the most respected Scotch Fanciers of the present day. His presence will be much missed at the forthcoming shows. The last time I saw him he had all preparations made for the coming season, and had he lived his birds would have been put together this week. Mr. Montgomery was well-known, having been a fancier for forty years, and his stock was always easily disposed of when for sale. His greatest love for the Fancy lay with his own club, the Glasgow Southern Association, where his birds were all usually exhibited in faultless condition. Those who came in contact with Mr. Montgomery found him a kind-hearted, true fancier, and we sympathise with the widow who is left to mourn the loss of a good husband, who to us fanciers was a true friend.

Mr. Jas. Fleming also sends an appreciation of the late Mr. Montgomery, and an expression of sympathy with the widow.

Will you kindly allow me, writes Mr. F. Collins, Camborne, to thank Messrs. Trower and Co. for the gold medal won by my Mule at the late Crystal Palace show.

On receiving my Cage Birds on Thursday last, writes Mr. Rowlands, Liverpool, I was pleased to see my yellow green Yorkshire cock on its front page. It is a splendid drawing and reflects great credit on the artist. I wish every success to your valuable paper, of which I have been a constant reader since its first issue.

The next meeting of the St. James-the-Less F.A. will be held on April 7 at Ridley House, St. James' Rd., Victoria Park, to inaugurate the much desired occasional evening shows. For this innovation, writes Mr. G. Bransford, hon. sec., our chairman is to be much thanked. As he is leaving England for some time, members are respectfully requested to interest themselves in the pigeon and cage-bird show on this evening; birds to be at above address by 7.30 p.m.; Mr. Goodchild (Dalston) adjudicating.

The Highgate, Hampstead C.B.S. is having a lecture by Mr. Geo. Crabb entitled "British Birds and their Nests" on Monday, March 31, at 8 p.m., at the Spencer Hall, Dartmouth Park Hill, two minutes from Tufnell Park Tube Station. Illustrated with 72 limelight views, this should prove very interesting and instructive. Ladies specially invited. Admission is free, writes Mr. J. Hyde, hon. sec., and all friends will receive a hearty welcome. Commence at 8 sharp on account of the great number of pictures; therefore it is requested that members and friends will be punctual.

ARREST OF GATESHEAD C.B.S. SECRETARY!

PRIZE DRAWING RESULTS IN DRASTIC ACTION BY THE POLICE AUTHORITIES.

Mr. Greason hauled from home: Books and correspondence confiscated: He is let out on bail: Case to be heard to-day (Friday).

THE holding of a prize-drawing by the Gateshead C.B.S. has led to drastic action being taken by the police. The secretary of the Society was arrested at his home on the evening of the day the draw was due to close, taken before the magistrates, sitting at a special court, and remanded on bail until Wednesday of this week (Mar. 26). Then at the request of the Society's solicitor, an adjournment was applied for, and the case is to be heard to-day (Friday).

Prize Drawings Debarred by Law.

It is, of course, a fact that these prize-drawings are illegal, inasmuch as they infringe the provisions of the Lotteries Act (we have more than once drawn attention to this in our columns), but it is also a fact that hundreds are held yearly, and we have thought, no doubt in common with many others, that the authorities were inclined to look with tolerant eyes upon them, seeing that their object is invariably the assisting of some deserving person or cause—not simply the putting of money into someone or other's pocket by means of an attractive "gamble."

The Gateshead Society provides a case in point. Its 1912 annual exhibition unfortunately synchronised with the railway employees' great strike, declared practically on the eve of the show, after entries were in and every arrangement made. One result of this—the inevitable result—was that a severe financial loss fell upon the Society, the members of which, it will be remembered, pluckily carried through the show, in spite of the disheartening circumstances, with every credit to themselves. It was in an endeavour to wipe out the deficit that a prize-drawing was instituted—the motive surely making of this a harmless enough proceeding, though coming within the pale of the law, for the members, being almost entirely working-men, are not blessed with long purses.

The Society's Hard Luck.

The pity of it is that the action of the police can hardly fail to land the members more deeply into the mire—we all know that the amount of the average bill of law-costs is calculated to make a sad hole in the average purse. And the Society looks like having to foot such a bill. We shall he able however, to say something further on this point next week. We are quite sure that the Fancy at large will not see the future of the Society wrecked by reason of this latest and most unfortunate of the blows of unkind Fate.

A rumour reaches us that the action of the police was prompted by information deliberately supplied to them by some individual, until recently a member of the Society, who has some grievance—whether real or imaginary need not be gone into—against it. We are reluctant to believe this correct. If it be true, then words seem hardly strong enough to fittingly express the contempt all decent-minded people must hold for anyone who could conceive and carry out such an unmanly and loathsome "revenge."

Mr. Greason's Regrets.

When acquainting us with the news of his arrest, Mr. J. G. Greason wrote:—"Kindly inform the Fancy through the agency of your columns that the Gateshead Society is unable to carry out the prize-drawing. Further, owing to the police having taken possession of all books and letters relating to the same, I have not been able to reply to all who have so kindly assisted us in the attempt to clear our liabilities. I trust that those who have not received a letter, or card, of thanks, will accept my best thanks conveyed through Cage Birds. It is very unfortunate for the Gateshead Society to meet with such a disaster just on the eve of clearing our liabilities through the grand response to our appeal. I feel thoroughly down-hearted now that, after all the work and the worry, I am not to have the pleasure of seeing the society on a sound basis before finally handing over my position to our new secretary.—Yours truly, J. G. Greason (sec., pro. tem.)."

A Message from the Spot.

A local correspondent informs us that after various means of raising money to meet the deficiency had been considered, some fifteen members of the Society offered to contribute prizes to be drawn for by purchasers of numbered tickets. These offers were gratefully accepted, and the members of the society went to work with a will to sell the tickets. Everything seemed to be going on swimmingly, and the affair promised to be a huge success. The draw was almost due to take place, and the results were to have been published on the 29th inst. The name of the secretary to the society, Mr. J. G. Greason, was printed on the tickets, and on the 19th inst. two police inspectors arrived at Mr. Greason's house with a warrant for his arrest, and a search warrant. They seized all books and papers relating to the draw, and took Mr. Greason before a special court sitting that same evening. From this court Mr. Greason was remanded on bail until the 26th. At a committee meeting held on the 22nd it was decided to obtain legal assistance, and Mr. Lambert was instructed to defend.

At the hearing Mr. Lambert applied for a fresh adjournment to enable him to prepare the defence, and the case was accordingly put back until March 28. The charge against Mr. Greason is "That he unlawfully did publish a scheme for the sale of certain tickets, or chances, in a certain lottery, namely, a prize-drawing, in the Gateshead and District Cage Bird Society, by which certain prizes would be given in accordance with the results to be published in certain journals, on March 29."

A young man caught a perfectly white Blackbird recently near Donegal. It is a male, and is now domesticated in a cage.

We hear from Mr. R. Aitken, the new hon. sec., that the date of the show of the Ayr and Dist. C.B.C. has been fixed for Oct. 25.

Will secretaries please note, write Messrs. Chas. Hy. Hill and E. W. Dascombe, joint secs., that the Wiveliscombe and Dist. F.A. has fixed Nov. 20 for its annual open show.

We have appointed Mr. Wm. Hampton, Brechin, to judge Norwich, and Mr. Alex Steele, Aberdeen, variety and wild section of our show on Nov. 29, writes Mr. Jas. G. Milne, sec., Woodside O.S., Aberdeen.

Pleased to say I received 1913 Annual all right; I thought you could not improve on 1912, but you have gone one better again. It is really good from beginning to end, and I find it a very handy book all through the year.—W. B. Smart, Loanhead.

Mr W. Hutchinson writes that the West of Scotland O.S. have elected the following judges for their annual club show, Nov. 29: Crests and Plainheads, Mr. J. McLay, Kirkintilloch; Borders and Yorks., Mr. G. Hyslop, Stirling; British and Foreign, Mr. M. Craig, Tollcross.

A Favoured Spot.

Along a hedgerow at Copthorn, Sussex, I found no less than six Blackbird and Thrush nests, and one Robin's, writes "A. A." Don't you think this rather a lot for the time of the year? The Hedgerow at the most was only about 120 yards long.

Pay Up and Look Pleasant.

The habit of "putting-off' is very prevalent where club subscriptions are concerned, writes "Harassed Secretary," How can the poor treasurer pay the society's way without cash? It needs a bit of doing. Slow payers should remember that the true instincts of a sportsman are: "To pay, to own up, and to shut up when beaten."

Cheltenham's Annual Feast.

The Hon. Sec. of the Cheltenham C.B.S., Mr. A. S. Treasure, writes that all arrangements have been made for the annual dinner to take place on April 2nd, when he hopes all members will endeavour to attend.

Canaries in Hedgerows.

A cat that made a hole in the wire netting of an open-air aviary at Peterborough, says the "Daily Express," is responsible for the extraordinary sight of bright-plumaged Canaries enjoying freedom in the hedgerows on Peterborough Common.

Gateshead's New Secretary.

An error was made by us in last week's report of the Gateshead C.B.S. meeting, the new secretary being, of course, Mr. W. Curry, of 60, Grosvenor Gardens, Newcastle, and not Mr. Curry, of Ebchester, as printed. We much regret this unwitting confusion of fanciers and addresses.

A White Crow.

Mr. John Glynn, Graignenaspidogue, Fighting Cocks, Co. Carlow, writes to a newspaper to say that a few days ago he captured a white Crow, with reddish tips to the wings and black bill and feet. He would like to know if any such specimen has previously been captured in Ireland.

A Partly-white Blackbird.

I saw a Blackbird last week with a white head and neck, writes Mr. W. Ratcliff (Grantham). He was a good sized bird and looked quite a contrast with the ordinary coloured ones. On having a chat with the local village constable, he informed me that the bird must be two years old, as he noticed him at breeding time last year, and that he seems to have stayed within a field or two of where I saw him all the winter. He also told me that he knew of a Thrush on his round with a black wing.

Some Problems of Mule and Hybrid Breeding Unravelled.

FROM which parent does the light Finch-Canary Hybrid derive its light plumage?

That the property of throwing light Mules is an inherent quality in certain Canaries is proved by the fact that such feature admits of development by a process of selection, and fixing by in-breeding. So well recognised is this that the majority of breeders are prone to regard the Canary as the invariable and sole factor. The principal basis of the theory that the Canary is responsible is that, light plumage being a Canary feature, and dark, with rare exceptions, the Finch colour, to attribute the light plumage in the offspring of a combination of these to the influence of a normal coloured Finch would be equal to attributing to the black parent the whiteness evident in the offspring of a black and white parentage. This line of reasoning, though ingenious, does not hold good, being nullified by a law of nature which must be recognised, viz., potentiality or power of transmission. Therefore, to attribute the lightness of a Mule bred from a normal Finch to any other than an impotency in transmitting the Finch colour would be wrong indeed. We have an illustration of this in even-marked Canary breeding. Few breeders but have cause to regret the impotency of the parents to transmit the even marks to their offspring, in fact, potentiality is the basis of all improvement in a cultivated stock. So, while recognising the Canary to be the main, and, in some instances, sole factor, I am convinced that by an impotency, marked in certain Finches, the latter do sometimes contribute to the lightness of the Mule.

Potency Not a Fixed Quality.

As I have never seen this line of reasoning adopted by any of the writers on Hybrids, I will use another illustration to show that potency or impotency is independent of outward features. It is quite possible to get a dark Mule from a clear Canary, bred from however many generations of clears, and even when mated to an albino Finch. On the other hand, I have bred a light Mule from a normal brown Linnet and a broken green Canary. In the former we have an instance of the tendency to revert to the normal Finch colour as the more potent factor, and in the latter a manifestation of impotency in both parents, in favour, probably, of a clear ancestor as the more potent factor.

That potency is a varying quality we have evidence in the fact that young from the same parents differ greatly from each other, not only in successive broods, but even in the same nest. We have good evidence that impotency becomes more marked as the subject declines in vitality, hence the partiality shown by many famous light Mule breeders for old or weak Finches. Not only is this so, but the degree of impotency or potency may in some instances manifest itself by a change during the lifetime of the offspring. We have an instance of this in partial albino specimens either reverting to a more normal colour or developing a more extreme departure.

When New Blood Spells Danger.

The balance of power (potency) is easily upset. To illustrate this I need only mention the danger which attends the introduction of new blood into a light muling strain of Canaries. I have witnessed quite a few instances of the havoc which such introductions can work, and, strangely enough, despite the fact that the new blood was from a long unbroken pedigree of clears. Such introduction is generally prompted by a desire to impart size and vigour, two qualities which are the reverse of common in light muling Canaries. We have an illustration of the dangers which attend size production in the modern Norwich Plainhead, the potency of the size producing type revealing itself even yet in the beetle brows and long side, wings and tail, but the parallel ends there, as I consider a tendency to throw light Mules a thousand times more fugitive a feature than any type cultivation.

Is there no external indication of this light Mule throwing quality?

Nothing but actual test can reveal the presence of that quality in a Canary. Some breeders attach a certain value to pink-eyed hens, as showing a descent from the Cinnamon, the idea being that the latter colour is akin to albinism. That a pink-eyed hen may throw light Mules is quite possible, but I have failed to find that the pink eyes are indicative of such tendency. Rather am I inclined to think the idea had its origin in the attempts to breed even-marked Mules, in which cinnamon is a potent factor, and would be manifest in many light muling strains.

Clear Strains and Clear Mules.

Do you advise any system of in-breeding with clears, as likely to produce a light muling strain?

Unless the trait had an existence in the parent stock, no process of in-breeding, however prolonged, will, in my opinion, generate that feature. This is shown by the fact that those types which have been bred clear for many generations are far from being valuable as light mulers. I had an experience which showed the nugatory value of clear breeding. I happened to discover a clear strain of Canaries in a remote Scottish hamlet, and inquiries revealed the fact that they were all related, and they had their origin in a trio which were brought there about twenty years previously, since which time not a single dark feather had made its appearance, nor had a foul usurper been introduced to mar their rustic purity. Yet repeated tests showed the strain to be utterly devoid of any light muling qualities.

I have seen quite a variety of these in-breeding recipes, all of which were recommended as being either sure or likely to produce light Mules. I have met with many breeders who have expended time and patience, to say nothing of cash, in carrying out such experiments, but in not a single instance have I found the methods efficacious. That the method might be found effective I quite admit, but the success would be due to the light muling quality having existed in the stock before the in-breeding process was begun. Many Canaries possess an unrecognised value in this respect. I have known the parents of a clear Mule, one which held his own against all Britain, to be obtained for a few shillings, and I have seen quite a few similar, though hardly such great, bargains, all of which had their origin in the ignorance of the seller as to the light muling capabilities of his birds. The hazy ideas which prevail as to sib or in-breeding, warrant mo dealing with the pros and cons of its purposes.

The Values and Limitations of In-Breeding.

As I have already pointed out, in-breeding is not a creative process, but a valuable and efficient method of reducing an undesirable feature and developing a desirable feature or features, when applied in conjunction with judicious selection. The in-breeding gives a control which would be impossible if strange and unknown qualities and defects were being continually introduced. It must be borne in mind that by in-breeding we are fixing the undesirable equally with the good qualities. Therefore, a process of weeding out (elimination) becomes imperative, and the question of whether a stock is likely to be improved, or worthy of an attempt to improve it, by this inbreeding method, depends entirely on the qualities existent in it. Some of these may be inherent, and only manifest in a very occasional offspring, thus the judicious selection and mating of the birds call for no little acumen on the part of the breeder, notwithstanding the knowledge which in-breeding gives him of the peculiar potency or impotency to reproduce these features, this varying greatly in individual members of even the same brood. In-breeding from a stock in which a high standard of quality does not exist is practically useless. It were better to impart an obviously necessary feature from an outside source, and, when the stock is known to possess these qualities (external or inherent), then to adopt the in-breeding and selective process, to develop and make these qualities a potent feature in the stock. In sib breeding, with a view to developing the light Mule throwing quality, we are under the necessity of continually testing, by breeding with Finches, in order to ascertain whether we are making any progress, and of selecting or eliminating accordingly.

How Egg-Food Should be Made.

Interesting Competition held by the City and Suburban A.C.B.

THE chief item of interest at the City and Suburban's last meeting was the "Egg Food Competition," which attracted an unusually large number of members and visitors. The splendid array of special prizes, consisting of gold, silver, and bronze medals, and six one pound boxes of French confectionery, made members exceedingly keen, no less than 13 taking part, one, a lady member—the first known case in the annals of the Association. The competition was held in the interests of the many novice members recently joined, and was for the purpose of finding out the best method of making egg-food, the most beneficial ingredients to use for young Canaries, with the not unimportant point of arriving at the approximate time necessary to make it. This decision was to be arrived at by ballot of the members present. With a view to that end, the various implements and ingredients used were fully explained after each competing member had finished, and the time taken was stated.

Not a little curiosity, mingled with satisfaction, was evinced by new members and visitors when, out of the unique and unrivalled equipment the Association possesses, preparations began to be made for the event. A snow-white linen table cloth was spread over a 6ft. by 3ft. table, and thirteen 5½in. pudding basins were marshalled at even distances across the whole length, while inside of these were placed a hard-boiled egg, a teaspoon, and a printed card, severally numbered 1 to 13. The names of prospective competitors being written down, the first on the list was (1) Mr. H. Brumbridge, who commenced operations by passing his egg with an iron tablespoon through an 8in. oval, wood-mounted coarse-mesh wire sieve. Following this he rubbed through 5 Huntley and Palmer's Marie biscuits, and after mixing this and the egg, repassed it through the sieve. Time taken, 4 minutes.

Different Means to an End.

(2) Mr. F. Eaton's first operation was to place the egg and a two oz. wedge of bread, two days old, in a square-mouthed barrel mill, pressing it down with a square wooden weight, whilst turning the handle. He again put it in the mill, but to his mortification, it clogged, and the aid of a knife had to be invoked. Time, 4 minutes. (3) Mr. W. Sanders used a 10in. sieve (as No. 1). This member passed his egg through by means of a steel knife, and afterwards a piece of cake, composed of 1lb. fine oatmeal, 1 teacup of flour, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoonful baking powder, and 2 ozs. of lard. This done, he mixed it all up with the aid of a steel fork (his contention being that it then amalgamates better). Time, 2 minutes. (4) Mr. J. P Lloyd's mode consisted of passing the egg through a 10in. sieve (as No. 1) by the aid of a wooden palette knife, together with a slice of three days old bread, adding, whilst mixing afterwards, equal parts of oatmeal, ground rice, and a pinch of sugar, in bulk equalling a dessert spoonful. Time, 5 minutes.

(5) Mr. W. Knight's appearance upon the scene brought a change of utensils, in the shape of a composition mortar and pestle, with which he pounded up six Osborne biscuits to amalgamate with the egg that he passed with a wooden spatula through a square-framed perforated zinc sieve. Time, 1½ minutes. (6) Mr. W. Large also brought variety by producing a 2 oz. piece of cake, a week old, composed of oatmeal, butter, sugar, and an egg (no water). He crumbled it up with his fingers, afterwards powdering it up in the basin with a spoon. Time, 2½ minutes. (7) Mr. G. Bryant used a 2in. gravy strainer to pass his egg through, and to repass it afterwards with the addition of a dessert spoonful of Spratt's Canary Food. Time, 2 minutes. (8) Mr. T. Kelly. The Chairman (Mr. F. Knight) appeared convulsed when he perceived this popular member struggling into the hall with a huge bundle on his back, remarking that "Little Tich" had arrived on tour! Mr. Kelly produced a very smart marble mortar for the purpose of pounding up a ½in. slice of 3 days old bread that he had previously grated with a tin suet grater. After passing this and an egg through an 8in. sieve (as No. 1), he then put into the basin a teaspoonful of maw seed, which in his opinion provides the added advantage of separating the food. Time, 3 minutes.

A Lady "Faces the Footlights."

(9) Mrs. L. M. Thynne. Members who had been passing opinions with their neighbours upon the merits or demerits of the competitors, suddenly ceased; all were silent when they observed this lady member preparing to "face the footlights." Mrs. Thynne made her way to the table with an 8in. composition mortar, and commenced to powder up four of McVitie's Petit Beurre biscuits, afterwards passing the egg through an extremely fine wire sieve by means of a steel knife, finishing up by passing through the biscuit and mixing all in the basin. Time, 2¼ minutes. The process was quite ordinary, but what caught the imagination were the beautiful flexibility of wrist and arm, and the natural easiness of every movement. (10) Mr. W. Styles' preference is for an inch slice of Hovis bread, 3 days old, which he considers more nourishing. This he grinds up in a penny tin grater, and afterwards pounds up in a composition mortar together with the egg and a pinch of sugar, using a wooden spoon for mixing, as metal spoons in his judgment are poisonous. Time, 2 minutes. (11) Mr. T. Monger passed his egg and afterwards six Osborne biscuits through a loose bottomed tin wire sieve, with a wooden palette knife, and then passed the whole through again. Time, 2¼ minutes. (12) Mr. H. Lowe, used a ¼in. slice of bread one day old, rubbing it up with his fingers and mixing it with the egg, previously passed through a 6in. by 1in. round tin squeezer. Time, 1 minute. (13) Mr. E. C. Offord first rolls out, by the aid of a glass bottle, 3 Osborne biscuits, then pushes the egg through a round tin squeezer, 4½in. by 2in., afterwards repassing the whole through the squeezer. Unfortunately the last process failed, through clogging. Time. 2¾ minutes.—V. Wynn, hon. sec.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

For Rules see page 242 in issue No. 583.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

Canaries.—Claude St. John. British Birds, Mule and Hybrids—G. E. Weston. Foreign Birds—Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S., &c., Wild Bird Life—H. Norman.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

JUST HAVING A TRY (Frank Roles).—I am afraid you are making your first attempt with very unpromising material. Provided they are in quite good health and active, it is quite possible for cocks to breed successfully, although they do not sing very well; but, as a rule, a cock should be in his best song when ready to mate. The noise your birds make does not signify very sound health, nor good breeding stock, and your dietary is decidedly faulty. Linseed should never form a part of the regular diet. As a beginner, you would do well to get a copy of "Canary Breeding for Beginners," 7d., post free, from our manager, which will give you detailed information on all points, which is not possible here. Meantime, give a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape mixed together. Every second day give a small piece of bread and milk, sprinkled with soft sugar, and on the alternate days a pinch of mixed seeds. Give a little dandelion daily. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece, for three days, and afterwards 20 drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills and ipecacuanha wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, every second day for a week. See that the birds are not exposed to cold draughts.

SEPTIC FEVER (J.F.P.).—Am afraid you are in for trouble, as nothing but rigid isolation, thorough disinfection, and the strictest attention to cleanliness and hygiene respecting both food and surroundings is of any avail in combating this disorder. I would advise you to get a copy of Dr. Clarke's brochure, "Septic Fever," 7d., post free, from our manager, and read up the subject thoroughly. Meantime, keep a close watch over the apparently healthy birds, which, I understand, you have isolated, and immediately one shows the characteristic symptoms move it back, cage and all, to the infected quarters, and let it take its chance with them. If it dies, or should it recover, thoroughly disinfect the cage, or, better still, if an old one, burn it. A much wiser plan, though somewhat heroic, is to chloroform at once any bird that becomes ill, and cremate the body, and deal with the cage at once, as just mentioned. Merely washing out the cage with a disinfectant wash is of little use in killing septic germs. It requires a strong solution, and to ensure success two or three applications. Either the above-named handbooks, or the Nutshell booklet on "Disinfection," will give you full details for carrying out this work. You might fumigate the cages tolerably well by stacking and arranging a tent-like cover over them in some convenient place. As regards water vessels, and all small fittings, treat them in the only rational and certain way—boil them well. Do not move birds about from one cage to another, nor mix up any cage fittings until the disease is quite stamped out. Use only a minimum quantity of egg-food for some time and see that it is absolutely pure and fresh, or, better still, substitute bread and milk, crushed sponge cake, or crushed plain biscuits. Beyond this there is little you can do. Medicinal treatment is useless.

All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

SONGLESS COCK AND WHEEZY HEN (F.H.H.).—It seems not unlikely that the same influences which have brought about the wheeziness in the hen are also responsible for the cock not singing. See that both birds are kept in bright and healthy surroundings, free from cold draughts, yet not overheated, nor kept in an impure, stuffy atmosphere. In addition to the staple diet give the cock half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and about half the bulk of a mixture of equal parts maw, gold of pleasure, and sesame added to it, every second day for a month. On the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, black rape, millet, teazle and niger, with a slight sprinkling of mustard seed. Give two leaves of dandelion daily. Keep cage floor strewn with clean, gritty sand. In the water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece for three days, and afterwards give the gentian tonic as advised to "S. Dowling" for a fortnight. Feed the hen the same as the cock, but give the mixed seed twice a week only, and omit the sesame and gold of pleasure altogether. Give the rhubarb aperient as above for three days, and afterwards give the eucalyptus mixture as advised to "Frank Roles" for a fortnight. Unless this wheeziness quite disappears quickly it will be folly to attempt to breed with the bird.

A FEATHERED ALDERMAN (Constant Reader).—Keep the bird in a fairly large cage, where it can get plenty of exercise. Stick a cube of hard common salt in the wires for it to peck at. Give only a small teaspoonful of canary seed daily as staple diet. Once a week reduce this by one half, and add half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts rape (red and black), millet, niger, and teazle, and on one other day reduce seed allowance one-half and add half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake sprinkled with maw. Give a liberal allowance of green food daily dandelion, watercress, lettuce, or chickweed. Care must be exercised not to miss the daily ration of seed. Add as much Epsom salts as will cover a threepenny-piece to the water every second day for a week, and in the next week give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid for two consecutive days. Continue this treatment until bird is sufficiently reduced.

THE BEST RAPE (Novice, Rainford).—A good sample of the variety called sweet rubsen, of a mild nutty flavour, and with no acridity or "biting" of the tongue when chewed in the mouth, is undoubtedly the best as a portion of the staple diet of Rollers, but where price is an object it is not really essential, except perhaps for high-class contest singers. The variety you term red summer rape, if of a mild nutty flavour, with no hot "mustardy" taste, is good enough for ordinary singers, and for regular use with any breed of Canary. The sample you sent is only just a moderate quality of "bird rape," and is not free from the objectionable hot taste. I cannot recommend any particular brand or quality of one dealer here,—that would be obviously unfair to all the rest. If you get some samples and send them along, packed separately and securely, and numbered for reference, I will then tell you what are their respective values.

MOPY YORKSHIRE (Novice, Sheffield).—First of all thoroughly examine both the bird's body and cage to see if insect pests are the cause of the evident irritation. Grey lice may be looked for on the bird, but if really troublesome will quickly reveal their presence when you hold the bird in your hand by sprinting nimbly all over your hand; and red mites are what you may expect to find hidden in joints or crevices about the cage. If either be found, take the necessary steps to exterminate them, the details of which have been given here just lately. Keep cage and perches as clean as possible, and the floor of cage strewn with clean gritty sand. Feed on a staple of three parts canary to one summer rape mixed together. Every second day for a fortnight give a morsel of bread the size of a hazel nut, soaked in cold milk, drained, slightly dusted with flowers of sulphur, and sprinkled, finally, with soft sugar. Twice a week on the alternating days give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, black rape, and teazle. Give a spray of green food daily. In the drinking water give as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence, and half as much chlorate of potash, every second day for a week, and in the next week give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day.

SORE FOOT (George Dawson).—It would have been best to have said how you feed the bird. Anyway, give a fairly plain diet for a week or two, and a spray of chickweed, watercress, or leaf of dandelion, daily, and add to the drinking water six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece every second day for a week. Keep cage floor and perches as clean as possible, and the cage floor well strewn with clean sawdust to absorb moisture quickly until the foot is quite well. The frequent recurrence of the trouble is undoubtedly due to septic infection of the wound, hence you must see the importance of absolute cleanliness of cage floor and perches whilst the least "raw" surface remains on the foot. Catch the bird and bathe foot for a few minutes once daily in a lukewarm solution of wych hazel—a small teaspoonful of the extract in a saucerful of warm water—carefully washing out all pus from the wound with the aid of a small camel-hair pencil. Then dry foot, and paint on any raw surface a little of the strong extract, and hold bird until it has become fairly dry, when any "sting" will have passed off and bird will not be so likely to peck at it.

AILING ROLLER (S. Dowling).—If you can remove the cock without causing the hen to cease her attentions to the young, do so, assuming, of course, he is not already separated from her. Keep him in a comfortable place, free from cold draughts, and keep cage floor strewn with clean, gritty sand. Give a mixture of two parts canary to one part summer rape as staple diet. Every second day give separately half a teaspoonful of crushed stale sponge cake, with about half the quantity of a mixture of equal parts maw and gold of pleasure mixed in it, and give also on these days two crisp young dandelion leaves, or the equivalent in other greenstuff. On the alternate days give a half-teaspoonful of the special seed mixture and a morsel of banana. Continue this feeding until the bird is eating the staple seed diet freely again. You may also stick a cube of hard common salt in the wires for the bird to peck occasionally for a week or two. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepennypiece every second day for a week, and in the following week give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.,

WHAT TO KEEP (Amateur).—You omit an important point in not stating your county. Neither do you state whether your tastes run to Finches or small Parrakeets. Finch tribe: Zebra Finches, Silverbills, Bronze Mannikins, Avadavats, Bengalese, and Gold-breasted Waxbills. A pair of each would make a nice series, but a canvas, or wood and glass shutter should cover up the front at night and during severe weather. All the above are hardy species. Small Parrakeets: Green and Yellow Budgerigars, Madagascar and Blue-wing Lovebirds. These also are hardy, and should do well with you. One pair of each could be put into your small aviary. "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1½d., and Nutshells Nos. 16, 18, and 20, 2½d. each, all post free from our Manager.

SICK TUI (F. H. W.).—This bird must be kept warm and out of all draught, yet not in a vitiated atmosphere. Give a dose of Dinneford's Magnesia (one teaspoonful in the drinking water) as often as required to keep the bowels moving quite freely. At the same time voidings must not be in a continuously watery-loose condition. Continue to give the Chemical Food regularly and accustom it to take a bit of moistened biscuit, crust, or something similar, which has been dusted with flowers of sulphur after moistening. This will help greatly towards feather formation if you can induce it to take same. As regards seed, canary, white millet, and a few oats will be all that is necessary. If it will take a little lettuce or other green food, so much the better; the same also applies to ripe fruit. Careful nursing on the lines given above should ultimately restore the bird. Re your query as to the Pintails, assuming that all have pintails, from the details you supply, I take 1 and 2 to be merely the ordinary Pintail Nonpariels, allowing for colour variation common to all species, and also making due allowance for the ages varying somewhat in the specimens. While probably not immature, as you say, yet the fact remains that in many species old specimens are more highly coloured than young birds of the second year. The name "Pintail Nonpareil," because of long use, will have to remain, I suppose, but a far better name for this species would be Pintail Parrot Finch.

VIRGINIAN CARDINALS (R. H. Walsh).—Twice a week put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water—if the voidings become watery, then only give once a week, and on the intervening days put half a teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates in the drinking water. As regards diet, you are treating them about right, and the amount of live food you are giving is also about right; but you can supplement these by giving any spider, beetle, smooth caterpillar, etc., you can catch, and in their season live ants' cocoons and wasps' grubs form a welcome change to the usual "stand-by"—mealworms. You cannot do better than continue as you are going as regards general treatment, and I have no doubt as the weather improves the birds will tone up. You obtained them fairly cheap.

All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet St., London, E.C.

GOULDIAN FINCHES (Gould).—You will be independent of outside supplies if you get about a dozen pots, four or six inch, and plant them with grass, keeping them well watered, and cut from them in succession. Moreover, you would get seeding (flowering) grass during the winter, if you keep the pots on the window sill of some sunny but cool room. Crush some cuttlebone to about the size of white millet and keep a small tin of this in their cage. I do not think egg-shells tend to birds eating their eggs, providing the shells are first dried and then crushed to about the size of millet, but given large pieces for the birds to bite up and nibble at it might have that tendency. Try them with nest again a month hence.

PHEASANTS (L.B.M.).—You will have little or no success in keeping more than one species of Pheasant, or more than one cock in the same aviary. Of course, the above applies to the breeding season, and young cocks require to be separated as they come into adult plumage. I do not think two pairs of Red-rumps would live together in amity in the same aviary. I have never even made the attempt, as I look upon it as inviting disaster. In a southern country the Hangnests and Orioles would do well all the year round in a sheltered aviary, with suitable shelter and a well-lighted "night-house." Birds will not use an inner enclosure that is badly lighted, and, of course, it goes without saying that it must be weather-proof. Also I am very sceptical about Hangnests and Orioles agreeing together in the same aviary, unless it were a very extensive one. Such queries should always mention the county of the querist.

Owing to the intervention of the Easter Holidays a number of Queries were not received until Tuesday last, and we cannot, of course, get these answered in this issue. They will be dealt with, however, next week.—Editor.

FOR INDOOR AVIARY (J. Pollard).—I am assuming that the aviary will get some sun, and that it is fairly light and not draughty. Here are two selections: No. 1, Zebra and Ribbon Finches, Gold-breasted and Orange-cheeked Waxbills, Bronze and White-headed Mannikins, Grey and Green Singing Finches, Silverbills and Bengalese. Of course, one pair only of each. No. 2: Two pairs Green Budgerigars, and one pair each Yellow Budgerigars, Madagascar and Blue-wing Lovebirds. In "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1½d. post free, from our Manager, are given directions for treating and feeding the groups covering the above species.

BUDGERIGARS (D.B.).—(1) There is time for them to nest and rear a brood of young by the time named, but if they do not lay and commence incubation this month, then you had better let her sit on the eggs, to keep her occupied and prevent eggs being laid to no purpose, and remove the eggs after they have been incubated about 10 days. If you have not yet given them husks, delay doing so till settled in your new house. I do not remember full details, but if your birds are in a cage, the removal would probably not interfere with their nesting arrangements at all. (2) I do not care for watercress as a food for the birds, but it can be given providing it is thoroughly well washed first. Mustard and cress seedlings can be given and are very wholesome, but seeding grass will soon be available now.

BLUE BIRDS (T. C. S.).—(1) I should advise you to wait your opportunity and secure a pair of Indigo Buntings (Cyanospiza cyanea). Though of the same genus as the Nonpareil Bunting, I have never known one to attack any of the smaller fry in their enclosure—and I have kept many individuals at different periods. (2) Yes, there are two species of Blue Grosbeak, the Blue and the Brown-winged Blue. The former is the more readily obtainable; a few have been on the market this year. I have found this species somewhat variable in demeanour, some very quarrelsome indeed, and I certainly advise you to have the Indigo Bunting. This species is hardy, though the male requires careful looking after during the change from winter to summer plumage. While some Nonparcils are really vicious, many others are quite amiable. Their tendency generally is to "run amok" rather than persistent bullying or murder.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

A GROWTH (G. R. D.).—It is not likely to inconvenience the bird. Of course, I realise that the growth is somewhat unsightly, and you may desire to remove it. If so, get a stick of caustic from a chemist and touch the growth with this once daily for a time, which will destroy it. Be careful that the caustic does not touch anywhere else.

A PAIR OF MAGPIES (A. M.).—I should not meddle with the swelling unless it attains a considerable size; if this happens, write me again. I do not see any reason why the pair of Magpies should not attempt house-keeping under the conditions in which you keep them. But I am afraid they cannot be expected to do much good on the menu you describe, which is very inadequate. "Melox," or similar good brand of dog meal, would be better than the food you mention (or mix the two); it should be thoroughly softened with hot water, and have all sorts of table scraps, meat, greens, gravy, fish, etc., mixed in. You should supply freshly-killed mice, sparrows, etc., and also black beetles, and similar things.

A LINNET'S LEG (J. E. W.).—You should steep the leg (up to the "knee") for a short time twice daily—morning and evening—in comfortably hot water, containing a little of good disinfectant (Jeyes, Izal, Kerol, or even Condy's fluid). Afterwards dab dry in a cloth and gently rub in a little ointment, such as Kerol, or Calvert's Carbolic. You should use perches of varying widths and differing somewhat in shape.

should consult Houlton's great work, "Cage-Bird Hybrids" (7/6); Norman's "British Bird Manual" (2/3); or Part 1 "Hardbills" (1/1), Part 2 "Softbills" (1/1); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); "Secrets of Hybrid Breeding" (1/2); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); Dr Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 1 "Goldfinch," No. 2 "Linnet," No. 3 "Skylark," No. 4 "Song Thrush and Blackbird," No. 11 "Bullfinch," No. 13 "Chaffinch," No. 15 "Greenfinch," No. 22 "Siskin, Redpoll, and Twite," No. 25 "Small Insectivorous Birds," No. 26 "Large Insectivorous Birds," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "Disinfection of Cages, Birdrooms, etc.," No. 12 "How to Moult British Birds." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

WHERE OBTAINABLE (Mrs. Fletcher).—Kerol ointment is made by a well-known firm (Messrs. Quibell, of Newark), and should be obtainable at any chemists, or drug stores.

THE YELLOWHAMMER'S VOICE, ETC. (J. Pauley).—I do not consider that the Yellowhammer can be said to have any "song." Its few notes (uttered during the breeding season chiefly) are curious, rather than melodious. Surely you must have heard them?—they are usually likened to the words "a little bit of bread and no cheese." It is decidedly speculative to pair a Yellowhammer to a hen Canary. I do not think any young as yet resulted from such a mating. Still, I should hesitate to say that such a happening is outside the bounds of probability. If you try the cross, I hope you may succeed in getting Hybrids from it.

TWO ITEMS (H. Child).—(1) If you refer to the white speck lying on the surface of the yolk, this is the germinal disc—it is here that the embryo (young bird) is formed in its earliest stages. Broadly put, it is a spot of living matter containing the fertilised ovum (female germ cell) which develops into the bird. (2) I should think that the hen would be a very suitable mate for the Goldfinch, though the latter may not be ready for breeding before about the end of April. You should first have paired her with a cock Canary for one or two nests.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

G.E.W.—The cock Bullfinch I found upon examination to be quite healthy, with the exception of the liver, which was undergoing fatty infiltration, but was not seriously affected. The cause of death appeared to me to be attributable to some injury inflicted, for there was bruising of the abdominal muscles, and extravasation of blood in the sacral region; that is to say, under the lower vertebrae. I know of no disease that would be accountable for such post-mortem changes, and I cannot but think that the bird must have been hurt in some manner. These lesions were ante-mortem, and quite sufficient to cause death. The bird was certainly fat, but otherwise quite healthy, with the exception of the liver changes referred to.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

Auld Reekie.—We have been informed that this matter is to be made the subject of an action at law, therefore we are now precluded from publishing any comments upon it.

W. Hulme.—Accept our thanks for the photograph, for which we will find a corner in due course.

L. J. George.—We have forwarded your letter on to the dealer in question, and asked him to write you giving the desired information.

W. Beckett.—We will do our best to get an article dealing specially with the bird you mention. The two "Nutshells" you would find most useful are Nos. 25 and 26, which together give complete information as to the feeding of all insectivorous species.

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

STIRLING C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, held March 1, Mr. W. Bishop in the chair. Office bearers were re-elected, and it was agreed that Mr. W. Bishop be president for the ensuing year. Show date was fixed for Nov. 18. Decided to settle judges at next meeting, held on April 5, in McDonald's Temperance Hotel Arcade at 8. W. Clubb, Sec.

LARKHALL C.B.A.

Meeting held in Y.M. Halls, March 22. Mr. Kindell presided over a good attendance. Unanimously agreed to raise subscription to 3s. 6d. for ensuing year, payable in twice, 2s. due now and balance due before nomination. Closing date of young bird cup, August 16; if not competing for young bird cup, due before annual show. After a very lengthy discussion on the advisability of holding an open show, we decided to leave it over till next meeting night, April 5, when we hope to have a large turn-out of members, and expect to come to a decision.—Allan Thomson, Sec.

SCOTTISH METROPOLITAN (Open Derby) O.A.

At a general meeting held in Buchanan's Hotel, 114, High Street, Edinburgh, March 15th, President (Mr. C. R. Drysdale) in the chair. Business: Election of Secretary in place of Mr. P. R. Meikle, resigned. The meeting was unanimous to try and secure Mr. Robert Lile, and a committee was appointed to meet Mr. Lile re his appointment. The committee were successful in securing the services of Mr. Lile, and all communications on and after this issue should be addressed to him at 15, Argyll Terrace, Edinburgh. Fanciers can with every confidence, in the future as in the past, rely on the services of our new Sec.—C. R. Drysdale, Hon. Pres.

SCOTTISH CRESTED C.C.

Annual general meeting held 142, High Street, Edinburgh, March 15. Mr. Campbell (president) occupied the chair, with a very meagre turn-out of members. Financial statement for past year was considered, and after some discussion by members was passed. A letter was read from Mr. G. F. Adamson, Kilmarnock (one of club's esteemed vice-presidents), stating that he had been an inmate of Kilmarnock Infirmary for some time back with a serious internal trouble, but was now making very satisfactory progress. All present expressed their sincere sympathy with Mr. Adamson, and sec. was instructed to convey to him their best wishes for a speedy convalescence. Medals won during show season were presented to those members present by the chairman. The following were elected members: Mr. J. Lindsay and Mr. D. Summers, Markinch. A vote of thanks to chairman terminated the meeting.—John Young, Hon. Sec.

AYR AND DISTRICT C.B.C.

Annual general meeting held in the Academy Hall, Fort Street, March 18th, Mr. R. McKay in the chair. Moved and seconded that balance-sheet lie on table till next meeting. It was also arranged to remove back to Masonic Hall for open show, this being more suitable. Secretary was instructed to report re halls for show and meetings. Open show date has been fixed for Oct. 25. A few of the rules were slightly altered, and the alterations will be inserted in new rule books. The following officials were elected for ensuing year. Hon. Pres., Mr. J. Forbes; Pres., J. S. McClure; Vice-Pres., James French; Sec. and Treas., R. Aitken; Auditors, Messrs. Murray and Selfer; Committee, J. Cameron, J. Mathieson, S. French, J. Bell, W. Lyall, J. McLauchlan, R. McKay, S. Erskine, A. Campbell, A. Selfer, J. Kelly, D. Wason. A few vacancies were left on the committee to be filled up with new members. The following new members were proposed: J. Mathieson, F. Harvey, A. McFedries, S. Erskine, A. Cook, J. McLauchlan, H. Alexander, and S. Cuthill. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Chairman.—Robert Aitken, Sec.

CITY OF BIRMINGHAM C.B.S.

Monthly meeting and lecture held at headquarters in Hill Street, Birmingham, March 5th, President (J. A. Eckersley) in the chair. Mr. Sadler was elected a member. The balance-sheet for the past year was read and found to be very satisfactory, showing a good balance for the year's working. Mr. Broomfield and Mr. Raly were elected to fill the vacant position on the committee. Proposed by Mr. Raly, and seconded by Mr. Broadbent, that classes should be accepted for British table show, birds to be staged not later than 8 p.m., prize money to be on the sliding scale. Specials were kindly given by the following gentlemen: Mr. Raly, silver medal for best muling pair Canary and Finch; Mr. T. Jones, 2s. for best Hybrid pair. Proposed by Mr. J. de Maillett, and seconded by Mr. Broadhurst, that we have a Roller section, and it was hoped that the Birmingham Roller fanciers will give the society their full support in their new venture. The following were nominated for membership: W. Tompkins, H. Eyles, E. Lee, A. E. Moreton, S. G. Williams. Mr. Weaver then gave his lecture on the Norwich Plainhead to a crowded room of members and friends, who gave him every attention throughout his fine and instructive address. At the close his audience showed their appreciation by a good round of applause. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Weaver was proposed by Mr. Eckersley and seconded by Mr. Broadhurst.—J. H. Jones, Sec., per R. Tipper.

COWDENBEATH C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held in the Crown Hotel, March 19, Mr. J. C. Murray in the chair. Replies from judges were read, and the following appointed:—Borders, W. Mossie, Annbank; Yorks., J. Bailey, Bradford; Norwich, A. Sloan, Glasgow; Crest, W. Paul, Uphall; British, etc., R. Ball, Bathgate. The secretary was instructed to write judge for Scotch Fancy section. Secretary reported that Mr. Stenhouse, Kelty, owing to a previous engagement could not give his lecture on Pairing and Breeding on March 1, as arranged at last meeting. It was agreed to try and book this lecture for April 2. A discussion took place re the arranging of future lectures, etc., and a committee was appointed to make all necessary arrangements, and report to next meeting. The balance sheet of the last club show was then submitted, showing a total income of £11 3s. 2d., and an expenditure of £5 9s. 11d., leaving a balance in hand of £5 13s. 3d. Approval was moved by J. J. MacKiver, seconded by J. Sneddon, and carried unanimously. The balance added to the previous balance brings the funds of the society up to £21 2s. 9d., showing this society is in a sound position financially. It was decided to transfer the bank account from the Post Office to the Royal Bank of Scotland to facilitate the cash transactions of the society. The trustees to be the president, sec., and treasurer. Mr. J. Reid reported that owing to illness he had been prevented from attending the last meeting of the West of Fife Cage Bird League. The report of said meeting being taken from the letter of Mr. Jas. Cordery, League sec., an animated discussion took place on the report, and delegates were instructed for next League meeting. Classification for the open show was next arranged as follows: Scotch Fancy 10 classes, Borders 11, separate classes being provided for Greens and Cinnamons, Yorks. 10, Norwich Plainheads 16, Crests 11, four young bird classes being provided, A.O.V. and Common Lizards, Mules and Hybrids 5, British 16, Foreign 3, a total of 84 classes. A splendid meeting was brought to a close by the usual vote of thanks to the chairman.—J. W. Holms, Sec.

VALE OF LEVEN C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held in Village School Room, Alexandra Road, on Mar. 11, Pres. Donaldson in the chair. The President announced a presentation to the club of a handsome rose bowl to be known as the Young Bird Sectional Trophy, and to be competed for annually until won by a member three times, when it will become his own property. Mr. J. D. Lile intimated his leaving along with his son for Canada on the 15th, and spoke of his regret at leaving the club, amongst whom he had made many friends. President Donaldson, on behalf of the club, expressed regret at losing two such good members, wished them every success, and hoped they would further the Fancy in their new home. Both were recipients of handsome presents from the Club as mementoes of the respect in which they were held. Twelve new members having been admitted, including two ladies, Mr. Kerr was heartily thanked for judging the Mule and Hybrid pair show, while Messrs. McEwan, Kerr and Conlin were appointed judges for British show to be held next month.—A. H. McLean, Sec.

ANNFIELD PLAIN C.B.S.

Annual meeting held March 15th, Mr. S. Foster in the chair. We had a good turn-out of members, and all are very eager to make this a record year for the society. We made two new members—Messrs. J. Yetts and P. Clarke, and we are still open for more. Decided to have a young bird show July 5th, and the following were nominated for judging: Messrs. W. H. Butler, J. Emmerson, W. Reid, and E. Atkinson; to be decided next meeting, March 29th. Mr. J. Lumley was elected President with fourteen local gentlemen as Vice-Presidents; Mr. S. Foster, chair; Mr. Jos. Robson, Vice-Chair; R. Peart, Sec.; W. Cresswell, Assist. Sec. It was decided to hold annual show on our old date, Dec. 20th, and the following were nominated as judges: Messrs. W. H. Butler, W. Reid, T. Dixon, E. Atkinson, J. W. Taylor, and J. Dixon. Table shows will be held as last year, and we have several specials promised for these. Members were very sorry to hear of Mr. T. Robinson, our late secretary, being ill, and wishes for his speedy recovery were expressed.—R. Peart, Sec.

GLASGOW AND DISTRICT C.B.A.

Adjourned general meeting held March 13, in Nelson's Temperance Hotel, Mr. J. F. Clark presiding over a good attendance. After correspondence had been dealt with, secretary was called upon to give report re guarantee fund, and he intimated that the fund now totalled £11, which was considered satisfactory. Election of office-bearers for ensuing year was as follows: Pres., Mr. J. F. Park; vice-pres., Messrs. R. T. Anderson and A. Sloan; treas., Mr. Wm. Gunion; assist.-sec., D. F. Webster; sec., W. Hutchison; auditors, Messrs. A. Maxwell and R. Heggie; with a strong committee of 14, comprising Messrs. M. Craig, F. Taylor, E. Barron, Jno. Brown, T. Fraser, Wm. Priest, J. C. Sinclair, Edmund Taylor, C. Martin, R. Watson, P. Houston, A. Walker, D. Morrine, and A. Hadley. After some discussion it was decided to again secure Greendyke-street Drill Hall, and that last year's date be adhered to, viz., Nov. 21 and 22. Decided to again offer 30s. per class as prize money. Classification was left over until half-yearly meeting, which was fixed for April 8, when selection of judges, etc., will take place. Several minor matters having been decided upon, the meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the chairman.—W. Hutchison, Sec.

WALKLEY C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, held March 13, at Westmorland Street Mission Hall, Mr. T. Ridal presiding, supported by J. Woolhouse. The principal business of the evening was the passing of the balance sheet, which shows the society to be in a fine position, with a balance of over £12, after paying increased rent for rooms, etc. The auditors spoke of the straightforwardness of all the books, and said that everything was in a thoroughly businesslike condition. Mr. Pickering was appointed to have the cups, three in number, on view at the nest feather show. The society is having a bid for something this time. Ten new members were elected, making 18 in two meetings, and three honorary members; 64 names on the books now. Let us hope to make it 80 before the nest feather show. The rest of the evening was taken up by Mr. Taylor, in a lecture on the Norwich Plainhead. He led his hearers on through the buying of stock, feeding, rearing, moulting and preparing for exhibition, in fine style, and many questions were showered at him. These he answered very ably. Don't forget next meeting: Lecture on British, by T. Bishop. Rally round and let us have a record meeting. Fanciers invited.—C. Tomlinson, Sec.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

The annual social, held March 6, at the Wentworth Cafe, proved to be a great success. A good number of members and their wives were present, as well as several friends. Our worthy chairman, Mr. F. Jones, presided, and was supported by the vice-chairman, Mr. J. Thorpe, and Mr. T. Hemming, also the two secretaries. In opening, the first duty the chairman had to perform was a sad one, that was, to propose a vote of condolence to our much respected treasurer, Mr. W. Oxley, on the loss of his wife. The Chairman, in welcoming the wives and friends of the members, said that such a social was one of the occasions on which their wives could enjoy their husbands being bird fanciers. He called for the hearty support of all the members to make our society a real help to the bird fanciers of Sheffield and district. We are doing a great deal in that direction, and with the handsome shield presented by the chairman, to be won outright this year, and the three new cups for the novice members, we are looking for a record year. The various cups and specials won during the year were presented to the winners: Cup winners: Yorks., F. Elliott; Norwich, A. H. Waters; Crests, J. Memmott; British, P. Walsh. Point special winners were: Yorks., 1, W. H. Champion; 2, Drabble and Bennett. Norwich: 1, A. H. Waters; 2, J. Woolhouse. Crests: 1, J. Memmott; 2, A. Hobson. British: 1, L. Falding; 2, P. Walsh. Novice Yorks.: 1, Simmonite; 2, Sorsby and Billard. Norwich: 1, J. Curley; 2, L. Marcroft. The musical part of the programme was a treat, the committee responsible having secured some splendid talent. Mr. T. W. Tow, L.R.A.M., was in fine form, and sang in his best style. His singing was indeed a treat. Mr. Spark also gave us of his best in several excellent songs. Mr. F. Hall, Mr. J. G. Cowley, Miss Elsie Hale, and Mr. Memmott, also did justice to their various items. A vote of thanks to the artists was moved by Mr. J. Thorpe, seconded by J. Woolhouse, and supported by Mr. J. Memmott. Mr. T. W. Tow, who was the accompanist, replied on behalf of the artists. The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.—J. Woolhouse, Assist. Sec.

LOANHEAD C.B.S.

Meeting held in Mason's Arms, March 8th. Mr. A. Gardiner presided over a record attendance. Classification was first gone into. The Scotch Fancy classes were reduced from ten to eight. Fouls now compete with clears. The Borders had other classes added for variegated hens, which now gives a total of eleven classes for Borders, four clear or ticked, four varieg., one even, and two greens. Norwich section was also granted two extra classes, a total of eight; four clear or ticked, and four varieg. or green. Mules and British to remain the same as formerly. Decided to get three judges this year: Norwich, Mr. J. Smeaton, Musselburgh; Borders, Mr. J. Smillie, Kilmarnock; Scotch Fancy, Mules, and British, Mr. J. McMillan, Edinburgh. New members admitted: J. Garrow, W. Hutchison (Loanhead), and Alex. Wright (Roslin). A hearty vote of thanks to the Chairman brought the meeting to a close. A ramble has been arranged for June 28th, to Arniston Estate. Full information at Bonnyrigg meeting on Saturday week.—W. B. Smart, Sec.

WHITBURN C.B.S.

Meeting held March 18, in the Baillie Institute, only seven members present, Mr. Laing presiding. Mr. Jas. Strachan (Bathgate) was appointed to judge Norwich and British sections, and Mr. Walter B. Wilson (Hamilton) Borders, at the annual show to be held Dec. 6. The necessary business of the society was carried through in a pleasing and satisfactory manner.—Robert Lamble, Sec.

SELBY AND C.B.S.

Meeting held in the Museum Hall, March 21, Mr. J. W. Dixon in the chair. Owing to a small attendance of members, Mr. Dixon was obliged to postpone his lecture until next meeting, Friday, April 11, 7.30, when we hope to see all members turn up, as business is most important. A date will be fixed for our first feather show. Any fancier in the district desirous of joining please attend the next meeting as above, or address to secretary for particulars.—H. Mathers, Sec., 46, Olympia Cottages, Barlby Road, Selby.

LEICESTER (Hand-in-Hand) C.B.S.

Meeting held at headquarters, The Old White Swan, Market Place, March 18, Mr. Gibbins presiding. Mr. Hulse gave a paper on "The Mating of Norwich," after which questions were invited, and a good discussion ensued. Will members please note that Mr. J. Allen has promised to give a paper on "The Yorkshire Canary" at the next monthly meeting, April 15, which no doubt will be very interesting, so all should try and attend. A table show was held, and the following awards were made:—SISKIN OR REDPOLL: 1, Wood; 2, Deacon; 3, Kilsby. HYB. PAIRS: 1, 2, 3, Kilsby, Goldf.-Bullf., Greenf.-Can., and Goldf.-Greenf., in the order named.—E. Hulse, Press Corres.

WIDNES O.S.

Monthly meeting, held March 14, at Mr. Wingfield's Hotel. After the meeting a show was held for British Hardbills; the class included Linnets, Goldfinches, Bullfinches, and Redpolls. Some very good birds faced the judge. Mr. A. Mather, Widnes, judged, and his awards seemed to give every satisfaction. 1, Jones, Linnet, in splendid condition, beautiful nut brown col., well pencilled, good solid breast markings; 2, Hampson, Goldfinch, very well marked bird, good deep, rich blaze, and bib, plenty of tan on breast; 3, Collins, another Goldfinch, very good bird indeed, will improve; vhc, Rice, Bullfinch, good shape, very dense cap, if more col. on breast would want stopping; hc, Hampson, Goldfinch, would have won if in better condition; c, Lester.—A. Mather, Sec.

CRAMLINGTON C.B.S.

Meeting held in ante-room of Co-operative Hall, March 5th. Mr. S. Wilson was again elected as chairman, Mr. T. Wilson, Assist. Sec.; and J. R. Chestney, Sec. The first feather show (members) was fixed for June 21, and the annual show for Nov. 22. We trust other societies will note this day so as to keep clear. We have held this date ever since given to us by the old Cage Birds Union, and it was a detriment to us through other shows being held on this date last year. A strong working committtee was elected. It was also agreed to guarantee through CAGE BIRDS. Several noted judges were selected to write to for terms, etc. Our society has done well since its inception, and we are looking forward to this year's show being better than those held before. We shall be pleased to accept fanciers as members of the society. Terms: 1s. entrance and 3s. annual sub. Meetings will be held on the first Thursday in the month. Next meeting, April 3rd.—J. R. Chestney, Sec.

Getting a Chaffinch on Song.

Sir,—Would any reader kindly give me a few wrinkles on how to get a Chaffinch on song? I keep half a dozen, but beyond "pinking" at one another that is as far as they get. I should like them to sing at night.

YOUTH.

New Roller Club for Leigh.

Sir,—We held a meeting at the Globe Inn, Bradshawgate, Leigh, on March 19th, for the purpose of electing officers, but the members present decided that it would be better to leave it over until our next meeting, which will be March 29, at 7.30, so as to give all members a chance of electing the men they think best fitted. Also as many of our members work at night, it will give them a chance to get to this meeting. The members present decided that the contribution would be as follows:—6d. to enter, 1s. within a month of entry, and the remainder before the end of December, making in all 4s. Hoping this will meet with all intended members' approval, also to see them rally round us at our next meeting, March 29th, at 7.30.

Appointment of Judges at Gateshead 1912 Show.

Sir,—Your correspondent who signs his letters, "Bobby," is very persistent in repeating questions to which he has twice received a reply, once at the show and again at the first meeting after the show. If "Bobby" is as good at answering questions as he is at asking them, perhaps he will answer the following:—(1) Is there any truth in the rumour that a certain member left the society for fear that he would have to put his hand in his pocket to help to make up the loss on the last show, caused by the railway strike, which stopped both entries and visitors from getting to the show? (2) Will he kindly give the name of the fancier who exhibited in the novice Norwich class at Newcastle show, and had his prize-money stopped? (3) Can he also give the name of the fancier who is suspected of having acted the part of the "Coppers' tout," and got the prize drawing quashed? Seeing that "Bobby" uses the words candid and honest so freely in his letter, perhaps he will give a correct answer to those questions; if he does I will undertake to give him full and detailed answers to his questions,

Suggested Breeders' Cup for the Southern Norwich P.C.

Sir,—Mr. Gill seems implacable. There is no such thing as pleasing him. He now wishes the Fancy to understand that the motion of Mr. Garland was dragged through the mud at the Palace meeting by my consent. Mr. Gill says I allowed in 1908-9 the cup conditions to be altered; at least, I did not raise any objection "to Mr. Gill's knowledge." I am now, according to Mr. Gill, supporting the making all trophies breeders' trophies. What a catalogue of charges! What truth is there in any of them? None. The motion of Mr. Garland was fully discussed at the Palace meeting, and although Mr. Gill seconded it, it was not until the chairman called upon him that Mr. Gill had the pluck to vote at all. He had his share in the discussion. There was no "mud" about at the meeting—Mr. Gill probably had it all in his pocket, to throw about afterwards, and well he seems to be doing it. No one is afraid of such, but he cannot be allowed to make play on men who are as clear-headed and honourable as himself. Mr. Baker has a name for honesty of purpose and fair play in the conduct of a meeting, as honourable as any man in the Fancy. It would take more than the pin-pricks of an interested firebrand like Mr. Gill to damage that good name. As for me, I am not at all perturbed; oh! no. But I want to tell Mr. Gill that he had better learn that in well-regulated society a man, to be a gentleman, must not accuse men quite his equal in honesty and intelligence, of dragging any subject through the "mud." Whatever I did in committee in 1908-9, I was only a simple unit of that committee, and if the majority, in their pleasure, agreed to what Mr. Gill calls "irregularities," I should submit to the will of that majority, and not act as he is now doing, like a spoilt child, and say "I want it this way, and because I cannot have it so, you shan't play in our backyard." But I will tell Mr. Gill that if I was present at any committee meeting where an alteration of cup conditions was proposed after that cup had been won under specific conditions, I have a shrewd suspicion that I should have protested. Whether I should have carried my point is another matter. Let me also tell Mr. Gill and that excellent friend and sportsman, Mr. E. Baker, that I am still opposed to the principle of breeders' cups. I spoke against the motion at the meeting at the Palace, but I saw, from Mr. Gill's action and his demeanour at the meeting, that he meant mischief. I might have been wrong, but I still think so, and after the meeting I suggested to Mr. Cole the provision of a breeders' cup, to meet Mr. Gill and those who think with him. There was no reason, because I was and am opposed to the principle of breeders' cups, that I should do as Mr. Gill apparently wants to do—dictate to, and compel him and others to submit to my view. If certain members, Mr. Gill included, want a breeders' cup, by all means let them have one, but that is quite another matter to altering the conditions of the present cups. And Mr. Gill knows it. He makes a deliberate misrepresentation when he says I am now supporting making all the trophies breeders' trophies, and I am not going to allow him or anybody else to fasten such an opinion on me. Wriggle as he will, he knows I opposed it. If he wants breeders' cups, let him help to found them. I don't want it all my own way, as Mr. Gill apparently does. It is for the club to say if they will accept breeders' cups, and admit the principle. If the majority does so, I shall submit. If they do not, and even refuse the breeders' cup I suggested, I have confidence in the sound judgment of the majority. I shall not go into tantrums, hit out at the President and everybody else who does not agree with me, and say in effect: "You shall have them!" I don't want to copy Mr. Gill and try to ram my ideas down everybody else's throat or else initiate a newspaper war, and I take my suggestion of the establishment of a breeder's cup as evidence of toleration rather than change of opinion. I am not going to waste much time in discussion with a gentleman who will not or cannot realise the difference between an act of toleration and a surrender of principle.

G. G.

Sir,—I have no wish or intention to interfere with the discussion between Mr. Gill and "G. G.," but I take exception to one part of Mr. Gill's letter in the weeks' issue, where he states that "G. G." allowed Mr. Matthes and myself to "drag Mr. Garland's motion in the mud." This is a deliberate untruth. In the first place, as I was presiding at the meeting it was for me to determine what should, or should not, be discussed, and not "G. G." Now what happened at the meeting was this: When Mr. Garland's motion was introduced, there was no seconder; and had I so wished I could then have passed on to the next business. Instead of so doing, and in order that there should be a fair discussion, I asked Mr. Gill if he would second the motion of his friend; and he did so, and the same was debated for a full half-hour. An amendment was then moved that the conditions of the contest should remain as they were until the cup had been won outright. The amendment was put and every one present, with the exception of Mr. Gill, voted for it. The motion was then put, and even then Mr. Gill did not vote until I called his attention to what was before the meeting, and asked him if he was not going to vote for the motion, which he had already seconded. He then did so. Now, sir, I would like to ask, is it fair or just to say that this was "dragging Mr. Garland's motion in the mud"? Mr. Garland is a gentleman for whom I have the greatest respect. For many years I have visited the Plymouth show; and Mr. Garland, with every member of the Plymouth society, has shown me the greatest kindness; hence I strongly object to Mr. Gill so unjustly misrepresenting what took place at the meeting. On reading the report of the Palace meeting, there was one thing I very much regretted; and it was the non-reporting of the most able speech of Mr. Gardner during the debate. The same would have done credit to a K.C.; but as Mr. Gardner was reporting the meeting himself, doubtless his excessive modesty prevented his including the same.

An Explanation Wanted from the Scottish Norwich P.C.

Sir,—I was pleased to see Mr. Smith's letter with regard to membership of the above society. I think that the time has now come when this body should be doing something to purify their own nest. The judging (?) of Plainheads this last season has been far from satisfactory, and still this body lies dormant—everything at present is right in its eyes!

ONE WHO KNOWS.

The Provincial Roller C.C. Challenge Trophy.

Sir,—Mr. Firth is wrong again. I know the rules very well, and have always acted up to them. If my memory serves me rightly, I had already given him the conditions previous to writing that foot-note. It was for his further information that I looked up that minute, so that I could give him the exact wording of same. Previous to Mr. Firth writing to the Press, I had written him at great length, giving all possible information. Mr. Firth admits that we may make our own rules, but in a letter of his dated January 30th, he disputes rule 1, which is printed in schedule, and has the audacity to say that birds competing for cup should only be in champion or novice class. He says, further, that Mr. Kilshaw won the cup last year under different conditions to this year, and again he says I did not know the rules until February 25th. Mr. Firth makes these statements after being told absolute facts, so that I can only imagine that they are either fabrications, prevarications, or terminological inexactitudes. On this matter I have nothing further to say.

ANDREW PERCIVAL.

The Future of Arbroath C.B.S.

Sir,—I read with amusement the remarks by Mr. Hastings (under "Short entries at Scottish shows") over the re-starting of the Arbroath Cage Bird Society. I may state that although living in the same town, he is a gentleman I don't know. But why need the Arbroath C.B.S. require Mr. Hastings', or any other outside assistance, for is it not a fact that never in the history of the town have they been so favourably-placed, financially or otherwise, as they are at present, to hold a cage bird show, and one that will be a credit to the old red town? The hall is engaged, the judges fixed, and all prize-monies are already guaranteed. Our energetic secretary and "strongest minded member," ought to be for ever proud of the fact that he has only to call at East Mary Street should he require any information. But, why should he be like unto Mahomet, have to go to the mountain? The committee has started at the Rig, and the field is already sown, and they now await the produce of their labours, which should prove to men like Mr. Hastings, that the committee of the Arbroath C.B.S. are men of action.

South Wales and Monmouthshire Federation of F. and F. Societies.

Sir,—Kindly allow me to appeal to societies who have not yet become affiliated, and also to give a result of the first year's working of this Federation, formed at a meeting held at Swansea, on Whit-Monday last, when ten societies were represented, we have now affiliated 23 societies, and I anticipate that next season we will have 30, if not more. We have only two Cage Bird Societies, though there are a few more in this area. I wish therefore to appeal to these to join and help us. Our chairman is Mr. D. A. S. Longden, of Swansea, and I am sure he would not allow the cage bird section to take a "back seat" in our deliberations. Our success for the first year has been beyond all expectation. I am about issuing the nomination papers for Executive Council and officers for the coming year. These papers must be returned to me early in time for annual meeting at Swansea, on Whit-Monday. The date of next open show must also be sent in with these papers, and at our annual meeting we will give result of ballot, and arrange as far as possible the dates, so as to avoid clashing. I appeal therefore to societies outside to decide at once to come in and let me know so that I can add their names to list, and thereby give them a chance of being represented on the Executive Council or on list of officers. The balance-sheet shows a few pounds to the good. Representatives of Executive Council are paid train fares to meetings. The cups put up for competition have, as anticipated, resulted in a large increase in entries at affiliated shows. The winners of these specials will be given out at annual meeting. Any further information will be readily given.

A Chaffinch Refuses Liberty.

Sir,—I have had a cock Chaffinch in my aviary for the last nine or ten months, but, having added one or two finer specimens, I took him into the country the other Sunday to a farm where I knew food would be quite plentiful, and set him at liberty. Now as the farm is fully a mile from my place, you may judge of my surprise when Chaffie turned up next morning at nine o'clock and tried his hardest to get into his old quarters. Was it chance instinct, or what that guided him across that intervening mile of country? Once I set a hen Chaffie at liberty, and she kept hanging about the place so persistently that I put her back again, and she built, laid eggs and hatched young. She, however, was never out of sight of the place.

J. M. Whitehead.

A Buzzard in Kent.

Sir,—Is it unusual to see a Crested Buzzard? A breeder of fowls saw one here at Snodland, Kent, at the beginning of March, about 50 yards away from him, out in his meadow. It appeared to be feeding on some mole hills. It looked about the size of a Dove, grey on top and white or ash colour underneath. But it flew off before he could get any closer inspection. Possibly other readers may have seen specimens previously. Where are their usual haunts?

F. J. Weaire.

We do not know of such a bird as the "Crested" Buzzard, but presume our correspondent alludes to the common Buzzard (Buteo vulgaris), which, however, is considerably larger than a Dove, though agreeing in coloration with the description given by Mr. Weaire. It is practically harmless so far as the attacking of other birds, is concerned, and very useful, inasmuch as it feeds mostly on mice, rats, moles, reptiles, worms, etc. It is mostly found in the West and North, in the Lake district, and in Scotland, and is the only large bird of prey at all common with us; at times it wanders to practically all corners of our islands.—Editor.

THE TROUBLE ABOUT THE SOUTHERN NORWICH PLAINHEAD CLUB'S £10 10s. CUP.

Mr. Gill's Letter and the Threat of Legal Action.

Sir,—Evidently Mr. Gill is in a very bad temper; but possibly those who know him best will be the least surprised at his fiery outburst. I may say that I am not out to quarrel with Mr. Gill, or anyone else in the Fancy. I am in the Fancy because I love the birds, and delight in the sport of same, and I deplore the necessity of having to defend myself through the medium of the Press against the bitter attack of a disappointed exhibitor such as Mr. Gill has proved himself to be. In what way Mr. Gill can construe my letter of the 15th into a "composition of mis-statements and self praise," I am at a loss to understand. Evidently he has a most convenient and imaginative mind. I was most careful to point out that, through my indifference concerning the cup, I could not guarantee the exact dates of the circumstances. Now, every member of the S.N.P.C. has, or should have, sufficient common sense to know that the Palace is the last show for the competitions of the S.N.P.C., hence points would have to be counted after that show—unless the secretary had previously counted the points, and then added the Palace points to those already gained. Although a secretary may have had a chance of so doing, yet it would be obviously unfair to him to say that he should be prepared to give correct details immediately following the show; hence, although a meeting may be reported, and correctly so, yet every intelligent man would understand that the secretary would have to give his report to the committee, and it would be their duty to determine any circumstance which might arise. Mr. Gill states that after the report of the particular meeting, in question, he wrote to Mr. Matthes, and considerable discussion arose, and as a result the matter was threshed out at the next annual meeting. Now, Mr. Gill, please toe the line, and do not try to be elusive. You know that when the matter was threshed out in 1910, which was the first annual meeting after the cup had been awarded for the first time, you were at the meeting, and had more to say about the matter than anyone else, and you also did withdraw whatever claim you supposed you were entitled to make. Where does the mis-statement come in here? Who the prevaricator is I leave the Fancy to judge. With reference to the correspondence between Mr. Gill and Mr. Matthes, this is a matter entirely between themselves.

The next point concerning myself is the matter of my having got mixed about the points of the competing birds. Possibly so. I stated that the cup was of so little interest to me, and it was such a long time since it happened, that, but for Mr. Gill's agitation concerning it, I should never once have given it a thought. Mr. Gill harps a great deal on the statement which I made at the Palace respecting the conditions under which the cup must be competed for. Surely a man may express an opinion. I told Mr. Gill in my first letter that I was not the legal advisor of the S.N.P.C., and certainly do not possess the same legal knowledge which Mr. Gill seems to have.

Concerning the letter which Mr. Gill wrote to me. He is very emphatic that it does not contain the paragraphs which I quoted. Really, sir, did I not know Mr. Gill to be a most abstemious man, I should certainly feel like advising him not to take his coffee so strong! The letter does contain the paragraphs, and I am sending the same to you, Mr. Editor, for publication. Surely Mr. Gill will not now dispute his own hand-writing? Now Mr. Gill suggests that appearances point to a "conspiracy." I, for my part, do not know of any whatever. As far as I know there is none in London, and certainly there is none at Cowes; so conclude that if there be such, it must be nearer Mr. Gill's own door. If Mr. Gill supposes that there has been any correspondence between Mr. Matthes and myself concerning this, he is greatly mistaken. I have never as much as asked Mr. Matthes to supply me with any particulars of the affairs with which this correspondence is concerned, and I consider that, as far as the correspondence concerns himself and myself, he has no right to drag Mr. Matthes into it at all. I am very pleased that Mr. Gill has accepted my offer, and that some deserving charity will benefit, for the letter, which I received direct from him, does contain the paragraph under which he accepts my offer. If the secretary will now get the cup weighed as old metal, and let me know the price, I will send the Editor a cheque by return of post for my half-share.

Mr. Gill next states that he did not ask me for any personal information respecting the cup; possibly not, for doubtless his courage failed him, and he preferred getting behind the backs of the other members of the S.N.P.C. Mr. Gill's question was: "Will Mr. Baker state for the benefit of all members of the S.N.P.C.," etc. Well, Mr. Gill, as you are one of the members, was it not personal information for which you asked? I would again suggest that as the members, so far as I know, have never suggested anything wrong concerning it, it was for the sake of your own ends that you introduced this correspondence. You say that you would have welcomed any member to have won the cup in a sportsmanlike manner, and yet, because it has been won twice, you are showing a most lamentable and unsportsmanlike spirit.

Another point: Mr. Gill says he agrees with me that this should have been discussed at the annual meeting, but states that I was angry. poor fellow! If he considers that he won the cup two years ago, he should have claimed it then, and not gone on competing for it. He did not, as far as I know, dispute it then, but must have accepted others' rights, or would not have continued competing for it; as he has now lost it twice, I presume that he is fearing the next contest. Mr. Gill, in his letter to Mr. Matthes, states that "Mr. Baker is acting in a very selfish manner." I am at a loss to know in what way I have shown any selfishness. I stated distinctly that I was in great hopes that the cup would continue in the club to be an incentive to other exhibitors to try to win it, and to add charm to competition. Is that selfishness, Mr. Gill? If so, I hope to have more of such a spirit. Lastly, Mr. Gill suggests that I have only myself to thank for this controversy. This is a palpable untruth. It was not I who introduced the subject, but Mr. Gill himself. and I have simply defended myself against the invective of Mr. Gill, and he does not like it. I am sorry to have to answer Mr. Gill in this way; but as he deliberately charges me with mis-statements, I am compelled to protect myself from such. I would also point out that I have neither time nor inclination to continue such a disagreeable discussion. Further, I have tried to answer Mr. Gill's previous letters with courtesy and kindness. and endeavoured to explain the matter honestly as it stands. Mr. Gill should, as I pointed out before, have written to the committee through the secretary, and I feel certain that had some other exhibitor beaten Messrs. Gill and Pethick instead of myself, Mr. Gill would never have written to me at all, hence I do not feel disposed to answer Mr. Gill further.

E. Baker.

The letter enclosed by Mr. Baker, so far as we can judge is certainly in the hand-writing of Mr. Gill. It bears his address and is dated 19/2/1913. The opening portion is substantially the same as quoted by Mr. Gill in his letter published last week. Towards the conclusion, however, after the words "legally claimed same two years ago," it reads: "Now, I am not going to argue. I shall, if needs be, leave this matter in the hands of the law to settle. Now, I have no wish for anything of a unfriendly nature to creep in this matter. I do not crave the cup, and nothing will give better pleasure than to melt it in the pot and sell it for old silver and give it to some charity and so end this unsatisfactory career.—Yours faithfully, S. Gill."—Editor.

Sir,—Mr. Baker says: "Once the rules are framed under which the competition for this cup takes place, they cannot be altered. Quite right! The first year competition took place under the rules as framed. The second year, and so on, a by-law was added to these rules. Was it owing to this by-law being added that the confusion took place as to who really won the cup that year? Again, how would it affect the winner the first year? Possibly Mr. Baker or the secretary will make this matter quite clear through the medium of Cage Birds. Reading between the lines, it seems to me that if the original rules had been adhered to, Messrs. Gill and Pethick have won this cup outright.

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street London, E.C.

My first advertisement of Roller Canaries, on March 15th, proved remunerative. Replies came from Lancashire, Yorkshire, Worcestershire, Cheshire, Glamorganshire, Shropshire, etc., which proves the value of your paper as an advertising medium. Please insert the advert. again this week.—C. Evans (Aberystwyth).

Norwich Crested Canary Assn.

Sir,—The Norwich Crested Canary Association, having had a successful show of Crests and Crestbreds in 1912, have decided at a large meeting to open the Association to the United Kingdom for membership. The annual subscription is 2s. 6d., and the show will be composed of Crests and Crestbreds only. The show will be held at the Grill Room, "Orford Arms Hotel," which is one of the best lighted and most comfortable rooms in the city of Norwich, and is capable of holding 500 or 600 specimens. Crested Canary fanciers from all parts of the country will be made welcome as members. I shall be glad to send full particulars on application.

Can Asthma in Birds be Cured?

Sir,—Reading the anxious letter of "Despair," I beg to say I find there is every hope of curing asthma, if the following be used constantly: One pennyworth each syrup of violets, oil of almonds, and ipecacuanha wine, shaken up, and mixed with a tablespoonful of whiskey. A few drops are given in the beak (not in water) every morning and evening. Provide a piece of bacon fat to pick at. The birds should be kept in a temperature of not less than 60 degrees, free from draughts, and be covered up very warm at night. It is during the night that the mischief is done, as the temperature changes so much when they are quite still, and they get chilled through. I have cured many for friends.

A Sympathiser.

Liverpool Fanciers' Cycle Club's Easter Jaunt.

Sir,—The above club opened the cycle season on Good Friday with a run to Ince Woods, and sixteen of the boys turned out. We had a lovely day, barring a slight shower now and again, just enough to lay the dust. Arrived in the woods, the boys commenced scouting for wild birds, and we sat for over an hour watching them making love to one another. Then Metcalfe proposed a discussion on the various wild seeds growing in the woods, causing a long debate, which was finally settled by Steinhart pulling all up by the roots and making a bundle of them. His next display was to collect some dandelion and chickweed and stow it into one of the wife's pillow-cases, which he had stowed down his nether garments to stop him being saddle-sore! Then Parsons asked Steinhart why in the name of fortune he wanted all the dandelion, chickweed, shepherd's purse, etc. Davey's reply was that if you wanted to put good rich colour into your birds you should give them plenty of green-food—that was the reason he has such good colour in his Green Yorkshires! Mr. Crowe then said that if that was the case, he was going to feed h clear Norwich on orange lilies this seaso. After this the skipper thought it wise [illegible] adjourn for lunch, so we made a bee-line for "Ye Nag's Head," and indulged in lemon-kali (the beer being off), and had a nice repast. We made the journey homeward and just arrived at headquarters in time to see Charlie Robinson putting out the lights and calling "Time, please"; but everybody enjoyed themselves. Easter Sunday's venue was Cronton, when we had another good turn-out and much enjoyed ourselves. I would like to see other town societies follow our example, Mr. Editor, and form cycle clubs amongst the bird-men; it keeps them more in touch with one another. Last week's report was the means of our obtaining three more new members and if we get three every week, we will be doing well. Members, don't forget the run to Rufford, Sunday, March 30, two p.m.

"CAGE BIRDS"
WATCH COUPON
March 29th, 1913.

Manager, "CAGE BIRDS,"

KING'S celebrated Yorkshires, bred from challenge cup winners, 1912 hens, splendid length, type and quality, several 7 inches long, 4/6, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/- upwards; pairs 10/6 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-; matched to breed winners; approval carriage paid: Sydney B. King, Mytholm, Hebden Bridge. (604)

BUFF cock, unflighted, yellow cock, 1911, 8/6 each; two buff hens, unflighted buff hen, 1911, 5/- each; all grand feather and position, bred from own winners, see reports Derby, Grantham, Stamford, Reading, Tunbridge Wells, etc.; approval willingly: Anton Brothers, Spalding. (591)

COMPULSORY sale; must be cleared immediately; 17 high class Yorkshires, cold-room bred and colour fed; these birds are of the best blood obtainable, and should breed winners; cocks from 7/; hens from 3/6, to clear at once; also cages, utensils; approval: Williams, Dolgarrog Works, Talycafn. (596)

YORKSHIRE Canaries, 1/1½, by H. W. Battye (Past President of the Yorkshire Union); absolutely the best handbook dealing with the Yorkshire and its sub-varieties. Contains complete instruction upon pairing, breeding, moulting, and successful exhibiting; also how to treat in both health and disease: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

A. L. HAWKES, winner of challenge cups, gold medals, and numerous other prizes, has several noted buff and yellow Yorkshires, cocks of exceptional merit and quality for disposal, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, and 20/ each; few hens, 10/- each; these are exceptional bargains, and such value never have offered during my 30 years' experience; approval six days: 390, Grove Green rd., Leytonstone. (586)

HENS which will not feed show plainly they are out of sorts; no hen is naturally a bad feeder. "Phosto" decreases your worry and increases your youngsters. Try it on some of your old favourites, those you would like to get just one more season from; "Phosto" will do the trick for you. Read what well-known fanciers say:—"Mr. Dines, Hanworth: "My hens are feeding finely on 'Phosto'; one that starved her first nest has brought up a grand lot this time since using it." Mr. Bandbridge, Brixham, Devon: "I cannot speak too highly of 'Phosto' for Canaries. I have some five weeks old larger than their parents." Try it at once; delay is dangerous. Tins, 1/-, 2/6, 4/6, carriage paid, with directions: Judge Silk, Cage Bird Expert, Whitstable. (585) having paired up, must clear 30 long, leggy cocks; full song: 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6; two lovely pairs, 12/6 pair; one extra good pair 17/6; absolute bargains; only want seeing; approval.

T. C. CRAWHALL

can spare two or three pairs of high-class Yorkshires, reserved for own breeding, at 40/- pair; two or three cocks; no odd hens; approval: 121, St. George's-terr., Newcastle-on-Tyne. (583)

the same strain as the winners at all leading shows, cocks 7/6, hens 4/6, 10/6, 15/6 per pair; sure winners, 15/6 each; no rubbish; all ten days' approval: W. Powick, Eastfield Cottage, Dewsbury, Yorkshire. (492)

KNIGHT'S YORKSHIRE AVIARIES

Is probably the one place in the North where Yorkshire variety breeders and fanciers of limited means are assured of getting best value in return for moderate outlay. My present stock (about 200, including own breeders) consists of clears, ticked, greens, marked, cinnamon marked, and clears pinkeyed, suitable in every respect for producing progeny of the desired size, style and quality for stock or exhibition. All cold room bred, reared and kept. Personally selected guaranteed unrelated pairs from 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, to 30/-; single cocks and hens proportionately. All sent on strict approval terms, cash or deposit. List and particulars post free from old and only address: Jonas Knight, Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire. (581)

H. H. TOWERS

A last chance, only a few left; clear yellow cock and buff hen, 25/-, worth double; a few hens from 8/- each; also one or two odd cocks, from 10/- upwards; approval, cash or deposit; write at once, or too late: Glusburn, near Keighley.

SHACKLETON'S YORKS.

Having selected my breeding stock, can spare some really grand birds, full of type and quality; this strain is well known, and needs no bounce; pairs, properly matched to breed the best, also single birds, cocks or hens; prices reasonable; stamped address for reply: W. H. Shackleton, Melrose House, Lytton-rd., Girlington, Bradford.

PURE NORWICH AND YORKSHIRES

A few grand cocks, yellows or buffs, 7/-, 8/-, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-; hens, ditto, 5/-, 6/-, 7/-, 8/-, 10/-; from best Crystal Palace winning strains, this last 20 years; approval; breeder 30 years: Sandiford, Bird Specialist, Preston, Lancs.

A CLEAN SWEEP

1913—we have won the Yorkshire Challenge Cup, so don't be led astray with misleading adverts. of winnings of the past. Also we have won the Yorkshire Challenge Trophy two years in succession, which now becomes our own property, also winning outright the 10-guinea G.M.Y.C.C. Trophy, also winners of "Cage Birds" competitions, and 40 points, leading at all Yorkshire Union Shows with four highest awards. The above is a feat never before accomplished, finishing up with two 1sts, 5 specials, at Crystal Palace. This is official proof where the best is to be got. We have the world's record for breeding winners. As for testimonials, we could publish them daily of winners bred from our strain. Those desirous of laying a solid foundation cannot equal our strain. Properly matched pairs, 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/-. Cocks or hens proportionate; also a few noted winners to spare. Special invitation, or birds sent on approval at our risk; stamp for reply: Ogden Bros., Dudley Hill, Bradford.

AMBLERS' CHAMPION YORKSHIRES

A few real gems for sale. Pairs, matched to breed the biggest champions. Hens, beautiful shape, full of style, and feathered like wax. The finest strain in the Fancy, winning thousands of prizes, championships, Palace, and all leading shows. Pairs from 15/- to 60/- Hens, 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- each. Don't be misled. We do not spend hundreds of pounds buying trophies, but we are the actual breeders of champions, who have bred them and sold them yearly for over 30 years. We guarantee satisfaction. Approval, cash or deposit.—Messrs. Amblers, Langton Lodge, Scotton, Knaresborg', Yorkshire. (565)

WHO HAS THEM?

Read below and judge for yourself. I have won outright Y.C.C. 20-guinea challenge cup, Yorkshire Union 30-guinea challenge trophy, Mr. H. Naylor's challenge cup, diplomas and highest honours at all leading shows; see 1913 "Palace" report; winner cup best yellow, winner cash special most points, with 8 entries (nearest opponent almost double); cash special, per Mr. White, Australia, best Yorkshire; championship diploma best cinnamon-marked and championship diploma best Yorkshire over all other varieties; in fact, these last 14 years I have won more cups, medals and championships at the "Palace" than any other firm or firms. Not bluff! but solid facts. My cinnamon-tick and clear yellow cocks are admitted to be two of the finest birds seen at the "Palace" show, and remember, they have been bred by me only, not purchased. Don't be led away with 30 years' strains, but have up-to-date, carefully matched pairs from this champion strain, mated to breed winners. Prices from 20/- per pair; 3 days' approval; cash or deposit "Cage Birds": J. Bailey, 46, South View-terrace, Sandy-lane, Bradford, Yorks.

PARROTS for pleasure and profit, 7d., by C. P. Arthur. A practical handbook, dealing with the keeping, feeding, and general treatment of the Grey, the Amazon, etc. It explains how to sex these birds, the treatment of newly imported specimens, and cures for their various ills: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

THERE is no more lovely seed-eater than the popular Gouldian Finch, which, however, is very difficult to establish. This trouble can be overcome, and the variety kept successfully. But you must follow the hints given in "Nutshell No. 14," from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C., post free for 2½d. From agents (see list frequently published), 2d.

WAXBILLS! (Golden-breasted, Orange-cheeked, Grey, and St. Helena). Than this interesting quartette, which can be purchased at from 2/6 to 7/6 a pair, there are few more charming foreigners. They can be successfully kept, too, with little difficulty if you will follow the hints given by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., in "Nutshell No. 20," 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Call at any of our agents and get it for 2d. (list frequently published).

FOREIGN birds for beginners, 1/1½, by W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign birds. Replete with useful hints: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

BUDGERIGARS and Cockatiels are among the most popular foreign birds, and C. P. Arthur has had a lifetime's experience with them. His book, "Budgerigars and Cockatiels," will show you how to keep them, feed them for health, how to breed them, and how to teach them to talk. The price of this valuable handbook is only 6½d., post free, from: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 151, Fleet Street, London.

Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

Advt. Manager. "Cage Birds."

ALWAYS USE OUR DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which me must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expirration of three days.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

Again thanking you, I am, sir, yours, etc., W. Barrett."; Pinm, Icknield, Port Road, Birmingham.

It is just upon that depends your prospect of getting pleasure, profit and prizes. But if you want to improve your knowledge so that you can win prizes, so that you can back your pets against the best in your Club and still be proud of them, you will do well to send for the free booklet offered below. It was written chiefly to describe the real use to every class of cage-bird lover, of the splendid one-volume work "Canaries, Hybrids and British Birds," but it is full of interest and well worth sending for on its own account; the 15 illustrations in the booklet will take your fancy.

Do not wait, send to-day for this handy free booklet, it will be a ½d. well spent.

CANARIES

By the well-known authority
MR. JOHN ROBSON,
is a complete Encyclopædia

of everything pertaining to the hobby. It is far and away the best guide any man can have because it contains chapters by the leading Bird specialists, and the whole matter is brought into shape and expertly edited.

There is nothing in regard to the subject that is too small to be overlooked; everything any man can possibly want to know is in the book; it is the most authoritative work on the subject ever issued.

That is why so many thousands of the work have been sold since it came out. Its 41 practical chapters are the result of many years' experience and cover with remarkable fulness every side of the subject. There are 26 exquisite full page coloured plates painted from life subjects, and 140 other illustrations.

How you can get this work at a special price and on special terms is told in the dainty and informative booklet.

FANCIERS, BE WARNED

in time. Do not send for cheap cages and cage sets which are only fit for firewood. Read this:—"Dear Sir,—I am sending you another order for six double breeding cage sets. I wanted six double breeding cages, and not being able to make them up myself at the time, I had them made by a well-known advertiser. Well, I had to burn them, as they were absolutely disgraceful.—Yours truly, J. Mitchell, 4, Parry Place, Plumstead, S.E." Fanciers, my cage sets make up into first-class cages only, and are honest value. Singles, 18 by 17 by 10, 2/4; fittings, 8d. extra; doubles, 36 by 17 by 10, 4/6; fittings, 1/4 extra. NOT SINGING.

Wanted a trial. We are confident our Medicines will give you satisfaction. Special offer to all bird fanciers. If you have a cock bird that you are relying upon for the breeding season, that is not in full song, or has gone into the soft moult, or a hen that is dull and moping, and will not shape for breeding, we guarantee you a perfect cure. We have the grandest medicine ever introduced for bringing birds into breeding condition. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for loss of voice, soft moult, egg-binding, going light, feather-plucking, diarrhœa, and for dull and moping birds. In 7d. and 1/1 (treble size) bottles. Special size, 2/-. This medicine is undoubtedly the finest pick-me-up ever offered for birds that are run down or gone off song. Fanciers note: If our medicines fail to do as advertised, we guarantee to return full money. For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfield's Special Lung Tonic. Also in 7d. and 1/1 bottles. The safest and most reliable medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds. As an advertisement we will send a 7d. bottle of each of the above medicines for 1/-, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9. All post paid, per return, at our risk. Two valuable seed recipes: How to Feed Linnets and Rollers for Contest Singing, given free to all purchasers of our medicines.—Frank Ditchfield, Bird Specialist, Oldham.

FRED ALLEN, BRITISH BIRD CHAMPION

Gentlemen, if you want a good honest bird at a reasonable price it will pay you to try me. I only do honest dealing, and am patronised by all the leading fanciers in England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales. I have sold more winners than any other three dealers put together; contradiction defied. I have a splendid lot of fierce singing cock Linnets, with extra loud voices, 1/-, 1/6, 2/- each; new back cage, 6d. extra; trap cage, 9d.; quality singing Linnets, taught under my undefeated champion of England (cup winner), 2/-, 2/6, 3/-, 4/- each; contest cage, 1/- extra; one note is worth the money, £10 being refused for my champion, and £50 would not purchase him. I have a nice lot of large stout cock Linnets, real gems, sure mulers, and will moult out toppers, 1/6, 2/-, 2/6 each; all my Linnets I guarantee have bills jet black; this alone proves their splendid condition; Linnet and Canary, eager to nest, 4/-; White Javas, 8/6 pair; Spice Birds, 2/6 pair; Amazon Parrot, rough in feather, but good bird, 15/6, with cage; birds sent at my risk on 7 days' approval, for cash or deposit with Editor; send at once to your old friend: Fred Allen, British Bird Champion, 548, Queen's-rd., Sheffield. (621)

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow space in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS:—

A CHALLENGE TO THE WORLD

I will sing any Linnet in the world for quality singing, from £10 up to £100 a side, for the best voiced bird, which puts the most notes together in one mouth fall, and the most turns in each note, which means length, turns, and form, best and cleanest bird, from 2 minutes up to 10 minutes; if for two minutes, a minute face to face, and one minute so they cannot see each other, which makes two minutes in all, or one minute face to face and nine minutes' sing, ten minutes altogether, with a board large enough in the centre of the window so they cannot see each other. After the first minute each owner of bird to have a judge, and a third man to be picked as time-keeper; two out of three must give their decision to the bird they think has won, each owner of bird to be allowed no more than three friends in the room where we sing, and no other person to be allowed in the room, only those connected with birds, and judges; Fred Allen, self-called champion of England, preferred. I will sing Fred Allen's Linnet in his own town (Sheffield). I am depositing £5 on behalf of my bird, to make a match. I do not want any excuses, and I do not want any paper talk, and no swank. The above terms are fair for both sides, which are the proper quality singing rules throughout England. Business only meant with me: Harry Allen, City Aviaries, 40, Beckett-st., Leeds. P.S.—This challenge stands good for 14 days. (571)

(521)

HENS at this time of the year require more careful feeding than at any other. This great food "Phosto" has been well thought out, and it is the thinking out that makes all the difference. "Phosto" is not a medicine; it is a great food for all times, but especially beneficial now. I used to say myself that if you had a bad feeder nothing would make her better, and I have sold many a grand hen at a low price on this account, but now, what a revelation! "Phosto" is absolutely It. Why should you not try it? It costs little and will save you valuable stock. It is a food which will increase size in your youngsters and do away with all the great breeding anxieties. I guarantee no bad feeders. Tins, 1/-, 2/6, 4/6 carriage paid, with directions: Judge Silk, Whitstable. (598)

THESE grand Norwich, which are not surplus stock, but high-class birds, are getting short; have these for sale at half usual prices, as room urgently required:—(1) clear yellow cock, fine shape and substance, 25/-; (2) grand unflighted buff hen, fine quality, 17/6; or the pair 40/-; (3) another gem of a yellow cock, more size and blaze of colour, 27/6; (4) most charming ticked unflighted buff hen, 15/-; or the pair 40/-; (5) unflighted yellow cock, a bird of great promise, 30/-; (6) 1911 buff hen, great size, £1; or this pair, 45/-; (7) clear buff cock, grand all over, 25/-; (8) sweet yellow hen, ticked wing, 15/-; or the pair 37/6; (9) unflighted yellow hen, perfect quality, 12/6; (10) grand buff cock, unflighted, £1, good one to run for next season's showing; (11) splendid unflighted buff hen, win small shows, 12/6; (12) fine yellow hen, grand stock bird, 15/-; (13) two well matched pairs at 20/- a pair, suit novice; all birds are my champion strain and have all been reduced in price to clear quickly; every bird on approval with pleasure; don't be without your "Phosto" for those early nests, which you must save at any cost. "Phosto" costs little and will save you every bird. Try it. See advertisement under this column.—The great Norwich Specialist, Judge Silk, Whitstable. (616)

EASTER VISITORS.

During the holidays I had visitors from Manchester, Oldham, Chorley, Preston, Burnley, Bacup, Huddersfield, Bradford, Birkenhead, Hebden Bridge, Greetland, Blackburn, and almost every part of England. One and all speak in the highest terms of my birds and Aviaries, and my straightforward business methods. Remember, I offer you the same invitation to come on any day but Sunday and inspect my stock.

I still have for sale Thousands of High-class Birds in all varieties, and if you cannot pay me a visit, and are needing birds, don't forget that I am prepared to send to any address in the United Kingdom, at my risk, and on seven days' approval, any of the following varieties:—

My Yorkshires have won consistently all through the season. The following are a few out of a large number of honours: Special best hen Bradford National, Special best Yorks, Hartlepool, Diploma best Yorkshire Sunderland, Trophy for 3rd most points N.G.M.Y.C.C., Second most points Yorkshire Union Competitions, Third most points in both competitions of the Y.C.C., etc., etc.

There is no better blood in the Fancy to-day, and I am in a position to put the Amateur on the right road to breeding his own winners, or to supply the "old hand" with splendid stock or show birds at a working-man's price. The following are a few prices:

Yorkshire Cocks, great lengthy birds, with good position, feathered to perfection, and in full song, 7/-, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each upwards.

Grand racy hens, splendid type, and feathered like wax, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each upwards. Matched Pairs, correctly mated for breeding winners, and sex guaranteed, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- 35/-, 40/-, 45/-, 50/- per pair. I can supply these in Clears, Ticks, Green Marked, Cinnamon Marked, or Self Greens.

To every Customer I guarantee complete satisfaction or Cash returned in full.

CHAMPION NORWICH PLAINHEADS. THE BULL-DOG STRAIN.

THIS strain has again upheld its reputation, and in addition to winning Firsts and Specials all over the country, has secured the following Trophies this year: THE PERCY ILLINGWORTH CHALLENGE CUP (won outright), the Sandiford Cup, THE O.N.P.C. CHAMPION TROPHY, F. Carl's Trophy, and has run second in the Cup competition of the N.P.C.

I am now offering a few grand birds bred from my strain. Yellows or Buffs, Cocks or Hens, real good show or stock birds for breeding own winners, at 10/- 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- each. I am also offering a few grand pairs, personally matched by me, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. Strain guaranteed. I have a few grand birds from other strains, good thick-set birds, Cocks on full free song, at 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each; Hens, grand smart-feathered birds, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

CRESTS & CREST-BREDS.—Large massive birds, with splendid feather, Cocks or Hens, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- each. Matched Pairs, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/- per pair upwards.

Pure-bred Seifert or St. Andreasburg Roller Cocks. Nothing gives my visitors so much pleasure as to sit and listen to these "musical boxes." I have 200 birds in stock, imported direct by me from the best training rooms in Germany. These are all in full rolling song by day and gaslight, with many changes of tours. They represent the last word in training, and will please anyone.

Come and make your own selection, or allow me to send one on approval at my risk. Prices, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6. A few specially selected Schoolmasters at 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; hens, guaranteed same strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/- each; Cages, 3d. extra.

REAL SIBERIAN GOLDFINCH COCKS, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6 each.

Grand Large Sib. Hens for Muling, either Yorkshire or Norwich type, 3/-, 3/6 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

WINNING BORDER FANCIES.—The entire stock of a well-known Border exhibitor for sale. These include Clears, Ticks, Marked, Self Greens, and Cinnamons. Cocks in full song, real gems, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Smart typical Hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- upwards. Matched Pairs, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/, 30/-. Every bird for sale.

LIZARDS.—Am offering the entire stock of a well-known Lizard exhibitor, at 10/6 and 12/6 per pair. Odd birds, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6 each, cocks or hens.

SCOTCH FANCIES.—A few real good birds, Clears and Pied, Yellows and Buffs, including some of this season's open winners. Cocks or Hens, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 30/-, 40/- each. Every bird for sale.

GOLDFINCH-CANARY or LINNET-CANARY MULES.—Bold free songsters, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 each. For full particulars of all other varieties send a postcard for my free illustrated price list.

NOTE THIS, PLEASE.—I undertake to give complete satisfaction to every customer, or return cash in full.

Easy payments can be arranged to suit the convenience of Genuine Fanciers. No Extras charged. Travelling Cages, 3d. Special attention to Export Orders.

Read following testimonial from:—"193, Parliament-st., Toronto, Canada (received here March 24th):—The six Yorkshire hens received here in splendid form, and please me in every way. More orders to follow, and will recommend you to all I know.—D. McFarland to J. Taylor." All on 7 days' approval: Only and old address, J. Taylor, 36, Aireville-rd., Frizinghall, Bradford. (609)

HENS which will not feed show plainly they are out of sorts; no hen is naturally a bad feeder. "Phosto" decreases your worry and increases your youngsters. Try it on some of your old favourites, those you would like to get just one more season from; "Phosto" will do the trick for you. Read what well-known fanciers say:—"Mr. Dines, Hanworth: "My hens are feeding finely on 'Phosto'; one that starved her first nest has brought up a grand lot this time since using it." Mr. Bandbridge, Brixham, Devon: "I cannot speak too highly of 'Phosto' for Canaries. I have some five weeks old larger than their parents." Try it at once; delay is dangerous. Tins, 1/-, 2/6, 4/6, carriage paid, with directions: Judge Silk, Cage Bird Expert, Whitstable. (585) can spare two or three pairs of high-class Yorkshires, reserved for own breeding, at 40/- pair; two or three cocks; no odd hens; approval: 121, St. George's-terr., Newcastle-on-Tyne. (583)

KNIGHT'S YORKSHIRE AVIARIES

Having selected season's breeders, have ten to fifteen pairs, same style, type, and quality, more than I require. To effect an early clearing, first come, first have, at 12/6, 15/-, and 20/- pair; clears, ticked, or marked. Purchasing clients for one pair only will not need to be convinced that these are not more than half price generally paid for same quality pairs: also few odd cocks and hens proportionately; cold-room bred, reared, and kept; all approval, cash or deposit; see my other advt.; Jonas Knight, Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire. (622)

OGDEN BROS.

A special offer to clear at once any of these, worth double: champion matched pairs at 20/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair, cocks or hens proportionate. These are not bred haphazard, but the study of a lifetime. This strain has won every competition in Yorkshire this season, so don't be led astray with misleading adverts; all birds sent on approval: Dudley Hill, Bradford.

H. H. TOWERS

A last chance, only a few left; clear yellow cock and buff hen, 25/-, worth double; a few hens from 8/- each; also one or two odd cocks, from 10/- upwards; approval, cash or deposit; write at once, or too late: Glusburn, near Keighley.

SHACKLETON'S YORKS.

Having selected my breeding stock, can spare some really grand birds, full of type and quality; this strain is well known, and needs no bounce; pairs, properly matched to breed the best, also single birds, cocks or hens; prices reasonable; stamped address for reply: W. H. Shackleton, Melrose House, Lytton-rd., Girlington, Bradford.

KNIGHT'S YORKSHIRE AVIARIES

is probably the one place in the North where Yorkshire variety breeders and fanciers of limited means are assured of getting best value in return for moderate outlay. My present stock (about 200, including own breeders) consists of clears, ticked, greens, marked, cinnamon marked, and clears pinkeyed, suitable in every respect for producing progeny of the desired size, style and quality for stock or exhibition. All cold room bred, reared and kept. Personally selected guaranteed unrelated pairs from 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, to 30/-; single cocks and hens proportionately. All sent on strict approval terms, cash or deposit. List and particulars post free from old and only address: Jonas Knight, Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire. (581)

CANARY breeding for beginners, 7d., by Claude St. John. A practical, up-to-date guide to Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner. Deals very fully with the choice, sexing, and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the difficulties likely to confront the breeder: "Cage Birds,"

DO you know just what benefit you are deriving from your hobby? It is necessary to keep some account, and it may be kept in the most compact and handy form if you use, "The Stock Book, and Breeding-room Register," compiled by G. E. Westen; this makes bird-breeding easy. In addition to all that is required to enable the breeder to see at a glance how he stands, there are many hints for times of emergency. Price 7d., post free, from: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

BIRDS SUPPLIED FROM 1s. PER WEEK. on my easy purchase system. Birds forwarded on receipt first payment, on approval. No such terms offered elsewhere. PARROT PROBLEM solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle." This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard. Telephone No. 40 Morecambe.

MASK AND ZEBRA DOVES (B. K. G.).—Both these species will live in a roomy garden aviary, which has a suitable shelter attached to it all the year round. Their principal dietary is canary and millet seed, and they do not take much from ordinary Dove mixture. They must have grit and ground cuttlebone, also a piece of rock salt, which should have water poured over it daily. You might try them with a little dari and wheat, but I expect they will take but little of it, still, it will make a change for them and be beneficial if they do take a little. It will greatly benefit the birds to fly about a garden aviary during the summer, if you have not suitable winter quarters attached to it for them, as they will pick up many insects, take some green food, etc., greatly to their benefit.

BIRDS FOR AVIARY (Foreigner).—The aviary is well arranged, but you must partly board up the end of shelter where it joins the flight, leave it open from floor to top in the centre just wide enough for you to get through. Here are a few birds that should breed with you, also their approximate cost per pair: Zebra Finches, 7s. 6d.; Silverbills, 2s. 6d. to 3s. 6d.; Avadavats, 3s. 6d.; Bib Finches, 6s. to 7s. 6d.; Bronze Mannikins, 3s. 6d.; Cut-throats, 3s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.; Green Singing Finches, 5s. to 6s.; all the above should breed with you. Here are other probable breeders at approximately 3s. 6d. per pair: Spice Finches, Black-headed Mannikins, Bengalese, Golden-breasted Waxbills; also Weavers such as Madagascar and Napoleon, 5s. to 6s. pair. In breeding plumage males are very brilliant.

ANOTHER WHYDAH (Airs).—Unless the aviary is very large, it would not be advisable to introduce another Whydah; you had far better let well alone, as these birds are very fussy and boisterous when in full colour. We have frequently advised the stoves to which you refer; with care they are quite reliable and effective.

AN AILING GREY (T. U.).—The only way to get it tame is to keep it in your midst, yet choose such a position that there are not continuous hasty movements in its vicinity. Be steady and quiet when replenishing food hoppers and cleaning cage, attend to such regularly, but you had better let it wait a bit than do such things in a hurry. The squawking is due to fear, and as it loses this and gains confidence the squawking will cease, and it will begin to take an interest in its surroundings, and mimic the calls and words it frequently hears. When you have got this far, you can begin to talk to it, and train it by constant repetition of such words and short sentences as you would like it to utter, but only one at a time. The mixture you name will meet the case, but if you have to give many doses use four parts water to one of the mixture. Also keep the bowels moving quite freely by giving an occasional dose (one teaspoonful in the drinking water) of Dinneford's Magnesia. Bathe the eye with a rose-water and zinc solution obtainable from any chemist. A Grey Parrot's diet should consist of seed mixture, ripe fruit, plain biscuit and a few nuts; it should also have regular access to water, grit and cuttlebone.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

"Ragtime."—The Bullfinch has been suffering some time from imperfect digestion, probably from indiscreet dieting. The constipation resulting set up inflammation of the bowels, from which it succumbed.

L. Barlow-Massicks.—Post-mortem showed a large blood-clot around the lungs, death resulting from exhaustion following this loss of blood. In other respects it was quite healthy. It was a hen bird.

M. Cossar.—Cerebral apoplexy, or rupture of a blood vessel on the surface of the brain. The bird was evidently a predisposed subject, was in high fettle, and full blooded. There was no cure, but as a preventive, an occasional dose of glauber salts in the drinking water, by relieving blood pressure, does good.

E.C.—There was no evidence of contagious disease, pneumonia affecting both lungs being the only symptom discernible, together with slight patches of inflammation of the bowels. You mention a new breeding cage; was this freshly painted, or have you paint about? The history, together with the symptoms is very similar to what occurs in these cases.

GENERAL.

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

The Apathy of Bird Traders.

It would seem a matter for some little surprise that only one letter has come to hand in response to the straightforward and outspoken communications published during the past few weeks from Messrs. Pearson, Trower, and Prior pointing out the urgent necessity of combined action in defence of bird traders against unwarranted interference on the part of the humanitarian societies whose officers take out summonses upon the most trivial pretext, and in their efforts to bolster up their cases, adopt methods which are in many cases entirely beyond their legal rights as representatives of private societies.

What They Are Risking.

It would seem that bird traders generally are of the same mind as in the days when the Protection Society which actually came into existence through the untiring efforts of Mr. Trower died from inanition. If this is so, they must be content to run the risk of trumpery prosecutions which, even though based upon such slender foundations as to call forth from the magistrate an expression of opinion that such prosecutions are "ill-advised," will land them into the certainty of wasting time and money in their defence, and into the possibility that one of the cases may squeeze through, with the result that the defendant may be fined any amount up to £25 per bird, with or without hard labour.

Illuminative Figures.

The figures quoted by the Countess von Hahn as to the 25,540 cautions given in 1911 and 7,038 convictions set me wondering how many of these convictions were in respect of the catching of birds or the trade in them. Taking absolutely at random the recorded figures for four months, I find that during November, 1912, there were 548 convictions for various acts of cruelty to animals, and not one in respect of "offences (against the bird laws) during the close season, etc." Mark the "etc.," which includes, of course, every kind of cruelty against birds. During January, 1913, the figures were respectively 538 and 0; for September, 1912, they were 609 and 0. and in July, 1912, 556 and 3. In these four records, which, I repeat, were not selected, but taken absolutely at random, we have the enormous total of 2,254 convictions at the instance of the R.S.P.C.A., only three of which had any connection whatever with bird-keeping, bird trading, or bird-catching.

Bird-keeping is the hobby which is stigmatised as being "an acted blasphemy." Bird shops are places which are characterised as "infernos." For bird catchers no epithet is bad enough. And against all, three convictions were obtained in four months. Could anything show more clearly the ridiculous exaggerations which are used by those who preach the doctrine that bird keeping should be made illegal and who stop at nothing in their endeavours to make it so?

An Associate from Montreal.

Among the readers sending coupons and desiring to be registered as Associates of Cage Birds League, I have very great pleasure in welcoming Mr. Hugh Dey, of far away Montreal. The coupons sent by Mr. Dey are signed by fellow readers in Montreal. It is very pleasing to note the widespread influence of Cage Birds and Cage Birds League.

TERMS OF MEMBERSHIP.

PATRONS.—A donation of not less than Ten Guineas in one amount, or an annual subscription of not less than Two Guineas, shall constitute the donor or subscriber a Patron.

LIFE MEMBERS.—A donation of not less than Five Guineas in one amount shall constitute the donor a Life Member.

Henry J. Fulljames,
Secretary Cage Birds League,
154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of Cage Birds have written to say that they would like to join Cage Birds' League, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the League, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of Cage Birds League, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the League. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

Sights We All Love.

To see Swallows bathing is an interesting sight. They do not settle and perform their ablutions as others do, but flying over the water, occasionally dip, disturbing the surface, and so by repeating the performance, in time get quite as wet as others do that bathe in the usual way. A dead branch on one of the trees growing close to the water makes a convenient drying ground, and there they preen and shuffle their feathers in the afternoon sunshine.

As the Swallows skim down the street they are, to all appearance, black and white birds, but a nearer view shows them to be a rich steel-blue above, while the forehead and chin are a rich mahogany red, and the under-part of the body very delicate cream-colour. The females are hardly so rich in colouring as their partners, but one needs to see them together to note the difference.

SHOW DATES FIXED.

To secure insertion in this column, a guarantee that the show will be advertised in "C.B." to the extent of at least 25/- must be sent to our manager. Please note that we only insert those that guarantee, so our list is a bona fide one.

Twitterings.

Cage Birds is always very interesting and full of information, writes Mr. A. J. Rees, of Newcastle, Penn., U.S.A.

Kindly notify that my address now is 7, Cliftonville Parade, Margate, writes Mr. O. Millsum, and not Everberg, Belgium.

Will societies desiring the patronage of the Norwich Plainhead Club kindly write Mr. F. Cunliffe, sec., 19, Lark St., Burnley?

Mr. R. Tipper, asst. sec., City and Bham. C.B.S., writes that he has removed from 227, Aston Lane, Perry Bar, to 141, Frederick Road, Aston, Birmingham.

We hear from Mr. G. M. Nelson, sec., that Messrs. H. W. Battye and J. Dixon, Wigton, will judge at the show of the Warrington C.B.S. on Nov. 7-8 next.

Please announce in your valuable paper that Mr. M. Skirrow has resigned the secretaryship of Bolton Woods C.B.S., and that I have been appointed in his place, writes Mr. H. Bryant, 18, Bolton Hall Rd., Bradford.

Bird-keepers in Bradford district will note from the report of the Bradford East O.S. in another column that the annual Sunday fanciers' service is being held on April 6th, when the officials are hoping to see a record attendance.

Cage Birds 1913 Annual is certainly the finest combination of information under one cover for the yearly guidance of fanciers ever produced, and must prove invaluable to all and sundry in the Fancy.—Chas. Houlton (Denton's Green).

The sub-committee appointed for dealing with the staging in connection with the next Bradford National show, writes Mr. H. Hill, sec., are respectfully reminded of the meeting to be held for dealing with same at the Market Tavern, April, 9, at 8.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

The minimum charge for advertisements among "Twitterings" is now 10s. per insertion prepaid. Full particulars can be had on application to our Advertisement Manager.

With reference to the Linnet singing challenge made by Mr. H. Allen, of Leeds, in our advertisement columns this week, Mr. Allen writes that he will not take notice of any acceptance unless his deposit is covered.

The Anfield, Everton and Dis. C.B.S. hold a smoking concert on Wednesday, April 9, at 8 p.m., at the Sandon Hotel, Oakfield Rd., tickets 6d. each, chairman J. T. Metcalf, Esq., write Messrs. Redpath and Walker, joint secs. All fanciers are invited to come and give us a bumper, and enjoy themselves.

I have to thank you very sincerely for the honour you have done me by placing the photograph and drawing of my Yorkshire Canary on the front page of Cage Birds. It came as a very pleasant surprise to me on receiving your paper last Friday. Wishing it every success for the future.—E. J. Reynolds (Ilford).

Messrs. King and Joiner write that the Portsmouth C.B.S. has decided to open its membership to the Southern Counties, and will henceforth be known as the Portsmouth and Southern Counties C.B.S. A hearty invitation to membership is extended to all Southern Counties' fanciers. The annual subscription is 2s. 6d.; and 1s. nomination fee. Honorary members, 5s.; vice-presidents, 10s. 6d. Meetings are held on the last Wednesday in every month at 8 p.m. The 1913 annual show is fixed for Oct. 22-23. Messrs. J. Robson and H. Norman have been engaged to judge.

To Society Secretaries, Advertisers and Correspondents generally.

Will all correspondents, and secretaries and officials of societies in particular, please note that CAGE BIRDS now goes to press on Wednesday afternoon so that all matter for publication in our issue of the same week MUST reach us on TUESDAY TO BE CERTAIN OF INCLUSION, or first post Wednesday at latest.

It would much facilitate our work if Secretaries and others would kindly write out their club reports, notices, etc., in the style in which they see them printed. Write on ONE SIDE ONLY of each sheet of paper used.

Ornithologists in every branch have a feast of information in Cage Birds 1913 Annual. A resume of the past year is cleverly written by eminent fanciers in every variety. Previous issues have been really good, but this surpasses all its predecessors.—L. Shaw (Dewbury).

Will you announce in Cage Birds, writes Mr. A. Sutcliffe, 46, Eldon Place, Hopwood Lane, Halifax, that I have been appointed secretary of the Sowerby Bridge C.B.S. in place of Messrs. Sutcliffe and Walker, who have resigned. All future correspondence should be sent to me. I shall be pleased to hear from anyone desirous of joining the Sowerby Bridge and District Cage-bird Society, the subscription is 2s. 6d. per year. Many thanks for the good information and help gained through your valuable paper.

Desiccated yolk of egg, offered by Liverine, Limited, of Grimsby, fills a long felt want in the cage-bird Fancy. This article is the genuine thing and not merely egg-bread. To the busy workman who has to rise and be at work early, desiccated yolk of egg is a great boon, and he insures his birds getting egg. On the other hand, the boiling of an egg hard, chopping it, and then feeding, takes quite half an hour; but with desiccated yolk of egg it can be done in a few minutes. There is sufficient in a 6d. tin to rear a nest of young until they are cracking seed. Fanciers should give it a trial.

OBITUARY.

Mr. John Duff, Kelty.

I am sorry to again take up my pen, writes Mr. Adam Dickson, Secretary, Kelty and Blairadam C.B.A., to inform you that the hand of death has been busy amongst our members. Mr. John Duff, a Border Fancy breeder, was killed while at his work, brushing, in the Lindsay pit here. Last Thursday night a large fall from the roof took place, completely burrying him and one of his companions. When extricated, two hours later, they were both dead. Mr. Duff leaves a widow and an adopted daughter, who have the entire sympathy of the whole of our community. Another of our members, Mr. James Inglis, has had the sad misfortune to lose his wife who died after a very short illness, leaving him with six young children. He also has all our members' deepest sympathy.

An excellent sample of egg and biscuit food reaches us from Mr. E. J. Grain (24, Grey Friar Gate, Nottingham). It is a combination in correct proportions of best quality preserved egg and crushed biscuit, and should be very acceptable to those who desire to use a food of this kind. Mr. Grain sends us a copy of a testimonial from a Liverpool fancier, stating that he found it excellent, and sending a repeat order.

A food for which high claims are made, and which promises to be of great value to keepers and breeders of Canaries, and all kinds of birds, has been put upon the market by Mr. J. W. Ramsden (11, Josephine Avenue, Brixton, London) the well-known manager of the Crystal Palace show. Ramsden's Tonic Food (or "Lacphos," to give it its registered name) is a pure natural food prepared under the direction of an eminent chemist, from fresh milk (which has first been thoroughly sterilized). One pound represents the concentrated nourishment of thirty-five pints of fresh milk. Its restorative and revitalising properties will be found particularly valuable in keeping birds in perfect health and condition through the strain of the show, breeding and moulting seasons. It is claimed that by using "Lacphos" breeders can rely upon having vigorous stock, fertile eggs, good feeding hens, and strong, well-nourished young birds. It is most economical in use—one teaspoonful to each teacupful of egg food; or it can be mixed with any of the recognised soft foods or biscuit foods in the same proportion. It is packed in tins, price from 1s. upwards.

The Spring Migrants.

Several Chiffchaffs were in the garden to-day (Mar. 30) writes Mr. W. E. Teschemaker, of Teignmouth, and on Mar. 22 I saw a Swallow.

The Hayle C.B. Association.

The cage-bird fanciers of Hyde, writes Mr. A. T. Combe, have formed a new Association with the above title, and will hold their first cage-bird show on Oct. 30. Will other secretaries please note date, and avoid clashing.

A Novel Win.

A Goldfinch shown at the recent show of the Dorchester and Dis. F.S. achieved the distinction of winning the challenge cup given by Mr. A. V. Hambro, M.P., for the best bird in the show. In the competition for the special it had to take its part, not only against the best foreign bird, but also against the best in the poultry, bantam and pigeon sections. Its owner, Mr. E. W. Gould, is to be congratulated upon the remarkable performance.

RESULT OF THE GATESHEAD CASE.

PRIZE DRAWING PROSECUTION COSTS SOCIETY DEARLY.

An Appeal to the Fancy for help to meet the liabilities.

The result of the prosecution instituted by the police authorities against Gateshead C.B.S. (through its secretary) is given below. It will be remembered from the account we published last week that this prize-drawing was got up to help the members to clear off the heavy debt left by their last annual show, owing to this being particularly ruined by the breaking out of the railway strike on the eve of the show-day. Instead of being of assistance, however, this move unfortunately has served only to make matters worse for them. The letters from the chairman and secretary printed below make this quite clear. The experiences they have gone through are singularly discouraging, but we venture to think that their brother fanciers will not allow the members of the society to sink under the load of debt—a heavy one for working-men to face—now thrown upon their shoulders, but will lend them helping hands to float their ship into untroubled waters again. The society's record is a splendid one. We have no hesitation in saying that it deserves well of the Fancy. Cage Birds will be pleased to start a subscription list with the sum of five pounds, and to acknowledge any further sums sent. The object of freeing the society from its burden is a very laudable one, and easily achieved by collective effort—it only needs, for instance, the hat to be sent round at society meetings, and each member present to put a humble copper therein, for this object to be accomplished. We ask the sympathies of fanciers to be extended to the members of the Gateshead C.B.S.—and we are sure that we shall not ask in vain. Any sums, however small, will be gratefully acknowledged by us on their behalf.

"Has left us in a Hole."

Mr. A. Holden, the chairman of the Gateshead C.B.S., writes: I think we came out of the law action better than we all expected. Our solicitor's fee, however, was a heavy one, and with the other costs makes a stiff sum we have to pay out. With regard to the obtaining of information by the police, we know now that it was not anyone in connection with the society who told them of the matter. If it had been, I would not have liked to have been in that party's shoes! I understand that the information came from the postal authorities. Our secretary had sent six books of tickets to a Mr. Large, of Liverpool, and it appears that he had removed, the result being that the parcel was sent to the "Dead Letter Office," and the London authorities, after opening it, sent it to Gateshead, and at the same time notified the police, who, of course, took action. This latest trouble has left us in a hole, and we all feel down-hearted at the debt with which we are now faced, but we are hoping that the Fancy will rally round us and not see us beat, so that in the end we may come out of it with "all colours flying." We trust to be in a position to yet hold our shows for many years to come. Our members, like those of most societies, are only working-men. The drawing, of course, cannot now take place, but we are hoping that those who have bought tickets will take a sympathetic view of the matter; we at any rate did our best. I thank you for the kindly report you gave of the matter."

Financial Details from the Secretary.

Sir,—Our committee, I can assure you, appreciate your kind inquiry as to the deficiency, and your offer of assistance. Our loss thorough the strike amounted to £24. However, through the kindness of a few members this was reduced, until we were left with only the printer's account to face, which amounted to £18 4s. Entries were down about 500. Gate-money, admission tickets, and sale of catalogues, were also all down to half the amount of the previous year, otherwise we should have had a record show, with a good balance, as the entries we received by the Saturday morning were beyond anything received in previous years, and mostly exhibitors new to Gateshead. Had we been successful in carrying out the prize-drawing, too, we should have been able to clear our debts. However, we were unable to carry the thing through owing to the action of the police, which involved us in more expense, the society having had to find legal assistance to defend the case, as the members did not wish to have a conviction recorded against my name. Altogether, the solicitor's fees, costs of the court, contribution to poor-box, and the society granting my expenses, have accounted for a sum amounting to just inside £14. Our solicitor, Mr. Lambert, defended the case in excellent style. I feel grateful to the members for the splendid manner in which they have supported me through this trying time. We have had splendid attendances at all meetings since our show.

J. G. Greason, Sec., Pro. Tem.

The Police Court Proceedings.

At the Gateshead Police Court, on March 28th, John G. Greason, secretary of the Gateshead and District C.B.S., who lives at 28, Haydn Street, was charged "that he unlawfully did publish a scheme for the sale of certain tickets or chances in a certain lottery, namely, a prize-drawing in the Gateshead and Dis. C.B.S., by which certain prizes would be given in accordance with the results, to be published in certain journals on March 29th." Mr. Frank J. Lambert was for the defendant.

Detective-Inspector Ogle said that on March 17th he was shown a number of books containing tickets for a prize-drawing. Sixteen prizes were to be given, and the tickets were 2d. each. The defendant's name appeared on each slip. He saw the defendant on March 19th, and received from him a number of books, from which it appeared that there had been a sale of 1,829 tickets, which had produced £15 4s. 10d. The tickets had been distributed as far as Swansea and Southampton in the south, and Arbroath in Scotland. Evidently the persons who had received books were secretaries of similar societies to that with which the defendant was connected. Defendant explained that he had resigned the secretaryship, but he was "going to see the thing through." The drawing had been organised because the society had lost a lot of money on the last show, and this was the way they intended to get out of the difficulty.

By Mr. Lambert: Witness did not know whether Mr. Greason meant that he knew the thing was illegal when he said he was responsible.

He meant he was responsible for whatever took place whilst he was secretary?—Yes, he gave me every assistance.

In fact, he acted the part of the innocent man from start to finish?—Yes; he was very straightforward.

Mr. Lambert, addressing the Bench on behalf of the defendant, said that the advice that he had given was that the lottery was absolutely illegal. This would be an important prosecution, he supposed, because the society was not the only society in the neighbourhood, or in the country, that occasionally got into difficulties and organised these [illegible] without thinking that they were offending against the law in issuing the tickets. There were any number of similar transactions in the neighbourhood. The Gateshead Society had been in existence over 13 years, and up to the present had always been able to pay its way. It was a very good society, and deserved encouragement because it had for its objects "the promotion of proper keeping, breeding, rearing, and exhibiting of cage birds." The unfortunate position in which they were placed this year, was due to the railway strike, which commenced on December 13th. That was the day on which the Society held its annual show in the Drill Hall, Burt Terrace. There were about 1,100 entries, whereas they should have actually received 1,600, and the exhibits that came forward numbered only 800. Some birds were not sent, and others were delayed on the railway. The show was a failure, and a debt of about £25 was incurred. It was suggested at a subsequent meeting of the Society that this drawing should be held. The prizes included a leg of mutton, a bottle of whiskey, and birds and cages, and the results were to be made known on March 29th, but unfortunately, what the subscribers would see would be the conviction and not the results. (Laughter.) The defendant had a spotless character, and he asked the bench not to record a conviction.

The Magistrates' Clerk (Mr. Tom Lambert): The trouble is, if he is convicted, it will probably be as a "rogue and vagabond."—Mr. Frank Lambert: Well, you can't say he is a rogue and vagabond.

Ald. Fallow, after a short consultation with his fellow magistrates, said they believed the defendant had acted in ignorance of the law, and he would be dealt with under the Probation of Offenders' Act, and bound over in his own recognisances in the sum of £5. Defendant would also have to put two guineas in the poor-box. The bench hoped the case would be a warning to similar societies in this and other parts of the country, and that these illegal lotteries would cease.

I am pleased to be able to state, writes Mr. Fred Moore, 49, Kehnscott Rd., Clapham Junction, S.W., that there is every prospect of the suggested Southern Border F.C. being brought to a successful issue. A meeting is being arranged to take place in about a fortnight; full particulars will be given in Cage Birds as soon as possible. I should like to thank all fanciers who have sent favourable replies to my postcards, and shall be pleased to receive any other names of fanciers wishing to support us in this movement.

Yorkshire Canary Club.

Societies desiring the patronage of the Y.C.C. at their forthcoming shows should apply as early as possible to the sec., Mr. John Greaves, 279, Hollings Rd., Bradford.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

Points about Norwich Plainhead Breeding.

A Lecture given by Mr. J. Weaver (Wolverhampton) before the Birmingham C.B.S,

IN breeding the Norwich Plainhead, as in every other variety, the greatest of care should be taken over building a good solid foundation. One of the most essential qualifications is good sound health (physical fitness); no apparent weakness, or even sluggish apearance, should be tolerated. Secondly, every bird should carry some of the most pronounced good qualities that characterise the breed, and as few of its failings as possible. Don't think that every bird we get must be perfect, as this would be too far beyond the pocket of most of us, but every bird we get should be such as it will at least be possible to improve upon by careful mating. Before even keeping the Norwich Plainhead, my experience with quite a mixture of varieties taught me the great advantage of the oft given advice anent procuring the bulk of the stock from one particular strain, and to be certain that it is one that has not only proved its high qualities on the show bench, but has bred its way there, and not bought its position.

The Kind that is Needed.

I have found by experience that it is not at all necessary to buy very expensive show birds, although one or two well-selected birds, if the pocket will allow, are a great help. Stock birds, as good as we can get and afford, must often suffice; birds that with care may be depended upon to produce the show birds we all find so difficult to get. Particular note should be taken of birds the first year. If two glaring faults have been the outcome of any one particular pair, cut out that line altogether. Make careful selection from those which have thrown a strong percentage of the good points, and with the least possible faults, especially such as pinched heads, long necks, flat backs, long sides, and dropped tails. A little slackness of feather, or a raky appearance in the big birds, or a "ducky" shape in the hens, are among those little failings that we can at least tolerate.

After two years of breeding, with mostly strange blood, we shall know all our stock well, with all its propensities. If it has proved thoroughly sound in stamina, we can embark in the third year on a little careful in-breeding. Blood relationship is one of the most useful methods by which to produce the ideal specimen, if done very carefully, but if abused it is one of the very worst methods we can employ. With birds that in face value fit in with each other, I have seen the best possible results coming from mating first cousins, or uncle to niece, or nephew to aunt, etc., but I have never gone so far as to try brother and sister, or even half-brother and sister, although I have heard many a successful fancier say that he would not hesitate to do so if the birds were suitable in every way.

The Production of Colour.

With respect to colour, and the use of Green blood, there are several ways of keeping up colour, but it is not always done by using marked birds, for some of these are just as lacking in solid colour as a bad-coloured clear. The best and most useful Greens I have seen were produced in rather a peculiar way, viz., a good shaped Yellow Cinnamon cock was mated to a Yellow Norwich hen, and produced a big typical Yellow Cinnamon marked hen. This was paired to a big broad-set Buff-marked Norwich, with a good round head. Among the young were three of the finest solid green stock cocks anyone need wish to have. These birds were such a deep bronze colour that one of them that did a good bit of winning was sometimes reported upon as being a Yellow, but he was really a Buff.

The lecturer here gave some notes on some well-balanced matings, and particularly advised the use of cock birds good in head and neck, and the hen birds with good full fronts. The faults that had proved most difficult to combat were weak necks, flat backs, and long sides. I must say something, he went on, on a matter that almost all keen fanciers of the Norwich have found to occasionally occur, viz., the big percentage of Buff birds that are bred. This troubled me so much some years ago that I determined to find a reason for it, and as I had not done much breeding with two Buffs, it certainly lay in some other direction. I soon convinced myself as to this, and I further proved by experience afterwards the cause to be no other than continually using Buff cocks that had been Buff cock bred for several generations. So I have found that to keep up a reasonable supply of Yellow birds in your progeny you must breed with a few pairs that come from a line of Yellow cocks. One Yellow marked cock that was three generations Yellow bred (Yellow cocks) in one season was mated to two hens. Result from one hen, six young, five of which were Yellows. Only one youngster was got from the other hen, and that was also a Yellow. The size has not been reduced either, as this one Yellow is in my room now, and is one of the largest I know. Another pair was a Buff cock, bred several generations from Yellow cocks, mated to Yellow hens bred similarly. Result, four young, all Yellows. I feel confident if this idea is worked out in our scheme of mating the percentage of yellows will be greater.

Sex and the Effect of Age.

Let us now inquire into another phase of breeding, which I have found has often escaped the notice of very keen fanciers, i.e., the effects of age in sex breeding. I have noted this for some years now, but it was very pronounced in my room last year in several pairs. One, an old Buff cock, paired to an over-year hen that was very strong and vigorous, produced five young, four of which were hens, and all have the characteristics of the mother. Another pair, mated just the same, a five-year-old cock, to a one-year-old hen, had six young, four of them hens. Another pair was a three-year-old cock, to a young hen; result three young, all hens. It certainly seems to me that the vitality and natural vigour of the young hen has a marked influence in matings of this kind, and it also applies vice versa.

The Influence of the Strongest Parent.

Then, again, the particular condition of the birds at the time of nesting also has some influence in this direction. I was breeding from a hen last year, which was apparently in the best of health, but always seemed sluggish when put into the breeding cage, and in consequence I never did much good with her, but last season was fortunate in rearing three fine young in one nest. The reason for this, I knew, was the wonderful breeding properties of the cock. So this seems to show that the sex of the progeny again followed the strongest parent, for all three youngsters were cocks. Another instance was a one-year-old cock, which I had some difficulty in getting fit to put up, and more difficulty in getting full eggs from when he was started—only three young from as many nests, all of which turned out hens.

A lot more might be said on these questions, but I must now conclude with a few remarks on another very important matter. When you feel that you must introduce a bird into your stock for some specific purpose, see to it that you get all you want on one bird, or go without; don't be persuaded into the idea that it can be done by introducing several birds, each carrying one of the particular qualities you require.

The lecturer closed with some appreciative remarks concerning our local shows, and hoped that we should have such displays of Norwich at our next open shows, as the result of our season's work, as would delight the hearts of us all.—J. H. Jones, Sec. (p.p. R. Tipper).

Some Problems of Mule and Hybrid Breeding Unravelled.

By J. STEEL (Dalkeith).

IF a hen Canary have copulation with both Finch and Canary, possibly in quick succession, is it not possible for the offspring to have a dual male parentage?

The highest authorities are agreed that it is impossible for an offspring to have a treble parentage, probably on the grounds that conception proper only occurs once, is practically instantaneous, and cannot be influenced by subsequent copulation. I have known breeders to try if this method would be effective in influencing the colour of Mules, and though the object may have been attained, I should not for one moment attribute the success to a treble parentage, i.e., that the Mule was two-thirds Canary. Of course, priority counts for nothing certain, as the male parentage entirely depends on which copulation has been effective.

Two Sorts in the Same Nest.

How, then, do you account for my getting both pure Canaries and Mules in the same brood?

I have had a similar occurrence cited as disproving a statement I had made, the correctness of which I have repeatedly proved, viz., that one copulation can fertilise an entire clutch of eggs. Now, though Mules and Canaries in one brood are proof positive of a treble parentage in that brood, such is entirely different from a mingled parentage in one offspring. Such a happening only admits of one solution, and, I think, proves that a double conception has taken place, each quite distinct, but so simultaneous as to form one brood. This does not disprove my statement as to one copulation fertilising an entire clutch. Every breeder is aware that intervals in the laying of a clutch may exceed the usual twenty-four hours, forty-eight hours being quite a common period. This is indicative of an irregularity in the reproductive organs which may have the effect of preventing the least developed eggs from being fertilised, and, failing a second impregnation, these, no doubt, would have been unfertile, but the irregularity being temporary and obviously of brief duration, permitted of the remainder of the clutch being impregnated by the second copulation by a different male. That such occurrence is rare is proved by the few instances of such treble parent broods recorded, notwithstanding the many breeders who have lost hopes of obtaining Mules, and have replaced the Finch by a Canary, or vice versa.

A Dark Mule that Moulted Almost Clear!

Have you known of any instances of a Mule changing colour in the manner you mentioned as common in partially albinistic Britishers?

Yes, the most extreme change being that of a Linnet Mule bred by a Midlothian fancier, which from being an ordinary dark, moulted almost clear, and won high honours. Another, though not so extreme, change led to a protest being lodged against a clear Mule, by a previous owner, who after selling it as a rather heavily variegated, was surprised to see it shown clear, that same season, and practically accused the new owner of trimming. An examination and time showed that no feathers had been cut, nor were any missing, and the owner admitted pulling the dark feathers, and these had been replaced by clears. I have known a light Mule to get much darker with years.

May such change not have its origin in a disorganisation of the pigment secretory process by a spontaneous action, and quite apart from any inherent trait, just as we know that in colour feeding that the colour secretory process varies greatly in different birds?

A Matter of Choice.

That such abnormality may have its origin in a disorganisation of the colour secretive process is quite feasible, but whether such were a new departure in that individual, or inherent, it would be impossible to say. We know that a feature, or trait, may skip many generations and reappear.

Given a choice between a male of its own species, and a Finch, will a hen Canary invariably prefer the former?

Generally, but I have known instances of a hen Canary preferring a Finch mate. An instance of this came under my notice while inspecting an aviary in which the male Canaries far outnumbered the hens, yet despite such choice and the forward condition of the males, quite a few Goldfinch-Canaries made their appearance. Although there was only the one Goldfinch in the aviary, he, like Father O'Flynn, "had a way with him," as was very obvious, and, by the way, he was an Irish one.

Do you think environment has any effect? If so, would the colour of the cages be likely to have any influence on the Hybrids bred therein?

Is Colour Influenced by the Surroundings?

I regret that the party who sent that query is not present, as it admits of two interpretations. If he means by "environment," the making of the cage or aviary as like to a state of nature as possible, with bushes, etc., with a view to inducing the hen Finch to start housekeeping, I certainly approve of such measures. But the latter part of the query very evidently applies to light Mule breeding, and inclines me to think he has been reading a yarn which has been going the rounds of the periodicals lately, viz., that the Japanese by a sight influence scheme have succeeded in producing albinos of various species of birds and mammals. This idea that the colour of the surroundings has a pre-natal effect on birds or other animals, is very old, and though the various writers simply dismiss the idea as absurd, I will endeavour to explain how the idea probably had its origin. We know that certain species which spend their lives amid certain surroundings have a colour which so blends with such surroundings as to form a protection from enemies, by rendering them inconspicuous. Imagine the ease with which a flock of normal Partridges would be discerned amid snow, and the difficulty of locating Ptarmigan or Snow Buntings in the same surroundings. Now these protective colours would have their origin in a departure, and those individuals conforming to such departure would survive, and the others would fall victims to enemies, and in time the departure would become so evident as to be regarded as a normal colour of that species. Needless to say, many generations would be necessary to produce this change, and this lets us see the folly of trying to produce a similar result in one generation, minus the all-important factor, elimination. That sight has a pre-natal effect I cannot find grounds to believe, despite many weird and unaccountable stories of changes attributed to the proximity of an opposite coloured stock, etc.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

WHAT HEN? (A. M., Waltham X.).—I take it you mean the Yorkshire-Border cock is bred from a Yorkshire and a Border Fancy, in which case it is simply a crossbred, and as you do not mention any object for mating it, I assume you have no further idea than breeding songsters. If this is so, the best mate to choose will be a clear or lightly ticked yellow Yorkshire hen, 1911 or 1912 bred. If you wish to run the bird with two hens, there is no valid reason for not doing so. In this event you will find the proper method of procedure given in this column on several occasions just lately. If you get two hens. have one clear yellow and one a lightly ticked yellow.

MATING YOUNG HEN (Doubtful, Buxton).—If the Yorkshire hen hatched last August is robust and healthy, and comes into good breeding condition, there will be no objection to mating her any time during April, but it is not advisable to attempt to force her into condition by a highly stimulating diet. If she is ready to mate the first week in April there will be plenty of time to get two broods from her, and this should be the limit allowed her this season. If she is not ready for mating before the end of April, or May, as may possibly be the case it would be advisable to take only one brood from her this year, and reserve her strength for the beginning of next season. Mate her with a vigorous 1911 or 1910 bred cock, in good song.

BUFFS AND YELLOWS (C. M.).—You will find just the same differences, after allowing for the fundamental colour, in Greens and Cinnamons as in the light plumaged varieties distinguishing yellows from buffs. In the former the primary colour remains solid from the body of the feather right to the tip of the web, whilst in the latter the solid colour stops a little short of the tip, leaving a narrow fringe of almost colourless and lustreless web. In the Green this gives a very similar distinction to the colours as will be found on the upper and surface of a given green leaf, the upper surface representing the yellow-green, wherein the colour is solid, rich and pure, polished, so to speak, and the under surface represents the buff-green, in which the pure green is overlaid, as it were, particularly upon the back, neck, and breast, with this greyish-green and comparatively dull bloom. In the Cinnamon, the rich brown or chestnut of the yellow type becomes a pale drab or dun colour by the same means. It is not uncommon for yellows to have a few stray buff feathers about the base of neck, and on the sides of breast, but these are not sufficiently conspicuous to form mealy areas as in a real buff. There are also very pale washed-out yellows, which it is easy for a novice to mistake for buffs; but even in these specimens, if the feathers are examined closely, the colour, however pale and indistinct, will be found to run right to the tip of the web, so no mistake need be made. No amount of colour-feeding will turn a buff into a yellow.

AN OBJECT OF PITY (Sympathetic).—If you are expert at hand-washing, wash this bird twice, with an interval of a week between, and add a teaspoonful of Creolin to each pint of the first two waters used. If you are not good at washing, and cannot get an expert friend to do it for you, well mix a teaspoonful of Creolin in a pint of warm water an' spray the bird with it three times in one week, being careful to protect the bird from chills until quite dry. Put the cage on the hearth in front of a moderate fire whilst bird is drying. Keep it in a comfortably warm place until feathers re-appear. Give a staple diet of plain canary only. Every second day for the next month give half a teaspoonful of crushed stale sponge cake slightly dusted with flowers of sulphur, and with about half the bulk of a mixture of equal parts maw and gold of pleasure added to it. On the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, millet, inga, teazle, and rape, and on these days give also a morsel of banana or a spray of green food. Allow it to bathe itself when it likes in mild weather. In the drinking water add six drops of dandelion juice, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece, every second day for a week; then omit it for a week and give it again in the same way in the next week. Keep cage floor strewn with clean gritty sand. The new quills, if it is a curable case, should be showing by the end of the month's treatment.

DIET FOR ROLLERS ("Lady Plumstead").—For high-class contest singers a staple of mild, nutty German rape is best, but for the ordinary class of Roller, I prefer a mixture of two parts canary, by measure, to one part rape. Extras, and titbits, the same as for other varieties, with a strict limitation of hemp, hot acrid rape, or millet. See full reply to "Constant Reader, H.R.," on March 15, or, better still, get the Nutshell Booklet on the Roller, No. 10, 2½d., post free, from our Manager, and keep it handy for reference.

PECULIAR HISSING (K. M. Knightsbridge).—The trouble is undoubtedly so-called asthma, which in reality is almost invariably bronchial trouble. The probability is that the birds are kept under adverse conditions, which must be altered before you can expect any improvement in the bird's condition. See reply to "G. B.," in this issue, and treat your bird the same, being careful to remove first of all any apparent or suspected causes of the trouble. Keep bird in a comfortable and fairly equable temperature, but not necessarily a very warm one.

SWELLINGS AND SORE FEET (M W P.).—It is only reasonable to suppose that conditions such as you describe are more or less painful. The swellings over eye and on beak are doubtless tumours, and if quiescent, having passed the stage of active growth and come to a standstill, so to speak, probably now give rise to more inconvenience than actual pain. A veterinary might be able to remove them. The feet will be the most painful, and these may be quickly relieved by bathing once a day in a warm solution of boracic acid, then drying carefully, and anointing with a little Lanocyllin. As the bird is aged, if of no particular value, intrinsic or sentimental, it would certainly be a mercy to get a chemist to chloroform it.

ARE THEY VISIBLE? (S. G. Cowles).—Yes, decidedly. If the bird is troubled with grey lice, which live upon the bird, there will be no difficulty whatever in seeing them with the naked eye. Catch the bird and look among its feathers under the wings, around base of tail and neck, and you will probably soon discover them scurrying about among the feathers. Indeed, if the bird is at all badly infested you may find them running about your hand before you have time to look well into its plumage. If any are found, the best and quickest means of eradicating them is to wash the bird as advised to "Sympathetic" in this issue. But in your case, if you cannot wash a bird, do not spray it, but use the alternative method advised to "Tom" on February 15th. Had you given me a reference to your last reply I should have been better able to advise further treatment. I have looked through replies for the last three months, but cannot decide which was given to you. If it was the one under heading "Plucks its Feathers" to "G. I. C.," on February 22nd, you may continue the same feeding a little longer, but instead of the medicines advised in that reply, give for a fortnight those advised to "Nimrod" in this issue.

SOFT EGG (H. W., Manchester).—You should have said what condition the hen was in when mated, and how old she is. There may be many causes for the trouble with laying, and the recent snap of severe weather, which must have coincided with the trouble, is one of them, and, in the circumstances, perhaps the most likely. For a fortnight treat the hen wholly as advised to "Nimrod" in this issue, but do not give dandelion as green food. You need not separate the birds for treatment; if the cock is not in very high condition a similar course will do him no harm. When the hen is going to nest next time get a little old mortar and smash it up into fine grains about like gritty sand, and strew a little regularly on top of the sand on cage floor. (2) You may also give the Yorkshire hen, which has laid so erratically, a similar course of treatment to above, but only give the rhubarb aperient for two successive days. It is most likely you mated the birds too soon; and the youth of this one is partly the cause of the trouble. She will probably succeed better next time.

STREET v. BIRD MUSIC (Constant Reader, N.R.).—A room in a busy street with an abundance of traffic is certainly not an ideal one for keeping Roller schoolmasters and training young Rollers; but such conditions do not by any means disqualify the room. The most likely effect of the noise of the traffic is to make the young cocks tend to let themselves go, and therefore become too loud and coarse in song. This effect, however, may be quite easily overcome by keeping a supply of song-boxes handy, and keeping a strict watch over the birds in order to place any loud or too excitable singers in closed boxes before any real mischief is done. It may also be advisable at times, especially during the next few weeks, to box the tutors for a short time to prevent them becoming too loud. Given these precautions, and good, pure singing tutors, there is no reason why you should not succeed in this room.

THE END OF ALL (Nimrod).—Surely, I need scarcely point out that there is but one inevitable end to all mortal life, and with birds, as with ourselves, no amount of care and consideration will ward off that end very long beyond its average span. Pardon this homily, but it seems to me your remarks about the Goldfinch leave this phase out of the question, and it may be that the Canaries are similarly making a natural return to the elements. You give no particulars that lead me to any conclusion of definite illness. Try the following treatment, and if bird is not considerably better in, say, a fortnight, write again and give full particulars of any symptoms shown, condition of breathing, bowels, etc., and age of bird. Keep cage in a comfortable and well-ventilated position, but free from cold draughts, or fumes of heated impure air, and keep floor strewn with clean, gritty sand. Give a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape as staple diet. Every second day give separately a morsel of bread size of a hazel nut, soaked in cold milk, drained, and sprinkled with soft sugar. On the alternate days give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, inga, millet and teazle, and a spray of green food. Stick a cube of hard common salt in the wires for it to peck at. In the water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb, and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece, every second day for a week, and in the next week give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day.

BALD HEAD (Advice).—The best advice you can have is to strictly avoid breeding with any bird from this stock that becomes bald. The recurrence of the trouble season after season, and in young birds, too, points rather ominously to the fact that you are probably fixing this disfiguring physical defect in your stock, and, for all practical purposes remedial treatment is utterly useless to combat hereditary defects. Treatment may appear useful for a time, whilst the birds are young, but no permanent cure can be expected in such cases. As the birds are now breeding, you cannot in any case give them proper treatment, and will have to wait for next moulting season. Between the end of the breeding season and the moulting season you may treat the birds on the lines advised to "Mrs. G.," and "H. Ardrossan," both in issue of March 8.

LOOSE FEATHERED (A. Hemmings).—The loose condition of plumage, notwithstanding the hen's sprightliness, is by no means a sign of wanting to nest. On the contrary, she should be close and trim in feather when wanting to nest. See reply to "C. J. B.," on March 22, for signs of readiness to breed. Give half-a-teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of Chemical Food and two of cod liver oil emulsion, well mixed in it, and sprinkled with a mixture of equal parts maw and gold of pleasure seed, every second day for a fortnight. On the alternate days give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle, with a sprinkling of mustard seed. In the drinking water give ten drops of syrup of buckthorn daily for three days, and afterwards six drops of tincture of gentian and three of tincture of steel every second day for a week. By that time she should be ready to mate. If you notice her begin to pull at her breast feathers before the treatment is completed, mate her at once if the cock is also ready.

PANTING AND CLICKING (G. B.).—Your remedies seem to have been singularly inappropriate so far. The bird's condition is probably due to undue exposure to cold draughts, or overheated impure air, such as hanging in or near a window, between doors, or door and window in a direct draught, or high up near the ceiling, or above a burning light in the evening. All these causes must be removed before any treatment will be of any avail. For one month give a staple diet of plain canary seed only, not a mixture of seeds called "canary seed." Every second day give half-a-teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed. On the alternating days give a pinch of summer rape. Give a spray of green food daily. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepennypiece daily for three days, and afterwards 20 drops of the following mixture, which any chemist will mix for you, every second day for a fortnight. Two drachms each of oxymel of squills and glycerine, one drachm each of chlorodyne, and ipecac. wine, and eight grains of iodide of potassium.

THE PIP (Novice, Border Fancy).—The "swollen bit" on back at root of tail is perfectly natural, and is no disease, or symptom of such, at all, and consequently needs no treatment. This, of course, is surmising you have left the place severely alone and not been pinching or pricking it, as is sometimes done, under the erroneous impression that this little protuberance is an unnatural swelling. If you have been doing anything of this sort so as to cause the organ to enlarge or become inflamed, slightly anoint it once or twice with a little cold cream, and leave the rest to nature. The organ is the oil-gland which secretes the fluid with which the bird "dresses" its plumage. If the birds are in good health, as you say they are, and active, I see no reason why they should not be fit for breeding this season. Certainly, the possession of this, so-called "pip," will not disqualify them, nor prevent them breeding successfully.

MOVING NEST (Constant Reader).—No, it is not right to move the nest to the cage floor when young are hatched to prevent them falling out. Such a course is wholly unnecessary and most inadvisable. There is absolutely no risk at all of the young falling out of the least tolerably shaped nest when newly hatched, and they are less likely to fall out when they get stronger, as they would then naturally exert themselves to stay in the nest until they were getting fledged and beginning to think of leaving it permanently. If young in the callow stage are found out of the nest, the eviction is practically certain to be due to the agency of one of the parents, most likely the hen, either by accident or design, and moving the nest is not the least likely to prevent this happening, but rather the reverse. If the perches are placed a little higher than the rim of the nest it often causes the hen to fly direct off the young on to a perch when she leaves the nest for food or exercise, instead of stepping carefully on to the edge of nest before flying to a perch, and then there is a great risk of young being accidentally snatched out of the nest. To prevent this the nest should be raised a little, or the perches lowered, so that rim of nest is a trifle above the perches. If young are found out of the nest, place them between palms of hands and hold before a fire, breathing occasionally between the thumbs on to them, until quite warm. A few minutes' perseverance will often resuscitate apparently lifeless chicks. Replace in nest as soon as they get quite warm and lively. Beyond this, interfere with nest and young as little as possible.

A PROLIFIC HEN (A. B.).—The laying of your hen is certainly rather abnormal and prolific, but nothing to be alarmed at, and not likely to prove really harmful to a healthy and well-fed hen, unless it should be continued at an excessive rate over a long period. The normal laying of a Canary hen is one egg each day until four or five have been laid; then incubation begins, and no more eggs are produced until the young are about a month old, when another clutch may be expected, produced in the same way as the first. There are many exceptions to this. The clutches, for instance, may vary from one to as many as seven or eight eggs, and the laying may be more or less interrupted; further, a hen may start nesting again at any time after the young are about a week old, or she may wait several weeks, or not go to nest again at all that season. The only method of dealing with your hen is to keep her on a strictly limited diet for a few weeks, and occasionally add a pinch of Epsom salts to the water; otherwise provide a mate for her and allow her to nest in a natural way. Either method may perhaps tend to check continuous egg laying, but is not certain to do so. If you do not wish to adopt the latter course, you need not hesitate to throw out the eggs as laid—the hen will not worry about them.

LOSING FEATHERS (H.R.).—Do not keep the bird too warm. Aim at a "comfy" temperature just away from the chilly cold side, and see that there is no very serious drop at night. If this is probable throw a light cover over the cage before retiring at night. Give a staple of three parts Canary to one part summer rape. Every second day give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw. On the alternate days give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle. Give two leaves of dandelion daily. In the drinking water give six drops of tincture of gentian and three of tincture of steel in the water every second day. Continue this treatment until the feathers cease dropping.

CEASED SINGING (A.G.C.).—(1) You omit to say whether you had put the birds together or not. It is not uncommon for some cocks to cease singing soon after being mated, but the stoppage should not occur prior to mating with birds in good condition, unless they are separated only by a wire slide, when it will occasionally occur, but not often. If the birds are together, keep them in a bright healthy place, continue your present system of feeding, and all will doubtless come right in the end. If they have not been put together treat the cock for a week or fortnight as advised to "A Hemmings" in this issue. (2) For breeding nice songsters of good size and appearance, you could not do better than mate the first-cross Roller-Yorks cock back to a Yorkshire hen, but if good song is of greater importance than good looks, a Roller hen would be best. In either case, get the young cocks tutored under a good singing Roller cock.

MITE INFESTED CAGE (F.W.B., Hastings).—Yes, you are correctly informed. The red mite is of nocturnal habits, and does not live upon the body of the bird. If you have a well cleaned and disinfected breeding cage, which has not been in contact with the infested cage, by all means transfer the birds to it before starting. No preparation is necessary prior to transference beyond giving the birds a bath in the morning, to which you have added a few drops of essence of quassia, or soaked a few quassia chips in it overnight. Then move the birds to the other cage early in the afternoon, and there will be practically no risk of transferring any of the mites. Do not put any of the appliances from the infested cage on to the clean one, or mites may be carried in this way. Also see that the wall or place where the cage is kept is thoroughly overhauled and cleared of all trace of mites before installing the clean cage in position. For clearing the cages of the pest proceed as advised in my article in last Birthday issue.

YORKSHIRE HEN DYING (Neophyte).—It is a pity you did not send the body to our Mr. Yates for a proper post-mortem, when you would have had a definite and reliable statement of the cause of death. The opinion that death might be due to some trouble connected with egg formation is too vague and indefinite for anyone to hazard a guess at the real cause of death. The twitching of body you refer to may have been simply a symptom of a much constipated condition. Sorry I cannot say anything more definite, as I have no data whatever on which to form an opinion. If the birds are not mostly enshrouded in a cloud of tobacco smoke, the constant smoking in the same room would have little, if any, effect upon the birds, and none whatever in such a case as this. At the same time, trying to look at the matter from the birds' point of view I consider excessive smoking in their vicinity is objectionable. By the way, if you get another hen you should not mate a cinnamon-marked bird with a green-marked, unless you know there is cinnamon blood in the cock. A clear buff, dark-eyed, hen would be the best mate, other typical points being suitable; or if the cock has cinnamon blood in him a clear buff, pink-eyed hen.

BARE ON BACK (B. H.).—You should first of all, thoroughly examine cage and bird to see if any insect pests are in evidence, and, if there are, take the necessary steps to exterminate them, as advised in detail in several replies just recently. Give a staple diet of plain canary only for a month, and give separately every third day a piece of bread the size of a hazel nut soaked in cold milk, drained, and slightly dusted with flowers of sulphur, and finally sprinkled with soft sugar. On the alternating days give a pinch of maw seed one day, and next day a pinch of a mixture of equal parts rape, millet, teazle and linseed. Give a spray of green food, chickweed preferably, daily. Keep cage floor strewn with clean gritty sand. In the drinking water add six drops of dandelion juice, as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece, and the same quantity of chlorate of potash every third day for a month. Allow bird to bathe freely in mild weather, and if there is a large area of bare skin lightly smear it twice a week, until quills show through, with Lanocyllin.

MOPY ROLLER (Mrs. Marr).—First catch the bird and examine its eyes to see if the sight is affected, as its manner points rather to trouble in this direction. Give a staple diet of plain canary only for one week, with a spray of watercress or two crisp young dandelion leaves daily, and half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts rape, millet, and teazle twice only during the week. In the water add six drops each of syrup of rhubarb, dandelion juice, and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece, every second day during the week. After this add a fourth part of summer rape to the staple diet, and give in addition half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion and four of sherry mixed in it, and sprinkled with a mixture of equal parts maw and gold of pleasure, every second day for a fortnight. On the alternate days give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts millet, inga and teazle. Continue the supply of green food daily, and stick a cube of hard common salt in the wires for bird to peck at. During this fortnight add to the water four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid, every second day.

SELF COLOURS OF ROLLERS (M. M. J.).—Besides the clear yellow there is clear buff, both of which may be termed selfs, and self greens. There are also all grades of broken greens, many of which are so slightly broken as to closely approach the true selfs. All these are quite common. Cinnamons may also be met with, but are not common. If you object to ticked birds, the self greens would suit you best, as in breeding clear yellows and buffs you cannot avoid a fair proportion of ticked or variegated birds turning up, and it is not advisable to try to eliminate ticked stock if you wish to keep a nice tone of colour in your clears.

SUBSTITUTE FOR GRIT. (Breeder).—I doubt whether your idea of getting a few bushels of builder's sand and mixing a proportion of broken oyster shell with it would be any economy at all, apart from the labour necessary for preparing such a substitute for ordinary gritty sand. As a substitute it would be just tolerable, but by no means ideal. Baking the oyster shells is useful to assist the work of pulverising, so you would easily discover how long to bake or burn them for this purpose. The proportion to mix with the sand might depend upon the quantity available, say, from a fourth part during the breeding season to a tenth part at other times. A far better plan would be to use the builder's sand alone on the cage floor, and keep a small shallow tin of the proper gritty sand in one corner of the cage. In this way the birds would have the full benefit of a proper grit supply, with considerable economy to yourself.

ERRATIC LAYING (A. Bridges).—It is not very uncommon for a hen to lay an abnormal clutch of only one or two eggs, and unfortunately it rarely, if ever, gives the owner the same amount of satisfaction as a clutch of seven or eight, which is equally abnormal. You do not say how old the hen is. If she is quite young she may yet do all right, but if she is getting old the chances are against her doing any more good. In addition to the staple seed diet, give half a teaspoonful of egg food, with about half the bulk of a mixture of equal parts maw, gold of pleasure, and sesame mixed in it every second day for two or three weeks, and on the alternate days give a half teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, inga, millet and teazle, with a sprinkling of mustard seed. Give two leaves of dandelion daily.

CREST HEN AND CREST-BREDS (U. A. C.).—You will get nothing but disappointment from the Crested hen as a breeder, so you need not be in a hurry to mate her in case you determine to go on and carry out this idea. Keep her in a comfortably warm place, not overheated, but still quite away from the chilly side, and do not expose her to cold draughts nor heated fumes from burning lights in the evenings. Feed her for a month as advised to "Mrs. Marr," omitting the first week's dietary in your case. Also give the rhubarb mixture named in that reply for three consecutive days, and for a fortnight afterwards give the gentian mixture every second day. (2) It is difficult to advise you about the mating of two Crest-breds without knowing something of the failings or merits of your stock, and of these two birds in particular. It is an unusual mating, as there is little to be gained by it, and even that little can be gained better in other directions. If the head feather is thin or scanty at the back, such a mating would prove useful providing you had two suitable birds, and could not introduce a little Lancashire blood, which would be the best course. The Crest-breds should be well furnished with long, dense, and broad head-feathers, free from "horns" behind, and with no suspicion of bareness at the back of skull, the crown and base of skull being thickly clothed with feathers lying smoothly and evenly from skull to nape. Of course, other Crest-bred qualities must not be lost sight of, but head-feather is of first importance. To get a grip of all the ins and outs of this question you should get Part XIII. of "Our Canaries."

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

A BULLFINCH (E. Jones).—The Bullfinch has a "Nutshell" Booklet devoted to it, and in this (post free 2½d.), you will find full details as to food, cage, and general management. You should obtain this from our publisher. A chapter, too, is devoted to the bird in Mr. Norman's "British Bird Manual" (Hardbill section).

A PROPLEM FOR THE HEN CANARY (J. R. C.).—I do not remember to have read of anyone succeeding in getting Skylark's eggs incubated by a hen Canary and the young reared. I remember, however, someone writing that they had young Larks hatched under a Canary, and that the hen was feeding them. But after this silence, I think, reigned supreme—a "speaking silence" which, I suspect, told of disaster. The methods of the real parents and those of the foster-parent (I mean in the manner of the feeding of the young) differ widely. If you choose to try the experiment, don't leave any Canary eggs in the nest to hatch out, and remember that young Skylarks are apt to run out of the nest at quite an early age.

STARLINGS (S.L.).—Your place would have been much better had it been 6ft. long and 4ft. high, instead of vice versa. I should say that your two birds are a true pair. In the breeding season the cock has a yellow beak and carries a very brilliant metallic sheen on his plumage. The hen is duller (more brownish) in colour, and her spangling is much larger (heavier)—in the adult male it is more like fine ticking. There is some chance of them breeding if you provide a suitable nesting side—a "hole" of some kind preferred, such as a hollowed out log, or an empty box with a hole cut out for an entrance. Supply bits of hay and straw, dried grass, dried leaves, and some feathers or wool. You will have to provide a higher grade food than the one you mention (this is good at the price), and should the birds have young, then gentles, blackbeetles, small garden worms, mealworms, and practically any suitable living things you can find in your garden, would be welcomed.

SEXING AND FEEDING THE STONECHAT (Softbill).—You should experience no difficulty in sexing adult Stonechats, for they differ in colouration as markedly as do cock and hen Chaffinches. The cock, for instance, has the head and throat black, and the breast bright chestnut-red. The female has the head and upper parts dusky brown, and the breast also brown, but of a paler, more yellowish tint; she is also much less conspicuously marked with white on the sides of the neck, in the tertial wing coverts, and on the rump. The proper management is too lengthy a matter to go into properly in this column. You should consult "Nutshell" Booklet No. 25, which deals fully with the more delicate Softbills (post free 2½d.), or the part of Mr. Norman's "British Bird Manual" that deals with the insectivorous species. Note also Mr. O. Puck's advice given in this issue. This bird, I may say, is far from easy to keep, and, if you are a beginner with small Softbills, I strongly advise you to start with some other kind. Further, it is hard to put upon the show bench in perfect condition (even by those expert in such matters), and will not stand any "knocking about" on railway journeys and the like.

SUITABLE MATES (A. J. Rees).—Any kind of hen Canary can be mated with either Linnet or Goldfinch, but, of course, such varieties as the Belgian and Scotch Fancy are not really suitable, owing to their peculiarity of shape, while the Dutch Frill and Crest are equally undesirable, owing to their feather peculiarities. All things considered, the best all-round hen for Mule breeding is one of stout build (i.e., Norwich type), and good colour (a yellow for preference), not too small, and with a nice broad head. However, a hen of Yorkshire or Lancashire type is almost equally good, providing she is built on heavy lines (i.e., not finely drawn).

MALE OR FEMALE (G.N.).—Your bird is unquestionably a male Reed Bunting, as the hen never possesses either the black head or black gorget. I need hardly say, of course, that to keep the cock Canary with it longer will be only a waste of time. You might certainly try it with a hen Canary, if you feel in the mood to experiment. On the other hand, you could mate him with a hen Yellowhammer in an attempt to add to our list of known Hybrids; the likelihood of success in a cage, however, would be smaller than in an aviary, I should fancy.

IDENTITY OF BIRD (Wilberforce).—I really cannot call to mind any small seed-eating British bird that answers to the description you give. The black throat patch suggests the Reed Bunting, but this bird has a black head as well, not brown. I presume, of course, that it really is a seed-eater, for your letter does not definitely say so. I think it likely to be an escaped small foreign bird. Is there no museum in Bristol at which you could identify it? If you can send me fuller details, and mention its food and song (or call-note), I will endeavour to name it, particularly if you could send a rough sketch with the colouring of the various parts of the plumage marked on it.

BRITISH BIRD & HYBRID QUERISTS should consult Houlton's great work, "Cage-Bird Hybrids" (7/6); Norman's "British Bird Manual" (2/3); or Part 1 "Hardbills" (1/1), Part 2 "Softbills" (1/1); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); "Secrets of Hybrid Breeding" (1/2); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); Dr Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 1 "Goldfinch," No. 2 "Linnet," No. 3 "Skylark," No. 4 "Song Thrush and Blackbird," No. 11 "Bullfinch," No. 13 "Chaffinch," No. 15 "Greenfinch," No. 22 "Siskin, Redpoll, and Twite," No. 25 "Small Insectivorous Birds," No. 26 "Large Insectivorous Birds," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "Disinfection of Cages, Birdrooms, etc.," No. 12 "How to Moult British Birds." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

AGE OF HOUSE SPARROW (J.P.).—It seems to me that six years is a good span for a captive House Sparrow, though I have no doubt that they have attained a much greater age in captivity—probably into the teens. Still, you have no need to grieve about an "early demise," for I very much doubt whether it would have seen its sixth birthday had it been left to the tender (more or less) mercies of Dame Nature. I have no record of the age attained by captive House Sparrows—they are not commonly kept as pets—but no doubt some of the readers of these lines will be able to supply you with information on the point. Look in the correspondence columns next week, in case anyone writes.

AN AILING GOLDFINCH (S. Clifford).—I think your chance of saving the bird now is a very small one; if, as you say, he has been queer for two months, and is now much worse, his constitution must be pretty well used up. You should have commenced to treat him two months ago; it is quite useless to wait until a bird is on its "last legs"—they are but frail creatures at the best of times. Try and tempt him to eat by offering a complete change of diet, say a mixture of thistle, sesame, niger, maw, teazle, and cracked hemp—never mind any other kinds for the time being. Also try him with soaked teazle seed, prepared fresh every day. Put a little in a cup, pour on very hot water, cover up, and let stand all night. In the morning, drain away the water, shake up the seed in a dry cloth, then offer it to the bird. For medicine, get one ounce each of tincture of rhubarb and tincture of gentian (mixed), and stir half-a-teaspoonful into the drinking water (two tablespoonfuls), fresh daily, for four days. Then give on alternate days only, and in between let the bird have to drink the water in which the teazle seed has stood in soak ("teazle tea"). Should the bird begin to pull round, he would probably relish a few cracked sunflower seeds daily.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

WHAT BIRDS?—F. D. S. and P. Pearce will find answers to their queries in our next issue.

BREEDING JAVA SPARROWS (Novice).—Any small box, Hartz travelling cage, or a husk, will answer well for a nest box. These birds like a squarish box, enclosed all round, with an elliptical hole, say 1 x 1½in., near the top of one side. Hay, grass, and a little moss, will suffice for nesting material. These birds should have canary and white millet seed, also crushed oats and paddy rice if they care for them. Greenfood and grit must also be regularly supplied. When they have young you should supply a little of some good insectile mixture (soft food) daily—several good ones are advertised in our pages, or you could compound your own with ants' eggs, dried flies, crushed biscuit and sponge cake.

SEXING PEKIN ROBINS (H. W. A.).—I must preface my remarks first by stating that plumatic distinctions of the sexes of any species are greatly modified, first by the question of age, and secondly by the variableness common to the species and the extent and character of its range. The plumage of the adult hen (comparisons only hold good as to adult birds) is altogether a little greyer than that of the male; the rich olive-green washings of the upper parts of the male are but faintly indicated in the female; her beak is paler and the intensity of the yellows of the throat and breast more subdued, as also are the yellow and ruddy-orange markings of the wings; she is also a little smaller than the male, and has a narrower skull. The olive-green of the crown of the male is more or less suffused with golden-yellow. When choosing birds from a crowd I have found that if two birds are picked out—one having a narrow and the other a broad skull (comparatively), they invariably prove to be a pair, but the species has a wide range, and the depth of the hues varies considerably. I have only one sexed female among my skins, but the white bar across tips of upper-tail coverts is a little narrower than that of several male skins I have compared it with. There is no reason at all why it should not breed with you in such an aviary. At the same time, I must inform you that the Pekin Robin has a strong proclivity to eggs for breakfast, and, to gratify this lust, will rob any nests it can get access to. Box, barrel, log, and living and dead bushes have been used as nest sites by this species.

WHAT BIRD? (H. Saxton).—I am sorry that with the information at my disposal I cannot give you a definite reply. Your description comes very near the Ortolan Bunting, and the song of this bird is about as you describe. I am also told that this bird is frequently offered as a "Nightingale" of some kind. If you have in your locality some fancier in the habit of exhibiting British and Continental species, he would be able to tell you whether it is an Ortolan or not. Regret I cannot be more definite.

PIGEONS AND PARRAKEETS (G. Heath).—The Owl, Pigeons, Budgerigars, and Cockatiels will agree fairly well together; if any damage should be done, it will be the pigeons that will come to grief. I have found Budgerigars very apt to get on the backs of young foreign doves and pigeons the day they leave the nest and mutilate their heads, but if you are only on the look out, not much mischief should result; as soon as the young get fairly on the wing they are pretty safe. The Cockatiels will not give any trouble at all, at least that has been my experience with many pairs.

BURGERIGARS NOT BREEDING (J. Knight).—I presume you know you have a true pair; the cere (round the nostrils) is blue in the male, and ruddy brown in the female, when the birds are in breeding condition. It is very strange they have made no attempt to breed over such a period, and I should certainly say one or other of the birds, most probably the hen, from your remarks, is quite lacking the necessary vigour. I really advise your getting another pair (do not buy the cheapest offered), and keep your present birds merely as cage pets. I should catch each bird and give them one drop each of tasteless castor oil direct to the beak (that is, between the edges of the mandibles), and repeat the dose in a week's time, also put ten drops daily of Byno-phosphates in the drinking water for a month at least. You will soon be able to get flowering (seeding) grass; supply this ad lib. Get our Nutshell No. 18; it will tell you all about Budgerigars, 2½d. post free, from our Manager. Canary and white millet seed, spray millet, few crushed oats, green food, grit, and cuttlebone, should be all supplied. You did not send address (note rules), and were consequently not entitled to a reply.

IN POOR PLUMAGE (C. C.).—It is a cock Ring-necked Parrakeet. Spray or bathe the bird in a weak solution of fir-tree oil (Horticultural preparation), using about half-a-teaspoonful to a pint of water; avoid the bird's eyes as much as possible. Every fourth day so long as the voiding are not watery loose put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water, and on the intervening days half-a-teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates. Seed mixture: One quart each canary and white millet; one pint each hemp, oats, and paddy rice; half pint each wheat, dari, small maize, and shelled nuts—well mix, and keep supply in the cage. Also supply ripe fruit daily, plain biscuit, stale crust, greenfood; grit and cuttlebone must also be continually in the cage. It will be a help if you can get it to take a piece of plain biscuit, or sponge cake, slightly damped and then dusted with flowers of sulphur, daily. You will have to persevere, it will be some time before plumage is properly renewed. Report progress a month hence.

AILING GREY PARROT (Mrs. Humphrey).—Diet this bird on seed mixture (one quart each canary and white millet, one pint each hemp, oats, and paddy rice, ½ pint each dari, wheat, small maize, and sunflower seed—well mix the whole), ripe fruit, plain biscuit, green food, and a few nuts. Grit, cuttlebone, and water must also be regularly supplied. Keep the bird strictly out of all draught, bathe the skin daily with tepid water, dry with a soft cloth, and lightly anoint any sores with a little healing ointment. Give the bird every fourth day one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in its drinking-water, and on other days, that is when not giving the magnesia, put half-a-teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates in the drinking water. Moisten a piece of plain biscuit or stale crust of bread in a little tepid water, then lightly dust with flowers of sulphur—it will greatly help if the bird will take such daily; it will do no harm to dust a little of the sulphur over its seed mixture when refilling its food hopper. There can be no sudden improvement; in such cases this can only be gradual. Persevere with the above treatment, and report progress a month hence.

IN POOR PLUMAGE (E. F. Fuller).—I do not think there is anything seriously wrong, though the trouble may take some time to disappear. Every fourth day put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water, but if the voidings become too watery then you must only give the magnesia once a week. At the same time, the voidings must be kept moving quite freely. On the days you are not giving the magnesia, put half-a-teaspoonful of Chemical Food in the water, but when you have used up your present supply of Chemical Food, get A. and H., Byno-phosphates instead. Spray the bird twice a week with quassia solution (you can procure the solution ready made), and dilute according to maker's directions. Persevere with the above treatment, and the irritation should be gradually allayed. The seed diet will more than suffice to well nourish the bird, but keep a separate tin of crushed oats, dari, wheat, and small maize, from which it can help itself at will—this will prevent waste. Vary the diet with ripe fruit, plain biscuits, and nuts (shelled walnuts for preference), also grit and cuttlebone should be continually in the cage. As soon as the weather gets a little more settled, an hour or two in the open air in some unexposed position will be beneficial, choosing such days which are genial and the wind not high. Please report progress about two or three weeks hence.

AVIARY QUERIES (A.B.D.).—(1) I should cover in four feet of the roof of that nearest the glass-fronted shelter, and the remainder with wire-netting, boarding up two feet of the front and end of flight, which will protect the birds much from driving wind and rain. (2) Such groups are kept together, but occasionally, sometimes frequently, one or other of the Finch-tribe will get killed by the mischievous playfulness of the Budgerigars. I certainly advise the netting partition (double for preference, with about one inch space between), dividing the aviary into two enclosures as the most satisfactory. The shelter must also be similarly divided. (3) No use putting bushes in with Budgerigars; you must be content with grass and cereals there. In the Finch aviary it is of no use planting deciduous bushes, but such evergreens as box, common broad-leaved laurel, aucuba, and pines of sorts would have a fairly long life, though all the birds you name are very fond of disbudding. (4) In the shelter and under covered roof of flight put up boxes, [illegible], etc., for the Canaries and Finches, and coconut husks and small barrels for the Budgerigars. Do not use any straight perches, use only natural twiggy branches.

Club Notices will be found on page 294 this week.

BUDGERIGAR UNFIT (Foreign Bird).—Later on this bird should do well, if it survives the present trouble, but with the delay of the Easter holidays it may have succumbed before my reply reached you. Treat all such cases by giving one drop of tasteless castor oil direct to the beak, and also anoint the vent with same, but do not use sufficient to materially grease the surrounding plumage, putting the bird in a small cage in some warm place. If the bird does not get rid of the egg in a reasonable time, then steam the vent over a jug of hot-water for some ten minutes, return it to the cage and again place in a warm place. Repeat the operation in three hours if relief is not given. The acute and varied changes of our spring weather are mostly responsible for the trouble. Follow the above by a course of byno phosphates as advised in my letter. As soon as you can get it free from frost, supply flowering (seeding) grass ad lib.

WHAT TO KEEP? (P. Carmichael).—(1) I advise Budgerigars, Cockatiels aand the hardier Parrakeets. (2) An outdoor aviary would be the best, but, of course, in your northern locality it should consist of a roomy flight and a well-lighted roomy shelter shed. If you will send me a rough plan of any available ground (show its aspect) and the largest size you care to go to, or the most you care to spend on it, I will further advise. As regards books—if you refer to our list of books in various issues of this paper you will find several which will help you—for instance, Nutshell No. 18, 2½d. post free; "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1d. post free; Parrots for Pleasure and Profit, 7d.; and Aviaries, Birdrooms and Cages, 1s. 8d. (2s. 3d. cloth gilt), all obtainable from our Manager.

GREEN PARROT (N. Feirtong).—You give me really no data from which to answer your query—how long have you had it? Is it an old or young bird? I presume it is an Amazon, and that the noise you complain of is evidently an imitation of something which it has heard; if you have poultry in your vicinity, the birds is imitating their calls, and I do not see how you can prevent it. The bird should pick up sounds it hears in the room, also words and sentences, make a practice of talking to it whenever you are attending to it, and also while offering it some tit-bit, and the bird should ultimately prove responsive. Also, when it is quiet and restful try the constant repetition of two or three words, or any short sentence you would like it to repeat; it is best to keep at one sentence till it is learned, and then take another, and so on.

YOUNG BLUE-FRONTED AMAZON (J. Reid).—You cannot do better than continue the present treatment for a time. With the advent of better and more settled weather the bird will improve wonderfully. Do not stint the canary seed, it is quite wholesome. Keep a piece of cuttlebone hanging in the cage. It may decline the bath at first; in such case you must spray it with tepid water, choosing a genial day for the purpose. The bird really needs a spraying to help it cleanse its plumage, but do not make it really wet, and use the first warm sunny day for this purpose. You must take precautions that it does not get another chill before we get settled weather or the consequences might be fatal. Report progress in a fortnight. It may have a few nuts, plain sweet biscuit, or a stale crust of household bread—a little ripe fruit is beneficial; try it with sweet apple.

GREY PARROT WITH SWELLING (A.L.R.).—I do not know your district, and it is impossible to prescribe for such a case by post. The probability is that one of your local vets. could give the bird relief at once. Putting a little honey and borax in its mouth twice a day will help to keep the throat clear of slime. It will be necessary also to keep the bowels moving quite freely, at the same time the voidings should not be watery-loose; one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water will keep them regulated—the state of the bowels must regulate the frequency of the doses. On the days you are not giving the magnesia put half a teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates in the drinking water. If the swelling protrudes externally and is hard, painting daily with tincture of iodine, so long as the skin is broken, should ultimately give relief. At the same time I certainly advise taking it to your local vet. so that the exact nature of the swelling may be ascertained, then definite steps can be taken to give permanent relief.

BEGINNER'S AVIARY (Novice, Wealdstone).—The best way is to build it against a wall, if possible one with a south aspect. Under the circumstances the floor should be of concrete, with a small very fine grating at one end to drain away any wet from bath or driving rain. It should be raised 6 inches above ground level. One end of the aviary should be all wood, and also two feet of the front adjoining the blocked end; the remainder of the front and other end to be covered with half-inch mesh wire netting. In so small an aviary the whole of the top should be board and felt. The floor should be covered at least one inch deep with gritty sand, and the back and solid end be covered with twiggy branches; nest receptacles can also be hung on the walls at back of the branches and others suspended from the roof. The twiggy branches should extend right up against the top of aviary, but should be 12 inches at least above floor level. A wood and glass shutter to cover the front of the aviary for winter use, is a useful adjunct of small aviaries.

In nailing the boards on the roof of a house they should be placed to run from back to front, not from side to side. Then, if the roof leaks a bit, the water will most likely get away, but if the boards are nailed on from side to side, the water will drip in through the joints.

Writing of tarred felt reminds me that this makes a capital flooring for an outside house. No matter how carefully we board the floor, there are sure to be cracks between the boards which contract and expand with the atmospheric changes, and during the spring months, when the dry east winds prevail, these will admit much more fresh air in the bird house than we care for. A layer of cheap felt will remedy this evil, but, as this will stand very little treading upon, strips of tile batten should be nailed over it. These should be laid about 2½ inches apart, and should run towards the door, as in Fig. 6, so that the place may be easily swept out. If properly laid, these battens are not uncomfortable to walk upon.

An Important Point About the Floor.

When building a bird house one should be careful about the height of the floor. If this is on the ground level it should be cemented, or, if cement is not used, the flooring should be placed sufficiently high to allow a small dog or a cat to get underneath, for there is otherwise always the danger of rats and mice taking up their quarters underneath, and sooner or later finding their way inside.

Of late years I have quite discarded paint for use both outside and inside bird houses. I have found a much cheaper material that can be easily applied, and with far less labour. This is a mixture of common creosote and Stockholm tar, three parts of the former to one of the latter. It should be made hot over a small gas burner, and applied with an ordinary painter's brush. It dries in a day or two, according to the weather, but if applied cold the tar prevents it drying. This is an excellent preservative, and I am inclined to think assists in keeping the red mite under. All my cages are painted with it; it dries a rich brown colour, and looks well. A fancier wishing to have his house look as smart as possible, could paint the sash bars of the window another colour with ordinary paint.

Just one hint regarding the size of an outside bird house. Of whatever dimensions we make it we should allow at least four feet between the cages and the wall they are facing; if we have less than that our nearness to the birds makes them nervous and watchful, particularly in the breeding season.

I saw a door to a building quite recently that struck me as somewhat novel and useful. It was made about an inch and a half too large all round, so that it covered up the door opening, instead of going into it in the usual way, and a little fillet of wood nailed all round the door space made it almost air-tight. If doors do not fit well they are the cause of much draught, and if they fit well in summer they are generally too tight in winter, but with the arrangement mentioned there is no danger of this nuisance.

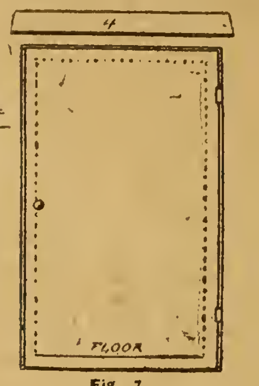

Fig. 7.

In Fig. 7 I give a sketch of this door, so that any fancier who is re-building, or who may be troubled by a badly-fitting or draughty door could enlarge it, and re-hang it in this way. Over the top was fixed a six-inch board to prevent the rain from beating in. The hinges were not screwed on to the door post, but to the fillet nailed on to it. This allowed the door to open as wide as usual.

WAYSIDE SEEDS AND BERRIES FOR BRITISH BIRDS.

By that well-known authority, JAS. B. CLARKE, (Rothesay).

A continuation from No. 573 of a remarkable article on wild-foods, the result of a lifetime's experience of Birds in field and aviary.

Common Fleabane (Pulicaria dysenterica).—Grows one to two feet high, with woolly stems, oblong leaves, and golden-yellow heads. A Linnet, Twite, and Goldfinch favourite, and a most useful seed for them in cages. I have used it for many years with grand results. Flowers July-August; seeds in September.

Sweet Rocket.—A well-known plant with purple and white flowers, and seed heads similar to charlock; it is what is called a garden escape. I find this seed greatly relished by Linnets, Twites, Chaffinches, Greenfinches, and Bullfinches.

Chickweed (Stellaria media).—A well-known weed, with small, creeping shoots and small white flowers; it is a general favourite. I have used this weed for many years with good results. It flowers all the year round.

Quaking Grass or Totter Grass (Briza media).—A pretty grass; grows about 12 inches high, with slender stems, carrying six to nine flowers. A favourite of the Siskin, Linnet, Twite, and Redpoll. I have found it a grand seed for these birds when fresh-caught, also during the winter. The flowering heads should be cut in large bunches and stored in a dry place for winter use.

Black Bindweed (Calystegia sepium).—A climbing weed, something like the field convolvulus; has greenish-white flowers and large black seed. I have seen Chaffinches, Greenfinches, Linnets, and Bullfinches feed on this, and I find it one of our best seeds for moulting and winter use. Hawfinches will also eat it in confinement.

A Speciality of the Hawfinch.

Common Broom (Cytisus scoparius).—A well-known plant, with bright yellow flowers and black seed pods. I have never seen any birds eat this seed when at liberty, but Hawfinches will eat it readily in confinement. The seeds should be taken from the seed pods in the same way as garden peas.

Crested Dog Tail.—A small, tufted grass, abundant in marshy places; grows about a foot high, and has short, narrow leaves. A Siskin, Linnet, Twite, and Redpoll favourite, and a good seed for fresh-caught birds, also for winter use. Flowers in July, seeds in August. Cut the seed in bunches, and store in dry place for future use.

Wood Germander or Wood Sage (Teucrium scorodonia).—A common woodland plant with yellowish white flowers and small black seeds. I have seen the Linnets, Twites, and Redpolls feed on this for weeks. It has great tonic properties, and I have found it most useful for these birds when in confinement.

Common Daisy (Bellis perennis). The only British species and a favourite flower of everyone. I have seen Linnets, Redpolls, and Twites feed for months on this seed during the winter, and have used it with good results in confinement.

Speedwell (Veronica officinalis).—A common plant in pastures and woods with small, wiry, trailing stems and small blue flowers. A favourite of the Chaffinch, Greenfinch, Linnet, Twite, and Redpoll, and a grand seed for them when caged.

False Oat Grass (Arrhenatherum avenacsum).—A common grass in hedges and pastures. Grows from two to three feet high. A favourite seed of the Greenfinch and Yellowhammer, and I find it useful for these birds when caged. Cut the seed heads and put up in bunches for winter use.

Sow Thistle or Milk Thistle (Sonchus Oleraceus).—Common in waste places and in some gardens; grows from two to three feet high; has hollow stems, small yellow flower heads, and dark brown seeds. I have seen practically all Finches feed on this plant; Goldfinches are also exceedingly fond of the leaves in the early spring. I have used this seed with birds in confinement with the best of results; for moulting Linnets, Twites, Goldfinches, and Redpolls fanciers can get nothing better. Used with linseed and German rape, I find it one of the best colouring seeds we have.

A Useful Grass Seed.

Marsh Bent.—A pretty grass; grows from six to 24 inches high with rough leaves, and small, cream-coloured seeds. I have seen the Siskin, Linnet, Twite, and Redpoll feed on this, and find it excellent for them when fresh-caught, and also during the winter. Cut flowering heads and store in bunches.

Germander Speedwell (Veronica chamædrys).—A very pretty plant with bright blue flowers; common on banks and in waste places. It is sometimes called forget-me-not. A favourite seed of the Chaffinch, Greenfinch, and Linnet, and excellent for winter use. Flowers in April; seeds in July.

Marsh Ragwort (Senecio aquaticus).—Common in marshy places, grows two feet high, with large bright yellow flowers and small, cream-coloured seeds. The flowers are much larger than those of the common Ragwort. It is a favourite seed of all Finches, especially Goldfinches and Bullfinches, and I find it most useful for these birds, both when fresh-caught and also during the winter.

Mouse-Ear Chickweed (Cerastium vulgatum).—A common weed with downy, straggling stems, small white flowers, and pale-brown seeds, the latter eaten by all Finches, and very useful indeed, especially for fresh caught birds. This plant is so common that fanciers will have no difficulty in laying in a large quantity of the seed.

Common Groundsel (Senecio vulgaris).—Common on cultivated ground; has small yellow flowers, and white, downy seed heads. A general favourite, and a most useful seed for moulting Goldfinches and Bullfinches. It greatly improves the blaze of the Goldfinch and the breast of the Bullfinch. When the white seed heads are about to open, clip the down from same, then rub in the hands, when the seed will separate from the heads.

Orange Hawkweed (Hieracium aurantiacum).—A garden escape, but very plentiful in some parts of Bute. A pretty plant, seen in most herbaceous borders. Has orange flowers and dark brown seeds. I have seen Greenfinches, Twites, Linnets, and Redpolls feeding on this plant, and find it a grand food for Goldfinches in captivity—it helps to bring out the nut-brown colour in these birds.

The Great Value of Teazle.

Wild Teazle (Dipsacus sylvestris).—A large, handsome plant, resembling the Scotch thistle, common in some places, but uncommon in Bute—I have only come across two plants here. A general favourite, and one of the most useful seeds we have for getting newly-caught birds on to hard seed. I have time and again saved birds with this seed when given in a soft state. I put the seed in a small pan with a little water and boil for a few minutes, then put it in a sieve to dry. Fanciers who have some difficulty in keeping Twites should try this. Flowers in July; seeds in September.

Wild Thyme (Thymus serpyllum).—A well-known plant, and common along the Bute shores; has wiry stems and rose-coloured flowers. I have seen Linnets, Greenfinches, Redpolls, and Twites feed on this, and have used it with the best of results with these birds in cages

Purple Loosestripe (Lythrum salicaria).—A handsome plant, common in Bute; grows two to four feet high, with purple flowers, in tall, tapering spikes, and small brown seeds. Eaten by Redpolls, Linnets, Twites, and Greenfinches, and most useful for them in confinement. Cut the flowering stalks and tie in bunches for future use.

Wall Barley (Hordeum murinum).—A coarse-growing grass from 18 inches to two feet high. Seed heads similar to field barley. One of the favourite seeds of the Greenfinch and Yellowhammer, and most useful for these species in confinement. Flowers in June; seed in August. Cut the ripe heads in bunches and store for future use.

Our Summer Migrants.

Some excellent advice by a skilled Fancier on getting them accustomed to captive life.

By OTTO PUCK (Chingford).

Excellent articles on Softbills have from time to time appeared in your columns, and I have nothing fresh to impart, or any wrinkles to give to the "old hand"—he can take care of himself. I want to address myself particularly to the new comer, or novice, and tender him or her a little advice which I am sure will be appreciated at this time of year. By the end of the present month most of our insectivorous songsters will have returned to our shores, and as every year there must be scores of bird-lovers who will acquire a Softbill for the first time, but who have no, or at best, very little, knowledge as to how to feed such birds properly, I wish to advise them briefly how to proceed.

The Food that Helps.

Softbills, as the name implies, are insectivorous birds, and embrace Thrushes, Blackbirds, Blackcaps, Redstarts, all kinds of Warblers, Nightingales, etc. When at large they feed entirely on live insects, caterpillars, worms, small beetles, etc. (in the autumn many eat berries also). It, therefore, follows that when caged freshly-caught they must be put on the same diet—not easily obtainable in quantities in early spring—and you should lay in a stock of such as gentles (these keep best in damp silver sand), mealworms, small earth-worms, live ant's-eggs, and, later on, wasp-grub, before you obtain your birds.

When you have got the latter (say a Nightingale) do not put him into an open cage, but choose a box-pattern type of cage, and cover the entire front with calico, to keep the bird quiet. Put one glass vessel with water, and another one containing live gentles, small mealworms, and earthworms (or live ant's-eggs) on the cage bottom; also sprinkle some dried ant's-eggs on the water, as on the bird jumping about these will move on the water and he may eat them. Finally, throw a few mealworms, which have had their heads bruised, into the bottom of the cage. Then put in your bird.

Tiding Over the Critical Time.

Stand the cage in a light and quiet place, and leave well alone for an hour. Then examine, and if you find the bird has partaken of some food, the battle is won; but if, on the other hand he has not done so and will not eat any after another hour, then you must cram some live-food gently down his throat and make sure he swallows it, else you will possess only a corpse in the morning. Should the bird still refuse to feed himself, hand-feeding must be resorted to until he helps himself. Once a bird has taken to the food, you will have no further trouble, and within a few days he will delight you with his song, and keep on for a month or two.

On no account must you remove the calico from the front of the cage—lift this only when putting in food, and as soon as you know the bird is all right and feeds, leave well alone. Do not even take cursory glances at him, it only frightens him, and if you do there will be no song for you this year.

When the bird has stopped singing on his own accord, then gradually uncover the cage-front a little day by day, to get him used to his surroundings, and make him tame by offering him mealworms from the hand. He will soon learn to appreciate the kindness of his keeper.

Of course, Softbills are not kept in cages on live food all the year round; for one reason it would be difficult to procure same during the winter months, and for another it would be rather costly. As the object of my present notes, however, is mainly to initiate the novice into the first stage of keeping small Softbills, I would advise him for further information as to general management to invest in a good book on birds (such as are advertised in Cage Birds, written by eminent experts) and also to seek the acquaintance of some keeper of Softbills, who, I am sure, will only be too glad to give him the benefit of his experience, and to help a novice along.

A Notable Consignment of Indian Birds.

Fine Achievement by Major Perreau, who Lands Some Very Rare Stock.

By WESLEY T. PAGE; F.Z.S., etc.

On Saturday, March 22nd, Major Perreau landed a consignment of some two hundred Indian birds, mostly softbills, and rare. On March 3rd he left Bombay with a total of 250, and actually arrived at Paris with 240, the bulk of the birds being then in practically exhibition trim, but at Calais the mishap of the journey occurred. While Major Perreau was occupied with transit officials the foolish porters sent two of the large cages down the baggage-shute, swamping the unfortunate inmates with milk sop, etc., besides giving them a severe shock (these two cages, of course, contained the pick of the collection!) Nevertheless, he actually arrived at Mitcham with 225 living birds.

How the Journey was made.

The birds came over on the open deck. By day the cages were placed in the form of a hollow square, and at night were stacked face to face. During the whole of the voyage the birds were personally attended to by Major Perreau, and each cage received a daily clean—to this care must be attributed the fact that cases of sore feet were almost nil. All the birds, indeed, are in excellent condition, and very hardy, and since arrival, without exception, all have been kept in a cold room, with windows closed only at night. A few of the larger species looked somewhat travel worn, and were minus some of their plumage, and the few seed-eaters had plucked each other to some extent. The list given below will afford some indication of what a complete success the undertaking has been, for such as Niltavas, Minla, Red-headed Tits, Ixulus (Flower-Pecker, Jerdon) Minivets, etc., all arrived in excellent plumage and full of natural colour.

With the above introduction I will now give a brief resume, little moré than a bare list however, of the species safely brought to their destination. The bulk of the rarer species were claimed, almost on arrival, mostly by members of the Foreign Bird Club. I must, however, remark that I have not been able to make any exhaustive search re species new to aviculture, but though somewhat uncertain about some of the Laughing-Thrushes, I think that in most cases the term is correctly used.

Some of the Beauties Described.

Red-headed Tit (Ægithaliscus erythrocephalus).—These are charming mites, much smaller than the Long-tailed Tit, which they much resemble in colour and form, but the top of the head is ruddy chestnut. Three arrived alive, five being lost subsequent to the mishap at Calais. New to aviculture.

Larger Red-headed Crow-Tit (Scaeorhyncus ruficeps).—A quaint and interesting species, also new to English aviculture. Makes a most interesting and handsome pet, as the striking contrasts of its plumage are as quaint as it demeanour. The head, sides of face, and upper parts golden-chestnut; below, silky white; the exposed portions of the wing olive brown. Size, 7¼ inches.

Laughing-Thrushes: *Rufous-necked (Dryonastes ruficallis), *Grey-sided (D. cærulatus), *Black-gorgeted (Garrulax pectoralis), White-throated (G. albigularis), Eastern Variegated (Trachalapterum variegatum), *Western Yellow-winged (T. nigrimentum), and Him. streaked (T. lineatum). Those marked "*" are all probably new to aviculture. The W. Yellow-winged and Rufous-necked are very large and handsome birds, with beautifully variegated plumage of subdued, yet rich hues.

Babblers: These, I am including under one heading. The Scimitar Babblers are represented by the Rusty-cheeked and the Slaty-head, both striking and handsome species. Yellow-eyed (Pycthoris sinensis), a beautiful species, soon becomes tame and familiar, makes an ideal cage pet. Of the equally charming Wren-Babblers, only two (both new to aviculture) arrived alive, viz., Black-throated (Stachyrhis nigriceps) and Red-billed (Stachyrhidapsis pyrrhops).

Whistling Thrushes: The Himalayan Blue (Myiophoneus temmincki) and Malabar (M. horsfieldii) are represented in the series by three of the former and one of the latter.

Other better known species, which I can only mention by name, are: Black-headed Sibias (Lioptila capistrata), Blue-winged Siva (Siva cyameraptera), Indian White-eye (Zasterop palpebrosa), Gold-fronted, and Hardwick's Green Fruitsuckers, and Silver-eared Mesias; White-cheeked, and Black-crested Yellow Bulbuls, all handsome, some exquisite, species, and more or less uncommon.

Yellow-naped Ixulus (Ixulus flavicollis).—These Jerdon calls the Yellow-naped Flowerpecker. They are a charming species, and really beautiful and quaint, but not brilliantly coloured birds. They are somewhat like a long-legged White-eye; their contrasting plumage of rich browns and silvery white, quaint crest and distinct white spectacles, all combine to make a most charming and interesting bird. At some future date I may say more, as they have passed into my possession. New to aviculture.

Red-tailed Minla (Minla igneitincta).—This beautiful species is new to aviculture, and is a beautiful, slender, Tit-like bird (size 5½ inches), with upper plumage of beautifully variegated brown, black and white; tail feathers with tips and margins of outer webs crimson; the primaries and secondaries are similarly edged. The under surface is yellow, slightly streaked with brown. One male only arrived alive, the female dying in India just before the collection was shipped.

I must pass a nice quintet of Cinnamon-bellied Nuthatches, including one true pair, and a nice young Black Drongo, which is already whistling and chattering.

Tailor Birds (Orthotomus suturius).—A charming pair of Warbler-like birds, plainly clad, but most interesting, much more so as they are new to English aviculture, and as they have gone to a roomy wilderness aviary, it is hoped that their wonderful and interesting nest may be constructed beneath English skies.

Short-billed Minivets (Pericrocotus Crevirostris).—Three beautiful pairs of this exquisite species arrived alive, all in full natural colour, the males flaming scarlet and black, and the females rich yellow and black, both sexes equally beautiful and beyond the power of pen to adequately depict.

Other interesting and beautiful birds were: Glossy Calornis; Malabar and Pagoda Mynahs; Pied (P. caprata) and Dark-Grey (Oreicola ferrea) Chats; Magpie Robin; Shama (true pair); Black-throated Ouzel (M. atrigularis); Orange-headed Ground Thrush (G. citrina); Chestnut-bellied Rock Thrush (Petrophila erthryogastra), Blue-headed Rock Thrush (P. cinclorhyncha); Black-throated and Jerdon's Accentors; Large Pied Wagtail; Desert Lark; Pigmy Woodpecker; and Blue-crowned Hanging Parrots.

The Result of Carelessness.

Flycatchers: A true pair of Tickell's (Cyornis tickelli). True pair Large Niltava (Niltava grandis). This species is new to aviculture. The male is velvety-black, and the well-known niltava-blue; the female is also very handsome. Rufous-bellied Niltava (N. sundara), a true pair, and one or two odd cocks of this gorgeous species, all in beautiful plumage. But for the carelessness of an aviary attendant, all three Niltavas would have been brought over, but the small Niltava (N. Macgrigoriae) was lost in India from above cause.

Redstarts: Four species arrived alive, viz., the White-capped (C. Cucocephala), Blue-fronted (R. frontalis), Common Indian (R. rufiventris), and Plumbeous (R. fuliginosus), the female of the latter being new to English aviculture. I regret space forbids further comment re these charming species.

Robins: Indian Blue-throat (Cyanecula succica), Red-flanked Bush-Robin (Ianthia rufilata): only female arrived alive, male has been imported before, but I do not think the female has. White-tailed Blue-Robin (Natodela leucura), a beautiful species, but only two females survived the journey—new to aviculture). Brown-backed Indian Robin (Thamnobia cambaiensis). A beautiful and interesting quartet.

A Remarkable Creature.

Larger Streaked Spider-Hunter (Arachnothera magna). This species looks somewhat like a large robust, but plainly clad Sunbird; in fact, the Spider-Hunters form a sub-family (Arachnotherniæ) of the Nectariniidæ (Sunbirds). It is most quaint and interesting. Such a description will be better understood if I give measurements—beak nearly 2 inches, body 3, tail 2, making a total length of 7 inches. While not showy, it is plain only by comparison with the gorgeous Sunbirds. The body plumage olive-green and olive-yellow above, with black centres to most of the feathers; below it is pale yellow, regularly striated with black: bill black; legs orange-yellow. It is new to aviculture, and an inhabitant of the Eastern Himalayas.

In conclusion I would like to add, that very many of the species enumerated above were trapped by Major Perreau, and I can only heartily congratulate him that the whole enterprise has been brought to so successful a termination.

It was quite a surprise to see our Nightingale, which took 1st prize at the Palace, on the front page of CAGE BIRDS. Mr. Norman has produced a life-like sketch of him. This bird was reared from the nest, which was not five minutes' walk from the streets of Portsmouth; no copses, plantations, or woods of any sort, but just a few straggling trees in a hedge. When I started rearing birds in 1866 there was no CAGE BIRDS to give one a helping hand, but since its publication, old and young fanciers alike have derived much benefit from it. We wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—Lean and Son (Portsmouth).

The Early Cuckoo.

That genial humorist, Mr. "Punch," satirises in a recent issue the "early Cuckoo" and its discoverers. He says: Our Bishop's Waltham correspondent announces that the Smallholders' Association of the district are offering a reward of 10s. for every dead cuckoo. The association declares that the damage to crops done by the local hunt is infinitesimal compared with that done by photographers, cinematographers, and newspaper correspondents in pursuit of the evasive early cuckoo. One farmer complains that a "Daily Mirror" correspondent, in his endeavours to get a snap-shot of a Rook in the act of cuckooing, spoilt no less than half an acre of winter wheat.

Wild-Bird Life.

The Tuneful Skylark.

The month of March is generally a wild and stormy one, so much so that we are always glad to get it over, but although we have had high winds, we have experienced some quite summer like days recently, with warm sunshine and soft air; on such days the wild birds act as though a whole month had been skipped. The carolling of the Skylark is simply glorious, and although he is only one of our many songsters he is one that we cannot lightly pass by. Where the birds are numerous, as they are near the writer's home, they are a constant source of pleasure. In the open fields they chase and buffet each other for mastery, for each pair like to have a small patch of ground to themselves, and until this right of possession is settled these aerial fights will continue. Among all our resident birds the Lark appears to be the least affected by man's presence. He needs no buildings to shelter him, nor does he haunt our gardens during inclement weather, he is quite a bird of the open, and is content with the broad fields, the sunshine, and the winds of heaven.

The Skylark's is a sprightly song, and is probably better known than that of any other bird. All know him as he soars and circles above us, although everybody does not recognise the little brown bird when on the ground. Our poets have praised him in their verse, but none have excelled Shakespeare's beautiful line.

"Hark! Hark! the Lark at Heaven's gate sings."

Like all other species there are some that eclipse others in the beauty of their melody. On the grassland bordering the writer's premises we have one such bird. He not only has many changes, but some of his notes are particularly full and melodious, and a high pitched one, almost a call note, is very clear and bell-like. Upon very windy days he scarcely rises at all, but will take short flights round the meadowland singing as he goes. In a moderate breeze he rises almost perpendicularly, facing the wind all the way up, and descends for a part of the journey like a stone, finishing with a big sweep. On calm days he circles up on rapidly beating wings, pouring out his glorious song until he reaches a great height, when he gradually rings round in wide circles. It is then that we hear him at his best, and all the while he remains at that altitude he is singing his choicest melody, but directly he begins to descend his song changes, and as he approaches the ground it suddenly ceases. So marked is this change, that one is sometimes able to tell by the sound alone when the bird is descending.

Death of a Five-year-old Captive Cuckoo.

Remarkable Record of a Lady Enthusiast.

Sir,—I am sure you will be sorry to hear I lost my old Cuckoo to-day, March 30th. He was nearing five years old, and had been fairly well all through the winter, but keeping more to his cage. Last week he dropped suddenly into moult, shedding his body feathers literally by the cage-full, but was quite bright, hopping from chair to table as soon as he saw his egg. But he would have bad turns with his heart; I could hear it like the snap of a purse sometimes, and then he would be very quiet and dull for a day or so. I lifted him from his cage this morning—I could see he was nearly dead—and called his Cooe, Cooe, and he gave me one of his old loving looks, and rested his beak between my lips for a kiss. He neither fluttered his wings nor gasped for breath, but just gradually ceased to breathe. I have taken him to Mr. Jones, the taxidermist, who so kindly authenticated that it really was a Cuckoo in adult plumage (it had been hand-reared). He thought it must have caught a chill in some way, and having such quantities of feathers in the quill (which he says do not afford much warmth) failed to shake it off. He will do his best to set it up for me, and before it is put into the case I will have it photographed for CAGE BIRDS? I reared two young Cuckoos last year. They are both alive at the present time, and changing their feathers. I have not been well this winter myself, and often wondered what would become of poor "Cooe" if anything happened to me, he required such constant attention.

I am having some rather curious experiences with my small birds. Some are downstairs and would sit in "Cooe's" cage with him—they went after a bit of his egg. My Chaffinch has sent a Yorkshire hen to nest, but she had three clear eggs. I have changed two for two good Canary eggs. I want to see (if she hatches them out) whether the Chaffinch will help to feed; he is feeding the hen on her nest, and is a model husband, though he was so awfully spiteful to my other hens. The latter are shut up now in an ordinary breeding cage. My Greenfinch and Bullfinch are busily pairing up again and looking for a nesting site. Two little Linnet Mules have brought the same little hen downstairs that they did last year, and she has built her first nest in the same place—the seed box of an old Parrot cage. The three eggs she has laid appear full, but I expect a Canary has been and fertilised them. I have eleven hens at nest, mostly on three eggs. One has two young, about four days old, and the Greenfinches are, I believe, carrying nesting stuff. These birds are all so tame that they will feed close to my feet, and I am afraid to move. The Yellowhammer, Greenfinch, and Linnet, will feed from my hand, and their nests are built quite like a wild bird's, in the branches of plum trees my neighbour has so kindly given me for them. I am lucky, too, as to green food, as I am allowed to gather it out of nursery gardens. Then my landlady brings me some wild seeds from under the thresher, and a neighbour over the road got me a great sackful, so the birds ought to thrive. I will write you later if I am lucky enough to get any good Mules or Hybrids, and if the two young Cuckoos should live, you shall also have a photograph of them. The one I take for the male bird has kept his plumage perfect up to the present. They both have the same endearing little way of "snapping" a kiss at me, and half-closing the eyes, with a jaunty little toss of the head, that the old one had. Everyone will miss him. He had hundreds of admirers as they passed the house-window, and he liked admiration, but not to be called a Sparrow. He would hop off into his cage scolding like anything, if a boy called him that. I shall miss him long and sadly.

MRS. E. M. SARGEANT.

[Mrs. Sargeant's record is remarkable, inasmuch as it has been always recognised as most difficult to keep a captive Cuckoo over even a single winter, many ornithologists going so far as to write it down as impossible of accomplishment.—Editor.]

The Seed Supply in an Aviary.

Sir,—Can any reader inform me what bird or birds to keep that would eat the seeds that fall to the ground from the seed vessels? My birds are in a large outdoor aviary. Or some information that would prevent such waste would be thankfully received.
